Discussion On Agriculture Center

CONSTRUCTION IN BEGINNING STAGES . . . For many, many area residents, a dream is beginning to come true this week. Workers from Tarver Construction Co. of Lubbock started this week, closing the street, erecting platforms and moving in equipment as a preliminary to actual construction on the

Joint City-County Public Housing Meeting Thursday

A potential use of upcoming Federal Revenue Sharing funds is for the proposed Agriculture Center for Muleshoe and Bailey County, and that proposed building was discussed at length during the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Bailey County Commissioners Court Monday. With an approximate 20 acres of land already purchased at the west edge of Muleshoe, the commissioners were told that building on the site could begin immediately after corn harvest this fall. Construction could conceivably be completed in January, with the Bailey County Junior Livestock Show scheduled in February.

He said the meeting, to be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the city hall council meeting room, will be conducted jointly by the city council and county commission to hear a complete up-date report on the attempt to secure the 100-plus housing unit. They are encouraging the citizens of the area to attend the meeting and voice their opinion of the proposed construction in Muleshoe.

Commissioner Loyd Stephens asked Elliott if he had polled area farmers on the need for public housing and Elliott replied, "I have talked to both businessmen and farmers and both are interested in the construction of the facility."

It was brought out that the individual living in the housing unit, which would be for agricultural-related businesses or industries, would be responsible for the rent on the unit where he resides. Also discussed would be that contract workers, who secure workmen for the vegetable harvest, would pay rent on empty units in order to have them available when needed at harvest time.

"I am not attempting to paint a rosy picture," said Elliott, "In the Plainview unit, they have not tried to paint a rosy picture. They have told us of the problems, and have also told us that only with strong management could we make it pay."

Elliott added that the housing unit in Plainview is six years old, and that for the first few years, a public housing unit runs in the red. He also said that a unit of less than 100 housing units would not pay and advocated constructing from 100-130 units in Muleshoe, depending on the funding available.

According to Elliott, such a housing unit would be an asset to the community, the town and to the farmer. He also said such a housing unit would be utilized in the future for people who work in the agriculture-related field, not only vegetables, but in corn and other crops in the county.

Commissioners urged everyone to attend the public meeting Thursday and voice their opinion on the proposed housing for Muleshoe.

In other action, Carl Young, court reporter from the three county area of Bailey, Lamb and Parmer, met with commissioners and was approved to attend Cont. on Page 3, Col. 4

During the Tuesday morning meeting of the Muleshoe City Council, under leadership of Mayor Pro-Tem Clarence Christian, Delbert Barry, chairman of the Airport Advisory Board, reported on projected improvements.

Mayor Kenneth Henry and Councilman Bob Finney were out of town for the meeting which got underway shortly before 9 a.m. pending arrival of enough council members to make a quorum.

Barry said the Airport Advisory Board membership, including Sam Damron, Lyndal Murray and Don Harmon, had done a great deal of work and research with two potential development plans being submitted for approval by FAA. He said the first was rejected immediately and the second was still consideration for approval.

He reported runway conditions at the present airport being extremely bad with the runway full of holes and the base bad. It was the opinion of the airport advisory board that the present runway is not repairable in order to bring it up to FAA standards.

"We have reached the stage where something has to be done," added Barry. "I talked to Bill Howard of FAA Monday, and he said he would not close the airport as long as we are around 10:00 p.m. Also during the afternoon and evening will be a domino hall and a concession stand.

Activities get underway at noon on Sunday with dinner in the cafeteria. The XII Steak House is catering a barbecue and tickets will be on sale for $3 for adults and $2 for children. Tickets will be available from Mrs. Harrol Redwine at Route One, Friona, (806) 965-2247; Mrs. Derrel Mason, Route Three, Muleshoe, (806) 965-2953 or Mrs. Frank Hinkson, Route One, Friona (806) 965-2960.

The coordinators for the celebration have asked that tickets for the barbecue to be reserved early and have added that the celebration is not restricted to Lazbuddie present or former residents, but encourage everyone to plan to attend the celebration and help celebrate Lazbuddie's 50th anniversary.

trying to improve the present conditions."

Barry explained how federal funding would work for the improvements necessary at the airport and said that where in previous years, federal funding has been 75 percent, this has been changed to where federal funding is available for 90 percent federal money to be available. However, he did say that federal money would not be available for improvements to the local airport until 1978, but said "We have to start action now, in order to be ready for improvements and if we plan to keep what we've got right now, we have to start."

Barry asked closer rapport with the city council in order to work out airport problems and suggested the present airport operator, Morgan Locker, be named to the Airport Advisory Board as a non-voting member. Both Barry and Dave Marr, city manager, explained that if Locker could be named to the new board to be formed very shortly, he could meet with the board and his input would be beneficial to the projected improvements, to the city council and to the airport operator, who is aware of current problems at the existing airport.

Sam Damron informed the council that no federal funding is available for repairs or replacement of existing runways, which do not meet federal standards. "If the city does not ask for federal funds, we will have to go out and repair the present runways with city funds, otherwise, the FAA is

The Pastor Speaks

By Rev. Everts

A DIVINE INSTITUTION - Ephesians 5:15-23 In Verse 23 we read: "Christ is the head of the church, and He is the Saviour of the body." Thus He redeemed it or bought it by the purchase of his own blood. The late Gypsy Smith once said: "My gypsy tent with Jesus Christ in it is as useful as St. Paul's Cathedral, but St. Paul's Cathedral without Jesus Christ is as a stone quarry." In my study of the church - I have found two things to be true. First of all, the church is the only Institution that the Lord Jesus Christ founded and thought worth giving Himself for. And second, the enemies of the church have arisen in every century, but they have not been able to prevail against it or overcome it. WE ARE TOLD HERE WHAT CHRIST DID FOR THE CHURCH - In verse 25 we read: "Christ also loved the church and gave Himself for it." He must have loved it very much in order to die for it. John 3:16 says: "For God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Jesus saw the church as an Institution through which his people could carry forward the work of his kingdom, and it would provide for them a place to worship. Isaac Watts wrote: "Was it for crimes that I have done, He groaned upon the tree? Amazing pity! Grace unknown! and love beyond degree. Well might the sun in darkness hide, And shut his glories in, when Christ the mighty maker, died, for man, the creatures' sin." The Bible says that Jesus not only builded the church - but that He is it's foundation. I Corinthians 3:11 says: "For other foundations can no man lay, than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." To erect a building one begins with the foundation. Thus with Christ as the foundation of the church - it cannot fail - it will not fail. WE ARE TOLD HERE WHAT CHRIST IS NOW DOING FOR THE CHURCH - We are told first of all that he is sanctifying the church. The word "Sanctify" means: Set apart for service. You and I, the church, We are the ones set apart and called out to carry on His great work -- which work is to be done through His church. We are also told that He is cleansing the church. With Him it is a day by day undertaking. Even though we are God's vessels - having been washed - for the Bible says we are not perfect and never will be in this world. And as long as we are running the race - we have not yet reached the goal. And we shall need His daily cleansing until we come to stand in his holy presence.

WE ARE TOLD HERE WHAT CHRIST IS GOING TO DO WITH THE CHURCH - In verse 27 we read: "That he might present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot, or wrinkle or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish." According to the Bible he is going to do two things with the church. First, he is going to bless his church in this world. And second, he is going to bless the church in the world to come. Jesus said to Peter: in Matt. 16:18 - "Upon this rock will I build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." The church has been commissioned, for Jesus said: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. - Mark 16:15. Jesus Christ has given us the glorious privilege of worshipping as a group of Christians. Hebrews 10:25 says: "Forsaking not the assembling of yourselves together, as the manner of some is." And then he is going to bless the church in the world to come. Rev. Chapter one we find that John saw the church and said: "And being turned, I saw seven golden candlesticks; and in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks one like unto the Son-of-Man." I Corinthians 2:9 says: "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither hath entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him." An artist was asked to paint a picture of a decaying church. It was not a picture of a rotten old building, but a beautiful thing with only a few people inside worshipping, there were many empty pews. And when he was asked what it all meant he said: "Tis beautiful building is not the church - you see the church is made up of men and women - and they are not to be found in the picture." Won't you go to church somewhere next Sunday?

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm this week discusses, of all things, men's styles.

Dear editor: Some people are saying that the spirit of independence has gone out of America, that the old, original, individual aggressiveness is disappearing, that too many people are waiting around for the government to take care of them, little knowing that the government is having a hard enough time taking care of itself.

Such people have not been paying attention to men on television lately. They haven't noticed that more and more men are wearing vests.

The clothing industry for one, like buckskin wearers 200 years ago, still believes in and practices the pioneer spirit.

For years the clothing manufacturers thrived on women's willingness to be told what to wear, long skirts this year, short ones next year, although they much preferred to go from short to long because the other way around some women took their scissors and stayed in style. You can shorten a long dress but it's hard to lengthen a short one.

But then women started getting independent and put on pants, leaving the dress manufacturers and their fluctuating dress lengths about in the same shape barbers were when kids stopped getting haircuts.

Did the clothing manufacturers run to Washington for help? No. They took aim at men. First they tried changing the shape of the coat lapels. This worked in some cases but not enough men noticed the change and kept wearing last year's suit. Then they flaired the pants leg, and that helped a lot, making some men with narrow cuffs ashamed to come out in public.

Now the manufacturers have come out with vests. From the President on up to Walter Cronkite, they're wearing them on television, makes no difference what the temperature is or that nobody has a pocket watch and a chain to drape across them.

This will go on I guess, even going so far as getting politicians to step off planes wearing hats, till some small group of radicals start a movement called Men's Liberation.

By the way, although it doesn't seem likely now, for a while I was speculating on how interesting it'd be if the Democrats nominated Jerry Brown and the Republicans Jerry Ford. Then all of us in this country could cast off our fears over what somebody else might think of us for taking a public stand on politics and defiantly put bumper stickers on our cars: "I'm for Jerry."

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

San Francisco Sends Message

Samuel Gompers, father of the American labor union movement, was known as a hard-headed realist who had a stock and memorable answer when asked what labor wanted. "More!" he would reply.

In many cities across the country, state and municipal workers organized into labor unions have been exercising their strike muscle and getting more and more.

But in San Francisco, where a series of strikes by public workers has worn thin the taxpayers' patience and pocketbooks, the taxpayers delivered a loud and memorable reply -- "Less!"

San Francisco pay scales for public employees had become the talk of the country because of special wage formulas which automatically boosted wages of craft workers.

Plumbers, for example, were making $24,600 a year.

In November, voters went to the polls in a referendum and voted to eliminate the special wage formulas. The referendum required the Board of Supervisors to negotiate wages, and the Board reduced craft wages, mostly by cutting overtime. Plumbers, instead of getting $24,600, were reduced to $16,750 to $20,200 a year.

Ten of the city's craft unions pulled 1,700 workers off the job in protest, and some 2,000 bus and cable car operators stayed off the job in sympathy, in what amounted to a general strike.

But the strike fizzled. Although San Francisco is known as a strong union town, other unions and the taxpayers refused to support the strike. Commuters relied more on car pools and neighbors gathered their own trash and kept their town streets clean.

Commenting on the strike, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in its publication, WASHINGTON REPORT, said: "The strike was a failure for the union . . . But it was a victory for the taxpayers, many of whom are fed up with the demands of public employees who already enjoy wage and fringe benefits better than the average taxpayer in some locations."

The law should know no favorites; when this is the case, the law has no excuses to make.

Getting along amicably in life is largely a problem of just getting along with people just about as good as you are.

going to 'X' us out." Briefly discussed was the proposed purchase of additional land for a new runway to meet FAA standards and an environmental study to be conducted for a new facility.

Barry warned the council, "We've approached the point where we can't evade the issue anymore, we have to start now or we won't have an airport in Muleshoe." He also told commissioners that in the event the present location ceases to operate as the airport, or a portion of the airport, the land reverts back to estate, as it is specified in the deed that it is to be used continuously as an airport.

Barry said he would have a film available on July 15 for 30 days, and would like to show the film to civic clubs and any interested groups. He added that once people see the film, they would be more aware of the need for adequate airport facilities in Muleshoe.

Creston Favoer, certified public accountant, presented council members with an audit covering city activity to March 31, 1976 and told council members the new expanded and detailed audit reflected a very "healthy situation" for the City of Muleshoe.

Favoer reported that the city is in as good a financial situation as it has been for many years and complimented city council members for their good report.

Approved was a resolution concerning a 701 Planning Grant and a request for payment of $58,174.20 to Universal Tank for construction of an elevated water tank. Discussed was the use of the new city park on July 5, for a family picnic and fireworks; tree removal on the south of the new Anthony's store; the public housing meeting for Thursday; the tax assessor/collector's report; plans to update the Planning Commission and a report that the city manager will attend the Texas City Management Association meeting in Amarillo on June 19-22.

According to Eugene Howard, President of the Muleshoe Little League, "The Little League will be selling Henco Hair Care Products to residents of the Muleshoe-Lazbuddie area. We hope everyone will take advantage of the special savings offered, as well as obtaining some of the best in hair-care products."

Local 4-Hers Will Attend Leadership Lab

Nearly 200 young leaders from 4-H clubs in 20 South Plains counties will participate in a district leadership lab June 16-18.

Site of the three-day summer workshop is South Plains College, according to Billy C. Gunter and Mrs. Catherine B. Crawford, district Extension agents with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A team of older teens will assist in conducting sessions throughout the lab.

The youths, supervised by 4-H adult leaders and agents, will perform a variety of activities ranging from group learning and discussion sessions to game tournaments and special morning and evening ceremonies. Emphasis will be on interpersonal relationships.

Activities will be geared toward helping the young leaders learn to express themselves and their ideas, and to develop solutions to problems through group processes. Time for relaxation and fun will provide the teens with opportunities to make new friends.

The annual leadership lab helps 4-H youth to develop skills for working with younger club members and provides opportunity for them to broaden their friendships and develop leadership qualities.

The New York City school system has enough crayons on hand to last 84 years and enough chalk to last 20 years. It could be that this indicates why the Big Apple is in its current financial mess. Chances are that the school system would never have known about the crayon and chalk surplus but for the work of a group of volunteer businessmen that has been olving some of New York City's problems.

Thus far a task force has dug into New York's court system, human resources department, middle income housing projects and public school system. The result in savings to the city is estimated at $80 million.

State and local governments have turned to business men to serve as full-time consultants and have hired professional consulting firms in the past, but the idea of mobilizing a small group of executives is relatively new. A volunteer task force of businessmen can make tremendous strides in solving complex management problems in government as well as business.

Corporations, facing ever-rising tax bills and anti-business sentiment have a lot at stake in the program. If well-documented tax savings can be pointed out to tax payers, then the thousands of volunteer man-hours are worth the time and money it costs the corporations. A task force in Pennsylvania came up with 412 recommendations that would save the state $370 million annually. A Colorado task force came up with a unique "sunset law" which

Learn To Listen Most Effectively

COLLEGE STATION - A conversation has to have at least two parties -- the speaker and the listener. Nearly everyone can be a speaker, but it takes extra attention to be a good listener. Mrs. Ilene Miller, a family life education specialist, contends.

"Many people listen far below their potential. But following some guidelines can help improve listening ability at least 25 percent," she said. Mrs. Miller is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Develop a positive attitude about listening to what others are saying. Concentrate on the person who is talking -- rather than be preoccupied with your own thoughts and problems. Also, it takes concentration on the message to understand exactly what the person is saying," she explained.

Listeners need to consider the accuracy and source of what is being said. Is the speaker stating facts or giving his own opinion? Analyze his ideas, and try to determine whether the speaker's feelings, experiences or position are influencing his statements, she added.

"Keep an open mind -- and let the speaker finish what he is saying. You may not always agree with what he says, but it is important to keep an open mind and try to understand why the person thinks as he does. Asking questions may help him explain some statements which seem unclear to you.

Sewing Group Learns Stitching And Hems

The "Bicentennial Seamstresses" held their first meeting in the home of Mrs. Keith Bray, on April 29, at 3:45 p.m. The group decided which six goals they would work toward and set up plans for the six sessions. They also took a field trip to St. Clair's department store after discussing what labels tell them.

They read various labels and discussed the meanings of each. Present for this first meeting were Kim Bray, Penny Cabrera and Sonya Edwards. Their second meeting was held May 4, in the Bray home. Discussion of personal appearance and a review of labels was the program for the afternoon. Also, they studied serving notions and the uses of each. The girls helped measure for their skirts. Refreshments were served to Kim Bray, Carla and Sonya Edwards and Penny Cabrera.

The group had their third and fourth meetings at the junior high, so they would have large tables for measuring and cutting. Before they straightened and cut the material they discussed grain. They used scraps of fabric and talked about lengthwise and crosswise grain. They also checked the difference in the threads by ravelling the fabric and comparing. The four girls measured for their pop-over skirts, by marking the fabric and cutting the proper lengths for each skirt. Members attending were Penny Cabrera, Carla and Sonya Edwards and Kim Bray.

Their fifth and sixth meetings were held at Mrs. Bray's home. The "Seamstresses" started stitching their skirts. They also measured the elastic for the skirts. Each girl did her own stitching and learned how to properly start and stop the sewing machine. They completed matching stitching, inserted the elastic and measured for hems. The hems were completed by hand. Attending the two meetings were Kim Bray and Sonya Edwards; the only two who completed their projects.

Library News

The 1976 Summer Reading Club program is in full swing, but boys and girls still have plenty of time to join, and they are urged to do so. They will receive a certificate when they read 10 books, if they want to go on they may earn ribbons and pins. The library has added over one hundred new children's books, that boys and girls will enjoy.

The Dan Frontier and Cowboy Dan books are very popular for boys and the new Animal series, and Who Am I series are enjoyed by all. At the close of the program all who participated will have their names on an Honor Roll at the library and will be honored at a recognition day on August 4.

The library will be glad to get 16mm films for anyone who would like to borrow them. Some 85 titles are available for spot booking, but the library needs your requests a week in advance, so that we can get the film from Lubbock. An organization might like a program using a film of either educational or entertainment content.

Family reunion gatherings might like one of the good children's films. Nursery schools might like films on a regular basis, if they have a projector available. A card file at the library shows what films are available and gives a brief description.

For more information on this new film program, call the library.

We are happy to have Dana Arnold's work displayed during the month of June and to honor her as the artist of the month.

Circulation for the first two weeks in June was 2,256 - over a thousand books a week.

What Is Baby's Role In Family

COLLEGE STATION -- All the long months of waiting have passed and finally the great event occurs -- a new baby in the family.

But parents may suddenly find themselves wondering "why did we have this baby in the first place."

Mrs. Ilene Miller, a family life education specialist, says this feeling isn't unusual. There are many motives for pregnancy and parenthood which may be rooted in desires not directly related to the baby itself. Some may even be selfish and immature, she added.

"But if a couple learns to view their child as an independent being, rather than an extension of their own ego, and can feel a loving concern for the child, the baby's birth can be a joyous event after all," she said.

Mrs. Miller is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She pointed out that some women may want a baby to fill an emptiness in their lives or to make them feel more feminine. For other women, pregnancy provides an opportunity for others to take care of them and provide the extra attention they seek.

"Young couples may be pressured into parenthood to fulfill the expectations of the community or to provide grandchildren for their parents. Families and friends assume the couple wants children so it is not long after the wedding before they hear, 'When do you plan to start your family?'"

Sewing Bees Begin Project

The clothing project of the Muleshoe 4-H club met in the home of their leader, Mrs. Jerry Gleason. They agreed to call the group the Sewing Bees. They elected Jacinda Gleason as reporter.

The group decided the items they wanted to learn in their clothing project and later discussed labels and what information was to be found on one. The group took their measurements and discovered what size pattern they needed.

Members attending were Jacinda Gleason, Stacy Schroeder, Nettie Ruth Coleman and Theresa Coleman.

BINGO PARTY WINNERS . . . Winners at the monthly bingo party were Dottie Wilterding, Carrie Boydston, Martha Williams, Nora Gaston, Bulah Harper, Walter Damron and Mamie Miller. Those assisting with the party were the Junior Auxiliary, left to right: Nora Gaston, Jenny Ziegenfuss, Marsha Williams, Mrs. Mamie Miller, Tami Bratcher, and Mrs. Bulah Harper. The party was sponsored by the Junior Auxiliary at the Muleshoe Nursing Home, Thursday, June 10. There were about 15 attending.

The specialist also noted that there may be a certain degree of prestige with parenthood. The baby helps the parents to justify their own lives and prove their virility. Also the family name continues.

"For other couples, the baby may fill and empty marriage or provide a playmate for an only child -- or themselves.

"All these immature, selfish reasons for having a baby may result in frustration and dissatisfaction when the couple realizes they alone are responsible for the baby -- who is totally dependent on them," she said.

Pregnancy and parenthood are times of crisis -- times when old patterns of coping with stress and change are no longer sufficient. Pregnancy and parenthood necessitate role changes as the couple assume new responsibilities for the emotional and physical well-being of their child, the specialist said.

Pioneer Sewing Group Has Meet

The Pioneer sewing group of Progress 4-H Club had their first meeting June 1, in the home of the leader, Billie Downing.

Those in the group are Dorinda Shafer, Connie Puckett, Kacy Henry and Twila Downing.

They studied the tools needed to equip a sewing box, planned the projects each will make for the dress revue, and practiced making decorative stitching on burlap place mats.

They met again on Tuesday, June 8, in the home of Kacy Henry. The girls began hemming their aprons.

Life would be simple if everyone was sincere.

The key to happiness in life lies in unselfishness.

The trouble with the world is the people in it.

Bula News By Mrs. J. Blackman

One of the Bicentennial projects for the community is restoring the old abandon cemetery, which has only about 14 graves. Saturday, Eddie Riley with his RAs went to the cemetery in the early morning and spent several hours working. They cleaned the lots and tried to find grave markers. They also found a big rattle snake. This Friday will be a community clean up day again for the cemetery. The commissioner is to send his road machine in to help clear land around the grave plots.

New-Man Made Wrist Joint Developed For Arthritis Victims

A new artificial substitute wrist joint for arthritis sufferers was described here today.

In recent years, man has contrived workable substitutes for most of the major joints which often are destroyed by arthritis. Not included was the wrist joint, so vital to hand movements.

Dr. Robert G. Volz, an orthopedic surgeon with the University of Arizona College of Medicine in Tucson, reported on an artificial wrist joint he and his associates have developed and use successfully.

He spoke at The Arthritis Foundation's annual scientific meetings being held here this week at the Hyatt Regency Chicago Hotel.

In the past few years, "total hip" joint replacement surgery has become a widely known success story for hundreds of arthritis victims. Effective artificial finger joints have been developed. A variety of substitutes for other joints are being studied and used by orthopedic surgeons. An effective "total wrist" replacement would be a boon to countless arthritis patients.

"Arthritis patients who have lost wrist mobility don't have enough strength and stability for grasping," Dr. Volz explained. "Fine motor control of the hands and fingers is also lost."

The problem is especially bad for some patients with rheumatoid arthritis where the wrist sometimes becomes totally dislocated.

"Until recently there was little we could do for most of these patients," he continued, "except to tell them that we were sorry. We reconstructed a few wrists, surgically, and occasionally resorted to fusion, but the results were not very satisfactory."

Dislocation and instability were not the only problems. In many patients, severe pain in the wrist prevents proper use of the hand itself.

Dr. Volz developed the "total wrist" implant in 1973. Like other total joint prostheses, it has a metal/plastic interface that provides a smooth, gliding motion which approximates that of a healthy joint.

So far the prosthesis has been used for more than 50 patients with far-advanced destructive changes, Dr. Volz said. No failures have resulted. The patients experienced total relief of pain, visible deformities were reduced, and much better functional use of hand and fingers became possible.

An indication of the success of the prosthesis is that patients with one wrist joint replaced returned to Dr. Volz requesting an implant for the other wrist.

The patients' eagerness is easy to understand. The new wrist enabled them once again to button buttons, zip zippers, sign checks, lift heavy objects and take care of intimate needs," Dr. Volz said. Only those who have lost the ability to do such things for themselves without help know the loss of dignity which goes with the disability, and can know the reward of being able to do these seemingly "minor" things again on their own.

Economists Study Tax-Payers Cash

Have you ever heard of the "arithmetic of happiness"?

It has to do with the work of economists who study the redistribution of income -- largely by means of government social welfare programs -- and who try to compute what is to be taken from those in the upper income brackets and given to those in lower income brackets.

The figures don't always add up. Today, more than half of all federal government expenditures are on social welfare programs. Social welfare embraces social insurance, such as Social Security, public aid, health and medical programs, veterans' benefits, education and housing and other similar activities.

Taken together they represent government efforts to achieve social equity by providing means for all Americans to get a good start in life through education and to enjoy some measure of security against the risks of our complex industrial and urban life.

From 1965 to 1973 the cost of social welfare programs nearly tripled, from $77 billion to $215 billion.

The difficult question arises as to how far the productive resources of a nation can be stretched to achieve the purposes of open-ended social welfare programs.

But there definitely are limits that can serve as warnings, it is pointed out by Dr. Carl H. Madden, chief economist for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who cites Britain's experience of the past two decades.

In Britain two decades of soaking the rich has left little to soak, Dr. Madden says. The government, in effect, takes in 56 percent of the Gross National Product, which is a measure of the nation's goods and services, and redistributes it by means of programs which fall under the umbrella, social welfare.

"Taxes take 25 percent today of the average worker's salary, up from a negligible percentage in 1963," Dr. Madden noted recently. "As workers stung by rising taxes press for higher salaries, inflation has risen from two percent a year in the mid-1930s to 25 percent today. "Even though taxes have financed a big growth in public goods, people still like in practice to use their own money, and don't like to pay taxes so government can control 56 percent of the GNP."

American taxpayers are rapidly being led down the same road, as advocates of big government in Washington persist in efforts to expand the government's role in the economy.

Congress recently agreed on a spending target of $413.3 billion for the 1977 budget year, starting October 1, which is $17.5 billion higher than advocated by President Ford and which creates a deficit of $50.8 billion. The deficit for the current year will be about $74 billion.

Meanwhile, the national debt will soar past the $700-billion mark and cost upwards of $45 billion in interest charges alone.

The cost of the Congress-targeted budget per U.S. household is $5,533, the largest single item in the family budget. The deficit alone is $679 per household.

How far can we go down this road? Certainly not as far as Great Britain!

Men of wealth just naturally think they are inclined to genius, even if they inherited the cash.

Rural America Faces Trouble With Regulations

Thousands of small towns and rural areas across the country may lose interstate truck services if the federal government ceases to regulate the nation's trucking industry, Lee R. Sollenbarger, chairman of the American Trucking Association (ATA) warned today.

A nationwide survey of more than 900 trucking firms, Sollenbarger said, indicates vital small town freight service now required by the Interstate Commerce Commission would be dropped as unprofitable or marginal if that service is no longer mandated.

"I also expect shipping costs in these areas to skyrocket under deregulation," he said. "The total effect annually would be to add millions of dollars to the costs of goods and services in small towns."

The ICC currently requires, as part of its licensing procedures, that interstate trucking firms maintain freight service to small or isolated communities on their routes. This is important to areas where rail or water transportation has been discontinued or is unavailable.

"Better than three out of five carriers, if deregulated, would drop small town truck service as unprofitable, according to our poll," Sollenbarger said.

The Ford administration proposed to Congress last fall a general phasing-out of ICC control over the $32 billion-a-year interstate trucking industry, and in May unveiled another deregulation plan. Legislation incorporating the proposals has been introduced in Congress. But truck deregulation has drawn considerable fire from smaller towns which fear they would lose necessary truck freight service. Last December the National League of Cities adopted a resolution opposing the deregulation plan "since it poses a threat to continuance of service to small communities."

According to Sollenbarger, there is good reason for small towns to be concerned because the ATA poll indicates every state except Hawaii would lose service to some communities.

"Hardest hit," he said "would be towns of 5,000 or less people." Four-fifths of the firms responding to the poll also say they believe broadscale deregulation of the trucking industry would very likely result in temporary rate wars, the failure or bankruptcy of many small truck firms and eventual decrease in transportation services, especially to small communities.

Just under half of those polled predict acquisition of small truck firms by large ones would very likely happen as a result of deregulation, and three-quarters foresee an eventual increase in shipping costs to consumers.

More than a third of the nation's consumers live in population centers of 5,000 or less. "Our concern," Sollenbarger said, "is about deliveries to rural crossroads, country gas stations, or small factories in rural communities. It's not unusual for trucking firms to travel twenty or thirty miles to make a single small delivery, and it's obvious that kind of service would be quickly eliminated if firms are not required by regulation to offer it."

Repeating the ATA's opposition to deregulation plans, Sollenbarger said that more than half the nation's freight now moves by truck and that loss of interstate service to small towns is only one of the severe national economic dislocations deregulation would cause.

Farmers Union Back Changes In Estate Tax
From the time of the last revision of federal estate taxes applicable to farms which was made in 1942, farm real estate values have soared from $33.6 billion to more than $370 billion, Jay Naman, President of the Texas Farmers Union said here today. Naman made the statement as he released a copy of the testimony which was presented by the National Farmers Union to the Senate Finance Committee which is writing legislation revising the nation's estate tax laws. Naman said one of the problems, brought out in the testimony is that "farm real estate values have almost doubled since 1970, pushing many farming units into a valuation level making them subject to estate taxes which virtually prevent the land from being kept in the family." "Whereas, the transition of the farm from father to son was still possible a few years ago, it is a difficult matter today." Reuben L. Johnson, Director of Legislative Services for National Farmers Union presented the farm organization's views before the Senate Committee. The Farmers Union official said that on the basis of the comparative purchasing power of the dollar in 1942 and today, the federal estate tax exemption would have to be adjusted from $60,000 to about $200,000. Naman also stressed the need for any legislation which may be adopted by the Congress in regard to federal estate taxes to include a provision requiring farms to be valued for estate tax purposes according to their value for farming, rather than their possible value for other-than-farm use.

ELECTRICIAN AT WORK . . . Curtis Chapman, electrician from Lubbock, will be in charge of electrical work done on the new hospital in Muleshoe just getting underway this week. Chapman said all electrical systems will be thoroughly checked by him before final approval for hospital use.

Highway Department Faces Work Layoff

Some 600 jobs in the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation will probably be eliminated by September 1, 1976, Engineer-Director Luther DeBerry said today.

The new cutbacks follow earlier layoffs last fall in the department's efforts to shape leveling-off revenues to meet rising costs of highway work. Since September 1, 1975, some 2,250 jobs have been eliminated. "Our dollar simply buys significantly less actual highway construction and maintenance than it did a few years back. That means fewer projects and fewer projects mean fewer employees," DeBerry said.

The number of department employees has been declining since a 1972 peak when many Interstate Highway construction projects were underway. For some time, not all vacancies created by retirements or resignations were filled. Last year, however, layoffs were required to balance obligations against revenues.

Statewide, the department's work force has dropped from about 20,000 persons in 1972 to 14,850 by September 1, 1976. DeBerry said it may be necessary to eliminate 800 other jobs next year unless additional revenues are made available to offset inflation. If this cutback is necessary, jobs will be trimmed across the range of department positions, including professional as well as non-professional workers.

Funds for highway development are derived chiefly from state and federal taxes associated with the use of a motor vehicle. During the 1960s, the growth in vehicle ownership and in motor fuel tax collections was sufficient to offset effects of inflation. In the early 1970s, however, inflation reached double-digit proportions, while revenues available to the department continued at about the same rates and, later, the rate of growth began to decline. Meanwhile, costs soared for highway construction and maintenance. It took $3.22 in 1974, for example, to accomplish the same highway construction that cost $1 in 1964. "It is ironic that we must reduce our forces, laying off experienced people when a huge backlog of work remains to be done," DeBerry said. "However, resources now and in the future simply will not be adequate to meet other than the highest priority needs."

A statewide study now is being conducted by the department and a private consulting firm to determine needs and priorities. In addition to personnel cutbacks, the department has instituted a wide range of cost-cutting moves. DeBerry said the inflation revenues squeeze is not peculiar to Texas; many other states are experiencing the same difficulties.

Screwworm Story -It's 'Bad News'

It's "bad news" as far as the story on the screwworm situation in Texas is concerned. The year got off to a bad start with early outbreaks of the flesh-eating pest in South Texas, and things have gotten progressively worse, points out Spencer Tanksley, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Right now, screwworm cases in Texas are running ahead of the record-setting pace of 1972," notes Tanksley. "The main concern is that the cases are spreading rapidly to the north, west and east. Through May 29 more than 60 counties have reported one or more screwworm infestations."

A primary reason for the higher infestations this early in the year is that the past winter was quite mild, thereby allowing more of the screwworm flies to overwinter in southern Texas and northern Mexico. And the number of overwintering flies was larger than usual due to the screwworm explosion last fall in South Texas that was triggered by a massive infestation of Gulf Coast carticks.

Webb County has been the screwworm hotspot this year with three times as many infestations as in 1972. Other heavily infested counties have been Zapata, Starr, Hidalgo, Jim Hogg and Dimmit.

Screwworm cases have already been confirmed as far north as Baylor County, as far west as Pecos and Terrell counties, and as far east as Colorado County.

All counties with confirmed screwworm cases have been bombarded with sterile flies to break up the reproductive cycle of the female screwworm flies. Screwworm flies that mate with the sterile ones will not produce fertile eggs, explains Tanksley.

"Although the situation looks bleak, some help appears on the way although it may not arrive until this fall," notes Tanksley. "That's when the new insectary at Tuxtla Gutierrez in southern Mexico should be in operation to produce sterile flies to wage the war against the costly screwworm throughout the country of Mexico. This will mean that more of the sterile flies produced at the Mission Lab will be used to battle screwworm infestations north of the Rio Grande.

"In the meantime, the burden is on livestock producers to keep a watchful eye on their stock, to follow a regular spraying program to control flies and other insects, and to treat all wounds with a protective smear," advises Tanksley. "Both CoKal and Korlan afford some protection for about two weeks."

Of course, if worms are found in any wounds, a sample should be sent to the Mission Lab as soon as possible. Kits for mailing worm samples are available from the county Extension office as well as from veterinarians and livestock inspectors.
