Platform of the Republican party of Texas.

Resolved, 1st. That the Republican party of Texas hereby accepts the conditions of reconstruction embraced in the several reconstruction acts of Congress, and will in the future, as heretofore, fully sustain the same in word and spirit.
2. That the amendments to the Constitution of the United States, known as the 13th and 14th amendments, are necessary to the pacification of the country and the security of the equal civil and political rights of all classes of the people. The Republican party therefore pledges itself to the prompt adoption of these amendments.
3. That the resolutions adopted by the Chicago Convention of May 20th 1868, where not modified by the proposed 13th amendment, are accepted by the Republicans of Texas as the embodiment of correct principles of public policy. That the Republicans of Texas especially, commend the spirit of the additional resolution adopted in that Convention at the instance of Hon. Carl Schurz; and we will cheerfully accept the assistance of such of our fellow-citizens as served in the late rebellion, but who now frankly and honestly cooperate with us in restoring the peace of the country, and reconstructing our State Government on the basis of impartial justice and equal rights.
4. That the payment of the debt incurred in preservation of the unity of the nation to the last dollar, is in our opinion the sacred duty of the American people, and the Republicans of Texas will condemn all attempts to evade in any manner, the payment of this debt according to the intent of the creators of the same.
5. That the Republican party of Texas earnestly desires the encouragement of internal improvement and immigration, and will as a party, press the adoption of measures having these ends in view. That in Convention herewith, we condemn the demagogical use of the term of " Carpet-bagger " and other terms of reproach applied to strangers who may come among us, as designed to keep alive the prejudices of the ignorant and deter immigration.
6. That while the Constitution submitted to the people is in some respects imperfect and objectionable, it is believed on the whole to propose the main object of Constitutional Government viz: The equal, civil and political rights of all persons under the law. This Convention therefore recommends the ratification of the same.
7. That the preservation of the unity and the organization of the Republican party is essential to the safe progress of reconstruction in this State, and they believe that to effect this reconstruction, a great work has yet to be performed. They therefore warn the loyal people of Texas that opposition to the organization of the Republican party, is the result of an insidious design of the enemy purposing the practical surrender of the State to the rebels.
8. That the Republicans of Texas hereby express unqualified confidence in the administrative abilities and integrity of the honorable head of our Government—President Grant; and in the patriotism and wisdom of the majority in Congress.
P. W. Hall, of Indiana, offered the following independent resolution, which was adopted:
Resolved, That the commanding General of this military district, Maj. Gen. J. J. Reynolds, deserves the approval of the loyal people of the United States, for his activity in suppressing war and bringing to justice the murderers of the patriot Geo. W. Smith, and for the measures he has adopted for the security of life and property, and the establishment of peace.
Johnson Bond of Galveston, offered the following, and moved that it be added to the resolutions, and be known as resolution No. 9:
Resolved, That to this end we earnestly invite the co-operation and support of all good citizens, advocates of peace, law and order, and who believe in the principles of the party of union, progress, liberty and reform, which has done so much for the pacification and well being of this country. This resolution was adopted.

Trip Lightly.
Trip lightly over trouble,
Trip lightly over wrong;
We only make grief double
By dwelling on it long;
Why clasp woe's hands so tightly?
Why sigh o'er blossoms dead?
Why cling to forms unsightly?
Why not seek joy instead?
Trip lightly over sorrow,
Though all the day be dark,
The sun may shine to-morrow,
And gaily sing the lark;
Fair hopes have not departed,
Though roses may have fled,
Then never be down hearted,
But look for joy instead.
Trip lightly over sadness,
Stand not to rail at doom;
We've pearls to string of gladness,
On this side of the tomb;
While stars are nightly shining,
And the heaven is overhead,
Encourage not repining,
But look for joy instead.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE EXPRESS.

American News.
WASHINGTON, July 1.
The three Cuban crafts captured in New York harbor contained only one hundred and fifty men. The main expedition is undoubtedly far to sea.
The police have advised of the departure of a schooner with a lot of horses aboard. Thornton, the British Minister, and Roberts, the Spanish Minister, have been in consultation.
Yesterday's Express has the following regarding the money panic:
"It has leaked out to-day that about five millions in greenbacks have been locked up by parties manipulating the money market, to effect prices generally. The present distress in the money market could never have been reached at this season but for remarkable assistance from the Treasury Department. Wall street has locked up $500,000 and Butterwell has locked up nearly $300,000."
New York, July 1.
The papers convey the impression that the entire expedition failed. Among the American officers captured were Colonels Byron and Kott; Majors Oley and Courtney, and Captains J. J. O'Neal, W. H. Landray, Kearns, Marthen, McCale, Simonson, Gibbons, Tom, Masterson, Dixon, Hoar, Harris and several others, all of whom had acquired a reputation as brave officers in our late war.
Revenue cutter Mahoning, yesterday afternoon, captured the last filibuster tug-boat, with 10 men aboard; also two schooners with rifles, field pieces, sabres and ammunition, all of which are now at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Delay is only inconvenience.

Teach Your Boys a Trade.

Of 13,481 prisoners in the penitentiaries of thirty States, in 1867, according to the report of the Prison Association just issued, 77 per cent, more than three-quarters, had not learned a trade. Here is a text from which Dr. Franklin could have preached a forcible sermon to parents.
A man who has a good trade has an independence. He has need only to be honest and diligent to secure a competence. Bread and butter are sure for him wherever he is. He is sure always of higher wages than he who has no trade; and if his genius and enterprise lead him into some other calling, it is always a satisfaction to know that in case of misfortune he can return to his trade. He has that at any rate; falling in business cannot deprive him of it; his speculations may break down, but he has an anchor to leeward, as the sailors say; his subsistence and that of his family are sure.
The time was when it was not thought reputable for parents to leave their children without trades—unless they belonged to the class of gentry. In France, before the revolution, this provident sentiment or instinct was so strong, that even the children of the nobles were in some cases taught some light handicraft; and when the storm came, and they were expelled from their homes and deprived of their fortunes, many of them subsisted by the trades they had amused themselves with in more prosperous days.
In this country, where fortunes quickly gained are also quickly lost, it is still more necessary and prudent that every young man should learn a useful trade, and learn it thoroughly. No man's future is so secure here, but that he would do wisely to have his boys—and his girls, too, for that matter—learn a trade.
But, instead of that, even the children of mechanics and shopkeepers are very seldom "put to a trade," as the phrase used to be. They are made errand boys in offices, than which no more hopeless employment could be found for a boy. Or they become clerks, shopmen, or salaried men; or, if they must go to work, they change about from one trade to another, and become jacks of all trades, and masters at not one. In a word, where you please, and you hear complaints—well founded, too—of the incapacity of workmen; go among the workmen, and you will find too often that they despise their work, and are sluggards, who seek to do as little as possible, and get as much as they can extort.
For a number of years there has been a run on clerkships and petty shopkeepers' places. These employments are filled to overflowing. A sure way to crowd a street and create a mob, is to advertise for an office boy or a clerk. We wonder that it does not occur to parents that they could not do better for their boys than make them thorough artisans, in some useful and indispensable branch. A competent carpenter gets at least three times the pay of a clerk, does not work so many hours a day, is much more his own master, and is run after, where the clerk must anxiously seek employment. A really thorough workman in any useful trade may count upon steady and well-paid work all the year round, in any part of the country, even in these dull times; and if he is intelligent, as a good workman is sure to be, he need not work as journeyman any longer than he likes.
Then, the world is open to him. He may be a journeyman, literally—for if he is only competent, he may go from city to city, from county to county, all over the country, and find ready employment anywhere. There is nothing in this country now where so badly as competent, intelligent artisans. From Europe we get mainly, as a correspondent shows elsewhere; there, too, it seems that the good old fashion of apprenticing a boy to a good trade has gone out.
Shrewd foresight, then, would lead a father to put his boy to a good trade, and to take care that he learns it thoroughly. That acquired, he can with good heart tell the young man to go out into the world to shift for himself, with the words which we used to read, coming from a hard-working father to his son—"I have given you as much schooling as I can afford, and a good trade. That is your fortune; go and increase it."
A young man entering the world without a fortune and without a trade or profession is he not in plain words an advertisement? Is he not fatally invited to any part in the battle of life? Suppose him willing to work—where can he begin? Suppose him disposed to industry and vice—how greatly are his temptations increased. Seventy-seven per cent. of the convicts in the United States "had not learned a trade." Would it not be well for every father to think of that, when he is considering the future of his boys?—N. Y. The Virginia Election—A Paralel Case.

The election which comes off in Virginia on the 6th inst., bears an exact parallel to the political condition of Texas. Under the impression of an early election Colonel Walker, a northern man, who came to Virginia with a licence from Gen. Butler to peddle whiskey, comes out as the People's candidate for Governor, or as an "Independent Republican." The democrats or rebel party, swallowed Walker, as the experience of Georgia taught them that it would be useless to attempt to run a straight-out rebel ticket. Walker fooled the Conservatives by making them believe he was the favorite of General Grant, just exactly what Hamilton has done in Texas. Walker insisted that he should be voted for because he was in favor of universal amnesty and impartial suffrage; Jack Hamilton makes the same plea. Walker promised universal amnesty. Jack Hamilton does the same.

In a speech in Alexandria, on the 19th of June, General Wells, the Republican candidate for Governor said: "All knew that Walker had been brought out, not because of his political sentiments, if he has any, but to forward certain railroad interests, which would now be supporting the Republican nominees, if they did not know those nominees could not be used for their purposes." What could be more striking as a parallel; Jack Hamilton it is well known is the candidate of the Central railroad company; the Hutchin's House "tea party" proves this, and it is certain that the Central railroad furnishes the sinews of war, money, to help Jack through.

In Virginia the Democrats adopted exactly the same tactics that they have in this State, they have made no attempt to make a fight as a party, but have encouraged a split in the Republican ranks and agreed to support so-called "Conservative" or "Independent" Republicans for office. At first this stratagem worked very successfully, but as the day of the election approached, and the situation has been discussed, the tide has turned. A special correspondent of the Washington Chronicle, writing from Richmond under date of 16th June, says:

"The Walker party has at last divested itself of the Republican disguise in which they began the campaign, and now from one end of the State to the other the rebel leaders are on the stump howling as loudly as ever for a white man's Government, parading their treason as their chief virtue, denouncing the reconstruction acts and the National Administration, while they propose to obtain the control of the Legislature that they may defeat the ratification of the fifteenth amendment."

"The recent action of the Conservative party has united and consolidated the entire colored vote, and there will be no defection from the vote of that class."

led by the old secession leaders are now anxious for immediate restoration, and will quietly vote for the party which is in favor of such action."

Such will be the exact condition of affairs in Texas, a short time hence, when the election is ordered, and the canvass proceeds.

General Grant and the Republican party of the North have thrown their influence in the scale in favor of the regular Republican nominees, and a certain victory is promised on the 6th inst. As soon as Virginia is out of the woods, General Grant and the Republican party of the nation will turn their support and sympathy towards the struggling Republicans of Texas who have a Hamilton as Virginia has a Walker to defeat.

THE ECCLIASICAL ORGAN OF GALVESTON.—Flake's Bulletin devotes the most of its editorial space to religious subjects; a recent number had two columns under such headings as "Poor Churches," "Spiritual Insanity," "Ecclesiastical Intolerance," "Revision of the Prayer Book," in which there is sauce for most anybody's goose on gander. Flake is famous for his religious discourses, as our readers will remember the new theory he produced upon the "origin of man," over a year ago. But Flake never lets out whether he is a Methodist, a Baptist, a Presbyterian or an Episcopalian, and all of these denominations recognize him as a kind of religious fence straddler—his religion is a good deal like his Republicanism—of a very unreliable variety. Just think of it, two columns on the church and not a word about Jack Hamilton.

THE DREADFUL MILEMMA.—The self-accused great "soldout" Jack Hamilton, is not alone in his martyrdom; the State Gazette, the central organ of the Democracy in this state, publishes a leading article to prove to its more ardent democratic cotemporaries that it has not "soldout." Jack's complaint is catching and the symptoms are always the same.

THE DAYTON JOURNAL, published at the home of Colonel Crane's relatives, gives publication to some facts relative to the events in connection with the murder of that gallant officer, which are worth pondering by those people who have mistaken as genuine the expressions of sympathy with the family of the deceased, which were published in Jackson. The Journal says: "The threatening language and manner of Yerger previously, and in addition to the murder itself, attracted quite a crowd of spectators. Through these the assassin passed, unopposed and unmolested, to his home some distance off. Word was conveyed to the wife of Colonel Crane, who hastened to the ground and found her husband lying covered with blood just where he had fallen in the street, and not one person near. The crowd had quietly dispersed, leaving the murdered officer where the assassin's knife had stretched him. Finding life extinct, she lifted the body, unassisted, and carried it to the steps of the store near by. It was the uniform Colonel Crane wore which caused his murder, and made him obnoxious to the bystanders."

PARAGRAPHS.

DURING the week ending May 29, 6443 emigrants left Liverpool, and 896 left Quebec, for the United States, making in all 7,338.

THE newspapers in Germany, having proved Sherman a German, have turned their attention to Lincoln. The Magdeburg Zeitung says the name is Lingen, and comes from the village of Stollwerder, in the environs of Magdeburg.

CHARLEY Gallagher has challenged Tom Allen to fight him for $1,000. In his challenge, Gallagher recognizes Allen as the winner of the fight, Tuesday, notwithstanding the decision of the referee. All the accounts published since at the idea of Allen committing a foul on the Cuban.

NINETEEN years ago, Charles Crockett's poor boy crossed the Missouri river with an ox team, on his way to California. Now he returns in a special railroad car, for he is Superintendent of the Pacific Central, bringing his family with him.

KING William, of Prussia, contributed 3,100 marks to the Elm Cathedral fund, and the Emperor Francis Joseph gave 4,340 florins for the same purpose. The splendid church will be completed on the 23rd of June, 1877, just 369 years after the corner stone was laid.

HENRY Ward Beecher says there is no harm in signing for a neighbor if you have got the property; if you are able to pay the amount without harming your own household; and if you love the man for whom you sign enough to give him outright the sum covered by your indorsement. Otherwise, to go surety for a neighbor is a folly, a sin and a shame.

THE Cleveland Leader recalls the fact that ten years ago Charles Langston a colored man of Oberlin, was tried before the United States Court in that city, upon a prosecution instituted by the Administration of James Buchanan, for a violation of the Fugitive Slave law, was found guilty and imprisoned in the county jail for ten days. Now, we find this convicted criminal ofered the position of U. S. Minister to Liberia.

The London Saturday Review discusses the "Course of Emigration to America," in a spirit of questioning wonder, natural in an organ of the reflective class of a country from whence emigration is perpetually tending, when considering the future of a country into which the moving currents of the world's population are ever flowing. The Review points to the purity of American blood and the distinctness of the American race from other nationalities prior to the revolution, and credits us with an enormous power of assimilating the 3,000,000 of immigrants who have since landed on our shores, one-half of whom were exiled, by poverty, from Great Britain. The Review concedes that in spite of these assimilations, there is still "no more pronounced national type than the Americans. Were we to gaze him at a glance in any European country with a certainty which is scarcely so great in the case of any other people. If his outward appearance is not sufficiently distinctive, a few words are enough to betray him."

Interesting to Tea Drinkers.

Most of the civilized world like a cup of good tea, and it is certainly not kind to say anything which may have a tendency to mar such innocent enjoyment; but we must, in justice to the case, make some allusion to the secrets of tea making. Could any person of nice taste witness the method of preparing their popular herb, he would admire the non-indebating beverage at once. In one part of the building are rows of sheet-iron pans set in masonry, and each heated by a bed of coals underneath. The pans are, in number, from fifty to one hundred. They are raised from the floor about waist high, and a number of coolies are bent over them, stirring the tea to assist in drying it. The entire process is under the direction of a Chinaman, at whose signal the pans are emptied and filled with fresh material. The coolies scoop it up in baskets and carry it to the other end of the building, where it is emptied into a large bin. Empty chests and half chests having previously been prepared and lined with lead, they are filled with tea, and the coolies then jump on the boxes and tread them down to make good packing. They are half naked and fearfully dirty, and knowing the catenous eruptions which prevail in China, and the parasitic affections of the people generally, one might reasonably shrink from tea. Yes, ye tea drinkers, at least two-thirds of these coolies have sore feet bound with soiled rags. When the tea has been tramped sufficiently, another coolie slips on a lead cover, a third one adds it, and a fourth pastes on a paper top covered with calobolistic characters. The box is then carried to a place where the cover is nailed on, and it is matted and bound with bamboo, and is then ready for shipment.

"Eat Your Bread First."

It is a plain but faithful saying, "Eat your bread first." For is there a better rule for a young man's outset in the world. While you continue single you can live within as narrow limits as you please; and it is then you must begin to save, in order to be provided for the more enlarged expenses of your future family. Besides, a plain, frugal life, is then supported most cheerfully; it is your own choice, and it is to be justified on the best and most honest principles in the world, and you have nobody's pride to struggle with or appetite to master but your own. As you advance in life and success, it will be expected you should give yourself greater indulgence; and you may then be allowed to do it both sensibly and safely.

Immigration.

A Liverpool dispatch says that over 6000 men, women and children left that port for New York last week. From another source we learn that since January 1st 114,633 immigrants have landed in New York, and engagements have been made to bring over many thousands every week. The Germans are most numerous; then come the Irish, and after them English, Swedes, Norwegians, Scotch and Swiss. It is said that the immigrants from the continent this season are of a superior class, as compared with ordinary immigrants, and they will bring with them many millions of dollars in hard money, and what is of far more consequence, strong hands, heads, and resolute purposes. These recruits to the army of development will aid us very materially in conversion the latent power of the country into active force. We bid a glad welcome to all European carpet-baggers.
