FLING OUT OUR BANNER.

When from the South the echo came of Sumner's booming guns,
Up rose the legion of the North, Columbia's noblest sons,
As through the land, from East to West, the startling news was borne,
Ulysses came to save the flag that rebel hands had torn.

Fling out the banner! unfurl it to the breeze!
Let it float o'er our country, and her ships that plow the seas.
O long o'er the Union may its folds in triumph wave;
Hurrah for Ulysses and the flag he fought to save!

The Angel of Disunion from our land has passed away;
The "Old Flag" proudly floats again above the "blue and gray";
The Union arms have triumphed, and the sounds of war are done,
And we're bound to crown Ulysses with the laurels he has won.

Fling out our banner! unfurl it to the breeze!
Let it float o'er our country, and her ships that plow the seas.
O long o'er the Union may its folds in triumph wave;
Hurrah for Ulysses and the flag he fought to save!

The Millican Massacre.

We give below the version of the Millican Massacre as published in the colored people's paper at Austin the "Free Man's Press."

We have learned the particulars of the Millican Massacre from a gentleman who arrived in this city from the scene of the massacre on Wednesday last.

It seems that a colored man, a member of the loyal league at Millican, was missed, and a report got afloat, that he had been hung in the Brazos bottom, near the house of a white man named Holliday, and that this man Holliday had threatened to hang this colored man previous to this time. Forty-six colored men went in search of the missing man, while passing the house of Holliday he came out and cursed them, but they went on by not finding the missing man hung at the place they had been told of, they broke up and went home, in parties of eight or twelve. One party of twelve went quietly on their way back to Millican were met by Holliday and some twenty-five white men who fired into them, killing three of the colored men; the rest fled. Holliday then returned to Millican and put the entire place in alarm, he also seized a hand car and went to Navasota, and spread the report that the colored men had gathered in a large force and threatened to murder the whites and burn the town of Millican. Holliday got a large body of white men to go back with him, and as the news spread in all directions, by the day following the first attack on the colored men which was on Wednesday the 15th of this month, several hundred white men armed and equipped for murder had congregated in and about Millican. The Bureau Agent gave the white men liberty to do as they pleased, and it is said that between fifty or sixty offensive colored men were massacred in different parts of the county, wherever they were met by the blood-thirsty white rebels. It is certain that the report of the colored men having gathered in a large body and threatening to hang or kill any one in false. Lieut. Green arrived in Millican on Thursday with a squad of soldiers, but left again the next day, leaving a half dozen soldiers and a sergeant to keep the peace. No one has been arrested. This was simply an unprovoked massacre. How many have been killed is not known for certain as the colored people fled in consternation, not daring to go near the bodies of their dead friends for fear of being picked off by hidden enemies.

All the white men engaged in this affair were rebels, and no doubt members of rebel secret societies. And it proves that a new rebellion is already organized in our State.

We count upon bloodshed, no violence, we simply call upon the colored men every where to remember that they are men, made in the image of God. That you have been endowed with courage for the purpose to defend yourselves, and make up your minds to do it like men. It is one of your rights as a citizen to defend your life, your liberty, your families, your property. Make no attack. Do not become the aggressors but keep together and be ready to defend yourselves.

An appropriate design for a Seymour illumination—a colored orphan asylum on fire.

One of the most influential Democratic newspapers in Indiana openly and unconditionally repudiates the Seymour-Blair ticket. "It says: 'Our unfaithful and infamous delegates to the New York Convention sold us for Wall street gold, and we propose knowing how much we brought—knowing what white men are worth in the market.' This is pretty strong language, but it only expresses the prevailing indignation of the Western Democracy at the perfidy of their delegates."

Attacked by Indians.

The train of Dr. Diffenderfer which arrived from El Paso on Monday, accompanied by three wagons belonging to Thomas Allen, of San Elizario, was attacked by Apaches at the first camp on the Pecos river, en route to this place, on the 16th inst., at about one o'clock in the afternoon, while encamped; the mules being about 100 yards from the wagon, the Indians suddenly made a dash out from an Arroyo in the rear of the train. One of the herders had previously observed an Indian sneaking up behind a bush and fired at him; upon this alarm being given, the mounted Indians made the charge. Mr. Sutton, of Diffenderfer's train, and Mr. Allen, were first on the ground with their rifles; the teamsters soon followed, and a general charge was made; the Indians finding themselves foiled, suddenly turned and precipitately fled. They were fancifully dressed and painted, their hair tied up in red flannel or some other similar material. But for the promptness of the defense, the whole herd would have undoubtedly been captured. This attack proves conclusively that the road to El Paso is not as safe as generally imagined.

Gen. Reynolds.

The recent unsuccessful and impudent attempt on the part of the rebels of Texas, through their agents at the Democratic nominating convention, to have General Reynolds displaced from the command of the sub-district of Texas, shows to what lengths they will go in order to further their designs. What has General Reynolds done to excite the displeasure of the conservatives? On taking command of Texas he made a clean sweep of all the rebel office holders in the State, in order to further reconstruction; in doing this he was compelled to rely upon the recommendations of those he believed to be in sympathy with reconstruction, and if men, inefficient or disloyal, have secured position under General Reynolds, it is not his fault.

General Reynolds made a good start, but he soon found his hands tied by a superior, General Hancock, who was anxious to make fair weather with the rebel element, and who declared the authority he represented subservient to the civil authority existing in his district. Under these embarrassing circumstances, General Reynolds has had one continued fight in order to do anything for the loyal men of this State; he has adhered strictly to his orders, and if loyal men have chafed under the seeming inactivity of the military commander they must remember the position in which General Reynolds has found himself, has been most embarrassing.

The attempt on the part of the so-called conservatives to have General Reynolds removed, is a compliment to that gentleman which should not be overlooked by the loyal people of Texas. It is certain that if General Reynolds has not done all that we thought he might do, or could do, the rebels, at least, are afraid he will do justice, and they are anxious to have some one more in sympathy with them.

We learn that General Reynolds has appointed a military commission which will move about the State and try offenders. This is just what is needed, and we hope General Reynolds will be allowed to go on in his determination to put down crime.

A two dollar and a half gold piece was found in the entrails of a chub bought in the Richmond market the other day. There has been a tremendous rush for that sort of fish ever since.

THE MEDICINE MEN.

From the earliest history of mankind to the present time, the more uncivilized people have been, the more they have believed in their medicine men, or prophets. Every one is familiar with this character among the Indians—he is the one that foretells events, and the people believe in his predictions.

In modern history we never knew of but one instance of a people making predictions to civilization that had their medicine men, in whom they implicitly relied; and that instance is what is generally understood as "the Southern People."

One characteristic difference between this latter class and the aborigines of this country is, that had the Indian medicine men ever made such outrageous failures prophesying as these Southern prophets have, they would have been burned to death with pitch-pine sticks, and therefore ceased their prophesies.

The Indians never arrived at that refined, high toned state of society in which, after believing lies innumerable and finding them to be such, they asked their medicine men to tell them more, as it was more pleasant to believe them than it was the truth. No; but they repudiated their authors, and chose others.

These Southern wisecracks are just now indulging in prophesies that for consistency and accuracy do justice to their reputation as prophets. They are saying that negro suffrage will never be tolerated, as they (the negroes) are unfit to vote; and, in the very same breath, that the negroes will vote for them.

Well, yes, we rather think so; in fact, we have the same confidence in this that we had that "one Southern man could whip ten Northern men;" that "France and England are bound to acknowledge the Southern Confederacy;" that "England and the North will starve to death without cotton;" and that "Cotton is King," &c., &c.

If this class of leaders knew how supremely ridiculous they appeared to the whole civilized world, we think they would stop this and go to work.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

BRENNHAM, WASHINGTON CO., TEXAS, July 20, 1868.

DEAR EXPRESS: TRIP FROM AUSTIN.

I gave in my last a short notice of matters between San Antonio and Austin, and must now speak of our trip from Austin here.

But one other passenger was in the stage. As he made very disparaging remarks about the convention, I thought I would let him talk. He was very much interested in my description of the Western plains, and other regions over which I had traveled; but he continually reverted to politics. He was a thorough christian—whose religion is based upon the Ham and Oneness portion of the Bible, as construed by the Church South. The abolition of American slavery was an unholy interference with the dispensation of God, which is to bring destruction upon the land. Jamaica, Hayti, and Liberia, are subjects as familiar to him as red pepper and meat is to our Mexican citizens; and they are proof conclusive (to him) that God intended the negro should hew wood and draw water for Southern whites.

This passenger is a gentleman from the "old Caney" bottom, was a large planter, and is a representative rebel of the bitter sort. He declares he has no country, yet he claims that injustice is done him in not being allowed to register. He envies the States that are being enriched with immigration; yet he curses the Northern men in the State of Texas, and hopes the day will come when they will be driven out. He acknowledges the South to be conquered, and in the same breath declares that the attempt to organize a loyal militia will precipitate a war of races in Texas that will cause the death of every Loyal Leaguer.

This man is a representative Democrat; he rejoices at the "harmonious" convocation of the Democracy at New York on the 4th of July. His eye kindled when he named Beauregard, Wade Hampton, and Forrest, and he spoke of the encomiums that filled the Democratic papers of the North in their behalf, as evidence that they towered above all others of the Tammany convention.

He predicted that ere another Presidential campaign rolled around, the true principles of States Rights would be understood, and adopted by the people; that the Democratic party would select Robert E. Lee as their standard-bearer, and the principles that the war buried would triumph over Republicanism.

This gentleman was very bitter towards Governor Pease, and predicted that he would leave the State if he failed to get a position in the new organization. He approved of Governor Hamilton's course, and thought his anti-ab initio scheme was an effort to organize a white man's Union party. After stating that Hamilton was one of the kindest-hearted men in the State, he declared him to be wholly unreliable, politically. "Why," he remarked, "I have known Jack Hamilton thirty years, and if he hasn't belonged to every party that ever existed in the State."

COLORADO VALLEY.

Our trip down the River was devoid of incident. Everywhere we stopped to change the mail, the same crowd of loungers were to be seen in front of the stores; their talk was the same—merely assaults upon the "nigger" convention at Austin, threats against the Union League, and a kind of exultant prediction of a war of races.

The fields along the river look beautiful. The quantity of cotton planted is unusually large; corn is generally weedy and badly cultivated, but thrifty. The grape crop is wonderful; the trees along the road are covered with vines, and the black clusters of rich fruit makes the beholder feel himself to be in a land of enchantment.

Oh! for a million Germans and "carpet-baggers to redeem this land from the curse of indolence! The thrifty settlements of Bastrop, Round Top, and other German neighborhoods, show that an industrious people would make this the most valuable region of the American continent.

I am now in Brenham, and, in accordance with a former promise, I will give you in my next a few incidents of my short sojourn.

THE CONVENTION.

FORTY-SECOND DAY. CAPITAL, AUSTIN, TEXAS, July 20, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment; roll called; quorum present. Prayer by the chaplain; journal of yesterday read and adopted.

Smith of Galveston rose to a privilege question, requesting two articles published in the Daily Telegraph of Houston, edited by one C. C. Gillespie, wherein he was vilely libelled, and the assassination of M. C. Hamilton and Caldwell publicly advised—and introduced the following resolution:

Resolved, That Bre. Major Gen. J. J. Reynolds be respectfully requested to arrest one C. C. Gillespie, the editor of a paper purporting to be the Daily Telegraph of Houston, and have him arraigned before a Military commission, to answer for gross libellous attacks upon members of this convention, and for counselling and advising their assassination, and that he be further requested to suppress that paper.

Smith of Galveston moved that the rules be suspended to consider the resolution, upon which the yeas and nays were demanded and resulted thus:

So the resolution was ordered to be engrossed.

Degener moved a further suspension of the rules to put the resolution upon its final passage.

Rules suspended. Newcomb offered the following amendment:

Strike out all except that portion of the resolution which alludes to the assassination of Messrs. Hamilton and Caldwell.

Monroe moved to lay the amendment upon the table, upon which the yeas and nays were demanded and resulted thus:

Yeas—Mr. Flanigan—1. Nays—Messrs. The question recurred upon the resolution as amended, the yeas and nays were demanded and resulted thus:

Yeas—Mr. President, Bell, Bledsoe, Board, Bryant of Grayson, Bryant of Harris, Buffington, Carter, Coleman, Curtis, Degener, Downing, Fayle, Fleming, Foster, Goddin, Grigsby, Hamilton of Travis, Hunt, Johnson of Harrison, Johnson of Calhoun, Jordan, Kealy, Keuchler, Keuchler, Lippard, Long, McWashington, Mills, Mundine, Monroe, Newcomb, Oaks, Phillips of San Augustine, Phillips of Wharton, Posey, Rogers, Ruby, Schutze, Scott, Slaughter, Smith of Galveston, Smith of Marion, Stockbridge, Sumner, Talbot, Thomas, Vaughan, Watrous, Whitmore, Wilson of Brazoria, Wright, Yarborough—56.

Nays—Messrs. Adams, Armstrong of Jasper, Boyd, Cole, Evans of Titus, Flanigan, W. Flanigan, Gaston, Glenn, Gray, Harris, Harn, Keigwin, Kirk, McCormick, Morse, Muckleroy, Mullins, Pedigo, Varnell, Wilson of Milam—21.

So the convention adopted the resolution as amended.

Degener asked leave of absence for Messrs. Patten and Evans of McLennan.

Adams asked leave of absence for Mr. Kirk for 21 days.

Leave granted. On motion, the convention adjourned until 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

In speaking of the convention the "Free Man's Press" says:

Several of the Committees have reported and we feel sure a constitution can be made in two weeks if necessary. We hope, however, that the Convention will not be in haste but continue their session until a militia is secured, and all safeguards made, to keep the Government in the hands of the loyal men. The convention would do a great wrong, to put out a constitution upon the present troubled and desperate state of public sentiment. It would be like making a ship and then launching it among the rocks, to be dashed to pieces. We consider it is not only the business of the convention, to make a constitution, but to provide for its safety, and for the protection of its friends. Don't be in a hurry gentlemen. The people look to your wisdom and patriotism, to save them from the horrors of anarchy, murder and mischief.

Washington Items.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—G. E. Spencer seated as Senator from Alabama.

Political disabilities removed from Gen. Young, Ga., and Johnson Young Brown, Ky., also Michael Hahn, La. Bill reducing army came up in regular order in the House, and by test vote was referred to a committee, by a majority of four, this bill armed the loyal militia of the South.

Senate confirmed Rob't A. Crawford, Collector of Customs at Brazos Santiago, Texas.

Rejected Gen. Jeffries, Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Bills arming Southern militia and reorganizing the governments of Mississippi, Texas and Virginia, undoubtedly dead until after recess.

President-nominated J. J. Johnson Collector of Internal Revenue. Third Louisiana District, and D. B. Thomas Collector of Customs at New Orleans.

Quite an exciting time in Senate last night, over amount due Southern Senators.

Mr. Trumbull's motion gave each some seven thousand dollars; but rule as it eventually passed, gives them about four hundred dollars.

Some of them spoke in their own behalf on this important subject, and were about to vote in their own behalf, but the rules of the Senate stopped them.

Senate in session to night. House meets at nine o'clock in the morning, and affair closes at 12 Monday.

No additional legislation affecting the South is possible.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—President nominated Alexander Cummings, Penn., Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Three more of the Express robbers hung by a mob near Seymour, Ind. Funding bill passed both Houses.

Bill recognizing Mississippi, Virginia and Texas, came up in the Senate. Mr. Conkling took the floor to argue it, when Conkling said it was useless to try to pass the bill, and on his motion it was tabled.

Disabilities removed from Nelson Tift.

Gen. Young was seated as Representative from Georgia.

House filibustered on tariff bill till adjournment.

Both Houses are adjourned to third Monday in September.

Senate rejected Johnson and Sewell, Collector and Assessor for third La., District, and reconsidered vote confirming Nelson for second Va., District, and rejected him; there is so much confusion, it is impossible to give the position of several important bills; but all affecting the South, of an aggressive character have failed.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Nelson Tift, Representative from Georgia, was admitted to the House.

The Funding bill passed the House by a vote of 102 to 32.

Simon Corley, Representative from South Carolina, was seated.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The Senate has confirmed General Rosecrans, Minister to Mexico.

Also, Evans D. Hodge, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

Also confirmed Lewis Wallfey, Assessor Internal Revenue, First District La. The Senate rejected Simon M. Johnson, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The President has called no special session of the Senate; this leaves many important offices vacant.

The President was at the Capitol from half-past ten to twelve.

All bills were signed except the Funding bill, which, however, the President can sign any time within ten days.

The Republican members of Congress have signed an agreement that they will not be here in September unless advised to come by Senator Morgan and Representative Schenck, of the Congressional Republican Committee.

LONDON, July 27.—It is reported that a British gunboat has landed men at a Portuguese colon station on the coast of Guinea, and took possession of the place. The Portuguese guard were made prisoners, and the flag hauled down—the British colors being substituted.

The Government has despatched two men of war to resent the outrage.
