A Texas Letter Writer Upon Division, and the Resources of Texas.

A correspondent of the Memphis Post, writes a long and interesting letter from Hempstead, Texas, from which we take the following extracts:
The rebels speak with great bitterness about the recent attempt of Congress and the "Yapkees" to dismember the State. I am anxious for the movement, as without such action it will not be fit for a decent man to inhabit it, and if it is done, each section will then receive the attention that now is so much needed, and the want of which is seriously being felt all over its broad expanse. Texas is too unwieldy; there are not enough officers, and the few that are here are scattered over such a distance that they cannot assist each other if they would. The laws are not administered, and are laughed at. Bribery is openly carried on, and this is only one form of the deep-seated wickedness and depravity apparent in every county. There are men all over it who commit murder or any crime in the calendar, and Sheriffs—except in the most populated districts—dare not arrest them, half the time the attempt to do so fails, and then the matter is dropped, while in two or three months the criminal reappears in the country, and is not arrested. Again, I say, the division of Texas will be the greatest Godsend that has ever overtaken the State. Some say that such division cannot take place, on account of the way in which she was admitted into the Union—i. e., that as it was so it should be to the "last moment of recorded time," but, on the other hand, it is claimed that Texas, by her secession, forfeited those rights, and is now (by the same argument) a captured province.
The Indians are committing terrible outrages at Fort Mason, about one hundred miles from San Antonio, in Llano county; Castroville, Legion Valley, Lampasas, and in fact all over the immense frontier. Without division it cannot be properly guarded, and I hope you will use your best endeavors to have it done. To be sure the States made from it will be all radical, but Texas would be all the better for that.
The times are extremely dull here just now, with every prospect of being so until fall. The farmers have, however, got the best kind of a stand of both cotton and corn, and are now engaged in shearing their sheep. The Texas wool is yearly improving, both in quality and quantity, and vast quantities of it will be shipped North this season; more, probably, than has been for years. It commands a good price. It does not cost anything to keep sheep, and they do not have to be "weathered over the winter" in Texas at all.
The aptness of Texas soil is shown in the fact that there are over five hundred farmers in the State who produce their own coffee, rice and tobacco. Fruit will be plenty this year (the first year in three) as the trees are even now beginning to break down with their load. Dewberries are here by the thousand bushels at fifty cents per bushel. It is a wonder some firm do not start drying them.
Texas is a great grape country, different kinds growing here perfectly wild. I purchased sixty five dollars worth of Ives' seedling, Concord, Iona and ten other of the best kinds, besides a lot of currants, juncos strawberries, raspberries and other fine fruit, and have on my place here one of the finest gardens in the State, and Tennessee cannot equal it.
The unsettled condition of the State, the lawlessness of the people, and the non-enforcing of the laws, together with its great width and breadth, are the things that are retarding its prosperity and growth. For, as I before said, the land is the richest and best in the United States; all you have to do is to plant, and what you do plant will grow, even without cultivation.
ROBINSON, THE MURDERER OF COL. WARD, ARRESTED.—A gentleman just from the upper country informs us that Harrison Robinson, one of the murderers of Col. Ward and Maj. Ely, was arrested in Hunt county, on Saturday or Sunday, last, by Willis Husbands and some of his neighbors. They recovered over $3,900 in gold and probably ascertained the whereabouts of the rest of the money. They started with him to Marshall, stopping at noon on Monday, at the residence of Mrs. Taylor, near Waynesboro, for refreshment and rest; and whilst at the dinner table Robinson remarked to Mrs. Taylor that he would show her something she never saw before, whereupon he took up the carving knife and attempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat. He failed in his purpose, but injured himself so seriously as to be unable to travel. It was not thought however, that the wound would prove fatal.—Jefferson Times.

AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM LAREDO—CONDITION OF THE RIO GRANDE BORDER.

LAREDO, Texas, May 8th, 1868.
Editors of the San Antonio Express:
For a town of its size and importance Laredo is at present a very dull place. Since the collapse of the rebellion scarcely any trade has been carried on with Mexico, from this point. Should quiet and good order be maintained and our sister Republic, Mexico, enter upon a career of prosperity, Laredo would undoubtedly be greatly benefited thereby, as a large district in Mexico can be supplied with goods via Corpus Christi and Laredo, with a better route and cheaper freights than on any route now in use. Especially will this be true when the citizens of Corpus Christi shall have completed the much talked of ship canal.
A short time since a Mexican shepherd murdered one of his companions at the rancho of Charles Callahan, Esq., in Encinal county. He was at once arrested and confined in the jail at this place; a few days afterwards he was found dead in the jail, with his bolt wound tightly around his neck and an end of the belt grasped in each hand; thus showing that he had deliberately strangled himself. The horror entertained by all for the crime he had committed was nearly forgotten in the general admiration of his action in saving the State and country the trouble and expense of boarding, trying and perhaps hanging the criminal. May there be a general imitation of his last act, on the part of the criminals of Texas.

Company C, 4th United States Cavalry is stationed at this place; while stationed at Fort Clark, this company rendered efficient services in scouting and fighting Indians. A company of the 26th United States Infantry is soon expected here as an addition to the garrison.

Sheep is the only kind of stock which has been found profitable to raise in this vicinity since the close of the war. Within a radius of fifty miles of Laredo on the Texas side of the river there are at present about one hundred thousand sheep. Of the owners of these sheep Charles Callahan and R. Martin have the largest and finest flocks and are doing more than any others towards improving their sheep. Nearly all the wool in this section is purchased by the House of M. Hoeden & Son., of Corpus Christi. The present season has thus far been very favorable and but few sheep have been lost on account of severe weather.

The stealing and driving to Mexico of large numbers of horses and cattle, coupled with the depredations of the Indians has rendered the raising of such classes of stock unprofitable during the last three years, and it is alleged by stock raisers generally that during this time there has been a constant decrease in the number of horses and cattle in this section. While companies of cavalry are stationed along this frontier at long intervals from each other, without any outposts, without any system of scouting between the posts, and with but little communication with each other, it cannot be expected that a stop will be put to the driving of large numbers of stolen cattle to Mexico and the inroads of the Indians from across the river. The points along the river at which stock can be crossed are numerous and there is reason to believe that not a few of those who live in ranches along the river are either thieves or their accomplices. The country is too sparsely settled and the ranches are too remote from each other to enable the citizens to assemble and successfully pursue the thieves and Indians. The inhabitants of this section hope that the Government will speedily adopt some measure for their protection, more efficient than any heretofore taken.

Every town and every Post office neighborhood in Texas, should receive a Club of the Weekly Express. It is to the interest of all peace loving citizens to scatter broad cast throughout the State the truths in its columns. To do this, let every reader induce his neighbor to subscribe, after reading his paper, each subscriber can do his paper up and forward it to a loyal friend who will raise a Club in a region where the paper is now unknown.

OUR EXCUSES.

We announced some two weeks ago that we had engaged a larger and more commodious house in the centre of the city where our extending business would be fully accommodated.

The Express and FREE PRESS are now published on Commerce street near the Kleoppe Hotel. Our patrons have been very considerate, those of the city have been crossed by receiving late papers, and those outside have been one mail behind. Inasmuch as we have not lost a single subscriber in our moving perplexities we return sincere thanks for the patience exercised by our friends.

We are now thoroughly organized, and hope to lay the despatches from every part of the world upon the breakfast table of the citizens of San Antonio within, at the farthest, twelve hours of their occurrence. The response to our appeal to sustain us in joining the Associated Press, not only justifies us in our venture, but warrants us in the belief that we can shortly enlarge THE EXPRESS to a first-class metropolitan sheet.

REMOVING THE DISABILITIES OF LOYAL MEN.

There are hundreds of true loyal men in Western Texas who came under the exceptions of the reconstruction acts, and who are now deprived of participating at the ballot box in the reconstruction of the State. Particularly is this the case in Bexar and the counties settled mostly by Germans. These disabilities can be removed by a vote of Congress, and we propose to all those laboring under disability and who are loyal and were loyal throughout the war, to furnish their names to the delegates to the Convention, and when that body meets on the 1st of June a list can be made up and despatched in the hands of some member, or to some of our Republican Congressmen, and the matter consummated immediately.

This is but a simple act of justice; it was never the intention of Congress to disfranchise a single loyal man; but no law could be made intending to exclude rebels which would not work hardships to Union men who remained in the South during the rebellion, and Congress has shown in several instances its readiness to remedy the injustice by voting the removal of disabilities from Southern loyal men.

Let not this matter be neglected. We are prepared to take charge of all names sent us; but they must come properly endorsed as Union men.

OUR LOYAL LEAGUE.—The Council of the Loyal League established in our city about one year since is still vigorous and useful. Its membership numbers over five hundred qualified voters. To those outside the League little is known of the history of this Council. Around its altar have gathered all the newly-enfranchised freedmen in this city, and it has been made a school for those men who have come so recently into the privileged of American citizenship. At each meeting, lectures have been delivered upon interesting topics, and the news of the current week announced. Besides this, those members who did not know even the rudiments of learning, have been encouraged to commence to learn, and the prospect is good of a large number of colored men learning to read and write in a few months longer. The teachings of the League have been to the elevation and education of the ignorant, and to make good, quiet, industrious citizens of all its members. The League, besides being a political school, is an organization to which Republicanism owes all its strength in the South, and from it must spring all the elements of order in the reorganization of our State. The loyal militia is but a moment's work in the hands of the Loyal League, and with a loyal militia the remnant of rebellion left among us will trouble us but a little while longer.

THE EL PASO MAIL.

Complaints pour in upon us from the frontier and along the line of the El Paso mail route, against the manner in which the El Paso mail is conducted and the complete failure to perform the service. These complaints come from the civil and military. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are concerned in the proper performance of this mail service. The Government should not pay a dollar for this mail service as it has been performed up to this time. Once in several months a mail gets through, but it is only because the military get it through.

Mr. Ficklin is paid for a tri-weekly service, when it has not been a tri-monthly one. Mr. Ficklin is out on the route, and we hope to hear from him; he will have to perform this mail service properly and overdo the work in order to regain the lost confidence of the people along the entire route, and of the citizens of New Mexico and Western Texas generally.

Mr. Riote's Labors in Behalf of Western Texas.

We have seen a letter from Mr. C. N. Riote, from Washington, in which he relates his endeavors to favor the interests of West Texas. Mr. Riote is of the opinion that the prospect of a division of the State with the Brazos for a line is very hopeful, and if the measure is successful, the people of this section may consider themselves under lasting obligations to that gentleman. Mr. Riote has had a long and interesting interview with General Grant in relation to our frontier matters, the Indians etc. General Grant has promised to give it his attention and if he does we imagine another tune will be sung on our borders.

We hope Mr. Riote will continue to push our claims for consideration, and that a military telegraph along the entire line of the frontier will be one of the great things accomplished. General Reynolds now commanding this sub-district has favored the building of a telegraph and we believe that an earnest representation from Mr. Riote, and other gentlemen who will be in Washington during this season, from Texas, would bring us relief in the shape of a frontier telegraph and better frontier protection.

Ku Klux Attempt to Assassinate Dr. Hunsacker, in Sumpter, Texas.

The Livingston, Texas, Republican, gives an account of a cold blooded attempt to assassinate Dr. Hunsacker, a prominent citizen of Sumpter, Trinity County, Texas. On the 23rd of April, Ku Klux Klan posters were found on Dr. Hunsacker's door, as well as on the doors of other Union men's houses in Sumpter, and on the following day a Ku Klux, named Thomas Lawson, attempted to assassinate Dr. Hunsacker in the streets of Sumpter, by shooting at him three times. Dr. H. returned the fire, and succeeded in wounding his assailant in the arm. The Republican remarks:

What will come next God only knows, the mad thirst for Loyal blood seems to have no bounds, the country is in a condition of chaos only equalled by a licensed system of guerilla warfare. The facts at length in this case which we have heard but do not publish, are beyond all toleration, or christianity forbearance. Loyal men are hunted up and attempted to be killed, by parties to whom they are entire strangers under secret orders, from secret conclaves, for no other reason than that they have rendered themselves obnoxious, because they are loyal citizens.

During the five years that the Metropolitan underground railway in London has been in operation, 750,000 trains have passed over the road. The first year 10,000,000 passengers were conveyed, the fourth year 22,000,000, and this year they expect to carry 30,000,000.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DESPATCHES.]

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Senate.—No session. House.—The omnibus admission bill resumed.

Mr. Pruyn spoke in opposition. Mr. Brooks followed and spoke of the unfit character of the representatives, alluding to Florida.

Mr. Stevens interrupted, saying he was willing to agree that representatives from Florida should not be admitted.

Mr. Brooks was glad that Mr. Stevens agreed with him, and proceeded by saying that Georgia, Alabama and others were controlled in like manner by squatters and maintained that those constitutional conventions and legislatures were composed of men who had no interest in the State, who were not understood by the people, nor did they understand the people. Mr. Brooks proceeded by saying it was a tyranny worse than that ever countenanced by the Czar of Russia or Sultan of Turkey, had been perpetrated upon the people than by the power that had determined to control the entire power by any means no matter how or what means. The whole object of Congressional legislation was apparent, it was intended to Radicalize the South and the party in power here have amnesty and pardon and welcome for any man who embraces Radicalism, no matter what his past conduct, or past acts may have been or how deeply and darkly his hands had been imbued in treason; those who accepted Radical views were pardoned by the wholesale.

Mr. Payne and Mr. Bingham advocated the bill. Mr. Eldridge offered an amendment to strike Alabama out from the bill; lost 60 to 64.

Mr. Stevens' amendment in reference to debts due loyal men in Georgia; adopted 78 to 50.

Amendment prohibiting the change of constitution and inserting that the constitution of said States shall never be amended or changed so as to discriminate in favor of or against any citizen or class of citizens of United States in reference to the right to vote who are now entitled to vote by said constitution; adopted without a division.

The amendment that all citizens of the United States in those States shall be admitted to equal rights of suffrage; rejected without division. The bill then passed 104 to 30.

A Duel With Rifles.
The Nashville Press and Times of the 27th details "a duel with rifles," fought a few days ago in Overton county, by two young men, Waldron and Jarvis, whose families have long been at feud. Jarvis had sneered at the other's courage, and received a challenge in reply. Both were splendid marksmen. Says the Press and Times:

The seconds paced off the distance, the two men were placed with their backs towards each other, the pieces were loaded, and to the shouted one, two, three, given by one of the seconds standing upon a high rock to one side, and about midway between the two combatants, they turned and fired. Jarvis was wounded through the fleshy part of the left arm, while his bullets whistled savagely just above his antagonist's head. "Are you satisfied?" said the wounded man's second to the other's friend. "Waldron wants another shot," was the reply.

A stern, savage smile lighted up the features of young Jarvis as his arm was bound up to staunch his blood, but he said not a word. The rifles were loaded again, and once more to the shouted signals the two men wheeled and fired. The reports were almost simultaneous. Waldron ran forward a few steps, staggered, reeled and fell into the arms of his friend, bleeding and senseless. He was shot through the heart.

Jarvis went slowly home, saddled his horse, and telling his family he was going to Monticello, left the country.

In 1867 the city of Philadelphia consumed 90,000 beaves, 175,000 hogs, and 368,000 sheep. In 1860 the number of beaves was 9,000 greater than last year. The stock of cattle was wasted during the war. The North American says: "Experience shows that while the consumption of both sheep and hogs increase largely, an extreme increase of the one is accompanied by a depression in the other."

"My dear," said a rural wife to her husband, on his return from town, "what was the sweetest thing you saw in bonnets in the city?" "The ladies' faces, my love."
