WEDNESDAY MAY 19, 1869.

Republican State Convention.

A Delegate Convention of the Republican Party of Texas is hereby called to assemble at HOUSTON, ON THE SOUTH MONDAY OF MAY NEXT, for the purpose of nominating candidates for State offices.

The basis of representation for delegates, is the same as the apportionment made by the late Reconstruction Convention. It is earnestly urged that a full delegation from the various counties be present.

We are authorized to announce THOMAS H. STRIBLING, as a Candidate to Congress from the 4th Congressional District, at the ensuing election.

THE announcement of Judge Stribling as a candidate for Congress from this district, meets with a hearty and general response.

It does not always happen that the local politics of a city or section, are directly and visibly connected with its material growth; but such is now the case. The prosperity of a city of 15,000 people, and which should double its numbers within the next five years; the defense of a long and valuable frontier now almost wasted and in ruins, depends directly, if not primarily, upon the character for good sense, experience, and knowledge of the situation, possessed by the gentleman whom this community shall select to represent them at Washington. It is fortunate that we have a citizen who so fully and fitly can meet the demands of the hour and the place, the present and the future.

We publish in another column an account of the most brilliant and successful expedition against the Comanches that has taken place on our frontier since the war.

A party of sixteen friendly Indians and four U. S. Officers, led by Capt. Col. Cresson, 33 Infantry and accompanied by Bvt. Major Geo. W. Smith, 33 Infantry, (who although not on duty, took an active and gallant part,) surprised a party of twenty-five savages, en route to our settlements for scalps, captives, and plunder.

They killed fourteen of the robbers, wounded several others, took their weapons and outfit entire, and returned to Fort Griffin without losing a man.

All honor to the gallant 33rd! The "belt" belongs to them.

THE Express has been receiving, of late, numerous inquiries from well-to-do German Farmers in Minnesota, Missouri, Iowa, and other Western States, relative to the advantages of West Texas. The first question uniformly made, is as to the security of life and property.—San Antonio Express.

If not important, we should like to know how the Express answered the first question uniformly made as to security of life and property.—Galveston Dispatch.

It gives us pleasure to answer the query of the Dispatch.

The Express has been in the habit of informing those who contemplate settling in Texas, that in very large and desirable portions of the State—especially in the western part—life and property is as secure as in any thinly settled country. Emigrants who desire to take up their abode with us, may be sure of a welcome, and can buy their land, make their settlements, and till their crops, with as entire and absolute safety as would be had in Kansas and Minnesota. And while this is true of many localities, large enough to accommodate all the immigration of many years, it is also true—most notably and emphatically true—that the State, as a whole, has, since the election of Grant, made a decided and satisfactory advance in the direction of order and tranquility. Whole neighborhoods which, a twelve month ago, were terrorized by armed and swaggering braves, who shot down men for a word or a look; have rid themselves of these pests by the bullet or the rope. Within the last ninety days nearly a dozen assassins, who last year, at the head of organized bands, waged open war against the United States, capturing government trains, and holding posts and towns in siege, have been destroyed by the people acting in cordial concert with the military. A general impulse is impelling our citizens to devote all their energies, zeal, and intelligence, to develop the wealth of our State, foster improvements, welcome immigration, and restore material prosperity. The change is marvellous, and it is large with promise of the happiest results.

Brilliant Indian Fight.

ROUT AND DESTRUCTION OF A COMANCHE WAR PARTY.

A volunteer scout left Fort Griffin on the morning of May 5th, 1868.

The expedition consisted of fifteen Tonkawa Indians, lately enlisted into the service of the United States, one other member of the tribe, and was accompanied by Bvt. Maj. Geo. W. Smith, 33rd Infantry, Lt. H. P. Sherman, 33rd Infantry, Asst't Surg. Henry McElroy U. S. A., and Bvt. Lt. Col. Charles C. Cresson 33rd Infantry.

Its object was to endeavor to intercept some of the numerous thieving parties of the Comanches, or other Indians which have of late committed so many depredations and murders in the settlements along this frontier. The scout was managed entirely by the Tonkawa Indians led by their chiefs Simon McHord, and Henry, to whose good judgement and skill the success of the expedition undoubtedly belongs. The Tonkawas were armed with the Spencer carbines; many of them also had revolvers, and their bows and arrows; they were all mounted on their ponies.

The force started about noon of May 5th, and marching in a westwardly direction, a little by South, encamped that night on the Clear Fork of the Brazos river—about twelve miles from the mouth of Oteys Creek ("Paint Creek").

Next morning, resuming the line of march in the same direction, the party halted about 10 o'clock on the first branch of Perry's Creek. From here a single Indian scout was dispatched to make a circuit of five or six miles, in a southerly direction. After resting and grazing the animals for a couple of hours, they again resumed the line of march and pushed for the camping place of the night, within about eight miles from where they expected to find the Indian trail the next morning, viz. the main fork of Oteys Creek (Paint Creek.) On the march thither the Indian scout, who had been sent in the morning, came in and reported having seen no Indian signs.

The next morning, after they had been on the march about one hour, they came across an Indian trail of about thirty horses, leading in a northwesterly direction. The Tonkawas thought that it had been made late in the afternoon of the day previous. They followed the trail at a fast lope for about two hours. The trail crossed the Flat Top mountain, and thence across the double mountain fork of the Brazos river. The trail suddenly scattered and while tracing it up, the Tonkawas discovered another trail coming from the north; joining the first one and then leading off to the southeast. This latter trail was composed of a number of horse and moccasin tracks, and as it appeared to be the freshest they concluded to take it.

They had not followed this trail for more than one mile, when the red blankets and tenting of the Indians, hung up on the mesquite bushes, became visible.

The next moment the party charged through the Indian camp; seven of the Indians were killed in their camp, and seven more in a ravine near by, where they had taken refuge.

The Indian camp with its entire paraphernalia was captured, including fourteen Indian ponies, twenty-one saddles, blankets, bows, arrows and shields. The party attacked numbered about twenty five. Some of them escaped; of this number it is believed that three or four were wounded. The fact of the ammunition giving out probably prevented them from killing or capturing the entire party. This band of Indians were coming from the north into the settlements, and had no stock with them except their own Indian ponies.

The engagement took place 10 o'clock a. m. May 5th 1868, two miles from the double-head mountain fork of the Brazos river, and about fifteen miles northeast of the Double mountains. The Indians attacked were principally Comanches, with a few Kiowas and Cheyennes. All the officers named were active in the engagement, and by their presence and bravery added greatly to the victory.

The charge was so sudden, and the attack so sharp, that no man of the party was either killed or wounded. The results of this expedition forcibly prove the good policy of employing the friendly Indians, against these Arabs of the great plains, who constantly infest and imperil this border.

Col. L. R. Camp who is announced as a candidate for Commissioner of the Land Office, at the next election, is an old and well known citizen of Texas, a man of tried worth and loyalty, and a firm Republican. He resides at present in Refugio county. The Colonel is a steady subscriber and constant reader of the Express, and is consequently thoroughly well posted.

"The San Antonio Express belongs to the ring that wishes 30,000 disfranchised."—Houston Telegraph.

Here is an explicit charge made and published.

Now we call for the proof. We do not desire to be treated with a two column reply of vague and verbose generalities, but we want substantial evidence; either that or a frank retraction.

PARAGRAPHS.

The last spike driven in the Pacific Railroad was of solid gold, and cost $200.

If the North would expend in the South, in the development of Southern resources, in the construction of railroads, canals and levees, one fifth of the vast sums applied by England to the development of the production of India, the enormous wealth of the Union would amaze the world. England has spent $250,000,000 on Indian railways. Canals have been dug to irrigate drought assurred districts, remote from rivers, and these sums, thus expended, are augmented each year. Why may not excessive Northern wealth be applied to like purposes in these impoverished States? Let us talk of peace, and not of wars with European governments, and of the aggrandizement of our own country, and let others alone.

Few people have an idea of the extent of California. The State is 700 miles long, and about 200 wide. San Francisco and Sacramento together have a population of about 170,000, leaving about 300,000 population for this vast area of country—as large as all New England, and New York, and Pennsylvania put together—an area large enough and rich enough to sustain a population of 30,000,000. It would make a large sized European kingdom. The State will have 13,000,000 bushels of wheat to spare, which will bring in from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. The wool clip is larger than ever before. The vintage promises to be the best ever gathered. Twenty-five million grape vines are in bearing, and new vineyards are the order of the day. The State has only begun its net of railroads, soon to be connected by the long spider thread across the continent. The development of the State promises to be more rapid during the coming months than ever before.

EMIGRATION FROM PRUSSIA.—Letters from Berlin state that from all parts of the kingdom of Prussia, and even of the relatively rich provinces of Prussia, the emigration to North America has begun on a larger scale than in former years. The emigrants generally say that they leave their native homes on account of the distress reigning there, and not merely to escape the military conscription.

Roxas says Pompeian bricks are sound after 2000 years use. Modern made bricks crumble in seventy years.

Is there to a question, addressed to me by "Many Voices," in the Express of May 1st, 1868 to state:

That if the Republicans of the 4th Congressional District will nominate me their candidate for Congress, I will accept the nomination, and if elected, promote their interest, as well as the interest of Western Texas, to the best of my ability.

CANDIDATES who announce themselves early, should recollect that by doing so they may hurt off some other aspirant. Nothing like taking the start in a race. Come up gentleman, with the stamps.

MAY DAY was celebrated in Boston in the midst of a heavy snow storm. For lack of flowers to decorate the Queen, they used snow drops and snow-balls. A hyperborean May!

SAN ANTONIO is now fully supplied with delicious dewsberries. Started vegetables of all kinds are abundant, as usual, including old sweet and new Irish, potatoes, cabbage, snap beans, peas, squashes, lettuce, beets, radishes, turnips, cucumbers, and almost every thing in the way of vegetables.

AT intervals through the night of Sunday, and the next day and night, we have been favored with rain. The ground is now saturated, and the weather cool. The grass is green on our vast prairies, the cattle fat and sleek, and the inexhaustible promise of the harvest gladdens the farmers heart.

OUR TRAINS—A set of bad roads large teams laden with goods for this city, are daily coming into town, nearly blocking up our streets. From this we infer that nobody in San Antonio is yet scared by the predictions of the Austin Republican. It is supposed that the citizens of this place know the resources and the future of poor Cayote better than our editorial friend, who never crossed the Colorado to pay us a visit.

Messrs. F. GILSON & CO. have received a new supply of goods, as will be seen by our Manifest. They are selling out their stock of Dry Goods at very low rates, and will in future only keep Groceries. Druggists will do well to supply these stores with Broken Beer, which is of an inferior quality.

Messrs. WAGNER & RUMMEL also advertise the arrival of the latest improved Buckeye Mower, which can be had at the reduced price of $125. gold. Hay contractors and farmers will do well to give the above firm a call.

THE CROP news from all quarters and sections is good for cotton, sugar, cereals, and fruit, wherever grown. At the South, Florida, Texas, and Louisiana are the most promising. Only about one in 500 cotton producing areas in Texas are under cultivation, and yet it is believed that the 1860 crop for our State, will much exceed any ever raised here before.

Florida promises a nearly double yield of everything compared with 1868. Louisiana will give a sugar crop, reminding dealers of the period before the war.

In the West, stock growing promises along with other agricultural pursuits, to be very extensive and lucrative.

MORN RAIN.—All Sunday the sky was thickly covered with clouds, and the heat being excessive, a good rain was expected. But it did not make its appearance until about 11 o'clock at night, when a severe thunder-storm approached from the north, bringing the waters of heaven down in torrents. Lightning, thunder and rain kept on till 2 o'clock in the morning. The wind had changed to the north and blew quite cold. Monday the sky remained cloudy and the sun had no chance to penetrate. In the afternoon a second rain with another electric storm followed, the wind changing to north-east. This had cleared up and the air was cool and refreshing. Although we have had some very warm days this week, we have not yet acknowledged that it is the coolest spring we have had.

At the Railroad Association meeting, on Monday last, the following officers were elected for six months:

President—G. W. Brackenridge.
1st Vice-President—W. C. A. Thiboupage.
2nd Vice-President—F. E. Miller.

Secretary—J. Walder.
Treasurer—W. Pentenrieder.

The members of the Executive Committee are:

J. H. Kampmann, A. Nette, T. H. Stirling, F. Gross, G. W. Brackenridge, Charles Elmendorf, L. Zork, J. James, James Thornton.

The committee on Finance reported the collection of above $2,000 for incidental expenses; and were instructed to continue their efforts. The attendance was large, and hopeful. It is fixed that we shall have a railroad, and that speedily. The questions now under discussion, are as to the best methods to be employed to effect the desired end.
