VOL. III, 1890

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1890.

NO. 45.

Supra's Council.

The associated dispatch gave our readers the impression in announcing the restoration of Joseph H. Bradley Sr. to the right of a practicing attorney in the Courts of the District of Columbia, that the restoration was a great rebuke to Judge Fisher who suspended Bradley.

The following are the circumstances of Mr. Bradley's restoration, Judge Fisher being one of the parties appealed to.

SUPREME COURT IN BANC.—The Court in banc met at Washington January 18th, Chief Justice Carter and Associate Justices Olin, Wylie and Fisher sitting.

Mr. Joseph H. Bradley, Sr., addressed the court as follows:

Will your honors allow me to submit a matter entirely personal to myself, and which I would rather bring to the notice of the court in my proper person than to ask the assistance of any member of the bar. More than fourteen months have now elapsed since, by the judgment of this court, I was deprived of my franchise as a member of this bar; and I desire now to submit a motion that the court will treat and consider (as they certainly have the power) that judgment as an order of suspension only, and direct it to be removed. In doing this, it is due to myself to say that, in all the matters complained of, believing myself to be the injured party, I acted under sudden impulse and continuous strong excitement, caused by the provocation I conscientiously thought I had received, but without the remotest idea of contending the authority or dignity of any judicial tribunal.

Justice to this court requires, after the expression of its opinion, that I should renew to them the assurance of my profound regret that any act or word of mine should have been interpreted as an indignity to the judicial tribunals of this District, whose authority and dignity it is equally my duty and pleasure to maintain and support. I submit therefore, a motion asking that you may consider the former judgment as an order of suspension only.

The court announced that they would take the matter under advisement.

It is just such bombastic flourishes as that with which Bradley's restoration was announced, that keeps the late chivalry among the fools of the generation.

What the Eastern Texas Loyalists think of the martyred Smith.

The Tyler Index, one of the ablest papers in the State, thus remarks upon the attempt of Smith's colleagues to defame his character:

We see by some of our exchanges reference made to a personal explanation by C. Caldwell, in the Smith Convention, in regard to his course towards the Hon. Geo. W. Smith, in which he says that he had no respect for Smith on account of his leucity. It is also stated in connection with this, that George H. Slaughter, one of the delegates in the State convention from Smith county, bears Caldwell out in thus defaming the memory of Mr. Smith. These gentlemen, however, may have been misrepresented by newspaper correspondents, as is too often the case. But if such is the case, we warn Caldwell and Slaughter not to present themselves to the loyal people of Eastern Texas for another political office. The memory of the Hon. Geo. W. Smith will live when such men as they are forgotten.

Grant's Cabinet.

A cabinet of young men would make the administration go. Garfield or Conkling would make secretaries under whom our foreign affairs would be wisely managed. Either Bovio or Raymond would make as good a postmaster general as old Ben. Franklin, while one like Young, as Secretary of War, would make as brilliant a campaign against the Indian tribes as Sheridan did in the valley. Grant should follow the example of Washington, who appointed to his State Department the young man who, at thirty-three, wrote the Declaration of Independence; and to his treasury, a young man of thirty. We have had the greatest Secretary of State that Jefferson—an Secretary of the Treasury to compare with Alexander Hamilton.

Grant has before him a peculiar duty. He may select a team of hacks, who will pin splendidly while the fodder is plenty and they are fresh, but will slip their shoes and be down on their knees before the journey is over. Or he may select a team like one of Bonner's, and drive along as swiftly and as joyously as though he were pulled by Lantern and Peasbush, Peerless and Dexter. And this, I think, will be the course he will take.—(Washington Cor. Cincinnati Times.)

John Allen has closed his house, as a dancing-house, and has become very fogged, sullen, and silent. He is disappointed with the turn affairs have taken, and is angry with himself and with all his neighbors. His old business has been entirely ruined, partly by exposure and partly by his attempt to play off the missionary by his pretended conversion. Between these two stools John Allen's dance-house has fallen to the ground. He is said, however, to have saved a great deal of money out of his infirm business, quite enough to keep him very comfortably for the remainder of his days. He is a tall, powerfully built man, about 35 years of age, but with a hang-dog, brutal cast of countenance. He was unable to ask us into his house, as his wife was drunk, and when in that condition she is always very quarrelsome. Every one in the street abuses John Allen, and expresses a pious wish that he may go to the devil as soon as possible, or any where else, so long as he takes himself off, so said Mr. Tommy Hadden. They seem to think that as long as The Wickedest Man in New York remains among them so long will the agitation against their infamous mode of earning a living continue, but that if Allen could be got out of the way the outcry against them would soon cease. Allen, without intending to do so, has certainly done more to injure the business of these "Sailors' Retreats," than all the missionaries put together.

He has, fortunately for the poor sailors, opened their eyes to the frauds practiced upon them, taught them to be more careful of their own interests, and made them more shy than formerly of going to these places.—Exchange.

The Rev. Charles Brooks, father of the State Normal schools in America, was asked by a teacher this question: "What shall I teach my pupils?" He answered: "Teach them very thoroughly these five things: 1. To live religiously. 2. To think comprehensively. 3. To reckon mathematically. 4. To converse fluently; and, 5. To write grammatically. "If you successfully teach them these five things you will have nobly done your duty to your pupils, to their parents, to your country and to yourself."

Editorial Correspondence. It is known to our readers that three of our five Supreme Judges are delegates to the Convention.

One of the two who tardily set out to hold the Galveston Court, (Judge Caldwell of Jefferson notoriety) is reported to have met with a rather unjudicial adventure at Houston.

Under the Constitution of Texas, of 1845, accepted by Congress, and under the Constitution of Texas, of 1866, rejected by Congress, which body declared that no legal State government existed in Texas, it is clear that no civil officer can leave the State without first obtaining leave of absence, without forfeiting his office.

for the Constitution, by asking and obtaining from the Legislature... Our political Supreme Judges have not thought it proper to obtain leave of absence from any source.

Our political Supreme Judges have not thought it proper to obtain leave of absence from any source. If they go on an office begging tour to Washington, we shall not regret it.

If any other persons now holding United States offices in Texas, shall go to Washington without first obtaining leave of absence, they should be made to share the fate of our political Supreme Judges.

Our amiable contemporary, the Austin Republican, has just discovered that the Editorials of the Express are written in Austin and mailed to the paper.

The recent Conservative speech of General A. J. Hamilton, singled him out as the great recreant of Texas, to Republican principles.

Many Northern Journals take exceptions to the action of Rev. Dr. Newman, of New Orleans, (Badi-cal) challenging the editor of the St. Mary's Planters Banner, to personal combat.

Mr. Newman's object was to demonstrate what cowardly perps the blustering Southern Democrats are. Mr. Newman has lived South long enough to know that "nigger whippers" and self-proclaimed chivalry fight only on their own terms.

A Day of Humiliation—Expulsion of Bryant—The Doorkeeper Retained—The Contumacious Secretary Sustained—Attempt to Reinstale Sumner—Report of the Committee on the Indictment of the Federal Grand Jury.

This has been a day of humiliation in the convention. Bryant, the colored member, was expelled by a close vote of 33 yeas to 30 nays.

Again I would endeavor to inform you of matters progressing in this far-away region—hoping that you will one day take a trip over roads which I have travelled and see for yourself what this veritable Indian territory produces.

There is one consolation, however, for future travellers on the stage line. The proprietor having heard of gunboats running in a heavy sea, and how necessary they were in every family, has concluded to iron-clad his stages.

We have a rumor here to the effect that there is to be a mail established between this Post and Fort Concho, Ark.; we believe it is so.

Of this nature is the charge against Mr. Bryant. I believe it has been a regular, deep-laid conspiracy, not only against Bryant, but against the integrity of the majority of the convention.

As a loyal man I cannot but look upon this movement with some alarm. I know we must depend upon the loyal colored man; I know we must bear the odium of prejudice if we stand by him.

The committee to investigate the case of the brutal attack on Mr. Ruby and the contumacious conduct of the chief Secretary, reported in favor of expelling the Door-keeper; but the chairman said that the culprit wanted him to apologise to the convention.

These matters disposed of, the committee appointed to investigate into the matter of the Federal Grand Jury's address, reported. It will be laid before your readers soon, and will place the Judge and Court generally in no very enviable light.
