Mr. C. H. Holtz, ceases to be our Agent at New Braunfels, Comal county.
A. SIEMERING & CO.
San Antonio, July 27, 1869.

General J. J. Reynolds.

General Reynolds is the Military Commander of this District, as such, he is the embodiment of all the powers of the Federal government. He is here as the appointee of a Republican President, to enforce the reconstruction laws and policy of a Republican Congress; to him we are bound to look with confidence for aid in our struggle to obtain a victory for the Republican party.

We fully appreciate the giant task before our commander; Texas, with its great extent of territory, its wild, reckless people, is no easy country to bring under civil subjection, and we know that complaints will heap up mountain high in the face of the man who has assumed this great responsibility.

We desire to see General Reynolds carry out the work he has begun; we know how dangerous it is to change commanders, and we intend to give him our earnest support as long as we are satisfied his influence will be thrown in favor of the Republican party.

The rumors as to General Reynolds' intrigues for Senatorial honors, we believe to be hatched up, and used as a part of the political capital of the coalition. General Reynolds has the earnest desire to perform his work well, and must expect to be misconstrued, slandered and growled at. We place our trust in him, and look forward to his administration with hope.

The Houston Times quotes from the Democratic platform of Ohio, condemning military trials and the 15th amendment, and says:

"Now what would the Jack Hamilton democrats say upon that matter? Will Brother Webb, or Joselyn of the State Gazette inform us? What are they going to do about the Fifteenth Amendment?"

ONE of the prisoners of the Penitentiary recently put to work on the Central railroad, jumped from the cars while in motion and was killed.

Hon. L. D. Evans out for Davis.

Hon. L. D. Evans has formally declared himself in favor of Gen. Davis for Governor, and addressed an immense meeting at Marshall on the 5th inst.

Judge Evans, as an honest man and a patriot, could pursue no other course. He knows Gen. Davis to be a man eminently fitted for the Governorship; he knows him to be honest, able and firm, and inspired with the desire to build up the best interests of the State. He can put his confidence in what Davis agrees to do, and with him it is a choice between men. On the other hand, he knows Hamilton well, and he knows him to be a dishonest, shiftless demagogue, whose moral and political character would disgrace the State. All true men in the State must come to the conclusion arrived at by Judge Evans. Aside from the Judge's democratic predilections, we must pay him the respect due one of the earliest and most distinguished citizens of Texas. A man, ripened in years, and well-worn in the service of his country. A man whose fingers have never felt the touch of bribery, and whose character is above reproach. We believe his voice will be heeded in the coming struggle.

Division a Certainty.

In speaking of the future configuration of the States, the New York Tribune thus alludes to Texas:

"Texas is certain to be broken up into three or more States. The only question is 'one of time.' This was foreshadowed in the consent given by Congress to her Annexation, and has been expected ever since. She is not now, and may not for years be, prepared to incur the expense of two or more State Governments; but the western and eastern divisions of her Gulf region are antipathetic in character, pursuits, and interests, while her Red River region differs radically from either or both. Ultimately, she must constitute at least four States, whereof her wild region west of the 24th parallel—mainly the valley of the Pecos or Puerco—will constitute one."

It being the inevitable destiny of Texas to be divided, every one who can see the question in its true light must be convinced that the sooner it is done the better. The reasons that will cause division in the future obtain now with greater force than they ever can in the future. Now, is the very childhood of our growth—the enterprises and policies which are needed for our development, need the single and direct care of Legislation unattainable with an undivided State. Should our State succeed in reconstructing as a whole, division will be the first great question that will agitate its State politics.

A DROVE OF CANARY BIRDS.—A New York paper, speaking about the importation of canary birds from Germany, says the following sight was seen in Florence, Italy, in 1861, by a lady and gentleman belonging to New York:

"In walking in the principal street they overtook a man with a long whip in his hand, which he was moving from one side to the other in what they thought was a strange manner. When they came up with him they found he was driving a flock of canary birds, as in England they drive a flock of turkeys. A carriage came along, the man waved his whip in a peculiar manner, when the little birds all went to the side walk until the carriage had passed, when they took to the street again. A woman wanted to buy one, when the man sprinkled some canary seed at his feet and half a dozen of them came to him, when he took one up in his hand and delivered it to the woman, who paid him one franc for it. The man then went on again."

FLAKE makes fun of the negroes, and advises that clerks be employed to steady the pen while they make their marks to jury verdicts. Flake has impudence, but lacks brains, so he has to hire Whilden to do his writing for him. How much better off than Sambo is Flake?

WE are rejoiced to see that Virginia is at last thoroughly reconstructed, and the F. F. V's have accepted the situation. The Democratic party is dead forever, and the former Democrats are now Conservatives, who eagerly plead for the votes of colored men, whom three months ago they declared unfit to exercise the right of suffrage. We are also glad to see that they have at last become, not only reconciled to, but devoted admirers of, carpet-baggers. They have testified their affection for Republicans and their admiration of carpet-baggers by carrying Walker, who is a Republican and a carpet-bagger, in triumph through the streets of Richmond. We are pleased to see the progress which our Virginia friends have made, and tender them our sincere congratulations.

The Richmond Enquirer, with a penetrative wisdom which cannot fail to command the admiration of the world, thinks that Wells was beaten "because he didn't get votes enough." We are inclined to concede the truth of this assertion, having noticed the same phenomenon in the case of Seymour and Blair.—North Carolina Standard.

PARAGRAPHS.

OVER our hearts and into our lives
Shadows will sometimes fall;
But the sunshine is never wholly dead
And heaven is shadowless overhead,
And God is over all.

THERE are times when we must begin life anew. It is when we die to the Past, and in "all things in us there must be a new birth. But think not that Beauty then deserts us, and that Joy removes her sunlight from our path. Such birth as that is living on a scale higher than we did before. It is a higher creation, as the life of a plant is above the life of a mineral, and as the physical life of man is above that of the mere animal. And then there is a joy and beauty in the freshness of a new life. To be like that little blade that has just pierced the ground, to catch for the time the new sunlight, to be kissed for the first time by the young breath of summer, to drink the first drop of dew that came to baptize it into the love and worship of its new life, and then to await the time of flowering—how delicious, how joyful! And supposing that again the blossoms ripen and the fruit falls? Is not decay and birth the perpetual prophecy of God, the very means by which Immortality is introduced to the soul, and a life of continual freshness is guaranteed? Be always ready, then, to die to the Past, and to begin life anew—to begin even at the very lowest round at the ladder.

THE EARTH OUR MOTHER.—Year by year, if we lead true lives, we grow more and more into recognition of a something in Nature which, because we do not know Nature's own name for it, we call a Summer by summer, we grow more tender in our touch of the flowers, more reverent in listening to their voices, more impressed with wonder, whether there be not in them a heart, closely allied to our own. We find that no man can show why a plant may not feel pain in being uprooted, or that the moss may not know that we are in grief, when we bury our faces in its bosom to hide our tears. We find that all things minister to us, when we leave our houses and seek help in the air; and thus, finally, a little before the Earth is ready to fold us for the last time in her arms, we learn that she is our mother, and then in our late duty and love, we reap the fulfilling of the commandment with promise, "In the land which the Lord our God giveth us."

LOVELINESS.—It is not your neat dress, your expensive shawl, or your pretty fingers, that attract the attention of men of sense. They look beyond these. It is the true loveliness of your nature that wins and continues to retain the affections of the heart. Young ladies sadly miss it who labor to improve their outward looks, while they bestow not a thought upon their minds. Fools may be won by gew-gaws and fashionable showy dresses, but the wise and substantial are never caught by such traps. Let modesty be your dress. Use pleasant and agreeable language, and though you may not be courted by fop or sot, the good and truly great will love to linger in your steps.

SINGING.—Singing is a great institution. It oils the wheels of care, supplies the place of sunshine. A man who sings has a good heart under the shirt-front. Such a man not only works more willingly, but works more constantly. A singing cobbler will earn as much again money as one who gives away to low spirits and indigestion. Avaricious men never sing. The man who attacks singing throws a stone at the head of hilarity, and would, if he could, rob June of its roses and August of its meadow-lark. Singing promotes health, strengthens the voice, the organs of the throat and lungs, and prevents or cures consumption. Singing is an excellent agent for promoting mental hygiene.

OF all the lessons that humanity has to learn in life's school the hardest is to learn to wait. Not to wait with the folded hands that claim of life's prizes without previous effort, but having struggled and crowded the slow years with trial see no result as effort seems to warrant—nay, perhaps disaster instead. To stand firm in such crises of exist-tence, to preserve one's self-poise and self-respect, not to loose hold or relax effort, this is greatness, whether achieved by man or woman—whether the eye of the world notes it, or it is recorded in that book which the light of eternity shall alone make clear to the vision. Those who stand on the high places of the earth understand not what necessity, what suffering means. They know not what it is to a noble mind to be obliged, like the worms, to crawl upon the earth for nourishment, because it has not the strength to endure famine. Life moves around them with so much splendor and beauty; they drink life's sweetest wine, and dance in a charming intoxication. They find nothing within them which can enable them to understand real sufferings of the poor. They love only themselves, and look at mankind only in their own narrow circle.

THE LOVE OF THE BEAUTIFUL.—Place a young girl under the care of a kind-hearted, graceful woman, and she unconsciously to herself grows into a graceful lady. Place a boy in the establishment of a thorough-going, straight-forward business man, and the boy becomes a self-reliant, practical business man. Children are susceptible creatures, and circumstances, scenes and actions always impress them, not by arbitrary rules, not by stern example alone, but in the thousand other ways that speak through beautiful forms, through bright scenes, soft utterances and pretty pictures, so will they grow. Teach your children then to love the beautiful. Give them a corner in the garden for flowers, encourage them to put in shape the hanging baskets, allow them to have their favorite trees, lead them to wander in the prettiest woodlets, show them where they can best view the sunset, rouse them in the morning, not with the stern "time to work," but with the enthusiastic "see the beautiful sunrise;" buy for them pretty pictures and encourage them to decorate their rooms each in his or her childish way. The instinct is in them.

FOR BREAKFAST.—A lady correspondent sends us the following recipe for a breakfast dish, which she says serves for meat and potatoes: Put into a common biscuit-pan a heaping teaspoonful of butter, and let it melt and spread over the pan; then take slices of bread, (stale answers as well as any,) enough to cover the bottom of the pan, and make a mixture to dip them in by beating well two eggs, and pouring in milk enough to soak the bread; season it with a very little pepper and salt—make the bread quite moist; then lay it in the butter, and fry brown on one side, and if too soft to turn, put in into the oven to brown over the top, and you will have a dish which serves for meat and potatoes, consisting of neither. Tell me if you like it!—Hearth and Home.

RARE meat is more palatable than any other; any popular notion to the contrary is erroneous. Many of our likes and dislikes for articles of the cuisine are matters of education; this may be, to some extent, true of a taste for this kind of food, but more persons express a dislike for it who have never tasted it, than those who have; they say they cannot relish it, they know they cannot. They know nothing of the sort, nor can they until they have tried what they condemn: so far as any fastidious dislike for the looks of the article is concerned, that is one of three-quarters of all our notions and opinions which we cannot tell where we got nor how, and one which can be described fittingly by one word—STILLY—the sooner rid of the better.

CORN.—New corn is coming in to the mills, and is of excellent quality.

ARRIVALS FROM AUSTIN.—Jno A Glenn R R Robertson, Mr. Samuels, Mr Tunelle, Mr Thompson, S Macclibbon, Mr Marquart.

BUSINESS.—The lifting of the water blockade has had the effect of making business much better in our city. Country teams have come in great numbers, and trade generally has been better than for any week during the present month.

ARRIVALS AT MENGER HOTEL.—Dr. Notson, U. S., G W Smith, U S A, D J Blau, S Macclibbon, New Orleans; J J Thompson, Refugio; R S Curtis, Mission Valley; C R Proudly, Indianola; R R Robertson; Jno A Green, G H Thompson, Mr. Samuels, Austin; Col Ed D Judt; Maj Glenn, Mrs. B Hunt, U S A.

INDIAN OUTRAGES.—We learn from Mr. Wharmund, who arrived by the last stage from El Paso, that the Indians have recently made a descent upon the frontier, killing one man in Blaine county, 15 miles from Fredericksburg, and capturing a boy. They also killed a man on the Llano, and stole a great many horses.

MAN SAVED FROM DROWNING.—A cartman by the name of Frass attempted to cross the river below Gaucher's mill, when his cart and horse were driven down by the stream, and the driver thrown out of the cart into the water; as he could not swim, he was lucky in grasping the limb of a tree that overhung the river. From his perilous position he was finally rescued by the efforts of Mr. Penterriener and other citizens, after nearly an hour's work. The man was completely exhausted. The horse and cart were not recovered.

"ALL QUIET IN TEXAS."—The following return was made upon a writ from this county to the Sheriff of Goliad county: "Came to hand July 24th, 1868. J. C. Bell was killed by a band of citizens a few weeks since."

N. W. JENKINS, Sheriff Goliad Co. This might be called a Texas model for a Sheriff's return. We learn incidentally, that the regulators have been at work in Goliad and DeWitt counties, but their operations are not published by the local papers.

SMALL HOUSES.—The experiment of building moderate houses for moderate means has been tried in Montreal during the last year with good results. In the year 1867, the necessity of increasing the number of houses of moderate rent attracted the attention of gentlemen interested in the subject, and a building association was formed, chartered, and organized. The stock of the association was issued in 600 shares, payable $1 a share per month, or in advance if the stockholder so preferred, interest being allowed on all advance payments. On the 1st of July last year $75,000 of the stock had been taken, ground was chosen in a suitable situation, and eleven houses were built and sold, and are now occupied. In building the houses the wishes of applicants are consulted; the houses are sold at an advance of ten per cent. on the cost of land and buildings, to cover interest, insurance, and other expenses, while the houses are building, and the payments with six per cent. interest are made in monthly or quarterly installments, extending over a period of 10 years, or less, at the option of the purchaser. A building association in this city would be productive of good results.

CELEBRATION OF THE HUNDRETH ANNIVERSARY OF HUMBOLDT'S BIRTHDAY.—On Wednesday evening last, a meeting was held in the Casino Hall for the purpose of considering the most appropriate method, and taking the necessary steps for celebrating the approaching hundredth anniversary of the birth-day of Alexander Von Humboldt. Mr. Julius Berends was chosen chairman, and Mr. Ch. Tronski secretary of the meeting. The chairman addressed the meeting, reviewing at length the career of the great cosmopolitan, and pointing out what he had done for mankind and science, and what a new era he had opened for progress in every respect. He then invited propositions as to the best manner in which to celebrate the birthday of the great man.

It was proposed to make the occasion a regular "Volksfest," as Humboldt was a man of the people; to invite everybody to participate, as Humboldt was everybody's friend, and not to a possible extent. And, also, to combine with the celebration the foundation of a Humboldt Association for the promotion of the education and instruction of our young people.

A committee was appointed to report to a future meeting the best way to celebrate the day and to invite all classes of people and induce them to join in.

The following gentlemen compose the committee: Julius Berends, Chas. Ivonski, W. C. A. Thielepape, A. Siemerling, J. Dresel, Jacob Kenchler, H. Schurz, F. Hausen, F. Groos.

The meeting then adjourned subject to future call. The anniversary day is the 14th September.

M. CONSIDERANT, says the New Orleans Tribune, whose name is so well known in Europe and America, recently arrived from Texas, where he has resided for 15 years, and left for the North with the intention of returning to Europe, where he will continue, as in the past, to labor in the interest of the people. Madame Considerant, who has shared the solitude of her husband in Texas, and returns with him to France, is a distinguished artist. She brings to her native land a numerous collection of drawings of the plants, flowers, and animals of Texas, which must add a brilliant page to the natural history of our hemisphere. We wish from our heart a happy voyage to the courageous socialist and his worthy companion. May they in returning to their country find the same happiness and liberty they enjoyed on the plains of Texas. "Ode matter," said Mr. Considerant, when parting with us, "renders me happy; that is, that I leave the United States purged from the crime of slavery. I cannot express my joy at seeing in the extreme South a press established by men of color, defending courageously the cause of the oppressed."

So quietly and modestly this distinguished couple lived in our midst these many years, that we hardly felt their presence. All of our citizens who enjoyed the acquaintance of M. Considerant appreciated the high privilege. He was a true gentleman, a true republican, and from the beginning of the rebellion to its close, a hopeful friend of the Union cause. We join in the good wishes expressed above.

MATERNITY THE INSPIRATION TO BEAUTY.—Lapland has but one art, one solitary object of art—the cradle. "It is a charming object," says a lady who has visited those regions; "elegant and graceful, like a pretty little shoe lined with the soft fur of the white hare, more delicate than the feathers of the swan. Around the hood, where the infant's head is completely protected, warmly and softly sheltered, are hung festoons of colored pearls, and tiny chains of copper or silver, which clink incessantly, and whose jingling makes the young Laplander laugh." O wonder of maternity! Through its influence the rudest woman becomes artistic, tenderly heedful. But the female is always heroic. It is one of the most affecting spectacles to see birds of the eider—the eider duck—plucking its down from its breast for a couch and a covering for its young. And if a man steals the nest, the mother still continues upon herself the cruel operation. When she has stripped off every feather, when there is nothing more to despoil but the flesh and blood, the father takes his turn; so that the little one is clothed by themselves and their substance, by devotion and their suffering. Montaigne, speaking of a cloak which had served his father, and which he loved to wear in remembrance of him, makes use of a tender phrase, which this poor nest recalls to my mind—"I wrapped myself up in my father."—Michelet.
