> COMPULSORY EDUCATION CONNECTICUT,-Connecticut, which has as good a common-school system as there is in the United States, now virtually compels children to avail themselves of its advantages. The last General Assembly passed a law which requires three months schooling each year as the legal coudition of employing minors under 14 years of age. If any manufacturer or other person shall hire a minor con trary to the provision of the law, he forfests $100 to the State Treasury for each offence. The schools of the State are tree to all, and now the poorest people are compelled to educate their children, since their employment is absolutely conditional upon such education. #### Recent Southern Elections.

The Senter Republicans of Tennessee are not so jolly as they had hoped to be. Their "Conservative" allies proved not only more numerous but more exacting than they had anticipated. Though there was no outright torgain, it was clearly understood by these Republicans that Enfranchisement was all that the "Conservatives" were to ask or claim at this election—that, this being secured, they would vote not only for aster, but for his especial friends for the Legislature. At the last moment, however, "Conservative" candidates for the Legislature were nominated—or voted for without having been openly nominated—and most of them easily elected over the The Senter Republicans of Tennes and most of them easily elected over the divided and conflicting Republicans. MR. C. HARTWELL.-Below we publish a tribute to the genius of Mr. C. Hartwell, who constructed the Pecos bridge. The communication is an interesting account of this important work, and we gladly give place to it as a proper introduction to our citizens of a gallant soldier of the Union army, and a capable Architect and Engi-

Editor of the San Autonio Express.

We notice the arrival in San Antonio, of Mr. C. Hartwell, the man who constructed the bridge across the Peces river. Mr. Hartwell is not extensively known in San Antonio, having been employed at Fort Stockton as Architect and Superintendent of Buildings of that extensive l'ost, for the last two years. Next to a railroad, nothing was of more importance to the traveling public of Texas, and the commercial community of San Antonio in particular, than a bridge across the Pecos. I remember for many years the United States Government endeavored to place a structure across the Pecos, but failed to accomplish anything worthy the name of bridge. There was many years ago, a structure placed across the river, which was swept away at the very first rising of the river, and it remained unbridged until the enterprising. Humferville, the Post Quartermaster at Fort Stockton, conceived decilds w 3m.)

E, PENTENRIEDER the idea of putting a substantial bridge across that river; one that would stand the test of sudden and aweeping freshets, the test of sudden and aweeping freshets, such as were likely to occur any time in the Pecos river; but the obstacles to be encountered were such, that it was pro-nonneed next to impossible, to accomplish it, there not being a stick of timber nearer than one hundred and fifty miles, and that in a country inaccessable to wagons, and without a mechanic capable of performing the work. So things remained until the arrival of Mr. Hartwell, when the matter was submitted to him, the obstacles in the way were clearly pointed ont, but undaunted by them, he boldly under- Agricultural Implements took the work and determined to succeed and overcome every directly. He went to the mountains, cut down the sluber and had it hadled to Fort Stockton. To show

MORTIMER SLOCUM. the immense amount of Jabor it cost, there first had to be a road made by which the heavy timber could be conveyed from the mountains, this had to be done by Mr. Please to announce my name as a candidate for the State Senate, (29th Senatorial district) at the approaching elections.

I am a Republican. This announcement is made at the request of friends, and is entirely subject to the action of a Republican Convention.

STRIBLING, as a candidate for Con-gress, from the 4th Congressional District. Mr. Ficklin eudeavored to have the bridge removed to Horse Head crossing, for the purpose of crossing the mail, but the bridge being toe short, was allowed. at the suggestion of Mr. Hartwell, to remain in the place for which it was made. Mr. Hartwell's credentials prove him to e one of the best engineers and mechanics in this country, and as he will shortly be a candidate for public patronage in his line of business, as he is about to make San Antonio his home, he will be found every way worthy the confidence of the public. The city government will do well to employ him, as the bridges are sadly out of repair, and as a bridge builder he has not his equal in Sau Antonio or in Texas

As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. Advocate and Journal. Our friends will find at Mr. Waters'store the very best assortment of Planes. Melodeens and Organs to be found in the United States - Graham's Magazine, Musicat Dorkus - Since Mr. Waters gave up publishing sheet music, he has devoted his whole capital and attention to the manufacture and sale of Pianos and Melodeons. He has just issuell' a catalogue of his new instruments, giving a new scale of prices, which shows a marked reduction from former rates, and his Pianos have recently been warded the First Premium at several Fairs. Many people of the present day, who are at racted, if not confused, with the flaming advertisements of rival plane houses, proba-bly overlook the modest manufacturer like Mr. Waters ; but we happen to know his instruments earned him a good reputaconsected therewith, were even thought of indeed, we have one of Mr. Waters' Piane now in our residence (where it has slood for years), of which any manufacturer in the world might well be proud, We have always been delighted with it, as a sweet toned and powerful instrument, and there is ne doubt of its durability; more than this, some of the best amateur players in the city, as well as several nelebrated planists, have performed on the same piano, and all pronounce it a superior and first class instrument. Stronger endorsement we could not give —
