Platform of the Republican party of Texas.

Resolved, 1st. That the Republican party of Texas heartily accepts the conditions of reconstruction embraced in the several reconstruction acts of Congress, and will in the future, as heretofore, fully sustain the same in word and spirit.
2. That the amendments to the Constitution of the United States known as the 13th and 15th amendments, are necessary to the pacification of the country and the security of the equal civil and political rights of all classes of the people. The Republican party therefore pledges itself to the prompt adoption of these amendments.
3. That the resolutions adopted by the Chicago Convention of May 20th 1868, where not modified by the proposed 15th amendment, are accepted by the Republicans of Texas as the embodiment of correct principles of public policy. That the Republicans of Texas especially, commend the spirit of the additional resolution adopted in that Convention at the instance of Hon. Carl Schurz, and we will cheerfully accept the assistance of any of our fellow-citizens as served in the late rebellion, but who now frankly and honestly co-operate with us in restoring the peace of the country, and reconstructing our State Government on the basis of impartial justice and equal rights.
4. That the payment of the debt incurred in preservation of the unity of the nation to the last dollar, is in our opinion the sacred duty of the American people, and the Republicans of Texas will condemn all attempts to evade in any manner, the payment of this debt according to the intent of the creators of the same.
5. That the Republican party of Texas earnestly desires the encouragement of internal improvement and immigration, and will as a party, press the adoption of measures having these ends in view. That in connection herewith, we condemn the demagogical use of the term "secession-bagger," and other terms of reproach applied to "strangers" who may come among us, as designed to keep alive the prejudice of the ignorant and deter immigration.
6. That while the Constitution submitted to the people is in some respects imperfect and objectionable, it is believed on the whole to propose the main object of Constitutional Government viz: The equal civil and political rights of all persons under the law. This Convention therefore recommends the ratification of the same.
7. That the preservation of the unity and the organization of the Republican party is essential to the safe progress of reconstruction in this State, and they believe that to effect this reconstruction, a great work has yet to be performed. They therefore warn the loyal people of Texas that opposition to the organization of the Republican party, is the result of an insidious design of the enemy purposing the practical surrender of the State to the rebels.
8. That the Republicans of Texas heartily express unqualified confidence in the administrative abilities, and integrity of the honored head of our Government—President Grant, and in the patriotism and wisdom of the majority in Congress.
9. F. W. Hall, of Robinson, offered the following independent resolution which was adopted:
Resolved, That the commanding General of this military district, Maj. Gen. J. J. Reynolds, deserves the approval of the loyal people of the United States, for his active and fearless out and bringing to justice the murderers of the patriot Geo. W. Smith, and for the measures he has adopted for the security of life and property, and the establishment of peace.
Johnnie Reed of Galveston, offered the following, and moved that it be added to the resolutions, and be known as resolution No. 9:
Resolved, That to this end we earnestly invite the co-operation and support of all good citizens, advocates of peace, law and order, and who believe in the principles of the party of union, progress, liberty and reform, which has done so much for the pacification and well being of this country. This resolution adopted.

Sabbath Reading.

SABBATH MORN.
O, hallowed day! O, sweet Hine blest of God!
Into thy perfect rest let weary souls be borne!
Up from the carnal life into the realm of bliss,
Lift us up, lift us up, Angel of Morn!
O, fair, bright day! O, golden day dropped down,
By angels from the far blue sky!
Out from the shades of night into thy dawning light
Lift thou our thoughts up, place them on high!
So that when day is done, so that when eve is come,
Visions of peace may hover around;
So that when seraphs sing, so that when clear bells ring,
Earth may be filled with the harmonious sound.
That, when our voice we lift upward our souls may drift
An earnest of prayer to the great King,
That when we sleep, that when in slumber deep,
Peace her white mantle around us may bring.

A POLITE AUDIENCE.—John Wesley always preferred the middling and lower classes to the wealthy. He said: "If I might choose I should still, as I have done hitherto, preach the gospel to the poor." Preaching in Monktona church, a large, old, ruinous building, he says: "I suppose it has scarce had such a congregation during this century. Many of them were gay, genteel people, so I spoke on the first elements of the Gospel, but I was still out of their depth." Oh! how hard it is to be shallow enough for a polite audience.

Bishop Simpson, in his address in support of the "lay delegation" movement in the Methodist Church, delivered in Music Hall, Boston, on the 17th ult., incidentally spoke of woman's suffrage as follows:

"An additional interest has been excited by asking the vote of the woman since. We seem to be realizing the apostolic declaration: 'The Lord is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female, for ye are all one in Christ Jesus.' Whatever may have been the design this vote is opening a new era. It may have been supposed that as women had never been called upon to vote they would naturally oppose a change. So, doubtless, the opponents reasoned. But they forgot that in woman's bosom there glows an instinct for liberty, and in every struggle for freedom she has been the friend of the lonely and the suffering. Will she not read in this dawning of a brighter day for herself? The more civil freedom has prevailed the higher woman has risen—she occupies in America the loftiest position, because we have the greatest liberty for the masses. And in the church is it not so? Will not every extension of freedom elevate her? Be this as it may, she will read and study. Appealed to once, why shall she not be spoken to again? She will learn that the ballot in her hands is as potent as in the hands of a giant. If called upon to decide great questions of church economy, why may she not in others? You are training her for the ballot. A new day is coming: Gracefully and noiselessly as she stepped in the aisles of your hospitals, when ministering as an angel of mercy to our dying soldiers, she may apply her finger to the slip of paper that shall fall as silently as the snowflake upon the bosom of the earth. But open that box, and that noiseless slip shall sound as loudly through the world as though it had been cast by the strong hand of the noisy politician, or by the hero of a hundred battles. It is moral power against brute power; and the day may come when, amidst the fierce storm of passion, and the tempests of vice, woman's sweet voice may be heard in whispers, but in power, 'peace, be still.' I hope that on the first ballot she may speak wisely and well for the enlargement of our Zion, and for the elevation of humanity."

UNSEXING WOMEN.—The increasing intelligence of women is destined to have an important influence upon the American family. It is in vain that men cry out against the emancipation of women from the narrow bounds of the past. It is destiny, it is God that is calling, and women must obey. The world has unrolled and unfolded until the time has come. It is a natural law, and not the turbulence of discontented fanatics, that calls for a larger development and culture. The work of history has traveled in one direction. Woman began at zero, and has, through ages, slowly unfolded and risen. Each age has protested against growth as unsexing woman. There has been nothing that men have been so afraid of as unsexing. Ah! God's work was too well done originally for that. In spite of centuries of unsexing, women retain their sex, and they will. Every single footfall forward on that long journey which they have pursued has been a footfall that was supposed to be a deviation from the proprieties of their sex. If you should take to Turkey or Greece that which every man in his senses allows to be proper in woman, it would be considered monstrous. And still, in earlier ages, through a hundred degrees of development, woman has been met with the same cry:—It is they are stepping beyond their sphere. It is the cry to-day, as women, taxed, punished, restrained in all higher industries, asks that vote which carries with it control of circumstances. It is unsexing woman! A citizen in our day without a vote is like a smith without a hammer. The forge is hot, the anvil waits, the iron is ready, but the smith has nothing to smite with. The vote is the workman's hammer to-day. A woman's nature will never be changed. Men might spin, and churn, and knit, and sew, and cook, and rock the cradle for a hundred generations, and not be women, and women will not become men by external occupations. God's colors do not wash out. Sex is dyed in the wool. Nay, the men that are themselves nearest women are the very ones who are the most afraid that women will lose their sex! It is a latent rivalry.—H. W. Beecher.

ROYAL TOMBS.—Inside of this marble screen are the sarcophagi of Shah Jehan and Neof Jehan. Their actual tombs being in the basement underneath. The tombstones are of pure white marble, profusely inlaid with veins of flowers in precious stones, and covered with inscriptions from the Koran, inlaid in black marble. The tombs were spread with roses, jessamine and sweet flowers from the garden, yielding an STAR of fragrance through the rotunda. The walls, the galleries, the cornices, the arches of the alcove and the windows were all hung with vines and flowers, inlaid in marble and precious stones and inscribed with verses from the Koran. It is said that in the inscriptions inlaid in marble upon this building every verse in the Koran has been copied.

The echo under the marble dome has been compared to the harmonies of Paradise. Bishop Heber affirms it to surpass anything in Europe. If Patti, Nilsson or any of our Western nightingales could sing under this marble dome, the eye would instinctively turn to the alcove in the cornice to see if angels were peering over to carry the sweet strains of music to Paradise. The building was completed in 1630 by the lavish expenditure of millions of treasure and the labor of 20,000 workmen for 22 years. "They built like giants and finished like goldsmiths."

THE FIRST PAIR—The Revolution, Mmc. Carly Stanton, a strong-minded paper, translates from a French writer the Hindoo legend of the creation of the first pair. It represents them both as created at the same time, and endowed with speech and conscience. They were placed on the island of Ceylon, and ordered not to leave it. After some time Adam became restless, and taking Eve with him rambled about the island. At last they came to the sea, where there was a narrow bridge of rocks leading to another land, which Adam, taking up Eve, crossed. There was an instant convulsion of nature, and the bridge of rocks disappeared beneath the waters. In all their proceedings Eve had constantly begged and entreated Adam to desist, and not disregard the will of God. For this obedient spirit, Brahma or God appeared to her and comforted her with the assurance that she should give birth to a Redeemer.

We may talk, says Nettleson, of the best means of doing good, but, after all, the greatest difficulty lies in doing it in a proper spirit. Speaking the truth in love, in meekness, instructing those that oppose themselves,—with the meekness and gentleness of Christ.

I have known anxious sinners drop the subject of religion in consequence of a preacher addressing them in an angry tone. I never was fit, says Payson, to say a word to a sinner except when I had a broken heart myself, when I was subdued, and melted into tenderness, and felt as though I had just received pardon to my own soul, and when my heart was full of tenderness and pity.

No one can fully believe in his own immortality without feeling the deepest interest in the inquiry: "What and where shall I be in the endless future?" The anticipations of the Christian rise to a distant glorious realm, where the material shall give way to the spiritual, where perplexity and sorrow shall end in ceaseless ecstasies of bliss, where anticipation shall no longer reach forward after good that is yet unattained, but where "hope" will "in full fruition die."—Rev. L. L. Knox.

A physician was once returning to his home, when he saw a little child in great peril in the street. Another instant she would have been crushed under the iron boots which were almost upon her. At great peril to himself he rushed forward, and seizing the little one, bore her in safety to the sidewalk. Curiosity impelled him to look in to the child's face, that he might see if he knew whom he had rescued. Pushing back the little bonnet, what were his feelings to see that it was his own little daughter whose life he had saved. So he who hastes to save the perishing often finds rewards he little dreamed of. "Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might."

General Grant.
No President has ever moved so quietly about the country as General Grant does. His antipathy to receptions and speech-making is so well known that his time is not intruded upon, and he is generally left to himself. They contrived, in Boston, to extort half a hundred words from him recently, but further attempts upon him were useless, and he left the banquet hall and fled to Groton, where he could smoke his cigar with Mr. Boutwell. Grant's exasperation will be productive of good if it leads other persons in official life to keep silence. The evil of the day is "gab." Silence is golden, and so there is no gold in circulation, so we have no silence.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

A CLERGYMAN in Troy recently heard the following conversation between a Troy expressman and a West Troy receiver of a good-sized box: "What do them are letters mean?" pointing to the "C. O. D." on the corner. "Them means pay," explained the emphatic expressman. "Them don't spell pay," rejoined the other. "You go along; this ere box is paid for, I know." "I tell you what," returned the expressman, the bright thought almost knocking him off the wagon seat, "them are letters mean Come Immediately Down," at which conclusively suggestion the happy man paid for the box, and the expressman went back over the river with a new idea in his head.

TESTIMONIALS.
The Waters' Pianos are known as among the very best. - N. Y. Evangelist.
We ask speak of the merits of the Waters' Pianos from personal knowledge as being of the very best quality. - Christian Intelligencer.
The Waters' Pianos are built of the best and most thoroughly seasoned material - Advocate and Journal.
Our friends will find at Mr. Waters' store
the very best assortment of Pianos, Melodions and Organs to be found in the United States. - Graham's Magazine.
MUSICAL DOCTOR - Since Mr. Waters gave up publishing sheet music, he has devoted his whole capital and attention to the manufacture and sale of Pianos and Melodions.
He has just issued a catalogue of his new instruments, giving a goodly stock of prices, which shows a marked reduction from former rates, and his Pianos have recently been awarded the First Premium at several Fairs.
Many people of the present day, who are attracted, if not confused, with the flaming advertisements of rival piano houses, probably overlook the modest manufacturer, like Mr. Waters; but we happen to know that his instruments earned him a good reputation long before Expositions and "honors" connected therewith, were even thought of;
indeed, we have one of Mr. Waters' Pianos now in our residence (where it has stood for years), of which any manufacturer in the world might well be proud. We have always been delighted with it as a sweet sounded and powerful instrument, and there is no doubt of its durability; more than this,
some of the best amateur players in the city, as well as several celebrated pianists, have performed on the same piano, and all presented its superior and first class instrument.
Strongly recommend we could not give
