A Good Political Reputation Necessary to Material Prosperity.

Natural advantages, such as climate, soil and health are necessary to make a country attractive to the emigrant homeseeker or capitalist. Beauty of scenery and ease of transportation are requisites the traveler never loses sight of. Texas, whose great want is people to cultivate its millions of acres, and enterprise to build its railroads and towns, is almost perfect in point of natural advantages, and its reputation in this particular is almost exaggerated abroad. Then what is it we require to bring us people, money and enterprise; these come from the old sections of our country, or from Europe, and the only question to be solved in relation to our State, is one of "political reputation." The Northern man asks "will I be protected in my life, property and principles; is the State governed by the loyal party of the nation?" The foreigner who lands upon our shores, having in view the late rebellion, seeks those sections where free labor is protected and honored; a State ruled by the Republican party offers him the surest guarantee, and is generally the first to take him by the hand and offer him a home. Texas unfortunately has a bad reputation abroad—her cotton fields bear a hundred fold in vain; her prairies team with cattle in vain; her climate insures health in vain; all is undone abroad by our political reputation. A hundred of its newspapers daily glorify the treason of the Southern people, daily cast threat and innuendo upon the stranger who comes among us. The liberty of the press cannot be a shield—only the people—the honest and sane of the land, who have wives and children—who have become tired of hanging on to even the memory of the "lost cause," who want immigration, who want railroads, who want reconstruction, peace, law and order, have the remedy in their own hands; have the political reputation of the State in their hands, and if they will aid the Republican party at the ballot box to gain a signal victory, it will be worth, beyond all moral effects, millions of dollars to our State. We believe a majority of the people see it in this light already.

A Few Questions!

Longley, who likes to claim the honor to have served under General Davis, asks his old commander some very impertinent questions. Before any body answers the Assessor of United States Revenue, let him answer "a few questions" in behalf of his Democratic friend Jack Hamilton:

- 1st. How much did Jack get for stamping the North and abusing the man he now expects to honor him with office? 2nd. Has Jack ever paid back the money he borrowed of old Thad Stevens? 3rd. Who paid for Jack's new carriage? 4th. How much of an interest has Jack in the Austin Republican? 5th. Did he pay you out of the double pay he drew from the State Treasury, during the convention? 6th. Will Jack, if elected, put in force all the infamous legislation he voted for and originated in the Reconstruction convention; including the Liverpool Navigation Company? We pause for reply. We have many more to ask, but just answer the last question if you dare, and then put all the questions you can think of to the honest soldier and patriot, General Davis, who stands too high to be reached by your feeble flings.

Mr. Siemering and the San Antonio Herald.

When the editor of the New Braunfels Zeitung published the article of Mr. Julius Schutze in his paper, he did so with the remark that he was not responsible for the statements made in it; knowing as he did, that they were too false to excite a shadow of belief.

The Herald of this city republishes the same article without any comment, showing that the Herald men lack the honesty of Mr. Lindheimer, although they have equal cause to believe it a false, malicious statement. If Mr. Schutze's statement were true, then would Mr. Siemering be a fit companion for Logan & Co., whose newspaper is known as the "murderer's organ." Mr. Logan cannot even claim to have been acquainted with Mr. Siemering during the war, which could hardly have happened if Mr. Siemering was the character depicted by Schutze. As to Schutze, it is sufficient to quote the statement of Flake's Bulletin, that he sold his vote in the convention, which fact could be proved, and which Schutze has never dared to deny.

As to you, Mr. Herald, you cannot roll the heavy burden of your treason or your crimes from your own shoulders upon the shoulders of a man who has been a victim of your treason. And we here ask you to substantiate the charges you reiterate in your columns about Mr. Siemering, by proper evidence, or stand in the mean and contemptible position of Julius Schutze, who is branded as an abandoned, lying politician and defamer of character.

[COMMUNICATED.]

The San Antonio Express published a day or two ago an anonymous letter making the charge that the county of Goliad was conspicuous for its disorder and rowdiness. It will require something more than an anonymous fling at that noble community to make us or any other old settlers believe such a charge. We trust that some of the citizens will call for the author of the letter and let us take a look at him.

Our neighbors of Goliad will hardly thank the Herald for the above tickle-pitiffle effusion, since an effort—was so credibly informed—is now being made to remove the headquarters of General Canby's 5th Mil. District from Helena to that place, and a petition to be presented to General Reynolds for that purpose is now being circulated and numerous signed by members of that "noble community," setting forth the "extreme lawlessness which is therein prevalent," as a reason for the change. The true object, however, being nothing less than to secure the $10,000 which they understood the Lieutenant commanding the Post while in the "ever green city," a few days since—to say was deposited by himself and men in Helena monthly. Therefore they would dislike very much such a step as the above should reach the eye of General Reynolds and may appoint a committee of citizens to "call on the author and let him take a look at them," at the same time administering a suitable reprimand for his officiousness, of this however, we are not advised, but throw it out simply as a hint for the benefit of the Herald and its "other old settlers." K. Karnos county, June 23rd, 1869.

FRANKLIN'S BULLETIN TO THE STATE GAZETTE.—Since the State Gazette and Flake's Bulletin have hitched to the Jack Hamilton cart they have fallen out about the way they shall pull their load. The Gazette says: "We have no candidates for State offices, and do not expect to have, unless things change very much. We make our fight on the Legislature and mean to fight hard." The Bulletin replies "unless you elect a Legislature as loyal as the State Ticket, you will not have your State reconstructed. You cannot get into Congress on any half fish half fresh arrangement. Make your fight as hard as you please, back you go under military rule, and there we shall have to stay."

Right, Flake, unless the straight-out, regular Republican ticket is elected throughout, reconstruction will wash in the pan "only half fish, half fresh arrangement" will not answer.

KILLED EARLY IN THE FIGHT.—Longley announces to the public that he will forbear mentioning the Express henceforth. Well, Longley, you went down at the first round; you try to dodge our radical sledge hammer, by getting out of the ring; your ungentlemanly personalities won't serve you at all in this contest; your base position as a traitor to the Republican party and a vilifier of General Davis will condemn you to the execution of all honest men.

EVERY carpet bagger who comes down here looking for spoils after the surrender, belongs to this party. Every scoundrel who was loud mouthed in his devotion to the South during the war, and after our fall pretended that he did it all from fear, belongs to this party. Every political adventurer who believes that this party has the administration, and that it alone can lead him to office, belongs to this party.—Houston Telegraph.

Such is the vituperative assault made by the leading Jack Hamilton organ upon the Republican party of Texas, led by General Davis, the man who drove his sword through the miserable southern confederacy of which the Telegraph man was a fractional part.

Queer.

If Gen. Davis and his set are elected to the State offices and a majority of the Legislature should be conservative, will reconstruction be a failure?—State Gazette, June 25th.

We believe it would; but such a result is not at all probable. If the Republican party is strong enough to elect Davis it will elect its Members to the Legislature, also.

ARE you acting with the Radical party of Texas? Then you are in bad company.—Houston Telegraph. Well, we guess we can stand it, Mr. Telegraph; we prefer General Davis to the company of C. C. Galscope and the editor of the Telegraph; and besides are not ashamed to be on the side of General Grant and the majority in Congress.

THE Southern people, the ex-Confederates are the friends of the perpetuity of the Union within the limits of the United States.—Houston Telegraph.

Such is the honest boast of the leading Jack Hamilton organ.—It is an insult to the loyal people of America and to the brave men who won our peace and sustained the fair name of the old flag.

GALVESTON CITY PRINTING.—The newspapers of Galveston are enjoying a squabble over the city printing. The Board of Aldermen resolved to leave the matter with the Mayor. Mayor McKee gives it to the least objectionable of the conservative press of that town.

REFRESHING, VERY.—It is very refreshing to read the dispute of the Republican party vs. the radicals in the Houston Telegraph. Now, Webb, you are either a great hypocrite or a big fool. Do you suppose a single loyal Republican in Texas would listen to you.

THE San Marcos Pioneer comes to us this week looking very pale, we could not read its trouble on—slight upon the radicals for taking Washington; but we do not suggest it. The Pioneer does not see whether it swallows Jack Hamilton or not.

The New York Tribune in speaking of the recent Republican convention in this State, after giving a full account of the proceedings, says:

Gen. Davis occupied the morning then in a brief and sensible speech in which he expounded a conciliatory course toward all Republicans and Democrats, and expressed confidence in the success of the ticket. Gen. Davis is an eminent lawyer, an old resident of Texas, and one of the few Texans who threw his sword into the Union side of the scale at a time when the other was the popular side. Altogether, the ticket is a strong one, and ought to be elected.

Such is the judgment of the Republican party over the entire nation. The Republicans of Texas have the sympathy and moral support of the loyal people every where in their efforts to place our State under the control of the Republican party.

The Bostonian thought Grant would a "peace jobber" when he said "let us have peace," so they got up a tremendous affair in the way of music; for instance they used artillery for choruses. Gen. Grant went to Boston and it is said he is glad to get back to the quiet shades of the white house again.

The Houston Telegraph still sniffs under bare poles,—only Jack at the mast head.

We record with pleasure even the attempt to maintain legislative industry and senatorial seamanship. While in Boston, last Wednesday, the guns were going off and the colors were flying, and Gen. Grant was arriving, and the bells were ringing, and the people were rushing, and the militia were deploying the Senate of Massachusetts made a desperate effort to take up "the bill concerning the examination of witnesses." Then the President visited the State House, and the Senate took a recess to shake hands. Then it got together again, as a Senate, and took up, with mild resignation, once more "the bill concerning the examination of witnesses." But it was, if we may use the expression, no go! The hearts of the Senators were in the Coliseum, and public virtue yielding to the power of music, the Senate adjourned, leaving "the bill concerning the examination of witnesses" to take a nap on the table.—N. Y. Tribune.

The Suffrage.

In another column we print the characteristic letter of Senator Brownlow, explaining his position upon the question of suffrage. As Senator Brownlow has stood upon the extreme wing of Radicalism, his opinions upon this question must attract universal attention. Tennessee is quite differently situated from Texas; Tennessee has been thoroughly reconstructed under Radical auspices; has enjoyed one term of Radical rule; has proved herself by giving 26,000 majority for Gen. Grant; her judiciary is in the hands of loyal men, and much if not all the danger to be apprehended from the influence of the disloyal element at the ballot box has been removed. Texas, on the contrary, has never been reconstructed; has never enjoyed an hour of Radical rule, and it remains to be seen if we can assume at once the position it has taken Tennessee two years to grow into. Our State election will solve this question. If the Republican party is victorious, then our reconstruction is a success upon the liberal basis; for then every principle guaranteed by the reconstruction acts will be carried out, and the Federal Government will feel safe to trust the further management of the State in the hands of its citizens; but if the Republican party is defeated, it amounts to a defeat of the Reconstruction Acts, which is the peculiar policy of the Republican Congress, and reconstruction on the liberal basis, will be a failure.

In Texas, to-day, no party upholds the policy of disfranchisement, and there is no contest upon this point; that a majority of the Republican party have upheld the policy of guarding the franchise and making safe and certain the political ascendancy of the loyal men of the State by withholding, under certain conditions, the right of suffrage from the most objectionable of the late rebels, is a fact not to be denied. But the question of suffrage has been one of expediency all the time; there are very few men who have regarded it as a measure to be made permanent, and it is no evidence of superior sagacity or liberality on the part of those men who have bounded away from party control and proclaimed themselves the champions of magnanimity; every man has seen that the day of caution must give way to the day of confidence; but what wise or patriotic statesman, with the late rebellion with all its fiendish hate of the Union so fresh before him, could advocate an immediate enfranchisement of the men whose hands were imbrued with the blood of loyalty. With the bloody experience of the last few years; with the memory of the thousands who have paid the forfeit of fidelity to the Government with their lives, by open and secret assassination; of the persecution of loyal men; of the violence; of the hate; of the illiberality which has characterized our State and the South generally before him, what prudent, good man would not tremble at the proposition to give political power without restriction to those who were the cause of this state of things. But it is said we have leaped this bloody gulf, and the era of good feeling has come in. The result of the coming election will prove it.

For harmony sake; for victory sake, the Republicans of this State have decided to have no contest upon the suffrage question; thereby giving no opportunity for demagogues to play the magnanimous at the expense of a party which can afford to be liberal without surrendering a single principle, and which stands upon the broadest of platforms—the political equality of all men without distinction of race or previous condition.

If disfranchisement were regarded in the light of punishment for treason, it would be but a light infliction for the crime; but when neither death, confiscation or banishment were imposed for treason; when with unprecedented magnanimity the conqueror took the Southern people back and treated them as brothers and kindred, and forgiveness and kindness took the place of the law, then there was no ground upon which to place punishment adequate to the crime. It would be simply ridiculous to punish men guilty of the high crime of treason with the penalty of petit larceny.

The question of suffrage has been from the beginning one of time and expediency. Had the Southern people shown themselves equal to the occasion—had they met the unanimity of the Government in the right spirit; had they subsided into a state of peace and good feeling, remembering with sorrow rather than hate the recent strife; had they been willing to accord in the fullest sense the political equality of the liberated slaves, to which the Government was sacredly pledged, it is certain no proscription of political rights would ever have been urged or enforced upon the late rebels.

Time, and a bloody experience has done much to advance us to the period of confidence. The rebellion is fast becoming buried in oblivion. The heroism of the "Lost Cause" is beginning to wane; "chivalry," as formerly understood, is much below par. A new country is now our abiding place—a country of freedom and progress. New questions must soon claim our attention, which will cause old party cries to be forgotten; let us hasten on that day of oblivion to the past, in order that we may participate in the new era; but let us not go so fast as to leave a single right of the humblest citizen unsafe. The Republican party of Texas has made a long stride in advance of prudence, it has acted in an authoritative manner in the name of the great ruling party of the nation, and it is not the voice of a single individual or of a clique that offers these liberal terms to the people, it is the voice of a party able to perform its pledges, able to enforce its penalties. It remains to be seen if the people of Texas will come forward in a proper spirit and entrust the State government to the care of the Republican party, or whether they will throw away their opportunity.

PARAGRAPHS.

THE advice of Benjamin Franklin, to give every child a trade by which he can earn a living, if necessary, comes of an experience older than his. In some countries this has been the law; in others, a common custom. St. Paul, though educated in the law at the feet of Gamaliel, also acquired the important oriental handicraft of a tent-maker, by which he was able to earn his living while prosecuting his mission. It is a good and wise thing to do. You may be able to send your children fortunes; but "riches take to themselves wings." You may give them finished education, and they may be gifted with extraordinary genius; but they may be placed in situations where no education and no talent may be so available as some humble, honest trade, by which they can get their living and be useful to others.

For every one life has some blessings—some cup that is not mixed with bitterness. At every heart there is some fount of pure water, and all men, at some time or other, taste its sweetness. Who is he that has not found in his path of life some fragrant rosebush, scenting all the air with its sweet virtue that the storm of time can never destroy? Write your name in kindness, love and mercy—upon the hearts of thousands you come in contact with year after year, and you will never be forgotten. No, your name, your deeds, will be as legible on the hearts you leave behind, as the stars on the brow of evening. Good deeds will shine as the stars of heaven.

To be a woman of fashion is one of the easiest things in the world. A late writer thus describes it: "Buy everything you don't want and pay for nothing you get; smile on all mankind but your husband; be happy everywhere but at home."

ON a tombstone over the grave of an aged lady in the Southington cemetery, is the following singular inscription: "How I do pity young people who have to go through the world!"

A young lady from the South being requested to sing, answered: "Oh! indeed, I do not often sing; but sometime, at eve, in my far off, sunny, Southern home, I warble a few wild notes to my papa and mamma."

REV. DR. BUSHNELL calls the woman's-suffrage reform "an attempt to make trumpets out of flutes and sunflowers out of violets."

DISRAELI being lately asked whether he saw much a certain Duchess, replied that he had, "a good deal; she was in evening dress."

MOTTO FOR AN "OLD BACH"—Be just, and fear knout.

THE power of colors on disease, once supposed to exist, may be considered as a branch of sympathetic medicine. White substances were considered refrigerant and red ones heating. Red flowers were given for disease of the blood, and yellow for the bile. In small-pox, red coverings, bed curtains, etc., were used to bring out the eruption. The patient was only to look at the red substances and his drink was colored red. The physician of Edward II. treated the king's son successfully by this rule; and as lately as 1765, the Emperor Francis I., when sick of the small pox, was, by the order of his physicians, rolled up in scarlet cloth; but he died notwithstanding. Flannel, nine times dyed blue, was used for glandular swellings. To this day the tradition remains that certain colors are good for certain disorders. Thousands of people believe that red flannel is better than white for rheumatism. A red string worn round the neck is a common preventive of nose-bleed.—Once a Week.

WE deem children the poetry of the world—the fresh flowers of our hearths and homes; little conjurers, with their "natural magic," evoking by their spells what delights, and enriches all ranks, and equalizes the different classes of society. Often as they bring with them anxieties and cares, and live to occasion sorrow and grief, we should get on very badly without them. Only think—if there was never anything to be seen but great grown up men and women, now we should long for the sight of a little child! Every infant comes into the world like a delegated prophet, the harbinger and herald of good tidings, whose office it is to turn "the hearts of the fathers of the children," and to draw "the disobedient to the wisdom of the just." A child softens and purifies the heart, warming and melting it by its gentle presence; it enriches the soul with new feelings, and awakens within it what is favorable to virtue. It is a beam of light, a fountain of love, a teacher whose lessons few can resist. Infants recall us from much that engenders and encourages selfishness, that freezes the affection, roughens the manners and indurates the heart; they brighten the home, deepen love, invigorate exertion, infuse courage, and vivify and sustain the charities of life.

THE ex-Queen of Spain, according to a Paris letter, has lately purchased many pictures, statues, and articles of art, to ornament her palace in the Avenue du Roi de Rome. Her establishment there consists of eighty servants, besides the chamberlains and ladies and gentlemen of her household. "NOTHING acts so directly upon the organs within both chest and abdomen. Ten hearty laughs, real shouts, will do more to advance the general health and vitality than an hour spent in the best attitudes and motions, if done in a sober, solemn spirit. Of course I know you can't laugh at will, so you must play with the dog, play with your children, introduce a hundred games which involve competition and fun. Open the folding doors, move back the center table, and go it. Play with the bags, run for the pins, play any of the games which you can recall from your early experience.

THE LAST NIGHT OF THE CIRCUS.—Tonight Don Toribio Roca will appear in his great act of the "Comanche Chief" and other great acts at the Mexican and Havana Circus.

Editor of the San Antonio Express.

MR. EDITOR:—My attention has been called to a communication in your issue of the 25th inst., signed by one J. C. Cummings, who is entirely unknown to me, and from all inquiries made by me, seems to be unknown to all the principal business men here.

SANTA ANNA lives at Port Platte, in Hayti. He is writing a history of his life, and does not stir his stump to go on the streets.

POLLARD, in his new book on Jeff. Davis, says Yancey's life was shortened by his hand-fight in the Confederate Senate with Hill. It wrenched his spine.

A communication from Mr. Granjean, in reply to a demand made by the city on Mr. Odet, to surrender two varas on the alley leading from Maine street to the new Foot-bridge, deny the right of the city.

Letter of R. Ricken, asking same privileges of other clubs, read and ordered filed.

Petition of Mexican & Havana Circus Company, asking reduction of license, rejected.

Letter from Committee of arrangements of the Fourth of July celebration, asking appropriation towards paying expenses for music, etc. Ordered that $50 be appropriated.

The invitation extended by Fire Company No. 1 to the city authorities, to participate in the celebration of the Fourth of July, was read and accepted.

The following resolution was offered by Alderman Newcomb and adopted: Resolved, That the office of Market Master be discontinued from and after the 1st of July, 1869.

Resolved, That the functions heretofore exercised by the Market Master, except the inspection of hides, be performed by the Market Watchman, whose salary shall be increased to $125 per month, from the date above mentioned.

Finance Committee reported several matters referred to them. Report adopted.

The Dog Ordinance of 1868 amended and ordered to be enforced.

A New York correspondent says that Fred. Cozzens, author of the Sparrowgrass Papers, is a merchant in Chambers street, New York.

As one sees him darting about his warehouse, with a business-like air, he would hardly suspect that the busy merchant could ever descend to such literary trifles.

He knows all the literary men. He is always at the Century Club, for he likes pictures and good fellows. He is a middle aged man, handsome and brilliant, rich and jolly.

His friends are legion, and we will always drop business to chat with an author or editor. But for that business of his, the world would be favored with frequent contributions from his pen.

PAPER petticoats are sold in London at sixpence a piece.

JOHN Allen, of "wickedest man" fame, has gone into the grocery business in New York.

Supplies for Indians.

OFFICE CHIEF COMMISSARY SUBSISTENCE, Department of Missouri, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, June 5, 1869.

SEALED PROPOSALS.

In duplicate, will be received at this office, until 12 M. Tuesday, July 6th, 1869, for the delivery at Camp, on Medicine Bluff Creek, near Fort Gaha, Indian Territory, and Camp on Arapahoe and Cheyenne Reservations, Northern part of Indian Territory, for issues to Indians, as follows:

Camp on Medicine Bluff Creek, 4,000 head of BEEF CATTLE, on the hoof, 120,000 pounds of BACON, clear sides, 1,200,000 pounds of FLOUR, 1,200,000 pounds SHELLED CORN, 100,000 pounds SALT.

Camp on Arapahoe and Cheyenne Reservations, 1,400 head of BEEF CATTLE, on the hoof, 40,000 pounds of BACON, clear sides, 400,000 pounds of CORN, 30,000 pounds of SALT.

Proposals may also be made for the delivery at Fort Harker, Kansas, of the total amount of Bacon, Flour, Corn and Salt required for the points named.

The beef cattle must be all steers, in good healthy condition and shall average at least one thousand pounds each live weight; the weight to be determined by weighing on scales.

Their delivery must commence at each of the points named on or before August 20th, 1869, at the rate of 100 head per month, at camp on Medicine Bluff Creek, and 140 head per month at camp on Arapahoe and Cheyenne Reservations.

The beef cattle will be required to be kept by the contractor in the vicinity of the respective points named, and delivered monthly or weekly, as the Acting Commissary may require. On the 20th day of October, 1869, half of the remainder of the whole amount due at that time to each post must be in the vicinity of such post, and after that time the contractor will be required to put in the entire number of cattle due, or any part thereof, upon a thirty days' notice given him by such officer or agent as may be designated by the undersigned; provided that the contract or contracts for beef cattle shall not continue in force more than twelve months.

Should the undersigned determine that the contractor is not collecting cattle in the vicinity of each post designated, fast enough, or turning them in to the Acting Commissary of Subsistence as called for, he will purchase or cause to be purchased, beef cattle, as he may direct, at the expense of said contractor.

The beef contractor will have on hand at each post such quantity of feed for his cattle as the Acting Commissary of Subsistence may require.

The articles of subsistence enumerated above will be subject to inspection at the point of delivery. The bacon must be sound and sweet, the flour must be equal to what is known here as superfine, the corn free from dirt, mould and unsound kernels, and the salt must be clean.

The delivery of these stores must commence on or before August 20th, 1869, on or before which day each contractor must have delivered at least one-tenth of the amount of the articles contracted for by him; August 30th he must have delivered two tenths; September 23th, four tenths; September 30th, five tenths; October 20th, 1869, eight tenths; and the remainder shall not be put in until such time as it may be required, but shall be delivered upon fifty days' notice being given the contractor by the undersigned or his agent; provided that the contract or contracts for these articles, shall not continue in force more than twelve months.

Proposals will be received for the delivery of any of the above articles, or for any portion of the amount required of any of the articles.

Should it be found at any time that the amount above stated should be increased or diminished, the undersigned reserves the right to increase or diminish the amounts which each contractor agrees to furnish, provided that such increase shall not exceed 25 per cent.

Should the points of delivery in either case be changed, the contractor for beef cattle will be required to change the place of delivery accordingly.

Payments will be made by the undersigned, on receipt of the Acting Commissary's certificate for the supplies as delivered; one-tenth of the amount of payment due for such deliveries being kept back until the whole amount contracted for in each case is received.

Bids for beef cattle will state price per pound gross; proposals for other articles should state the price per pound net, as well as the kind of packages. In bidding for flour, state brand of quality.

Sealed proposals (of four) must accompany the proposals, and must be returned to the undersigned.

Each copy of each proposal must have a copy of this advertisement (a slip from a newspaper) pasted at its head.

Each bid, to have consideration, must be accompanied by the written guarantee of two responsible parties, not bidders, to the effect that if the bid is accepted, the bidder will immediately enter into a written contract in accordance therewith, and that they will become sureties on his bond.

The right is reserved to reject any or all proposals, if such a course should be deemed for the interests of the government.

The contractor in each case must designate (to be entered in his contract) his place of business, at which place communications sent to him shall be received.

Proposals should be enclosed in an envelope, addressed to the undersigned, and enclosed "Proposals for Supplies for Indians."

Bidders are invited to be present at the opening of the bids.

Further information can be obtained upon application, by mail or in person to this office.

By Brig. Gen. & Chief of S. Dept. Missouri, J. H. MORGAN.

The Waters' Pianos are built of the best and most thoroughly seasoned material.—Advocate and Journal. Our friends will find at Mr. Waters' store the very best assortment of Pianos, Melodions and Organs to be found in the United States.—Crawford's Magazine. Music: Doctor—since Mr. Waters gave up publishing sheet music, he has devoted his whole capital and attention to the manufacture and sale of Pianos and Melodions. He has just issued a catalogue of his new instruments, giving a new scale of prices, which shows a marked reduction from former rates, and his Pianos have recently been awarded the First Premium at several Fairs. Many people of the present day, who are attracted, if not confused, with the flaming advertisements of rival piano houses, probably overlook the modest manufacturer like Mr. Waters, but we happen to know that his instruments earned him a good reputation long before Expositions and "honors" connected therewith, were even thought of; indeed, we have one of Mr. Waters' Pianos—forty now in our residence (where it has stood for years), of which any manufacturer in the world might well be proud. We have always been delighted with it as a sweet toned and powerful instrument, and there is no doubt of its durability; more than this, some of the best amateur players in the city, as well as several celebrated pianists, have performed on the same piano, and all pronounce it a superior and first class instrument. Stronger endorsement we could not give.—Home Journal. (feb19'84ly)
