Platform of the Republican party of Texas.
Resolved, 1st. That the Republican party of Texas heartily accepts the conditions of reconstruction embraced in the several reconstruction acts of Congress, and will in the future, as heretofore, fully sustain the same in word and deed.
2. That the amendments to the Constitution of the United States, known as the 14th and 15th amendments, are necessary to the pacification of the country and the security of the equal civil and political rights of all classes of the people. The Republican party therefore pledges itself to the prompt adoption of these amendments.
3. That the resolutions adopted by the Chicago Convention of May 20th 1862, where not modified by the proposed 15th amendment, are accepted by the Republicans of Texas as the embodiment of correct principles of public policy. That the Republicans of Texas especially, commend the spirit of the additional resolutions adopted in that Convention at the instance of Hon. Carl Schurz; and we will cheerfully accept the assistance of such of our fellow-citizens as served in the late rebellion, but who now frankly and honestly co-operate with us in restoring the peace of the country, and reconstructing our State Government on the basis of impartial justice and equal rights.
4. That the payment of the debt incurred in preservation of the unity of the nation to the last dollar, is in our opinion the sacred duty of this American people, and the Republicans of Texas will condemn all attempts to evade in any manner, the payment of this debt according to the intent of the creators of the same.
5. That the Republican party of Texas earnestly desires the encouragement of internal improvement and immigration, and will as a party press the adoption of measures having these ends in view. That in Convention herewith, we condemn the demagogical use of the term "carpet-bagger," and other terms of reproach applied to strangers who may come among us, as designed to keep alive the prejudices of the ignorant and deter immigration.
6. That while the Constitution submitted to the people is in some respects imperfect and objectionable, it is believed on the whole to propose the main object of Constitutional Government viz: The equal, civil and political rights of all persons under the law. This Convention therefore recommends the ratification of the same.
7. That the preservation of the unity and the organization of the Republican party is essential to the safe progress of reconstruction in this State, and they believe that to effect this reconstruction, a great work has yet to be performed. They therefore warn the loyal people of Texas that opposition to the organization of the Republican party, is the result of an insidious design of the enemy purposing the practical surrender of the State to the rebel.
8. That the Republicans of Texas heartily express their confidence in the administrative abilities and integrity of the honored head of our Government—President Grant, and in the patriotism and wisdom of P. W. Hall, of Richmond, offered the following independent resolution which was adopted:
Resolved, That the commanding General of this military district, Maj. Gen. J. J. Reynolds, deserves the approval of the loyal people of the United States, for his activity in ferreting out and bringing to justice the murderers of the patriot Geo. W. Smith, and for the measures he has adopted for the security of life and property, and the establishment of peace.
Johnson Reed of Galveston, offered the following, and moved that it be added to the resolutions, and be known as resolution No. 9:
Resolved, That to this end we earnestly invite the co-operation and support of all good citizens, advocates of peace, law and order, and who believe in the principles of the party of union, progress, liberty and reform, which has done so much for the pacification and well being of this country. This resolution adopted.

Letter from Morgan Hamilton.
AUSTIN, TEXAS, June 10, 1869.
J. G. THACKER, Esq., Houston.
DEAR SIR:—Your letter of the 11th inst. advising me that my name had been placed upon the Republican State Executive Committee has been received, and I regret that the action of the Houston Convention has been such as to make it quite impossible for me to act in the position assigned me.
I did not, as you are aware, have the slightest confidence in the following together of the Republican class at the time designated, and as the particular place assigned for the holding of the convention, but had no conception of the amount of mischief which the body has inflicted upon the party and the country.
As things stood before the assembling of the convention, the issues raised between the moderate and Radical-Republicans were sharply defined, and went to the whole question of reconstruction—the basis, the manner, and the time.
We had protested in and out of the convention, both publicly and privately, against the adoption of the constitution. We said it was framed in the interest of the rebel, and was a gross violation of the convention by fraud and deception. That ratified by the people and accepted by Congress, it would at the first general election under its provisions, and in power and in office the identical party—the very men who organized rebellion, and for four long years carried on unrelenting war against the national authority. We said further, in almost the identical language and in the address reported by the committee appointed by the convention, that the masses of the people who were enlisted against the government are now as bitterly hostile to the present administration of the government, the policy established by Congress and the principles which govern the dominant party as when the war was in progress, and much more so. The like purport, which is well set forth in the address above alluded to.
I believed the protestations then made, and have seen nothing since to change my opinion. Upon what state of facts, information of the change of base declared in the 6th resolution adopted, I'm at a loss to conjecture. The platform adopted is a clean surrender of all the issues which separated the two sections of the Republican party. It sinks out of sight and out of hearing everything upon which our appeal to Congress was made, and upon which we set our feet before the country. It is nothing but a string of generalities without meaning or significance, containing not a single live issue.
The advocacy of universal, i. e., unrestricted, equal suffrage, was acknowledged on all hands to be a fatal stab at the vitals of the Republican party; and at once brought to the support of the measure of the measure nearly the whole rebel party of the State. So palpable was it to every one that universal enfranchisement would permanently dislodge the Republican party and place its great antagonist in supreme authority, that those of the Republican party who favored the measure, were strongly suspected of infidelity to the Republican cause.
What then was the obvious duty of the convention? Why, clearly, to draw more closely the lines of party discipline, to multiply, and if possible sharpen the lines, so as to reclaim those who had diverged from the faith or else to drive them into the enemy's camp. In the attitude in which we stand before the country, I beg to differ, in what essential particular we differ from the Anti-Convention party?—In this simply I opine, and nothing else: The latter are charged with the intention, if elected, of surrendering the control of the State Government to the rebels immediately upon the admission into the Union; while we propose to hold on to power at least two years! at the expiration of which time the legislative department will be transferred to the conservative party, and the Executive branch at the end of the first term. It is simply a question of time. The transfer of power under the constitution, which the convention has pledged the party to ratify, is as certain as the change of the moon or the ebb and flow of the great waves; and within the time specified, what shall we as a party of the country gain by the few years' lease of power?
Why, says the hopeful, we shall set the machinery of government in motion, give full effect by appropriate legislation to all the admirable provisions of the constitution—insure a healthy tone to public sentiment—establish order, execute the law and inspire respect for justice and authority throughout the country; the results of which, it is expected, will win over to the support of the Republican cause a large portion of the Democracy, and at the same time bring in from Europe, and the Northern States thousands of loyal immigrants who will thereafter take care of the country.
Now, seeing that many of the most prominent rebels have been excluded from the suffrage in Missouri, Tennessee, Arkansas, and all the other surrounding States, it is fair to conclude that they will seek homes in Texas; if for no other reason than to participate for the future in what has been their chief business in the past. Nay, they are already coming; and if there were no other cause to settle the minds of Europeans and Northern men against coming to Texas, this is sufficient. The rebel population is likely to increase in a ratio far beyond the natural increase. Even under proper guards this danger was to be apprehended.
If invested with power for even so short a time the Republican party would undoubtedly legislate in the direction indicated, but every one knows, at least every one in the South, that upon a transfer of political power we should have the mortification of witnessing the complete undoing of all work legislative and judicial, and the overthrow and extirpation of every root and fibre of the constitution which guarantees the equal, civil and political rights of men. This much the rebels themselves plainly tell us, though we do not need to be told.
Holding these opinions, which I believe are shared by every intelligent man in the State whether Republican or Conservative, I have all along insisted upon the adoption of such measures as would secure to the friends of the government the absolute and permanent control of public affairs. They also had no security for life or property—had no right of any sort which conservatives were bound to respect.

To secure this ascendancy but one course lay open to us from the beginning, viz: to refuse the enfranchisement of those who by their treason had lost the rights of an American citizen. We have been unable to increase our numbers either by immigration from abroad or by recruits from the ranks of the conservatives. Plainly, then, our only alternative is the defeat of the constitution or the overwhelming defeat of the Republican party of Texas, now and hereafter.
The nation contemplated that heavy's enfranchisement might be necessary to proper reconstruction and set the example in the passage of the law enabling us to prepare for readmission into the Union. But it has become quite fashionable among a certain class of Republicans to deride, condemn and sneer at this mode of reaching and correcting the criminal designs of the enemies of the government. They must be dissatisfied it is said, and treated with a share of the government, and the full and unrestricted exercise of particular powers, else we shall never have peace; that the nation is growing tired of the impurities, the factions—in fact the dead weight of supporting and keeping in power the few loyalists of the South, who annually cost the government more than they are worth.
Now I do not believe a word of this. The truth is the great body of the Republican party are hearty radicals and desire to have the reconstruction laws executed to the letter. It is only the politicians at Washington who falter and propose to give up the contest, and only a few of these thus propose, but they manage through such Republican papers as the New York Times and the Tribune, to make some people believe that the whole body of the Republican party were at their back. Let us not be deceived by all this talk about the growing determination of the President and Congress to get the final work of reconstruction off their hands at any cost and upon any terms. It is in my opinion far more likely that Georgia will be overhauled and Virginia, Mississippi and Texas called upon to undergo a scrutiny to which the other States were not required to submit before either of them is permitted to enter the council chambers of the nation.
The necessity of raising money and making preparations to conduct a spirited canvass is indispensable to me. I see nothing upon which a canvass, spirited or otherwise, can be predicated. You have gone over to that portion of the Republican party who long since went over to the Conservatives. You are all substantially upon the same platform, and that has been contracted by rebels.
I felt that this was the great danger which threatened us upon the induction of Governor Pense into office in 1867. His proclamation foreshadowed all that has since happened. I then said the first departure from principle will not be the last; that the access achieved by the rebels on that occasion would encourage them to make still other and greater exactions and demands, when further concessions would be granted. But I did not expect their influence would achieve so speedily and signal a triumph. The Republican party is as dead to-day in Texas as it is in Kentucky. It had in the face of the formidable combination organized against it, but a sorry prospect in the immediate future, but then it had a future, which now it has not. It was strong in the council of the nation—strong before the people; and should never have been abandoned until it had been abandoned by every department of the Government.
I have no stomach for further work in the cause. It has been from the start a hopeless contest. It was impossible under Mr. Johnson's administration to make a proper commencement, and before the change, our own politicians became so impatient to enter public life that they could not be prevailed upon to hazard the defeat of reconstruction by insisting upon even a moderate disfranchisement. Seeing just exactly what has happened—i. e., that enough Republicans would go over to the Democracy to defeat such a constitution, I have been honest in the conviction that stern measures were necessary to bring under subordination to the law the great body of the rebel population of Texas and the other Southern States; that the great loyalty shown by the National Government in the past had been the parent of untold crimes; that to trust to a people so implacably hostile to the Government, with the free and unrestricted exercise of political power, would be suicidal; that they should be controlled by the Government directly or through those loyal to it, or that they in the end would control the Government. I am still of this opinion, and therefore have small confidence in the magnanimity programme inaugurated at Austin and concurred in and adopted at Houston.
In conclusion, I ask that you will give this letter place in the Union newspaper. It would have reached you more promptly but for a heavy snow-storm from Gen. Davis, on leaving Houston, requesting that we in this vicinity might reserve our opinion in regard to the doings of the Houston Convention until fuller information could be communicated, which he promised to do upon his arrival at San Antonio, for which place he was just starting. I have waited a week without receiving anything further from him; nor do I expect to receive any modification of the views I herein expressed. I have been so generally characterized by "all liberal minded men"—i. e., Conservatives, as impracticable, illiberal, fanatical, vindictive, blood thirsty, and many other choice epithets distinguishing the savage, that I cannot well afford to have surpassed those of knave or fool.
I am very respectfully,
your ob't serv't,
M. C. HAMILTON.

BRIDGE WASHED AWAY.—One of the foot bridges leading from Lewis' mill was swept away by the flood.

KNOW.—Sour Kroat, has heretofore been out article of import to this city; this year our citizens have raised Cabbages enough for home use and to spare, and we learn that a good deal of genuine sour kroat is being put up.

The reason we are spared a disastrous overflow from the recent unprecedented rain storm is due to the thick mat of vegetation that covers our valley, thereby impeding the sudden rush of water from the hills, retaining a great deal and gradually the flow of the surplus.

THE GARDENS.—Our luxuriant gardens will suffer considerably from the great quantity of rain. Cabbages must be picked to keep from rotting, and many of the tender plants will be drowned out and wither when touched by the sun.

RAIN FALL.—We are enabled through the courtesy of Dr. Fred Peterson, the gentlemanly Hospital Surgeon of this Post, to give a correct Meteorological report of the fall of rain during the recent storm. Mr. Peterson has all the scientific apparatus for taking these kind of observations, and his report, which is taken for the use of the Government, can be relied upon: From Saturday, midnight, to Tuesday morning, 14 1/2 inches of rain had fallen. This amount is the heaviest fall of rain upon record during the same length of time in this State.

NOTICE.—A regular meeting of the Agricultural, Stock-Raising and Industrial Association of Western Texas will be held at the Commercial Club, Dallas, on Wednesday evening, the 14th, at eight o'clock. Members are earnestly requested to attend, and all favorable are invited to be present.

HEAD QUARTERS POST OF SAN ANTONIO, San Antonio, Texas, July 6, 1884. General Order No. 37. All Commissioned Officers of the United States Army, who may hereafter arrive at this post, are requested to call at the office of the Commanding Officer of this post, and register in a book provided for that purpose, their names, by what authority they are in the city, or on what duty, and the probable length of their stay.

THE STORM.—The appearance of many of our houses is quite dilapidated, chimneys built of adobe, a soft mud, when not protected by plaster or covering of some kind, have tumbled down, and many old buildings, built of adobe, are in a state of ruin. The streets are now being laid with cobblestones. The streets are now being laid with cobblestones.

houses, are all about. Columns have fallen up either from the outside or from the water rising from beneath the foundations of the buildings. The amount of damage done will not reach $5,000.

SWIMMING SCHOOL.—We understand that Capt. Repbach intends to revive his swimming school this season. All of our citizens will remember the fine exhibition given by the Captain's school last summer. Every boy should be able to swim, and we know of no more pleasurable exercise than swimming, particularly for the young men. The Captain's school will open some by the flood, but it will soon have a dressing room and all that is needed for the boys to change their bathing suits.

CHIEF JUSTICE Chase in addressing the Sunday School of the Westworth-st. M. E. If a white man embraced the wrong he was rebuked by society simply as a citizen; by his own merits or demerits he stood or fell, with no thought given to his race; but if a colored man departed from the paths of rectitude or of wisdom, society charged the fault upon his people.

Church, Charleston, a week ago, said that the individual colored man, had more need of caution, and of patience, because errors in him were charged against his race.
