AS IT SHOULD BE.

Whom the Gods wish to destroy, they first make mad.

This is as true at the present time as ever it was in ancient days. We have a most beautiful illustration of it in the leaders of the Rebellion and the Democratic party.

Previous to 1860 the aristocracy of the South had had control of the Government almost uninterruptedly for near a third of a century, and they might have had the control yet if they had exercised their ordinary shrewdness without getting "mad."

But it became imperatively necessary for these aristocrats and their barbarous system of slavery to be destroyed, and it would not have been allowing the Gods their proper influence if they had not first lost their temper and sense, and consequently brought on their own destruction.

Every one knows that in 1860, at the nominating convention at Charleston, that the Democratic or pro-slavery party comprised nearly two-thirds of the people of the United States, and that they might easily have elected their President, had it not been for the suicidal course of the Southern leaders. These Southern leaders had been so long accustomed to consider themselves the "superior class, and to being implicitly obeyed, that they had grown to think the South was Trinity, consisting of three Kings—Cotton, Slavery, and Themselves either one vastly superior to anything else in this world—but combined, perfectly invincible and a power before which all the world should bow!

They went to battle on this idea and two of their Kings got killed and the other badly wounded. The wounded King, the "Superior Class," has recuperated wonderfully under the soothing treatment of Andy the L, till they have recovered most of their old arrogance, and as a consequence have done the only thing probably which could have defeated their candidate for the Presidency—but if they had not done this he would not have been their candidate. They went to the New York Convention, and, in accordance with their old programme, told the "mudsills" who they must nominate and what platform they must have. Verily, they will reap their reward.

We are very much inclined to believe that the Democratic candidate for President would have been elected this fall had it not been for these rebel leaders taking such a conspicuous part—but they are still "mad," and every move they make helps the Union or Republican party.

Those in the North who were so little acquainted with these rebel leaders as to believe their protestations of loyalty, have had their eyes opened by these same leaders themselves, and now fully realize what these rebels assert—that with the election of Seymour they recover the "Lost Cause."

Letter from Lavaca.

LAVACA, TEXAS, August 19, 1868.

Editors of the San Antonio Express:

DEAR SIR:—The Democrats say this shall be a "white man's Government"—they say they are the true friends of the negro—therefore it follows that it is better for the negro race in this country not to have any voice in the government of it. Do the negroes believe this? If they do, or any portion of them, those that do should turn Democrats of course.

Why is this a white man's government? Is it purely accidental that the white man was placed here? Just as much so as the negro. History says this country was first inhabited by Indians. Why not then of right call this the red man's government?

Who made this country—the land, water, air of this country? Who made the red man, the white man, the negro? Who does he say is the rightful govern-nor of the country? Does he say the white man is? When did he say it? Where is it recorded?

I saw a Democrat negro in New Orleans. I asked him what made him a Democrat? His answer was that he had more money while a slave or Democrat (synonymous terms when applied to the negro) than when free.

Rollins, the negro orator (Democrat) in New Orleans who was educated on Canal street in a finely-finished room, with a Brussels carpet on the floor, could say "scalawag," and "carpet-bagger" as fluently as his tutors. The negroes in New Orleans, speaking of Rollins, said he would never be of any more account to himself or anybody else after having been feted in the manner he had by his Democratic friends.

Rollins, while addressing his Democratic friends on LaFayette Square addressed them as "scalawags" and "carpet-baggers," etc. He told them that their masters (Yankees) were their best friends, for they allowed them to vote (some of them). Now was not this rather ungenerous in Rollins to go back on his friends in this manner? He may have thought, however, that scalawag and carpet-bagger was commendable terms. If it is said he did not direct his remarks to his friends, I answer that he did, for his audience was composed of his friends; there was scarcely a Republican on the ground, white or black. He was talking to his "true friends."

The Democracy of the South feel much more confident of the election of Seymour and Blair than their friends, the Copperheads of the North, do. The Copperheads in many parts of the country are despondent and fearful—in one word, they believe Ulysses S. Grant and Schuyler Colfax will be elected.

The New Orleans Times says there is a lack of enthusiasm among the Republicans North as to their candidates. I positively know this to be untrue; on the contrary, there is the greatest enthusiasm manifest at Republican meetings. Cheer after cheer for Grant and Colfax—the enthusiasm is heart-felt—it comes from the very soul. How is it at the Copperhead meetings (for I have attended both)? A slight enthusiasm, and that of a whisky character.

I attended a Democratic meeting where the speaker saw such great want of enthusiasm on the part of his audience that he took occasion to say to them if they did not show a little more interest and feeling that he would address them no more. His audience were composed of old staid Democrats, died in the wool, with the wool drawn over their eyes even—they were perfect fossils.

The night previous to this I had attended a Republican meeting, where there was a large audience assembled—a good many ladies were present—all the young men of the neighborhood were there. The speaker was frequently interrupted with deafening cheers for Grant and Colfax. Every soldier was there, and what yells went up for the great Captain, their leader in the war, who is to be the future President to restore the country to peace. Peace they want—peace they will have. They have had war enough—they have won laurels enough in that way to satisfy any laudable ambition. Their great leader says: "Let us have peace."

Peace is what the country wants—what the South wants particularly. The South wants no "Kill-Kany cat-fight" as the "war of races" would be if Seymour and Blair were elected—and who knows of what complexion the man who found the "last ditch" would be? Would he be white, or yellow, or black? We want no such cat-astrophy—it won't pay. The country wants peace—and peace we will have by the election of Ulysses S. Grant and Schuyler Colfax in November next. This is the settled conviction of the great North.

Are not the fruits of war and of peace apparent enough in the two sections of the country? Is not the South sufficiently punished, crippled, impoverished? Would a "war of races" improve the condition of either party? Would it not be fearful to contemplate?

We are a mixed people—both parties must be represented. Emigration must be encouraged. At present emigrants will not come here—dare not. Let us become reconstructed, have peace, and then emigration will pour into the country and the country will prosper. So mote it be.

Truly, OBSERVER.

A New York city paper having hired an agricultural writer, says that a farmer never should buy super-phosphate till his chemist tests it. As though a farmer keeps a chemist the same as a dog.

The New York World, in its attempt to degrade journalism by the promulgation of atrocious libels on General Grant, recently sent one of its representatives to follow that gentleman and party in his tour through the West, with positive instructions that he should by no means report anything favorable to the General. These instructions its tool did not hesitate to strictly observe, and every movement of the General and party was duly reported in a manner intended to burlesque the entire journey. Finally, failing in his puerile attempts to ridicule the tour, this precious Bohemian resorted, as might have been expected, to downright lying, by stating that at a certain point on the journey three glasses of ale were smuggled into the General's car, for the express purpose of tickling that gentleman's palate. Thinking that this system of misrepresentation had been carried on long enough, one of the General's staff sought out the World spy and stated to him that three glasses of ale were taken to the General's car on a certain occasion, that two were drunk by a gentleman and lady who happened to be on the train, and that he, the staff officer, appropriated the other to himself. He further told the World's worthy that at the time the ale was drunk General Grant was on the platform of the car, engaged in conversation with some other gentlemen, and desired to know why he had thus willfully misrepresented the facts in the case. The reply of the confused Bohemian was, "Ah, well, General, you know how it is with men of our profession; when we can't get facts, we are compelled to manufacture something isentist!" In trying to excuse a falsehood, this unblushing rascal was guilty of two more lies; one by intimating that he was a journalist, and the other by his sweeping assertion that respectable journalism is the prostitute of misrepresentation. The old adage that "misery loves company" was never better illustrated than by this journalistic impostor when he adroitly made use of "we" instead of "I." If he had used the singular number in his reply, he would have told the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.—Washington Chronicle.

This reminds us of a parrell case, with the above, but located nearer home, where the Bohemian writer for a rebel paper published in this section; after having willfully lied about a gentleman holding an office of public trust, when it was brought home to him, and he found himself caught, replied as above, that he done it just for fun to fill up the dirty sheet of which he was the representative.

"He who traduces because he can, Without danger to himself, is not a man."

The New York Herald, in a characteristic article, thus talks to the Southern leaders of Democracy:

Should the Southern leaders continue in their imprudent and suicidal course the first effect will be not only the election of the Radical Presidential ticket, but another Radical Congress also. The South will lose the sympathy and aid of a large portion of the Conservative people of the North. Capitalists will be more afraid of investing their money in the South than they were before the war, and while slavery existed, and as a consequence that productive and beautiful section will remain a comparative waste. Sectional ill-feeling will be kept alive and increase. In all probability, local trouble may arise that may call for, or be made the pretext of military force, and though the Southern States may be nominally reconstructed and restored, they will be virtually under military authority.

Such are a few of the evils which must spring from attempts on the part of the rebel leaders to keep up the old feeling of sectional hostility.

The Southerners are not out of the woods yet, and we advise them to keep quiet. They have nothing to gain, and much to lose by imprudently keeping alive the feeling of the war.

The Radical leaders see their forces scattering.—[Houston Telegraph]

Is it possible that an intelligent editor, such as now conducts the Houston Telegraph, cannot see? If blindness be so great in such as he, what must it be in those whose only guidance is passion? You are deceived, brother, by your Northern Copperhead allies. They have always deceived you. They told you, at the beginning of the war, that the North would be divided on the Southern question, and fighting would begin in New York and Pennsylvania, and in the West. But, at the first summons, a million of men arose in arms. All divisions were forgotten. The very men who misled you were loud-mouthed against you. It will be so now. The same issues are to be met by the ballot that were met by the bullet. The result will be as signal. Do not deceive yourself. Seymour will be nowhere. The election of Grant will be like that of Lincoln—almost by acclamation—and it is better for you that it should be so.—[Galveston Republican]

The only despondent man we can discover, North or South, is the New York correspondent of the Galveston News; and we should not wonder if he were paid for his despondency. Why does he not write for an out-and-out Radical paper? Because that would do the Radical party no good.—[Austin Gazette]

It is astonishing how some folks hate the truth.

Proposals for Army Transportation.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH MILITARY DISTRICT, Office Chief Quartermaster, Austin, Texas, August 21st, 1868.

SEALED PROPOSALS.

In duplicate will be received at this office until Friday the 26th day of October next, at 12 o'clock M., for transportation of Military supplies, from the date of the contract to the first day of January, 1869, on the following route, viz: Route No. 6.—From Marshall Station, Galveston Texas, and from Bryan or Courtney, or the terminus of the Texas Central Railroad, to all or any points in Texas, East or West of the Brazos River, and South of the Red River or between any points in said district. The contractor, to obligate himself to have a competent Agent to represent himself or his firm at Marshall, Galveston and Bryan or Courtney or at the terminus of the Texas Central Railroad, upon whom regulations can be made, and who must be prepared to transport all stores to and from each and every point where troops are stationed or where it is found necessary to place government stores; provided, the said Agent is duly notified in writing by the Officer or Agent of the United States, at least ten days previous to such shipment. Bidders to state the rate per one hundred (100) pounds per one hundred (100) miles, at which they will transport said supplies. Bidders should give their names in full as well as their place of residence, and each proposal should be accompanied by a bond in the sum of ten thousand ($10,000) dollars, signed by two or more responsible persons, guaranteeing that in case the contract is awarded for the route mentioned in the proposal, to the parties proposing, the contract will be accepted and entered into, and good and sufficient security furnished by said parties, in accordance with the terms of this advertisement. The amount of bonds required from the contractor will be fifty thousand ($50,000) dollars. Satisfactory evidence of the solvency of each bidder and person offered as security, will be required. Forms of contract may be seen at the Depot Quartermaster's office, San Antonio, and at this office. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids that may be offered. Proposals must be endorsed "Proposals for Army Transportation Route No. 6," and addressed to the undersigned. By order of Bvt. Maj. General REYNOLDS, J. A. POTTER, Evt. Brig. Gen. & Chief Qr. Mr. 5th Mil. Dist. aug. 23d6t.

The Latest from the Song Writers.

BY THE "FAY CONTRIBUTOR."

The man who "Drept I Dwell in Marble Halls" has opened a marble quarry there, and is doing a thriving business getting out grave stones.

The author of "Lorry Me Back to Old Virginia," has opened a livery stable and is carried back in his own conveyance whenever he wants to be.

The man who sang "I am Lonely Since my Mother Died," isn't quite so lonely now. The old man married again, and his step-mother makes it lively enough for him.

The author of "Life on the Ocean Wave" is gratifying his taste for the sea by tending a saw mill. He will be on the water.

The one who gave "The Old Folks at Home" to the world, has recently taken them to the poor house, as they were getting troublesome.

The author of "Shells of Ocean" is in the clam business.

The man who wanted to "Kiss Him for His Mother," attempted to kiss his mother for him the other day, and him gave him a walloping "for his mother."

The one who wailed so plaintively, "Do They Miss Me at Home?" was missed the other day, together with a neighbor's wife. He is missed by a wife and seven children.

The author of "Three Blind Mice" has started a menagerie with them.

The man who wrote "Five O'clock in the Morning," found that no saloons were open at that early hour where he could get his bitters, so he lies a-bed rather later now.

"Give Me a Cot in the Valley I Love" has got a cot in the infirmary. Mein Gott!

The man who sighed, "Take Me Home to Die," took Dr. Kerr's System Renovator, and is now a "Fine Ould Irish Gentleman."

"Meet Me by Moonlight Alone," has left off meat, and taken to drink.

The author of "Roll On, Silver Moon," has opened a ball-alley. Silver moon can't roll on his alley without paying for it.

The disconsolate one who sings, "Have You Seen My Maggie?" has heard of her. Another fellow inform him, through the music store, that "Maggie's By My Side."

"I'd Offer Thee This Hand of Mine" has been sued for breach of promise.

"Oh! Susannah," has settled with her at length, and don't owe Susannah any more.

The author of "Old Arm Chair" is still in the furniture business.

The one who pleaded "Rock Me To Sleep, Mother," has at length been gratified. His mother, yielding to his repeated solicitations, picked up a rock and rocked him to sleep. He hasn't woken up yet.

The one who asked "Who Will Care for Mother Now?" has finally concluded to take care of the old lady himself, as no one else seemed inclined to.

The Manchester (N. H.) Union tells of a traveler, ragged, dirty, rusty and half seas over, calling at a tavern, and being asked if he was not a Seymour man, straightened himself up and replied: "From my present appearance, you would probably judge I was a Democrat, but I ain't. I learnt my politics before I took to drink!"
