General Grant's Acceptance.
In reply to the delegation, notifying him of his nomination by the Republican party, Gen. Grant writes: GEN. J. K. HANLEY, President of the National Union Republican Convention.

Sir:—In formally accepting the nomination of the National Republican Convention of the 21 May. It seems proper that some statement of views besides the mere acceptance of the nomination, should be expressed. The proceedings of the Convention was marked with wisdom, moderation and patriotism, and I believe, expressed the feelings of the great mass of those who sustained the country through its recent trials. I endorse the resolutions, and if elected to the office of President of the United States, it will be my endeavor to administer all the laws in good faith, with economy and justice, of giving peace, quiet and protection every where. At times like the present, it is impossible, or at least eminently improper to lay down a policy, to be followed right or wrong, through an administration of four years, new political issues, not foreign, constantly arising, the views of the public on old ones constantly changing, a purely administrative officer should always be left free to execute the will of the people. I have always respected that will and always shall.
Peace, and universal prosperity, its sequence, with economy in administration, will lighten the burden of taxation, while it constantly reduces the national debt. Let us have peace.
With great respect,
Your obt. serv't
U. S. GRANT.

WASHINGTON, May 1st.—Senate—Joint resolution of the Ohio Legislature protesting against "tampering" with impeachment judges; was referred to corruption committee.

A resolution thanking Stanton for his unswerving devotion to the Union, and invaluable efforts to suppress the rebellion; passed. Henderson, Ross, and Fowler, renegade republicans, voting nay.

Arkansas bill was resumed, and after a spirited and lengthy debate, passed, as it came from the House, by 34 to 8.
It goes to the President to-night.

Within ten days two Radical Senators will be added to the present majority.
Adjourned.

The following business was before the House to-day. Bill for the construction of a telegraph and rail road from Washington to Cleveland, Ohio.

Joint resolution by Egleston, of Ohio, authorizing Secretary of War, to employ Boiler and Brigham to prosecute Jeff Davis.

Bill removing political disabilities from certain Mississippians.

Bill establishing immigration agencies in great Britain, Germany, Sweden, and Norway.

Bill granting bonds for telegraph and railroad from Kansas to Santa Fe.

Bill for the better presentation of the lives of steam passengers; restoring the office of commissioner of public buildings.

Resolution containing Vinton Ream in her room, tabled by 61 to 47.

Bill was introduced prohibiting prosecution of Treasury and freedman bureau agents for official acts.

The resolution declaring national bonds taxable for national purposes, was adopted.

The House refused to entertain a resolution declaring it violative of the Constitution to seize private telegrams and papers.

Ordered a recess from 4th to 7th last.

Hereafter night sessions will be devoted to tax bill. Tax bill taken up, Schebeck made a long speech; he said: "I take occasion to say now, that it is not the expectation of the Committee, that the two dollar tax on whiskey, will be retained by the House. Had this reduction been known four months ago, the Government would have lost four million dollars. I have come very reluctantly to the conclusion that a reduction should be made." Speaker indicated the probable tax at 75 ct, at which rate, with additional tax on whiskey merchants, and a capacity on distilleries, he estimated revenue at seventy millions, further indicating that increased tax on cigar would not be insisted upon. Kelly favored not over forty cents on whiskey.
Adjourned.

Senate Judiciary Committee reported against Standberry's confirmation. The present change in the subordinate personnel of the War department continued.

Nevady Johnson is mentioned in connection with the British Mission.
The President assigned Gen. Stoneman, under-brevets rank, to the command of Virginia.

The election is still doubtful.
St. Louis, June 2.—A large meeting of merchants was held yesterday, addressed by Mr. Stewart of Mobile upon the subject reopening the Bayou Man-chac thus giving St. Louis, North West, a direct water route to Mobile Harbor.

The resolutions were adopted, welcoming the Mobile delegation and recommending the enterprise and appointing a committee to accompany them to Louisville, Cincinnati and other cities of the North.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Arkansas bill corrected and goes back to the conference in Drake's modified amendment, that there shall never be restrictions on account of race or color, except Indians not taxed.

SCARED.
We take the following from the Austin Republican, May 28th: Nor is the result without its compensations to the republican party of Texas.
Our party in this State has been disposed to set too much like a drove of mustangs, every man for himself and devil take the hindmost. All sorts of ideas and vagaries are entertained, ad initium, division of the State, payment of the debt for hire from the date of Mr.
Lincoln's proclamation, and we know not how many others have been put forth, all of them calculated to breed discord in our ranks. But the menace of the acquittal will cure these evils.
We shall all be drawn more closely together by the common danger. A more perfect union and organization of the party will be effected, during the session of the convention, and instead of the acquittal being a reverse to us it will but pave the way to a more certain victory in the coming contest. The acquittal will in this light prove a blessing in disguise.

Does the Republican expect the party like a hive of bees, to take shelter under the wing of a queen; and be in a position where a rich corporation can guild the wings so heavily they will come down and crush it. No, no, Mr. Republican we cannot forgo the fruits of liberty for the sake of the privilege of breathing.
We, none of us will give up our view, under "the menace of acquittal," independence with defeat is preferable to success with compromise.

REPEL ASSASSIN.—We have always insisted that Union men must organize and protect themselves by striking down every murderer in the South. Self protection is nature's first law, and while the law fails to protect, we are arant cowards to stand passively quiet while they shoot us in the back.

At the immense gathering of soldiers and sailors at Chicago, the feeling towards traitors, who hope to drive Northern men and Southern Unionists from the South, was intense and if provoked much farther they promise to sweep over this region again. Texas thieves had better take warning, the following resolution was introduced and passed amid the most intense excitement:

Resolved, That we the soldiers of the Republic, extend to the loyal men of the South, our sympathy, and the promise of our support in the struggle yet in store for them, under the present administration, before they can enjoy the liberties of American citizens, without the fear of persecution and assassination, and that, if necessary, we stand ready to aid them with our strength in the future as in the past.

MONTECAL, May 22.—The Fenians are preparing at St. Albans for another raid on the frontier, which is expected to take place somewhere between the first and tenth of June. The preparations indicate a more serious affair than any of the previous raids. The Canadian Government has ordered army ammunition for active service to be served to the volunteers.

Nominees of the National Republican Convention at Chicago, May 21, '68.

For President, U. S. GRANT.

For Vice-President, Schuyler Colfax.

TEXAS EPISCOPACY—RE-SPECTFULLY DEDICATED TO THE OLD REBEL WOMEN OF BOTH SEXES.

A short time since a gentleman from the North came to this city, bringing letters of introduction to the Rev. Bishop Gregg. The Church in this city having been some months without a rector, the gentlemen offered his services and in return received a call from the Vestry. The gentleman officiated for them, his services were acceptable, his energy, zeal for the Church, and industry were apparent to all. He had but one object and that was the enlargement of the Church. His testimonials, his character and his education were unexceptionable. But our friends of the Church were keen, and they soon detected that the gentleman had a great fault; he had fallen into a grievous error, an unpardonable heresy. He was a Union man. This was his fault, his error and his heresy; he loved the Government of the United States and could not be induced to curse it, or to condole with the "Lost Cause."

And this, as an ex rebel Confederate officer said, was "prejudice enough to prevent him from ever becoming useful to these people."

But there were some things to be accomplished. The gentleman had an ample private fortune, and these pious Southern chivalry were anxious to pluck him. They commenced easy and "hinted" at his loaning money to pay off the old debt of the late Rev. Mr. Wagner, whose salary was in arrears for a couple of years. Next they wanted him to floor their building and "fix it up generally," and they came out boldly and asked him to take stock in the one horse, tumble down mortgaged school house which these Godly people used as Church. Falling in these little schemes, they were willing to accept charity at his hands, and he distributed slugs to some of these high-toned beggars.

They were willing he should establish a library and procure a few hundred volumes from the Northern mud-sills whom they detested. But all this time they were condemning him as one from the "hated North," who must be brought to see the error of his ways. This was the harder, as the gentleman never talked politics, and never engaged in any conversation that led to politics, and they could not find anything to censure except that he would be seen with Union men. In vain they industriously brought up politics in their conversations; they dinned the "Lost Cause" in his ears daily. The ladies of his congregation used expressions about Union men that would be too offensive to repeat in this paper. They hurraed for the Southern Confederacy and gloated over the death of Lincoln. They detested, so they asserted, the man who wore the Yankee uniform during the war. But while the gentleman listened to their talk, he made no reply to them, hoping their feelings would some day change. He would talk church but not politics. So they tried another method, they urged him to leave the company of the Union men, and seduced him candidly not to be seen in the company of those whose record as loyal men was not known to waver. Even the weak-kneed Unionists of the Church thought it a good thing for him to keep out of the company of well known radicals, but our clerical friend, knowing that was but the entering of the wedge refused to give up the association of the men who fought for their country.

In vain did our rebellious people urge, adjure, and beg him to leave these Unionists and come over on their side, and finally they threatened him, but our friend carried the marks of rebel bullets too plain to be frightened by their talk, and as a final resort, having wasted their energies in trying to cajole him into being a rebel, they met together and resolved that while they expressed thanks to the Rev. gentleman for his kindness, zeal and energy, yet for other reasons (that is because he was a Northern Unionist and would be seen in Union men's company), they declared their connection dissolved. These resolutions were borne to the gentleman by a committee of three ex-rebel traitors whose record we shall one day lay before our readers.

The connection with the Church having ceased, our friend asked permission to officiate for the colored people, but these ex-rebels did not see fit to grant even that.

The gentleman visits Austin and asks the same permission of Bishop Alexander Gregg; but this worthy pious Bishop does not think it "advisable to educate the colored people," although he "loves them so much;" and refused permission to have a Union man teach them the Gospel of a meek and lowly Saviour. Indeed to crown the whole this worthy Bishop gives the clerical gentleman his letters back to the North and advises him to leave the State as he does not think him calculated to do any good in this Diocese. Thus the Church of this city, (excepting a very few Unionists), the Vestry, and the Bishop of the Diocese concur in proscribing a man because he has not a good rebel record. These are the people who deprecate politics; this is their pious and Godly action, and this is another one of those little reminiscences which render Bishop Gregg's fame so pleasant to rebellious ears.

James Buchanan.

The dispatches of the 1st instant brought us the news that this poor old fossil is dead. Politically and morally he was dead eight years ago and has existed since only as a breathing nonentity. Like many other Northern politicians he led the South, by promises, to believe that rebellion would be successful, but when the struggle came he failed to raise a finger in her behalf. Like all Northern Democrats he was smooth oily and plausible to every one; faithless to friend as well as to foe and true to nothing. A thorough, time serving politician without moral courage or common honesty. He died unwep and unregretted a relic of barbarism and champion of human slavery. History will pronounce his life a failure, while his name will go down to posterity a synonym of imbecility and treachery.

TELEGRAPHIC.

[SPECIAL TO THE EXPRESS.] AUSTIN, June 2, '68. The Convention met and organized, electing General E. J. Davis, of Corpus Christi, President.

The Hall was well crowded and the faces of members scrutinized with much curiosity. Every unbiased spectator expressed admiration at the gentlemanly bearing and intelligent appearance of Body.

The election of General Davis as presiding officer indicates that the course of the Convention will be straight forward and outspoken, governed by the most ultra principles of human liberty and justice, wherever principle is at stake there will be no compromise.

The members have, most of them been the object of hatred and proscription at the hands of their enemies, and there seems to be a unanimous determination to allow no chance for our enemies to again govern Texas.

General E. J. Davis is a lawyer, and Judge of no mean reputation and next to the Paschals he stands at the head of his profession. During the late war he left his State, (Texas) and at the risk of his life made his way into the Union lines. He raised a regiment of Texans, who carried terror into the rebel ranks on Bayou Teche; for gallant services in Louisiana he was commissioned by the lamented Lincoln a Brigadier General, and ordered up Red River, reaching Banks, army immediately after the disaster at Mansfield, he assumed command of the cavalry forces while Banks and his army were fleeing from the victorious enemy, threw himself into the breach and the enemy soon found a different "commissary" than Banks. The General took active part in all the battles of the Department of the Gulf, going from Baton Rouge, La., to Pascagoula, Miss., and thence to Alabama with Canby, participating in the glorious victory at Mobile.

Since the close of the war the General has been settled at home pursuing his profession encouraging the weary displayed Unionists, boldly denouncing the murderous liberal policy of traitors, and patiently awaiting the deliverance of loyalists.

There is but little doubt, that the President of the Convention believes the vital material interest of the State demands a division and the vote, although not on any question of the kind, is believed to indicate the feelings of the Convention on that point.

The Week is a paper published in New York, purporting to be "a reflex of home and foreign opinion," but its reflex is pretty much from one side, and that the wrong one. It copies chiefly from the New York Herald, Times, World, Sun, Express, Louisville Journal, and Cincinnati Commercial. If it copies from such a sterling Republican sheet as the New York Tribune, it is sure not to be from that class of articles which clearly and ably represents the opinion and principles of the dominant party; if it attempts to represent the points in a controversy, it is very sure to give the arguments of the rebel or conservative press, as the case may be, in extenso. A paper similar to the Week, conducted as fairly between the political parties, would be invaluable in this country. Outside of its political bias, we have no complaint to make of the Week.—Cincinnati Times.

Governor Jo. Brown of Georgia is a delegate to the Chicago Radical Convention—so were a good many negroes. Of all the Southern politicians of any note, we look upon Jo. Brown as the most infamous and contemptible. We never had the slightest confidence in him from the first to the last. He will prove even a curse to radicalism.—Austin Gazette.

The Republican party is ready to be cursed by 100,000 'Jo Browns,' there are some excellent honest men in Texas, now in the Conservative ranks who we hope to welcome to an honest upright party, like ours; within a year.
