★★★ School Board Sets Tax Rate At $1.04

During the regular monthly meeting of the Muleshoe ISD Board of Trustees Monday night, the school tax rate was set at $1.04 on 100 percent valuation. This is broken down to $.90 for maintenance service and $.14 for debt service. Total estimated valuation for the school taxing is $104,873,480.

Murray Bennett a tax representative for Pioneer Corporation presented views to the school board that board members consider a tax equalization program. Following a meeting with Jim Young, of the local tax board of equalization, the school board decided to ask McCreary & Huey, tax consultants for the school district to meet with the board in the near future and advise on tax equalization. They also renewed a two year contract with the Austin attorneys for collection of delinquent taxes.

Resignations approved included Mrs. Ellen Grover, librarian at Mary DeShazo Elementary, for personal reasons and Mrs. Lynn Allen, first grade at Richard Hills to move to Olton.

New teachers employed included Mrs. Janie Gutierrez Garza, a graduate of Muleshoe High School as third grade bi-lingual teacher at Mary DeShazo. She holds a BA degree from West Texas State University and a master's degree from Texas A&I Kingsville. She taught three years at Presidio.

Also employed is Mrs. Lily Goodin, English teacher, Muleshoe High School. She is a graduate of Palo Duro High School, Amarillo and holds a BA degree from West Texas State University. Her husband, Gary, is an assistant coach with the Muleshoe Schools.

Mrs. Treva Taylor was approved for Title I Migrant Reading, Junior High School. Mrs. Taylor is a graduate of Morton High School and earned her B.S. degree at West Texas State University.

Approved was moving Mrs. Nita Burreson, Title I teacher at Mary DeShazo Elementary to Librarian at the same school. Jim Shafer was approved as alternate to represent the local school board at the delegate assembly, Texas Association of School Boards Convention at San Antonio, September 25-27.

Lengthy discussion was held on the Student Dress Code, the

Additional 250-300 To Employed List

"We produce quality vegetables and ship out only quality merchandise," said Robert Ruiz Sr., who along with his sons, are building a new vegetable packing shed just west of Muleshoe.

In response to a question about deciding to build the very large facility west of Muleshoe, Ruiz said, "We feel like we have done a good job for the farmer. We think they appreciate us being here because we have done them well. With our new building, we can better serve the farmer and better serve our customers. Also, we have tripled our operation here in the last year and a half to two years."

He added, "I see that we are in a good growing area, and we see a great future for the farmers, for us, and for the community of Muleshoe."

When Ruiz first came to Muleshoe five years ago with his packing operation, he started out here in a building located on Highway 84 in the east part of town. His initial workers included 40 to 50 in the packing shed, along with an additional 100-150 workers in the field.

Now, with his new operation, he will employ 80-100 packing shed workers and approximately 250 people in the field harvesting the vegetables.

His Muleshoe operation will only be a branch operation of his main plant in Edinburg, which was started several years ago. The Muleshoe plant will be in operation approximately three months each year, while the plant at Edinburg operates approximately seven and a half months.

Ruiz explained that two weeks after the Bailey County harvest is finished, the Edinburg plant will open and take care of Valley crops. In Edinburg, as in Muleshoe, Ruiz will be handling peppers, cucumbers, cabbage along with cantaloupe in Edinburg.

Produce packed by his operation is shipped all over the United States, but mostly to the east coast. Assisting Ruiz, who checks with the farmers who are producing vegetables for the plant, are Robert Jr. and Richard Ruiz. They are salesmen for the operation, and spend much of their time on the telephone contacting prospective buyers for the produce. In the packaging part of the operation is Ramiro Perez, who is the husband of Ruiz' daughter, Linda. Sixteen-year-old Eddie Ruiz is just starting out in his family's vegetable operation and works when school is out for the summer. Another daughter,

Richard and his wife, Laura, and Robert and his wife, Dujuana, will have homes both in Muleshoe and Edinburg, where the two plants are located.

Ruiz said he first started in the vegetable business in 1953, when he came to West Texas. He started buying vegetables as an independent trucker and started meeting the various vegetable producers in the area. Self-employed since the age of 15, he was one of the first men in West Texas to go exclusively into the vegetable business. After becoming well acquainted with the vegetable growers, he first started out selling to produce sheds, and from there, steadily increased his operation.

In Bailey County, Lloyd Williams, who started out with 10 acres of peppers to be packaged and shipped out by "Robert's Best", has now increased his pepper acreage to 100 acres this year. He is one of the many, many growers who are increasing their crops to meet the ever-growing vegetable market.

Area representative for Robert Ruiz, Inc. is W.H. Lee, longtime Bailey County resident, and knowledgeable in vegetable production in the area. Ruiz brings in most of his harvest hands, and explains that workers have to be available immediately when the vegetables reach their peak and are ready for harvest. He also brings key personnel to the plant, and commented, "Our key people in the packing shed are very important to us. We have found that it is most important to have people who are dependable to take care of you. We stand behind our produce, and our reliable workers see that our merchandise is just what we tell our buyers they are, top quality."

One thing hampering the operation is the lack of housing in the area. Ruiz said he has had to buy barracks-type housing in Farwell in order to have a place for his workers to live, and the housing is not adequate for the number of employees who come in each year to work. The Ruiz' maintain two homes for themselves. Since their main plant is in Edinburg, they have a home there, with a second home in Muleshoe for their local operation.

Ruiz spends quite a bit of time in the area, as he works right

Salary Increases, Budget Discussed

Although a comment was made by Bailey County Commissioner Loyd Stephens that "I don't know of any county that pays better fringe benefits to its employees than Bailey County," commissioners during the regular monthly meeting of the Bailey County Commissioners Court discussed a salary increase for county employees Monday afternoon.

Commissioners discussed current salary and an increase which had been included in the current budget but never paid. During the discussion, it was brought out that of more than 20 counties checked, Bailey County paid lower salaries than any of the 26 counties checked for salaries.

Rainfall Fails To Touch Record Set July, 1962

According to news releases, the heavy rain in Lubbock and Lynn Counties was 'record' for the month of July. Not so in Muleshoe, says U.S. Weatherman Jeff Peeler.

He said the 8.73 in July 1962, is the record during the some 50 years since records have been kept. This is nearly four times as much as the 2.36 received locally during July, 1976.

Peeler also said that some six other years saw more moisture recorded during July than fell on Muleshoe this past July.

It was also brought out during the meeting that road hands for the local county are paid $699 per month, plus county-paid insurance and marched-funds retirement. This is more than the $666 paid the elected officials of the county, such as Bailey County Clerk Hazel Gilbreath. It is also more than the $565 paid deputy sheriffs in this county. However, the elected officials and deputies also have county paid insurance and retirement funds matched by the county.

Salary increase discussed was a 15 percent across the board increase which would increase road hands to approximately $803 without benefits and increase elected officials to $765 and deputy sheriffs to $649, plus fringe benefits.

Also discussed was the upcoming budget, with work to begin on the budget during the next meeting.

Total valuation of the county was established at $45,000,000 according to figures by County Tax Assessor Jean Lovelady and the current tax rate is .97, broken down to .65 county; .15 special road; .12 state and .05 for water.

Meeting with commissioners were Johnny Lowery of J & J Insurance and Gary Brown of Crown Insurance to present a bid and proposal for health and life insurance for county employees. Other bids will be checked before a decision is made.

Unique Police Chase Ends; Trio Captured

It had been a fairly busy, but routine night at the local Law Enforcement Center until 4:43 a.m. on Sunday, August 8. The one local city police officer, Forrest Williams, had been busy with routine calls and checking buildings.

However, that was changed when dispatcher Melba Cunningham received a telephone call from Myron Pool who informed the dispatcher he had just received a disturbing call. His farm employee, Joe Rodriguez, had asked his wife to report a burglary to Pool. Pool said Rodriguez had informed him three men had gone to the farm and had broken into several places, including a gas tank, diesel tank and the workshop.

Pool accompanied Deputy Pete Black to the farm where they were further informed by Rodriguez and employee, Joe Salanas, that the men had held guns on them and threatened to kill them as they demanded gas for their pickup.

After checking the broken locks, Black and Pool were driving in the area when they saw a pickup that fit the description of the pickup as described by Rodriguez and Salanas. The pickup would not stop for red lights nor siren. Black said he stopped the county patrol car to get a shotgun out of the trunk of the car and when he started up again, he found the pickup about two miles away. The pickup had hit a telephone pole, and overturned. It was abandoned and the next communication came from Black at 5:36 a.m.

Black called the dispatcher and asked for the highway patrol. Through apparently some mix-up in communications, the dispatcher failed to inform the THP Trooper, Louis Cardinal, that the pickup was wrecked during police pursuit nor that the men from the vehicle were allegedly armed. Cardinal told her he would check the vehicle after daylight. It is a matter of routine to check abandoned wrecked vehicles during daylight hours so they can attempt to find out what happened, explained the officer.

It has also been a matter of routine for the state officers to come out regardless of the hour of day or night to assist city and county officers when violence or potential violence has occurred. Cardinal and his working partner, Jim Williams, have assisted both the city and county in many instances, both within the city limits and in the county, he added, when they have been informed of what is happening.

At 8:50 THP Cardinal and Williams apprehended the first suspect in the armed robbery

In the meantime, the Saldana vehicle, which had already been struck by the Perez vehicle, went out of control and hit two parked vehicles on the Muleshoe State Bank parking lot owned by Edward Howard and Jack F. Smith.

THE GREATEST LINE EVER WRITTEN: John 3:16 "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

For one to say that this single passage of Scripture is the greatest line every written is certainly a very broad claim. But I believe I can safely make such a claim. I am not unmindful of the many immortal documents that have been written and handed down to us. I am thinking of the "Declaration of Independence", "The Emancipation Proclamation Plan", "The Signing of the Armistice in World War I", and in "World War II". And possible many other great documents and tests - yet I believe I can claim this honor for my text -- it is the greatest single line ever written.

IT IS THE GREATEST LINE EVER WRITTEN BECAUSE OF WHAT IT TELLS US ABOUT ALMIGHTY GOD.
There are those who tell us that we get our knowledge of God from nature. And to a great degree they are right. Psalm 19:1 says: "...the heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth forth his handiwork." But nature tells us nothing about how much God loves us. Some say that we get our knowledge from conscience. John 8:9 tells about a woman who was taken in the very act of adultery - "...and they which heard it, being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one and left the woman standing in the midst." But whatever else our conscience might do for us - it does not tell us as does this line how much God really loves us. And then someone will say: "I know, we get our best knowledge from the Bible itself." Now this comes a little closer to the real truth and revelation of God's love. The Bible is our only source of God's message to us. Certainly the Holy Spirit helps to guide us as we read from the Bible. The knowledge of God is set forth in many ways both in parable and precept - but nowhere is it reduced to such simple terms as it is in this single verse of Scripture.

Then how does this single passage of Scripture surpass all other passages in the Word of God? First of all, it presents the overflowing love of God - This verse says He gave his all. Second, it presents the vicarious suffering love of God. We suffer, but our suffering is not to be compared to his suffering love for us.

Third, it presents the substitutionary love of God. He became flesh and as such he became my substitute - he took my place on the cross of Calvary - he died in my place, a place that I deserved. In the fourth place, it presents the saving love of God, like no other single passage of Scripture.

Recent Rains Cause Damage To Sorghum

Recent periods of wet weather have caused extensive damage to maturing sorghum in parts of Texas. South Texas and the Coastal Bend have been especially hard hit and some damage has even shown up in Central Texas.

"Excessive rain on grain sorghum during its maturation period can cause loss of test weight and decreased yields," says Dr. John Bremer, agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "The closer the grain is to harvest when the rain occurs, the greater the damage."

Bremer says that when rain hits grain sorghum at the wrong time, it sets off a series of events that form a vicious cycle. "The constant wetting and drying of the grain causes the surfaces of the grain kernels to be roughened, which reduces the surface volume of the kernel," he explains. "Since test weight is measured as weight per volume, the weight of the grain is lowered."

Rain also causes mold to grow on the grain, which produces a speed-up in the rate of respiration (taking in oxygen) in the grain. The higher respiration rate results in partial digestion of the starch in the endosperm (outer covering of seed) and further weight loss. This partial digestion of starch produces soluble sugars which favor mold growth, which in turn, results in an increase in the respiration and digestion of the starch, points out the Texas A&M University System specialist.

"Another phenomenon the rain produces on sorghum is head sprouting. This results in still more weight loss and can cause the grain to shatter before or during harvest, causing a direct loss in yield," notes Bremer.

At present there are no weather resistant sorghum hybrids available, but varieties with hard endosperms and under-coated seeds have been found to better withstand unfavorable weather conditions, says the agronomist.

In addition, there are no known approved economical chemical treatments to alleviate the weathering problem.

after he had used a telephone in the home of an area resident to call for someone to pick him up. He was picked up instead by the local officers. City officers Williams and Wayne Holmes brought the suspect to the jail. Around mid-morning, another call was received at the Law Enforcement Center that the second suspect had hitchhiked to town and was eating breakfast at a local restaurant. Officers Holmes and Williams brought him in and he joined his friend in the jail.

Also as noon approached without apprehension of the third suspect, THP Officer Cardinal requested the DPS helicopter from Lubbock. As the chopper from Lubbock was not operating properly Lubbock asked Amarillo for assistance and the Potter Co. Sheriff's Office helicopter was dispatched to Muleshoe arriving at 1:49 p.m. The chopper was piloted by Capt. Don Smith of the Potter County Sheriff's Department. He was accompanied by Deputy Irvin Patrick, crew chief. After filling with gas at the airport in Muleshoe, officer Louis Cardinal climbed on board with the officers and the chopper lifted into the air for surveillance. At 2:11 p.m., just after the chopper hit the area to be searched, the third suspect was found on a county road. THP Officer Jim Williams, accompanied by Ken Angeley, were told where to go to pick up the third suspect in the armed robbery which had occurred several hours earlier.

After running a check on the vehicle registration, the pickup that was wrecked and abandoned was found to be registered to a man in Nazareth. The parents of the man told officers the owner was on harvest and the vehicle should be at the owner's farm. The pickup was registered to Russell Schacher. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Schacher came to Muleshoe and identified the wrecked vehicle Sunday afternoon.

Larry Wayne Henderson, 26, of Dimmitt; Donald Frank Ethington, 19, also of Dimmitt and Harold Bails, 33, of Nazareth, were all charged with burglary. Bails and Ethington were released from jail Monday on $3,000 bond each and Henderson was released on a $3,000 bond Tuesday morning.

Local officers are continuing the investigation of the early Sunday morning incident.

Simple things and simple people are often the great among us.

WRECKED PICKUP . . . Early Sunday morning, this pickup was wrecked and abandoned during a police chase west of Muleshoe. During the day, three men were apprehended to face charges stemming from several early morning incidents.

AUSTIN—Gov. Dolph Briscoe has recommended an $825 million rescue program for the 71,000-mile Texas highway system.

He proposed re-routing road-user taxes and federal aid to make up for declining revenues and the "ravages of inflation" on road-building.

By 1980, he said all available revenue now earmarked for highways may be required for maintenance alone, with nothing left over for new construction or upgrading obsolete roads and bridges.

Over the next 20 years, less than $2 billion in state and federal funds will be available to finance a backlog of $11 billion of construction and right-of-way purchases.

Briscoe offered these recommendations, with endorsement of House Speaker Bill Clayton:

—Dedicating three-fourths of auto sales taxes — $203 million in fiscal 1978 — and $45 million a year in car tire, tube, auto parts and accessories sales taxes to highways.

—Switching $50 million a year in road user taxes now going to support the state highway patrol to the highway fund. The Department of Public Safety would, under the proposal, get needed replacement money from general revenue.

—Setting aside $100 million a year in federal revenue-sharing funds during the next biennium for safety and improvement work, including widening of facilities and repair or replacement of unsafe bridges.

The program was assured of opposition. Comptroller Bob Bullock opposed the idea of statutory dedication of more money to highways. Common Cause said the whole idea was "irresponsible."

Saving Recommended

An actuary told the State Insurance Board motorists could save $55 million if required to have deductibles on their collision and comprehensive coverage insurance.

The proposal would still mean rates will go up — but only 5.9 per cent. Companies have asked a 27.9 per cent overall increase.

The staff recommended change would send rates up $200 million a year.

Actuary Charles Edwards of Dallas recommended $50 deductibles on comprehensive coverage and $200 deductible collision coverage. He said paying the first $50 or $200 from a driver's own pocket would encourage safe driving.

Rate changes are not expected to go into effect until October 1.

Yarbrough Hit

State Supreme Court nominee Don Yarbrough of Houston has been slapped with 30 allegations by a State Bar grievance committee.

A dozen or more of the charges stem from a lawsuit against Yarbrough brought by former business associates. At the trial, Yarbrough was found to have engaged in civil fraud in law practice involving a 1975 bank transaction.

Yarbrough has been given the opportunity to defend himself against the grievances filed with a Houston Bar committee.

Wayne Paris, assistant general counsel for the State Bar of Texas, said if grievances against Yarbrough are found justified punishment could range from a public reprimand to disbarment.

GOP's Ready

It's the Republicans' turn for the spotlight, and Texas' 100-member GOP delegation (and 100 alternates) will be heading for Kansas City and their national presidential convention August 16.

All delegates and alternates are solidly bound to former California Gov. Ronald Reagan for president.

The delegation is divided in its enthusiasm for U. S. Sen. Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania as Reagan's running mate but apparently prepared to stand behind the nominee's choice.

Speculation that former Gov. John Connally is high on the list of President Ford's prospects for the vice presidential nomination appeals to many Texans, but Connally emphasizes he has no commitments. The Texan faces strong opposition.

Gov. Briscoe acknowledged that Connally, if nominated, would be a "factor" in the Texas campaign, but he predicted the Democratic ticket of Jimmy Carter and U. S. Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota would carry the state regardless of who the GOP nominees are.

Tourist Spending Down

Tourists liked Texas more but spent less during early 1976.

Spending by visitors was down 18 per cent from the same period a year ago, according to a tabulation of more than 10,000 questionnaires.

Increased frugality of the visitors was compensated in part by the fact they stayed an average of 9.9 days longer than the early 1975 crop of tourists.

Tourist industry watchers will be keeping a sharp eye on the summer-quarter reports (which cover the greatest influx of visitors) to see if reduced spending is a continuing factor. That report will be out next month.

Appointments

Don G. Humble of Cameron was named by the governor as 20th district judge succeeding W. C. Wallace of Cameron who resigned.

Briscoe also appointed Victoria Mayor Charles C. Carsner Jr. to the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. He replaces Mayor Alfredo Gutierrez Jr. of Del Rio who resigned the position.

Textbook Hearings

Seventeen groups or individuals will protest material submitted for 1976 state textbook adoption at a week of public hearings here August 16-20.

The State Textbook Committee will begin balloting on the books September 14, and the State Board of Education will hold its own textbook hearing November 11-12. Formal adoption of the texts by the board is scheduled November 13.

Short Snorts

September 1 is the deadline for utilities to be certified by the Public Utility Commission.

Value of Texas residential construction authorization went up 47 per cent in June over the previous year.

And the Texas business activity index, as measured by Texas Business Review, climbed 16 per cent from May to June.

A new "Occupational Outlook Handbook" available for Texas Employment Commission offices projects employment information through 1985.

A Railroad Commission examiner conducted two days of hearings on gas pass-through charges.

Peace officers having custody of persons accused of misdemeanors may set the amount of bail and take the bail. Atty. Gen. John Hill held in a recent opinion.

SEED CERTIFICATION CHANGE

Planting seed in Texas for the 1977 season will be certified for genetic identity only, so farmers must take a close look at the labels accompanying the seed. The new certification label assures that the seed is the variety stated on the label. The big change is the fact that it does not relate to any seed quality factors such as purity, inert matter, other crop seed, weed seed, noxious weed seed and germination. The Texas seed law, however, still requires that this information be truthfully stated on the analysis label accompanying the seed, points out a cotton specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—When I met recently with the Independent Colleges and Universities of Texas I asked them to think about an idea which could have an effect on the way we fund higher education in Texas.

It is an idea based on the philosophy that the state should help every Texas youngster secure an education through the college level.

We're attempting to school all young Texans today and the state is spending fifty cents of every state dollar to do it.

I think education is worth every dime we spend. I also think we should check every avenue to see that we're getting a dollar's worth for every dollar invested.

The idea I presented to the administrators of our private schools was that every Texas student, irrespective of need, deserves state support.

According to the plan, every Texas student graduating from high school would receive a voucher good for use against educational costs in any accredited public or independent institution in the state to which he or she had been accepted.

If it were a public institution the school would be credited by the state for the established amount of the voucher. Additional funds for operation of the school to support each student would come from appropriated monies as we do today.

However, if the student did not come to the school the school would not receive that amount of vouchered

Local Artist Exhibits In Albuquerque Show

More than 100 artists and craftsmen from throughout the country exhibited in the National Arts and Crafts benefit, August 5 - 8 at Albuquerque's State Fairgrounds. This was a juried show. Marian Guinn of Muleshoe exhibited her paintings.

Sponsored by the National Council for Exceptional Children, the benefit art exhibit include a special keynote show of Indian Artists. They were: Grace Medicine Flower, Lonewolf, Al Modomy, Helen Hardin, Andy Perk, R.C. Gorman, Bert Seabourn and Camilo Tafoya.

A special benefit preview was held Thursday, August 5 at the Studio Gallery in Albuquerque. This was a private showing of the art works by invitation only. Approximately 3,000 attended. Marian Guinn exhibited painting in watercolor.

She prefers to work with this medium of watercolor and her technique is basically the "wet into wet" method, with dry brush in the final stages. Mrs. Guinn's paintings have been exhibited and juried professionally throughout the Southwest according to her numerous awards, one of the latest being Best of Show at Mesa, Arizona. She has had several one man shows to her credit and some of her paintings can be found in many private collections throughout the United States. She has been painting for 10 years. Other mediums she enjoys are acrylics, oils and mixed media.

She owns and operates Trails West Gallery, 2306 West American Boulevard in conjunction with her studio.

Mrs. Guinn was born in New York and spent her childhood in Massachusetts. She resides with her husband Pete, Sr. in Muleshoe. They have two children, Pete, Jr. of Muleshoe and Mrs. Doyle Evans of Amarillo.

Area Library Receives Books From Museum

The Muleshoe Area Public Library announces today the receipt of four books, a gift of the Amon Carter Museum of Western Art and the Texas Commission on the Arts & Humanities (TCAH). The four-volume set of books -- containing three with Bicentennial titles and one relating directly to Texas artistic heritage -- will be distributed to 375 public and regional libraries throughout the state.

"We hope," stated Maurice Coats, executive director of TCAH, "that the books will be circulated among the students and young people who visit the libraries."

"These books," he continued, "take the tinsel and glitter out of the now very commercialized Bicentennial theme, and illuminate the significance of our cultural and historical heritage."

Included in the museum package are: The Image of America in Caricature and Cartoon, The Face of Liberty, The Stripes and Stars, and The Artist as a Young Man.

The Face of Liberty contains biographies of portrait painters and their sitters. The book also describes the American Revolution as a conjunction of historical and creative influences.

The Stripes and Stars is the evolution of the American flag. Mitchell Wilder, director of the Amon Carter Museum, writes in the acknowledgement of this book: "Anyone could, and did, design a flag of his own choosing. The story of this metamorphosis of design is a fascinating revelation in the light of today's adherence to codes and practices involving use of and respect due to the flag."

All four books are published by the Amon Carter Museum of Western Art.

To Much Cabbage Make Sauerkraut

COLLEGE STATION -- Making sauerkraut may be the answer for home gardeners with more cabbage than the family can eat fresh.

Sauerkraut is an economical source of Vitamin C and adds a zesty taste to family meals, Mrs. Sally Coble, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, says.

Select firm, sound heads of cabbage. About one pound of cabbage fills one pint of kraut. Remove the outside green and dirty leaves. Wash well. If worms are present, soak in four tablespoons salt per gallon of water for 30 minutes. Quarter the head and shred the cabbage finely.

Put five pounds cabbage and two ounces (three and one-half tablespoons) of salt into a large pan and mix with the hands. Pack gently into the crock with a potato masher. Repeat until crock is nearly full. Cover with a cloth, plate and weight. During the curing process, kraut requires daily attention. Remove scum as it forms and wash and scald the cloth often to keep it free from scum and mold. Fermentation will be complete in 10-12 days, she said.

As soon as kraut is thoroughly cured, pack into sterilized jars, adding enough of the kraut juice, or a weak brine made by dissolving two tablespoons salt to a quart of water, to fill jars to within one-half inch of top. Put on cap, screw band firmly tight. Process in boiling water bath 15 minutes.

Rick Scarborough, Southern Baptist evangelist from Nacogdoches, will be leading the First Baptist Church of Muleshoe in a "Come Alive" Crusade beginning Sunday, August 15. The music for the crusade will be under direction of Kenneth Carter, minister of music for the Muleshoe First Baptist Church. Services will continue each evening through Wednesday, August 18.

Sunday, August 15, has been designated as a "Great Day" for the church. A record Sunday School attendance is expected said pastor, Rev. J.E. Meeks. Following the morning worship service, Rev. Meeks said a luncheon will be served in the fellowship hall for those who attend the services.

"The World's Sloppiest Sloppy Joe Party" will be hosted by the church for children in grades 2-5 on Monday, August 16, at 7 p.m. Free tickets are available for all Muleshoe area children at Corral Restaurant, Dairy Queen, Gibson's, Perry's and Anthony's.

Sunday services during the crusade will be regular hours of 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. and the week night services are scheduled for 8 p.m.

Rev. J.E. Meeks said the First Baptist Church and its pastor will welcome all residents of Muleshoe and the area to attend the services.

Handy Kitchen Key To Efficiency

COLLEGE STATION -- Concentrate on convenience and accessibility in placing kitchen appliances for "fastest action", Mrs. Lillian Chenoweth, a family resource management specialist, says.

She is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. "Consider how often various small appliances are used -- some might see more frequent use if they were easier to get out and put away."

"When doing a major kitchen cleaning, reorganizing or remodeling, try to find as convenient a spot as possible for each kitchen aid. Ideally, small appliances should be stored where or near where they are used -- especially those frequently in operation, such as toaster, coffee-maker or can opener. The next best storage area is an easily accessible shelf or cabinet," she advised.

Wall hooks or pegboard can be one solution to keep some small appliances handy, without using counter space. Among those that can be hung on the wall are hand mixers, electric knives and warming trays.

Drying Foods Good Home Technique

Consumer interest in home food preservation by drying is reviving due to the cost of other preservation methods and a previous shortage of jar lids, Mrs. Robin Taylor, County Extension Agent, says.

Basically, drying preserves food by removing sufficient moisture to prevent decay, since moisture is necessary for bacterial growth.

Drying causes some nutritional changes. Although bulk and energy are not affected, there is some mineral and vitamin loss.

Foods that can be dried include most fruits and vegetables and some meats and fish, she said.

In hot climates, foods can be sun-dried sufficiently for preservation in a few days. In any climate, however, satisfactory drying conditions can be created at a moderate cost by using artificial heat and circulating air over the food, she explained.

Some special equipment is needed for home drying of food. To dry in a kitchen oven, items needed are drying trays, an oven thermometer and a small fan. Or, a portable food dehydrator may be used.

Most foods are dried at about 140 degrees F. in an oven or portable dehydrator.

For sun drying, trays and cheesecloth are needed. For sun drying, temperatures of over 98 degrees F. and relatively low humidity are needed.

Since drying does not improve the quality of foods, only top quality foods should be used. Vegetables in prime condition should be selected and prepared for drying on the day they are harvested. Only fully-ripe fruits should be used. If fruit is not suitable for eating fresh, it is not suitable for drying, the agent reminded.

All foods need some preparation or pretreatment before drying.

Vegetables may be blanched with hot water or steam. This inactivates enzymes in the food that otherwise would cause deterioration of color and flavor during drying and storage.

Blanching causes some loss of nutrients through leaching. To keep leaching at a minimum, blanch only as long as required.

However, underblanching will not inactivate enzymes, and the dried food will be of inferior quality. Prepare only the amount of food that can be dried at one time.

Although fruits may be blanched before drying, sulfuring is preferred. Sulfuring effectively maintains the quality and nutrients of the food during drying and storage. However, oven drying is not preferred for the objectionable odor of the sulphur fumes. Sulphuring should be done outdoors away from close contact with plants, trees and shrubs, she cautioned.

Fruits and vegetables are dried, packaged and stored in a similar manner. Fruits and vegetable pieces are distributed on trays in single layers. The total amount of food being dried at one time with artificial heat should not exceed that recommended by reliable instructions.

Do not use galvanized screen on drying trays. There is an acid reaction that darkens food and may cause a dangerous reaction. Also do not use fiberglass, vinyl or copper screening. Wood slats are excellent. They may be covered with cheesecloth.

More than one kind of fruit or vegetable can be dried at the same time. But strong-smelling vegetables should be dried separately.

Drying times vary according to the types of food, size of pieces and load on the tray. While tables giving approximate drying times can serve as a guide to judge proper dryness, experience is usually the best teacher. Some foods should be dried to the brittle stage, while others should be pliable or leathery, she said.

Dried foods should be packaged as soon as they are cool in dry, scalded, insect and rodent-proof containers. Dehydrated foods are free from insect infestation when removed from the dehydrator or oven.

However, despite precautions, sun-dried foods may be contaminated and should be packaged and placed in the home freezer for 48 hours to kill any possible insects or their eggs.

Containers of dried foods should be stored in a dry, cool and dark place.

All dried foods deteriorate to some extent during storage, which can range from six months to a year depending on the kind of fruit. To keep nutritional losses to a minimum, vegetables and fruits should be used in a reasonable length of time, especially carrots, onions and cabbage, she said.

Flu Immunization Program Continuing

For the past several months, public health officials have been planning for, and talking about, the influenza immunization program that will be carried out this fall. However, there's another kind of immunization that shouldn't be forgotten, according to the Texas Department of Health Resources.

Dr. Jerome Greenberg, Deputy Director of Preventable Disease Services, TDHR, pointed out that "Every child, whether in school or not, needs immunization against polio, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, measles, and rubella."

All children who attend school must have the full series of immunizations against these six diseases before school begins. The Texas School Immunization Law forbids the schools to enroll a child who has not completed the immunizations.

The immunizations are available from your family physician. In addition, most local and regional public health agencies have well-established clinics conducted on a regular basis.

Children should begin to receive their immunizations at the age of two months, in most cases. A series of separate vaccinations is necessary for each of the six childhood communicable diseases. If for any reason a child doesn't begin the series as early as two months, however, they can be started at any age.

Dr. Greenberg says that the schools are doing a good job of enforcing the state immunization law. "We are very proud of the school immunization levels achieved in Texas," he says, "and I think it's time to recognize the good work done by school administrators and the Texas Education Agency in assisting us. There are very few school districts that do not do well."

Across the state, school authorities report that 95 to 97 percent of their pupils have been fully immunized. Because of these levels of protection, the rates of potentially serious childhood communicable diseases have dropped dramatically in recent years. For example, polio, once an annual scourge in many parts of Texas, now is extremely rare: no more than one or two cases each year, and in some years none at all.

Health officials warn that parents should not wait too long to start their children's immunizations, since clinics become increasingly crowded as the opening of the school year approaches. The impending flu immunization campaign also will disrupt the usual clinic schedules.

Children will not be able to obtain the usual immunizations at the same time they receive their flu shot, Dr. Greenberg says. "There are a couple of vaccines that are not recommended for administration at the same time as the flu (vaccine)," he says. Furthermore, "The flu immunization effort is going to be so large that there simply will not be an opportunity at these big clinics to cope with a variety of other vaccines at the same time. So children, to get the flu vaccine, will need to go to a different clinic at a different time."

George Mahon Blasts Mistake In Government

Congressman George Mahon spoke in the House of Representatives last week on mistakes in government, and condemned "bureaucratic harassment" and "government bungling."

Mr. Speaker, the Federal government increasingly has become the object of contempt in the eyes of the American people. I speak of the executive branch, the judicial branch, and the legislative.

Mistakes have been made in all three branches and there are numerous examples of wrong doing. This is not unique. We have had such examples since the founding of our government but it seems to me we have reached an acute stage of discontent over the performance of our government.

In these remarks I am not speaking of illegal acts, as serious as they are, but of harassment by government personnel of the citizen and foolish and indefensible actions of government employees charged with the administration of the laws. I am thinking at the moment of the interpretation and administration of the law by personnel in the Executive Branch.

Congress must legislate in a general way in many fields, and it is not possible for Congress to enact legislation setting forth every rule and regulation. This must be done by the Executive Branch -- the branch charged with the administration of our laws. And it is here that so much criticism arises.

Too often one sees examples of foolish and ridiculous rules and regulations which are invented by impractical government personnel. When a foolish outrage is publicized, the culprit is often an obscure bureaucrat in the Executive Branch. His name is not on the ballot at election time and he can sit back and laugh, if he will, at the discomfort which is caused for the Administration or the Congress. Some way must be found to call a halt to the present intolerable situation.

In a recent visit to the District which I have the honor to represent, I was confronted with two such examples of outrageous and intolerable activities on the part of OSHA, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

SAFETY WITH BEEF CATTLE

The first concerned a booklet entitled "Safety with Beef Cattle" which OSHA issued. The second concerned proposed OSHA regulations about field sanitary facilities on farms and ranches. Both, in my opinion, are examples of Government personnel taking a law, and by the manner in which they implement it, making fools of it and themselves, and in the process discrediting the entire government. The "Safety with Beef Cattle" booklet contains such startling statements as "When floors are wet and slippery with manure, you could have a bad fall", "Bare feet or sneakers aren't safe around cattle", "Be careful when you are handling animals", "You can get too tired when working with cattle", and "Be careful that you do not fall into manure pits."

Most of the people in my area who work with beef cattle that have seen or heard of this booklet think it is utterly absurd and that someone who did not know such things as I listed above should not be around a cow in the first place. They don't like to see their tax money used in the publication of such trash.

In fact, in my opinion, the most untutored child or farm worker who could not read or write knows far more about cows than was exhibited by the writer of this booklet.

those OSHA officials directly involved in the preparation of the beef cattle booklet are as follows:

Earl D. Heath, Director of the Office of Training and Education;

David Martin, Office of Training and Education;

Daniel Murphy, Contracting Officer for the Department of Labor.

Purdue officials are as follows: John B. Liljedahl, Purdue Research Foundation;

Wayne L. Singleton, Purdue Extension Animal Scientist;

Kenneth M. Weinfeld, Purdue Extension Veterinarian;

Gay F. White, Purdue Information Specialist.

Clearly the beef cattle booklet is ridiculous and a waste of the taxpayers' money. And without doubt it has increased citizens' contempt of their government.

But fortunately, it has caused no physical harm and has not interfered with the actual production of beef cattle.

SANITATION STANDARDS ON FARMS AND RANCHES
The field sanitation standards however are a different matter. They have caused great consternation and agitation among farmers and ranchers throughout the nation.

The standards as published would require toilet and hand-washing facilities to be available within a five-minute walk of the workers. Some might contend that such standards on a ten acre farm or ranch would be appropriate, but on a large operation, such requirements would be absolutely ludicrous.

And if they were implemented as proposed, they would probably become one of the greatest monuments to bureaucratic foolishness and ineptness known to man.

Mr. Speaker, after looking at the proposed standards, it becomes obvious that they are totally unworkable and in fact ridiculous.

During our discussion on this matter, Dr. Corn, director of OSHA, stated that these proposed standards were never meant to be a final product, but only a vehicle to which people could react and make proposals.

That is slight consolation. The real issue is why a Federal agency would issue standards in the first place that were not intended to be implemented and would obviously have to be changed.

Such actions cause untold concern and consternation among people affected by them, in this case the nation's farmers and ranchers.

In my opinion, this is an outrageous situation and one that the Department of Labor should not tolerate.

Increasingly, we are confronted with situations of this nature. Congress passes a law that outlines in relatively broad detail what is to be done. It is then up to the Executive Branch to implement the law. And it is here that the problems arise.

While many Congressional laws are far from perfect, they generally are not patently ridiculous and absurd as are many of the rules and regulations that are promulgated by various personnel in the executive branch.

And of course these people do not have to answer to the public for outrages they perpetrate in the name of administering the law.

By their actions they bring contempt on the government. If there is to be a free democratic society the people must support and believe in their government. Without this trust, government breaks down.

I repeat again, a major effort must be made to halt foolishness and waste in the Federal Government. We must find a way to instill in the Federal worker that he is a servant of the people and that he holds a public trust.

Mr. Speaker, many great American thinkers have noted that our system of government is probably not the most efficient way to run a nation, but that it is probably the fairest and most just.

Ethics Of Drug Price Ads Doubted By Pharmacies

(From The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.)
Editor's note: Professional ethics versus the hard facts of economics is examined in this second installment of a three-part series dealing with the question of whether pharmacies should be allowed to advertise prescription drug prices.

BY JIM BUSBY
Staff Writer

Six tetracycline tablets for the price of one? Buy one bottle of Valium and get one free? Well, not likely. But remissions allowing, temporarily at least, prescription drug advertising may drive some pharmacists to the tranquilizer - and others to the bank.

And, some of those druggists may be stuck between the rock of professional ethics and an economic hard spot.

What, indeed, will happen if the Texas courts allow essentially unrestricted prescription drug price advertising?

An Avalanche-Journal telephone survey of about 31 Lubbock pharmacies showed a $6.53 difference in prices quoted for 100 tablets of five milligram Valium, a tranquilizer and one of the nation's bestselling drugs.

Lonnie Hollingsworth, owner of L & H Pharmacies in Lubbock, said the price issue boils down to a consumer decision between cost and service.

Hollingsworth was 1975-76 president of the Texas Pharmaceutical Association (TPA), an organization including about 50 percent of the state's practicing pharmacists.

The TPA supported the present Texas pharmacy law prohibiting the published advertising of prescription drugs but requiring the posting - in each drugstore - of pharmacy services offered along with the maximum prices of 100 of the most frequently prescribed drugs.

"The cheaper you sell," Hollingsworth said, "the less service you can afford to sell."

Hollingsworth, who describes his two Lubbock pharmacies as "front-end type drugstores," said the big-store pharmacist is "not going to be there" when the customer needs him.

"Accessibility of the pharmacist," he said, "is one advantage of the small, more expensive independent."

"I don't think it (unrestricted advertising) would help me," he said, but added, "I don't think there's any doubt it would hurt the smaller drugstores."

"Most drugstores operate on a very thin margin, contrary to popular belief," Hollingsworth said. "Most operate on a net profit of three to four percent." But, Bardwell D. Odum, a Dallas attorney representing Gibson Pharmacies, told The A-J pharmacists charging high prices simply don't want their prices advertised.

"Extra services," he said, "has nothing to do with it."

"I think that's a camouflage. In other words, that's what they're using to justify their prices."

Lubbock's Lee Bedford, owner of Bedford's Prescription Pharmacy, said he's "concerned. I won't say it worries me." But, he said his business would be less affected by open competition than younger drugstores.

"We were the first store (in Lubbock) to have just an exclusive pharmacy," he said. "We've been in business since 1937."

Open advertising of drugs, he said, could "hurt the boy that's coming out of school. I think it would really discourage him."

Bedford said there were no chain stores in Lubbock when he came here, and claims the chains advertise drugs at the "very bottom price," not to make money, but to draw people into their stores.

Why would a person patronize a more expensive pharmacist? Bedford said customers choose a given pharmacy for "personal reasons," convenience and good service.

Sam Damron, Muleshoe pharmacist and Texas State Board of Pharmacy (TSBP) member, said, "non-professional conveniences" (such as consultation, 24-hour emergency service and charge accounts) are factors in determining the price of a drug.

Damron was one of the four TSBP members voting to appeal the state's case against the Dallas-area chain, Page Super Drug.

In that case, the TSBP sought, but was denied, an injunction that would have restrained Page
