NASBY.

The Election in Kentucky—The Glorious Democratic Victory
—Mr. Nasby's account thereof.
(Written for the Blade.)
POST OFFICE, CONFIDENTIAL X. ROADS.
(Which is in the State of Kentucky.)
August 6, 1868.

If the American Eagle is in the habit of screaming at Democrat victories she kin now test her capacity to the fullest extent.

The election in Kentucky resulted more glorious than ever we had anticipated. Eighty thousand majority is a big thing, and we know it, but we felt that the eve of the Democracy was onto us, and we did our best. We waited to inspire the Democracy of the North; to set em a example, in fact, which would awaken in em emulashun.
The election at the Corners wuz the same as the others in the State, so in writin the history of this wun I am writin the history of all.

We had held a series of meetings, all with, with the exception of Elder Pennabacker's obstinacy, wuz harmonious and effective. Gov. Seymore's letter wuz a great help to us. I had been afraid that he might say suthin in it which would bother us, but when I got it I exclaimed hallelu! He hadn't said a thing! He hadn't touched any of the questions at issue and consequently couldn't give no offence to nobody.
Bascom took it, and swore that he wuz satisfied from readin it in connecthun with his Cooper Linstoot speech, he was in favor of payin the bonds in gold, while Pennabacker wuz quite as well satisfied from readin it in connecthun with the platform and Pendleton's speeches, that he wuz in favor of payin the bonds in greenback. They got to disputin over it, and referred the matter to me. Imitatin Seymore, I never said a word about bonds and greenback, but went off into a most eloquent denuncashun of univ Joodis Iekarot. Its always safe to abuse Joodis, ez there ain't nobody nowhere to defend him:

"But!" sed they in korus, "does he propose to pay the bonds in gold or greenback?"

Smilin benignantly onto em, ez Seymore did at the convenshun, I replied in these words: "My friends—for you are my friends," let us confine ourselves to livin isshoes. Let me ask you ez patriot, and men who hex the best interests of the country at heart, do you want your daughters to marry niggers?"

"Never!" sed they, strikin tables, "never!" and they rushed out in the street, hollerin "Rah for Seymore."

Such porshens of the letter, however, ez fitted our case I red to em. That paragraff into which he bewails the condition of univ men like us at the Corners, which he styles the intelligence of the South, Kernel McPelter and I read to every one at the Corners, we bein all wich kin read; and the paragraff in which he denounces the men who assert that Union men ain't permitted to live in peace in the South I read the first time to twenty or thirty of our people which had just returned from a raid onto the settlement of univ Abolitionists over on the Pike Run. Young Isacker Gavitt was so affected that he shed tears, wipe his eyes with a hankcher he took from the body of a Yoonyun man wich he had just shot in the presence of his family, wich refuzed to leave the settlement.

The election went off magnificently.
Never did I see in all my experience, which hez bin very great, such extensive preparations made. Bascom's bar wuz made free. Deekin Pogram, Kernel McPelter and myself, one of wich holds a government offfis, and the other two expects to, hez a bar of new cleckshun whi-key purchist, wich Elder Penna-backer, notwithstanding his disaffecshun, furnisht at cost, wich wuz 22 cents per gallon, ez no tax hez ever been paid in this district.

I opened the polls, usin for the purpose a hat, and the votin commensat fivly. I put in two, Bascom slept in three under different names, and the other faithful ones voted ez many times ez they thought nessary. About 10 o'clock Pollcock came up to vote, at wich I wuz surprised. When I say surprised I men it. The very presence of the man at such a time and place wuz startlin, and it bed a terrible effect on the popular. "Wait!" sed Isacker Gavitt, indignantly, "aiel a Illinois Ablishnist—a man not born in Kentucky—a man who holds views so totally different from ours, persoon to vote at these ere poles?
Never!"

And Isacker, bilin over with rage, went for him, in wich he was assisted by the entire balance of the Corners.
The wretched man paid a heavy penalty for his innocence. He wuz carried off by some sympathizin niggers, a more wreck of his former self.

A little later the "Yoonyun men," as they call themselves, come down to vote. But Isacker and McPelter reasoned with 'em. Kernel McPelter's remarks wuz pertikolarly impressive. They asserted that ez Amerikan citizens they hed a rite to vote, and shood do so at all hazards. The Kernel in reply statid to em that the Corners wuz a fitin for her liberties—that no matter wat their abstrack rites mite be the Corners shood not permit herself to be contaminated with Ablishn votes.

"Should you attempt it," sed he impres-sively, "the blood of the Corners will be up, and I won't be answerable for the consequences. Beware!"

They pressed forward, when from among our people a single shot wuz heard, and the head one of em, a preacher, fell writin in the dust.

I pitied the poor wretch, but wat kin we do? Why will they come about us, irritatin our people with their incenjury votes? That man hed a family. Wat reason will he give them, when he's carried home dead, for a—intimide disease?
Its ever thus. The Ablishnists will never let us alone. And yet I spose that a hirelin and subsidized press in the North, in the face of the provocash-en we received, will accuse us of mur-drin this man!

Our ambishen wuz to hev the vote clean Democratic. But it was not so.
At about one p. m., Joe Bigler, who hed heerd of the doings, come to the polls. Isacker and McPelter wuz a goin to prevent him from votin, but the villain drawl a revolver, and mout they lookt at him, and they partid, makin a lane for him to the hat.

"Does any one challenge my vote?" sed he, cockin his weepoon. "Ef so, let em speak."

But no one interred, and I took it.
When we counted out there wuz barely one Ablishn ballot in the hat. It wuz Bigler's. But we were neet enuff yoonanimus, and we perpose to keep so.
The process is simple. It consists merely in shootin all who differ with us.
Thus we hev peace at home.

Our politike prospects are mixed.
The reducksen of the tax on whiskey induced many of our voters toward Republicanism, but I headed this off by swearing that the Democracy was pledged to take it off all together. The Northern papers, assertin that Blare's letter don't mean revolutshun is hurtin us some, but that is more than balanced by the ease with wich we kin organize.

Yesterday an entire regiment in the Confedrnt servis organized as a Seymore and Blare Club—retainin their offfers ez doozin the war, and yoozin the identifiable rolls, flags and sich. It aids us wonderful.

THE CONVENTION.
SEVENTY-SECOND DAY.

CAPITOL, Austin, Texas, }
August 24, 1868. }

Convention met pursuant to adjournment; roll called; quorum present; prayer by the chaplain; journal of yesterday read and adopted.

The question of adjournment came up.
The following resolution was had:
Resolved, That the convention will take a recess from Monday, the 31st of August, until the 1st Monday in December next, subject to be convened at an earlier period by a committee of four members to be appointed by the convention, and the president, if in the judgment of said committee shall require it.

Report of the committee on political and legislative department taken up, and passed on to the 35th section.

The President announced the following communication from Maj. Gen. J. J. Reynolds, commanding 5th Military District:
"DICKENS, 5th MILITARY DIST.
State of Texas,
Austin, Texas, Aug. 24 1868."

To the Hon. E. J. Davis, President of the Convention:
Sir—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a resolution of the Convention, passed on the 20th inst., asking my approval of an additional appropriation of $25, to defray expenses.

The Convention has been in session about eighty five days, and has expended an approximation of $100,000.

The present state of the treasury, the rate at which money is coming in, and the prospective current wants of the State, forbid the appropriation of any more money from the treasury for the expenses of the Constitutional Convention.

The resolution is respectfully returned without approval.
I am sir, very respectfully,
Your obedient serv't,
J. J. REYNOLDS.

[Signed]
Maj. Gen. U. S. A. Comd'g.
The President announced the death of W.
Oaks, a member of the Convention.
On motion the Convention adjourned until Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

P. T. Barnum ran a foot-race on Friday at the Profile House, New Hampshire. He had several competitors, but distanced them all, after which he was borne from the field on the shoulders of the crowd. Several thousand spectators were present.

OUR FACILITIES.

The Daily Express has grown with the most wonderful rapidity known in newspaper enterprise, with daily dispatches from all parts of the world, and correspondents in the principal cities; in a wonderful short space of time it has sprung from the rear to the most advanced outpost of enterprising journalism.

OUR WEEKLY EXPRESS.

A splendid eight page forty column paper, containing news, advertising and more reading matter than any paper of its size in the country.

We have never found it necessary to appeal to the friends of the Union to support this journal, as its merits have been acknowledged at once and abroad, having subscribers and correspondents in twenty-three States of the Union, in Europe, Africa, Asia, and every part of the globe. It is the only paper published in Texas which is read by all classes of the community. It is the only paper which is read by all classes of the community. It is the only paper which is read by all classes of the community.

MISREPRESENTATION.

The most pitiable of all things in journalism is the want of manliness and truth. It is often the case that the newspaper editor may in his zeal do a wrong, or over or understate a matter, but when all the facts are before him and he purposely avoids the truth or purposely misrepresents, though he may be as mild in his manner as a sucking dove, he is far beneath the open liar, the bold defamer. These reflections are suggested by an article which appeared in the Austin Republican of the 26th inst., headed "The New Constitution." In that article the editor attempts to create the impression that all has been harmonious in the convention and that the different departments of the new constitution were adopted as reported by the committee; the article mentions the Bill of Rights, and "General Provisions" as reported by Mr. Morgan C. Hamilton. That staunch patriot would not know the splendid report which came from his pen, as it was passed by the convention; it was butchered from beginning to end. The Bill of Rights and General Provisions as passed by the convention is not the instrument that came from Mr. Hamilton, and the article of the Republican is a libel on that gentleman. We shall wait until the constitution is out of its shell and then we intend to give its true history and its certain fate. We simply desire to call the attention of Republicans to the gross misrepresentations of the hand organ of the Austin ring.

Bryant upon Texas Railroads.

On Tuesday the 25th August, the subject of the Pacific Railroad coming up, Mr. Bryant of Grayson said: "When this question was brought up this evening, I thought it was a farce and merely intended to give Mr. Flanagan a chance to make a speech before taking the recess. It is well known that the railroad system throughout this State has been one gigantic swindle. Whenever the legislature has been in session, these railroad men have gathered round this house like birds of prey around a dead carcass. The people of this State have been fleeced and impoverished by these railroad swindlers; and after all the money that has been sunk in, endless trying to render these enterprises successful, there is really but one road that is paying anything, and that road is actually charging more for freight than a farmer can votes and his advocacy of the railroad interest, I venture to affirm that that is more than any other member of this convention can say; for if there be any one thing in which the people of this State are fully agreed, it is in their detestation of the policy which has been pursued in relation to the railroads of this State.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

AUSTIN, TEXAS, August 27, 1868.

THE CONVENTION—ITS PRESENT STATUS, AND WHO IS RESPONSIBLE THEREFOR.

DEAR EXPRESS:

After an absence from the State of five weeks, I find myself again in the Capital, where those we have chosen to organize a State government in consonance with the Congressional laws on reconstruction are still sitting, wearing the patience of a weary people, exhausting the appropriations made to defray their expenses, making additional appropriations, and devoting the time thus paid for to granting franchises to bankrupt and penniless adventurers—men who have neither means nor ability to execute the railroad schemes—they have lobbied through this convention, carrying therewith such liberal grants of the public domain. The hopes of an oppressed race have here found graves; their stake is both "as deep as a well and as wide as a barn door"—"it is enough."

Starting with a hard-core majority in opposition to the railroad schemes and in opposition to the rebel legislation—to-day that body stands pledged to the enforcement of all that rebel legislation; it presents (on paper) the grandest railroad schemes ever attempted by a people. The combined railroads in the free States pale into insignificance beside those authorized by the convention.

To these results Governor A. J. Hamilton is entitled to the credit—or infamy. Beside the vast experience of the Governor the strength of the advocates of equal rights dwindle and the parts sloughed off have nestled around the railroad champion, echoed his thunder, and are to-day assisting that gentleman to perfume the legislative halls of Texas. Will these champions of such railroad schemes, the champions of rebel laws, submit the Constitution to the people of Texas? or will they not attempt to deceive Congress into adopting the Constitution without consulting the people? We shall see.

THE NORTH—SEYMOUR'S CHANCES.

I feel it necessary to go back a ways; to give the results of my observations among the people at the North.

While at Washington I naturally moved among the friends of our cause, and all I heard was satisfactory, in fact, most gratifying; but these men were office-holders; it was a question if their expressions were not merely the creature of their hopes.

I heard mutterings against the onerous taxes. The Copperheads had given circulation to the reports that the Republican party desired to cover up the financial issues, to bury them beyond discussion. These same patriotic (?) Democrats kept it before the weak-kneed that the Democracy would skip all other issues and grasp the finances to give the country immediate relief. At their Convention in New York, the Tammany ring suppressed all public expressions from Southern delegates and held the Bums-by-like platform so close to the eyes of the masses that they could not see that Wade Hampton, Jeff. Davis, Cobb, Toombs, Forrest, and all the other Confederate skeletons were the parties upon whose back the platform rested; and it is generally believed that had Chase or Pendleton been placed upon the ticket, the people would never have looked under the platform to see who was there. A change was wanted; the nomination of a man whom they believed to be honest, would have carried a sufficient number of the disaffected Republicans to carry many of the Northern States. Ten days after the Democratic nomination it would have been dangerous to have gone into an election. The smart men of their party scattered the platform broadcast and Blair's letter was unmentioned. It was not known that Hampton had interpolated the clause declaring the Southern State governments unconstitutional and void.

These things, as I said before, were all carefully suppressed, at the North. The Republicans were remaining quietly at home watching events, relying upon the personal popularity of their standard-bearers to carry the election.

Mr. Bryant opened the campaign the farthest corners of the country. I, in common with the loyal Southerners, began to doubt the Republicans at the North. I cast my eyes along the line from right to left, but no response was made to the Copperhead thunder.

Now the Southern delegates returned to their homes. I have already described the wild enthusiasm of their constituents. Elated beyond discretion at these receptions, the leaders of the "Lost Cause" boasted too soon that their cause had found new life in the bosom of Democracy, and that States Rights would yet triumph by a peaceful warfare at the ballot-box.

These boasts, together with their interpretations of Blair's letter, acted like touching fire to a powder magazine. The war notes of the rebel Generals in the South reached the North just as I started from Washington to the West. As I passed through Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, the Republicans seemed in a perfect uproar.

THE GREAT CHICAGO DEMONSTRATION.

The day I reached Chicago (the 12th instant), the Republican party swarmed, and Democracy quaked with fear; its knees smote together and (I guess) called upon the rocks to hide it.

This occasion was the result of a call made one week before in the Republican papers for a mass-meeting. Immediately after dark the sound of artillery was heard, and at intervals rockets shot into the sky, bursting in mid-heavens and scattering their forked tongues of fire.

Thus reminded I started towards the City Hall. Arriving there the grounds were already well filled with people. Two speakers' stands had been erected. The whole square was illuminated with four brilliant Calcium lights, and a band was discoursing sweet music. The masses poured in from every direction, and by eight o'clock it would seem difficult to the uninitiated to crowd in another hundred persons.

Precisely at the above-named hour, speaking commenced at both stands, and the vast concourse listened with profound silence.

About fifteen minutes after speaking had commenced, sounds of music broke in upon the stillness of the meeting; these sounds were accompanied with such shouts and noises that the speakers were compelled to suspend, and the attention of all was turned to the course of the interruption. It proved to be the several bands of eight columns of Tanagers, who were all in uniform, wearing leather aprons and each carrying a torch-light. These eight columns averaged over a thousand each, and the various Marshals were so instructed that all the columns arrived on the square from different streets simultaneously. The enthusiasm was irrepressible. Ten thousand uniformed men with brilliant torch-lights arriving unexpectedly among a mass of fifty thousand people—the effect is indescribable. Even the Copperhead papers, for once, admitted the demonstration to be something to be astonished at.

This demonstration I found to be a correct indication of the sudden Republican uprising throughout the West—the people in the most remote regions hearing the sound of these Southern war-blasts—the same notes that called their martyred relatives to Southern graves. War Democrats have become as earnest against Southern folly as they were during the war, and now the same unanimity exists for Grant as existed in 1864 for the lamented Lincoln, although blinded Democracy is as confident of the election of Seymour in 1868 as they were in 1864 of the election of their idolized McClellan.

In addition to these facts, the poor Democrats of the West have determined to stay away from the polls; they feel that they have been sold out to the bond-holders of New York.

The readers of THE EXPRESS will see from these indications that our honest rebel friends in the South have done us the kindness to arouse the Republican party from its apathy. The ball has been set in motion, and the camp-fires of the Grand Army are blazing throughout the country. Our only enemy has been inaction. Thank God, Forrest has done for us what we were unable to do for ourselves. As time passes, Grant's supporters are gaining in numbers. Even the Jews are becoming sufficiently magnanimous to overlook the famous "Jew Order." On the fourth of November next, the figures will show the poor deluded rebels that their thunder has fooled only themselves, and that Grant will be the President of these United States with the consent of every Northern State in the Union with probably two exceptions.

Yours, M.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 25.—The Sultan has issued an order permitting Farragut's flagship to pass through the Dardanelles.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Edwards whipped Collier in forty seven rounds. Liverpool, August 25.—The ship Magdala, from Liverpool to Charleston, is ashore dismantled. She may get off.

Marine disasters from the recent gale are still reported. The ship Favorite of Liverpool for New Orleans, was seen by incoming vessels off coast of Ireland, dismantled and in a sinking condition. The crew refused to leave the ship.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Full Cabinet except Browning and Evarts—Browning has gone to the White Sulphur Springs.

Henry J. Glass has been appointed Collector of Customs at St. Augustine, Florida.

The President has issued a proclamation declaring Sitka a port of entry.

NEW ORLEANS, August 25.—Gen. Buchanan yesterday relinquished charge of the Freedmen's Bureau affairs of this State to Gen. Hatch.

Gen. Buchanan remains in command of the District until Gen. Rousseau's arrival.

The canvass of the country parishes have actively begun.

Gen. Steedman and a number of other Democratic speakers from New Orleans addressed a meeting in Lafourche parish on Saturday, followed to-day by a Republican meeting addressed by Michael Rouen.

Nothing further is heard of the bill placing electoral appointments in the hands of the Legislature, of which notice was given in the House some time ago.

Active canvassing in the State commenced by the Republicans, seem to indicate that the project will not be pushed unless as a last resort.

A grand procession of all the Democratic Clubs of the city will take place on Saturday next.

Some idea of the number of clubs may be obtained from the fact that there are not bands of music enough in the city and vicinity; and Mobile is last under contraband to furnish bands, and possibly Memphis and Louisville.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—A number of sheriff's officers entered the Broadway theatre during the play, to arrest H. Watkins, for producing a foul play. The sheriffs used pistols, and wounded two actors, one fatally. The sheriffs were committed to-day to await the result of the injury.

HAVANA, August 25.—General Alatorre wants five thousand men to put down the rebellion in the State of Vera Cruz.

Salvador has been again defeated, and is now acting solely on the defence. He made a forced loan of $200,000. Salvador and the British Minister are reconciled.

LAVACA, Aug. 25th, 1868.

Editors of the San Antonio Express.

Sirs:—While I was up North this summer, I was frequently asked by the people up there if it was safe for Northern people to move South? If land was cheap? I told them land was very cheap. With regard to the safety of living there (yellow-fever excepted) I thought it would be safe for "democrats." That Copperhead democrats would be well received. They however had heard so much about murders being committed in Texas, that they said they were afraid to risk it. It is a fact that the copperhead democrats are not remarkably brave like the Southern democrats. If there is any fighting to be done they ain't in. They denounce the negro, yet I verily believe that one thousand picked negroes, well armed, would put ten thousand promiscuous copperhead democrats to flight.

Such news as the following terrifies the copperheads as they hear it wafted through the newspapers:

About two weeks since, a foul murder was committed on the east side of Matagorda Bay, about Trespacious. A man by the name of Morris, while asleep on his little boat, had his head severed from his body with an axe, by a man by the name of "Toney." The body was then taken and weights tied to it and cast into the sea—the sea being shallow at that place the feet of the murdered man at low tide stuck out, this led to his discovery. Toney got off with three or four hundred dollars in money. Morris carried the mail from Indianola to Trespacious.

Now, sir, such occurrences being so frequent in the State, has the effect to keep out democrats even, from emigrating to the country. I told the copperheads up there it would not seem so terrible after they got used to it, but they would give their shoulders a French shrug and say they could not see it. Truly, SUBSCRIBER.

At a Seymour and Blair ratification meeting at Atlanta, Ga., one of the speakers denounced the constitutional amendment as "prepared principally for the purpose of keeping out of office such gentlemen and true patriots as Howell Cobb, A. H. Stevens, Robert Toombs, B. H. Hill, John C. Breckenridge, and Jefferson Davis!" As the speaker named each of the patriots in the above list there was a storm of cheers; but when he mentioned the name of Jeff Davis, the hall was at once the scene of a wild and tumultuous uproar. Both delegates and spectators jumped to their feet as if in excitement uncontrollable. Hats and handkerchiefs were waved and shaken fiercely above their heads, and yells and shouts and cheers and wild stamping for the space of several minutes shook the hall. It was the "old rebel yell."

The oldest homoeopathic physician in Cincinnati is Dr. Wm. Sturm, aged seventy-three. His twentieth child, by his third wife, was born last week.
