A Lady Falls Heiress to $100,000—History of the Case.

From the Davenport (Iowa) Gazette.

A lady residing in this city has recently received information that she is one of five heirs of a tract of land in Texas, eleven leagues in extent. This land lies in Bexar county, not far from San Antonio, and is 33 miles square. It is estimated to be worth $500,000—how much more is not known to the interested party here. The land has long been known as the "Madison eleven league tract." It has a singular history—or, rather, the proprietorship of it has. When Texas raised the lone star, in 1833, there was one John Mullen who fought for her independence, and with Houston and others rendered the State essential service. In attestation of its gratitude for independent government, the State gave Mullen eleven leagues of land. Mullen had some difficulty in getting possession of the land—in fact he never could get all of it on account of numerous squatters, who had held their own against every attempt made to eject them. Fourteen years ago, or thereabouts, Mullen died, leaving but two heirs. Immediately the legal right of the heirs to the land was contested, and suit was brought in the United States District Court for the district of Texas, for the purpose of wreathing the title to the land from them. Judge Watrous presided over the court. The decision was in favor of Mullen's heirs. Then Watrous was accused of having been bribed. Charges were preferred against him by the Congress of the United States, and articles of impeachment were prepared, but the trial never came off. For some reason Watrous was permitted to resign on account of ill health and the consequent danger of the excitement of a trial. Shortly afterwards, we believe, he died. The opponents of the heirs were jubilant, and through some chicanery on the part of the legislature of Texas were permitted to go and occupy a part of the tract. The war broke out and put a stop to proceedings on the part of the heirs to reclaim their land, although a suit had been entered in the U. S. Court. This found its way into the supreme court of the United States about the time the rebellion ended. Then the two heirs died, leaving five children—one of whom is the lady in this city. A few months ago the United States court made the same decision concerning the ownership of the "eleven league tract," that Judge Watrous made and affirmed the title with the second generation of Mullen's heirs to the tract. And of this, the Davenport lady, who had remained in ignorance of the proceedings, or even of her heirship to the land, has recently been informed.

She put her claim in the hands of a well known citizen here, who has been granted "power of attorney" by three of the other heirs, and is about to do what he can to secure the land for his clients. Recent information received by Mr. A. C. Fulton concerning the tract is to the effect that it is very valuable, as Bexar county has been filling up very rapidly. Furthermore, the war dispersed and scattered the old enemies of Mullen's heirs. Our Davenport lady counts her fortune, through this piece of good luck, at least $100,000, though it is probably a much larger amount. So much for being in the "direct line" of a man who fought Santa Anna, and helped to gain liberty for Texas. One hundred thousand dollars is not a bad windfall in times when it costs so much to live.

Our Gold and Silver Product.

The Round Table has an interesting summary of the doings of our gold and silver mines during the year 1868. The yield of placer mining has continued to fall off, but the extraction of the metals from the quartz rock has been prosecuted with increased skill and success. The various new methods of breaking the rock which have been tried in Nevada and Colorado have been abandoned for the old apparatus of stamps, which is not equalled in effectiveness by any of the more recent devices. The stamps are used, however, with greater care, as the finer the stone is pulverized the more thoroughly its products contents are got out. In Nevada the most remarkable feature of the year's operations is the decreased product of the Comstock lode, discovered in 1865, and hitherto so unsurprisingly valuable. The deeper the rock is worked in that lode the poorer it is found to be. On the other hand, the White Pine district, in Nevada, has furnished silver to the amount of a million dollars during the last six months. In Idaho the profit of mining has been diminished by drought, while in California the business has suffered from too much rain. In all the new Territories the excessive cost of transportation and provisions has also checked the development of the mining interest; but after all the yield of 1868 may fairly be stated as follows:

California	$20,000,000
Nevada	15,000,000
Montana	10,000,000
Idaho	8,000,000
Oregon	5,000,000
Colorado	4,000,000
Washington	1,000,000
Arizona	250,000
New Mexico	250,000
Total	$66,500,000

General Baron D'Aleimar, of the French army, says "that in all the wars of the first Empire only two actions were fought in which the troops actually met at the bayonet's point: one was in 1805, at Amstetten, when Oudinot's grenadiers attacked the grenadiers of the Russian rear guard, and the bayonet engagement lasted several minutes. The second instance was given at Lutten, in 1813, by the 25th regiment of the line, which, piqued that the Emperor seemed to doubt its prowess, fought the whole day with the bayonet, without burning a cartridge.

TELEGRAPHIC

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXPRESS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The officials at the capital consider the President's signature unnecessary to the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution.

A bill removing all officers in Virginia, Mississippi and Texas, after thirty days, who cannot take the oath of July 2nd, 1862, except those relieved of political disabilities, is a law, without the President's signature.

Reconstruction committee in regular session has not acted on Senate's amendment to the bill removing political disabilities, past last Monday. The measures recently added to, were then made by the sub-committee. The whole bill is to be overhauled in full committee before it is presented to the House.

HOUSE.—Engaged in New Mexico contested election case, the New Mexico election contest resulted in unseating Cleaver, who has occupied his seat during the entire session. The rules were suspended and the Constitutional amendment taken up. An amendment forbidding the deprivation of vote or hold office, on account of race or color, nativity, property, creed or previous condition of servitude, was adopted, and Constitutional amendment passed by 140 to 33.

SENATE.—Petition presented from citizens of Virginia, praying for ratification of the Conventions Constitution, and against relieving political disabilities.

TEMPERANCE.—The repeal was resumed and discussed to adjournment.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 20.—A number of Cuban refugees addressed a protest to the Government against the charges made by the Spanish Consul, of design on their part to provoke an outbreak between themselves and Spanish residents. They declare that notwithstanding their political opinions, the design to injure upon laws in any manner, is wholly foreign to their characters and intentions.

FRANCE.—No longer details passports from American travelers or residents. Seward however, recommends naturalization treaty to continue to carry them.

FOREIGN NEWS.

HAVANA, Feb. 20.—The government is equipping a flotilla to attack Guanaa, where insurgents have fortified, having a brass cannon manned by an American. The rebels expedition have effected a landing at Cochinos.

Baldy Smith declines the Consul Generalship.

The diary says Sespedes and a great part of the rebels are within jurisdiction of Haguain. The Spanish force in arms are seventy thousand.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—London papers of a conservative standing regret the rejection of the advances made for the Alabama treaty. Advances for a new treaty must come from the United States.

ENGLAND is now unfettered from concessions, and hereafter will only treat on terms of absolute equality.

Buckle, in his "History of Civilization," says that marriage does not depend upon love, but upon the price of corn. It is evident that children have long known this, and have even measured love as men measure corn, as appears from their common expression, "I love you two bushels and a peck." The statistical lover does not now say, as he used to: "Amanda, I love" thee, but, "Amanda, provisions are cheap. There is no telling what fine novels and plays a man through imbued with this idea might produce, and particularly would he give us good songs. How imaginative would be one like this!

The heart bowed down with price of beef, To weakest hopes will cling.
With the melancholy refrain:
For beefsteak is the only friend
That grief can call its own.

A woman in Ridgeway, Lenawee county, Mich., lately sued a saloon-keeper of the place to recover money spent by her husband for liquor, and after an exciting trial, a verdict of $45 was rendered in her favor.

The Eye of an Eagle.

The eyes of all birds have a peculiarity of structure which enable them to see near and distant objects equally well, and this wonderful power is carried to the greatest perfection in the bird of prey. When we recollect that an eagle will ascend more than a mile in perpendicular height, and from that enormous elevation will perceive its unsuspecting prey and pounce on it with an erring certainty, and when we see the same birds scrutinizing, with almost microscopic nicety, any object close at hand, we shall at once perceive that he possesses power accommodating his sight to distance in a manner to which our eye is unfitted, and of which it is totally incapable.

If we take a printed page, we shall find that there is some particular distance, probably ten inches, at which we can read the words and see each letter with perfect distinctness; but if we move a page to a distance of forty inches, we shall find it impossible to read it at all; a scientific man would, therefore, call ten inches the focus or focal distance of our eyes. We cannot alter this focus except by the aid of spectacles.

But an eagle has the power of altering the focus of its eye just as he pleases; he has only to look at an object at the distance of two feet or two miles in order to see it with perfect distinctness. The ball of his eye is surrounded by fifteen little plates, called sclerotic bones, they form a complete ring, and their edges slightly overlap each other.

When he looks at a distant object, this little circle of bone expands and the ball of the eyes being relieved from the pressure, becomes flatter; and when he looks at a very near object the little bones press together, and the ball of the eye is thus squeezed into a rounder or more convex form. The effect is very familiar to everybody. A person with very round eyes is near-sighted, and only sees clearly an object that is close to him; and a person with flat eyes, as in old age, can see nothing clearly except at a distance. The eagle, by the mere will, can make his eyes round or flat, and see with equal clearness at any distance.

FEMALE SUFFRAGE IN TENNESSEE.—In the Tennessee Senate Mr. Nelson and Mr. Grimes have presented bills to strike the word "male" out of the State constitution; so that women shall vote on the same conditions as men.

One Mr. Bowles, commonly known as the newspapers say as "Old Bowles," snatched these bills with another, in which he proposes to abolish the present costume of women.

Whereas, The present costume worn by that class to whom it is proposed to extend the elective franchise is cumbersome and entirely unsuited for the purposes of electioneering and canvassing, and is found awkward for commoner purposes; therefore

Be it resolved, &c. That the costume now worn by female citizens of Tennessee be changed from petticoats to pants, and that this act take effect from and after its passage.

We have not heard that "Old Bowles" has had his ears pulled; and indeed the ladies of Tennessee have received the news of his bill with such resignation that one might think they were as ready to wear trousers as to go to the polls.

A Washington correspondent of the Galveston News says that a gentleman lately asked Gen. Grant if he had intimated to an ex-Confederate Colonel, supposed to be Colonel Tom P. Ochiltree, that he would give him an appointment after his accession, and being answered in the affirmative, he asked on what principle that was done. To which General Grant replied: "Sir, the only great principle that I have promised the American people is that we must have peace; and when I find a man who fought in this war, on either side, who heartily desired peace and will support the laws of the country, and is competent, I shall ask no other question about the propriety of his appointment.

The papers of Ripon, Wisconsin, report a pleasant time at a farmer's festival in that town, at which between forty and fifty old settlers were present, some of whom came to the place in 1810.

Beet Sugar.

Within the past two or three years, there has been much talk of introducing the culture of the beet for sugar into Ireland. It has thus far ended only in talk; but it is thought that the experiment will soon be tried. There, as here, several years ago, imperfect experiments were made in that direction and failed of success. This has retarded further effort but the Irish Farmer's Gazette speaking of the project, says: "The question, is however, of so much importance that it is necessary it should be thoroughly investigated and removed from the region of speculation, in which it undoubtedly is at present. Sugar is no longer a luxury—it has of late years become one of the actual necessities of life, even in the humblest cabin; and for an article in such demand it is important to test, beyond doubt, whether or not we possess the requisites for its economical production in our own country. Whilst on the one hand we must guard against aiding in raising hopes which are but too likely to prove illusory, after much disappointment and loss, on the other hand, we are prepared to fairly examine any project which holds out the prospect of the introduction of a great and widely diffused manufacture, the success of which could not fail to enrich and benefit the entire community. To the forthcoming discussion of the subject, under auspices which will ensure its receiving full justice, we invite the earnest attention of our readers.

The Waters' Pianos are built of the best and most thoroughly seasoned material—Advocate and Journal.
Our friends will find at Mr. Waters' store the very best assortment of Pianos, Melodeons and Organs to be found in the United States.—Graham's Magazine.

Musical Doctors—since Mr. Waters gave up publishing sheet music, he has devoted his whole capital and attention to the manufacture and sale of Pianos and Melodeons. He has just issued a catalogue of his new instruments, giving a new scale of prices, which shows a marked reduction from former rates, and his Pianos have recently been awarded the First Premium at several Fairs. Many people of the present day, who are astounded, if not confused, with the flaming advertisements of rival piano houses, probably overlook the modest manufacturer like Mr. Waters; but we happen to know that his instruments earned him a good reputation long before "Expositions" and "honors" connected therewith, were even thought of; indeed, we have one of Mr. Waters' Pianos in our residence, where it has stood for years, of which any manufacturer in the world might well be proud. We have always been delighted with it as a good kind and powerful instrument, and there is no doubt of its durability; more than this, some of the best amateur players in the city, as well as several celebrated pianists, have performed on the same piano, and all pronounce it superior and first-class instrument. Stronger endorsement we could not give.—Home Journal. (Feb. 19/69dly.)

Local Intelligence.

NUMBER 2.—The young gentleman who could not unlock No. 2, has our condolence, and we truly sympathize with him in his misfortunes.

OUR THANKS are due to Mr. Felix Knox, for two copies of the City Directory. They are gotten up in good style, and give general satisfaction to those whose names appear therein as advertisers.

GRASSHOPPERS.—It is rumored that this plague has made its appearance between this point and the coast. We hope, however, that this cold weather will have a killing effect upon them.

SEALED PROPOSALS FOR TRANSPORTATION.—The Government advertises in to-day's paper, that sealed proposals will be received for furnishing transportation by stage; also proposals for oats. For further information see notice in another column.

THE INDUSTRIAL AND AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION yesterday distributed the diplomas awarded to the parties for manufactured articles. Mr. P. C. Taylor received two for his Soaps (the identical soap that is good for division, dirt and grease). We will take great pleasure in publishing those who have received their diplomas, if they will be kind enough to send in their names.

PERSONAL.—The gentleman who paid a visit yesterday, and left that dirty rag that he unwound from his sore finger, leaving the same in the editor's sanctum, can have the same with pleasure by calling around and claiming the above-named article. We don't mind his blowing his nose on his fingers and wiping them on the bed clothes, but that rag is intolerable—can't stand that.

THE CELEBRATION OF THE 22d.—It passed off very quiet and orderly. The firemen and their machines shown very conspicuously. The little firemen in their uniforms looked liked if they were just ready to spring into the flames and fight the battle of fire. The procession was well formed, under the management of the Marshal and his assistants. The Farewell address was well read, it being the first attempt of the reader to appear before an audience in public in that capacity. John A. Cooke Esq. made a few remarks that were appropriate on this occasion, the birth day of General George Washington. After these remarks, the procession moved to the Mills and dispersed for the day.

AUCTION.—Friedlander & Co., advertises in our columns today that they will have another immense and attractive sale of goods to be knocked down by the hammer, as going—gone, on March Tuesday the 2d, 1869, at 10 o'clock, all of which is to be sold by catalogue. They also have a lot of damaged goods to be sold at auction on that day. These enterprising and gentlemanly merchants have a word to say to the city merchants, to which we refer the above advertisement in to-day's issue.

POLICE ITEMS.—MAYOR'S COURT, February 22, 1869. Charles Watson, arrested upon a charge of being drunk and disorderly upon the streets. Case dismissed. Michael Rayno, arrested upon a charge of making a fire within a few feet of combustible matter. Case dismissed.

It is reported that the Indians are devastating the country along the Rio Grande frontier. Gen. McCook has doubts of the fact as he does not believe the Indians could get through the line of forts that border the staked plain, unobserved.—Exchange.

All we have to say, is, that General McCook had better be in some tailor shop handling a goose, as his opinions are entirely too profound for one pursuing his present profession. Two ranches near the Rio Grande have recently been visited by the Indians and some forty persons massacred.

The year 1869 is destined to be the most important in the annals of American Methodism. During the year the people will be called on to decide whether or not they will accept the measures proposed to them by the General Conference for the admission of lay representatives to that assembly and the annual conference. It is also an important fact that a new constituency has been created by the late General Conference, and all members of the Church over twenty-one years of age whether men or women, will be eligible to vote upon this question.

The "champions" are increasing. In addition to the champion pedestrian, the champion oarsman, the champion prize-fighter, the champion skater, &c., we now have the champion ice-catcher. His name is Beebe. He lives at Waterford, Connecticut, and he caught 750 dozen eels in 1868.

Oklona, Mississippi, runs a live Dramatic Association that beats the Gaities or Varieties.

The Prairie News is eloquent in its appeals in behalf of cotton mills and Gen. Forrester's Selma Road.

The Georgia cotton crop is worth thirty five or forty millions in gold. The Agricultural Society of North Mississippi meets at Oxford on the 22d instant.

National Colored Men's Convention--Adjournment Sine Die.

Address to the Colored Citizens of the United States.

FELLOW-CITIZENS: We your representatives assembled in national convention, having attended to the business which you, in fraternal trust, confided to us, respectfully beg leave, at the conclusion of our labors, to address you briefly, yet earnestly in reference to the condition which we now occupy here in the land of our nativity, and to the duties and responsibilities which are in consequence devolved upon us, in order that we may attain to that equal status in the eyes of the law with our other fellow citizens which we of right aspire to, and which we of right ought to enjoy.

At the outset of our address we would devoutly call upon you to join with us in thanks to Him in whose hands are the destinies of all his creatures, that, through the orderings of His providence, we speak to you under far different circumstances from those in which you have been addressed by your assembled representatives at other periods of our history. Once you were called upon to labor for the overthrow of a gigantic system of oppression, which held in its grasp more than three millions of our kindred, and for the recognition of our own claims to citizenship in these United States of America. Now we can interchange congratulations with you that throughout the broad domain of our beloved country, from the St. John's river upon the north to the Rio Grande, and from the Atlantic border to the Pacific coast, the grand anthem of liberty is intoned with a harmony unbroken by the discord of any unhappy slave. We can do so, too, with a consciousness that we are not looked upon as the American people have spoken through their representatives in Congress, and that they have not only recognized us as citizens, but also as full-fledged members of the Union.

As to our condition, we need not dwell long upon that for you understand fully the necessity which prompted you to send us to meet together in convention. You know that our citizenship, recognized as it has been by ordinary provisions, has not been for us through the different States of this Union those franchises and immunities which are the pride and boast of our white fellow-citizens. Each one of you, in his own individual locality, is painfully alive to the grievances (as various in their character as the localities themselves) which he is called upon to endure. But let us not be disheartened, in view of these grievances. Let us remember that

The camel labor, 'neath the heavy load, And the wolf die in silence, Not bestowed in vain but such examples to us. Things of trouble, or of savage mood, Endure and chafe out, we of nobler clay Should temper it to bear. It is but for a day.

Let us give ourselves up manfully, and contend for the removal of those grievances, in the firm and confident trust that the God who has conferred blessings upon us in the past will be equally propitious to us in the future; and that, as He vouchsafed for us then hosts of sympathizing friends to follow the leadership of a Garrison, a Gerrit Smith and an Abraham Lincoln, so He will accord to us now, and bearing to many ill-timed names that to single out any two or three from that sparkling galaxy would seem invidious. Suffice it that the more mention of those honored names serves to thrill us now to the very core, and that they shall be cherished tenderly in our hearts, to be handed down to the grateful remembrance of our latest posterity. God grant that each one of the possessors of those names may live to see the day when they shall be called upon to lay their hands, with tender hands, and with tearful eyes, by the side of his latest stricken compeer--the ever to be lamented Thaddeus Stevens!

But fellow-citizens, let us not forget, in our grateful recognition of those effective services for our benefit and behalf, that the almighty Father allows them to us only upon the condition that we labor earnestly and untiringly in our own behalf. He says, in deed, and His Messiah, as "the way, the truth, and the life," but every day He requires us "to work out our own salvation with fear and trembling." Still, His promise, that cannot be abated, and assured has you a doubt is that "guarantee of success which awaits us if we only do faithfully unto the end." Then let us not be found wanting in this crisis of our fate, but let us firmly and confidently address ourselves to the duties of the hour.

In our present condition we are an unjustly degraded people; for we are stripped, more or less, in every State in this Union, of privileges and franchises which are fully enjoyed by every class of our white fellow-citizens. This condition of us, without any crime upon our part, urgently demands redress. And for this redress we have the right of citizenship, and the right of the right of citizenship, and the right of the right of citizenship. We all understand fully the importance of this right of citizenship, we know that it is the dearest possession in the gift of any government; the strongest weapon in the possession of the subject, repelling the approaches of despotism, and maintaining the possession of all other franchises--a weapon that, in the expressive language of Whittier--

Exercises a freeman's will, As lightning with the will of God.

Now, to deny such a right to one class of citizens while it is accorded to another, without a good reason for such a discrimination, is manifestly unjust and anti-republican. Let us, then, in the premises, appeal to Congress, reminding it that the Federal Constitution, in article four, section four, provides that "the United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government." Let us urge upon that body and upon the great mass of the American people whom it represents that, in settling the definition of this epithet, "republican," we are not corrupted, either by ancient or modern assumption of it for the purpose of describing manifest tyrannies, from interpreting it in the light derived from the Declaration of Independence--that Magna Charta of our liberties--that, setting aside Grecian and Roman precedents, as well as those of medieval Europe and of the fathers of our own government, blinded, as the latter were, by a spirit of compromise, or hampered by evils which they could not believe to be ephemeral, we should determine and insist upon it that a "republican form of government" is one deriving its just powers from the consent of the governed--one in which taxation is the correlative of the right to be represented therein. Let us appeal to them to consider that most of our State governments are mere aristocracies, the most intolerable, because by them the insignias of (so-called) republican nobility are conferred upon the many while they are withheld from the few. And, in making this appeal, let us insist, as we rightfully can do, upon our dissatisfaction with the growth of determined malice and hostility manifested by colored men at different periods of our national history, and especially during the late unwholesome retelling--if the black soldiers' prowess at Red Bank, of revolutionary fame, and at New Orleans during the war of 1812, is forgotten, surely his gallant bearing at Fort Pillow and before Petersburg, still dwell in the memory of the country, for which he gave the highest manifestations of his love, and which he hopes will yet prove grateful for his devotion and self-sacrifice.

We had purposed, fellow-citizens, to have invited your attention to the importance of education, and of establishing and supporting schools and colleges among us, and also to have pressed upon your consideration the necessity of cultivating habits of industry, and frugality of engaging in agricultural, manufacturing, and mechanical pursuits, and of becoming proprietors of the land. But these applications have been so frequently treated by the Rev. Bishop Daniel A. Payne, in his letter to this convention, that we cheerfully refrain from saying anything further thereon, and content ourselves by referring you to that able production, as published in the minutes of this convention.

And we shall now conclude by returning with a calm-like persistence to the all-important subject of universal suffrage, and reiterating our entreaties that each and every one of you, fellow-citizens, make that matter one of personal moment, and never cease in his endeavors, by petitions and memorials to Congress, to secure its triumph until that triumph is an accomplished fact. Then, indeed, shall we confidently trust in the prospects of a bright and glorious future for our country. Then will she, proud of the fealty and devotion alike of her white and of her black children, sit honored among the nations. Then will her renown, acquired by territorial extent, by prosperous industrial enterprises, by the brilliant achievements of her armies and navies, by her successful and laureled competition in every department of literature, science, and art, be eclipsed by her grander glory, vouchsafed her through all her widely extended dominion, the right of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness are secured to each and all other citizens of whatever condition or hue.
