Police Chase Ended With Wreck, Arrests

A wild police chase by Sudan officers, who were joined by Muleshoe officers, ended in Muleshoe late Saturday night, when a late model car was finally stopped after colliding with a local car, to head weekend violence and crime.

Sudan City Marshal Larry Rice radioed Muleshoe Law Enforcement Center that he was chasing a car west toward Muleshoe at speeds exceeding 120 miles per hour. At the time he called, he was near the Lubbock Water Works, some nine miles east of Muleshoe on Highway 84. By the time Muleshoe City officers got to the east side of town, the race went by them. The turned around and joined the chase which was entering Muleshoe slightly above 90 miles an hour at that time, in heavy Saturday night traffic.

Weaving through the traffic, the vehicles made it to the west side of Muleshoe where the pursued vehicle slammed into the back of a car traveling west on 84, and spun out of control. The car they hit, which was occupied by the John Puckett family, was airborne briefly, coming down partially on the median in the eastbound traffic lane, stopping about a half a block away. The other car spun around and came to a stop against the median in the intersection in the 1400 block of West American Blvd.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Angeley, who had witnessed the end of the chase, stopped and Mrs. Angeley immediately took nine

Tying Trout Flies Local Man's Hobby

Four years ago, Edd Edmiston started a lucrative hobby! He had become interested in trout flies made by an acquaintance in Colorado. He had watched a game warden for the Colorado Game and Fish Department make several flies and decided to learn to make them.

Starting out, Edmiston said he had made some mistakes, so took the flies to the game warden near Creede, Colo. and Mr. Henshaw showed him how to make them properly. He said that the game warden, whose first name he can no longer remember, had spent 28 years as a game warden in the Rio Grande Wilderness and had perfected five flies which worked the best in trout fishing.

Henshaw settled for five flies after testing hundreds in the Rio Grande Wilderness. They were:

Old Faithful, which is a duplicate of a bug that hatches in the water around the first of May and will be found in water at all times until it freezes in the fall.

The Old Faithful fly, which has proven to be the most successful, was tied with pale green wool chenille, and a pheasant feather from the back of a mall ringneck pheasant, with legs and feelers of black hackles from a back game rooster.

Edmiston said he has substituted a light green chenille to use a peacock feather which makes a more true fly, and body of the bug that lives in the water.

The Brown Woolly Worm, weighted, is made from brown wool chenille and his brown hackle comes from the neck of a brown game rooster.

A Green Woolly Worm is made the same way and is also weighted, but his hackle is a grey hackle from a grey game rooster.

The fifth popular fly is a black ant, which swarms from mid-July to the latter part of the month each year.

"In my experience in fishing," said Edmiston, "if a fish won't hit one of these five flies, you may as well pack your rods and go home."

Each year, for the past 29 years, Edmiston, his family and other local residents have gone to Colorado to Wagon Wheel Gap to fish, he has used the five at all times.

Watson agreed to accept the presidency of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture and was named to replace Clark.

Also discussed during the board meeting were projected expenditures which were approved. Board members reviewed the blue prints for the Bailey County Exhibition building and expressed their appreciation and approval of the Bailey County Commissioners Court for their foresightedness in planning the structure.

Bailey County Judge Glen Williams told Tommy Black, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, that bids will be opened on May 9 for study and bids will be awarded on May 12. Construction on the facility is expected to begin in the near future. He said that in the near future, he and his family would be moving to Denison to make their home and explained that it was becoming increasingly difficult to have his company located in one area and his home in another location.

Clark, who assumed the office of president February 1, submitted his resignation due to business pressures in having his company located at Denison and

A spokesman for the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation said turn lanes will be replaced instead of the traffic islands.

The spokesman said they think the turn lanes will better serve the public and said they regretted the temporary inconvenience the removal will cause.

Local workmen for the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation are in the process of doing the renovation work at the intersection.

Rising Energy Prices Stopping Irrigation

Approximately six million acres of irrigated crop land in the Texas High Plains could be left high and dry because of rising prices of energy used in powering irrigation pumps.

Dr. Kenneth P. Young, of the Agricultural Economics faculty at Texas Tech University, said he conducted research to determine impact of rising energy prices on agricultural production in the High Plains.

The study included effect of higher energy prices on competition with other agricultural areas for production of major crops, cropping patterns, decline in irrigated acreage, farm income and land values.

Higher energy prices could have national impact, creating a new focus on the High Plains importance as an area of production but, at the same time, eventually result in a possible decline in the numbers of people engaged in farming in this area.

The research strongly indicates that higher energy prices are causing a shift to smaller irrigation applications per acre of crop land and some movement from irrigated crops to dryland.

Smaller irrigation applications and dryland farming reduce crop yield per acre. This could have a two-fold effect: a reduction in supply of certain commodities, especially crops requiring intensive irrigation, and a lessening of farm income.

"The High Plains will be at some economic disadvantage with other production areas which require less irrigation. Farmers on the High Plains will be producing less at higher production costs due to increased costs of irrigation," Young said.

"There may even be a shift in cotton production. The High Plains has had a production cost advantage over southeastern areas because of lack of insect problems. However, rising natural gas prices may change this."

Lower farm income implies lower land values. Higher natural gas prices may discourage farmers from paying higher prices demanded for irrigated land, again decreasing land value.

"An additional problem," Young said, "is that some utility firms apparently are not accepting new customers. One report attributes this to the fact that pipelines are already operating at capacity, and the utility firms may lack incentive to invest in more pipelines because of the uncertainty of continued High Plains irrigation."

As a result, some farmers have to turn to electricity or diesel fuel, but on the High Plains electricity is derived from generation powered by natural gas. Higher natural gas prices thus affect the supply of electricity, while diesel prices are also rising, he said.

ON U.S. TRAVEL

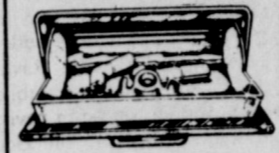

For the first time since 1950, Americans are free to travel anywhere in the world without restrictions on the use of their passports. The banning of travel to Cuba, North Korea, Vietnam and Cambodia has expired.

He was assisted in his research, conducted for the Texas Governor's Energy Council, by High Plains Underground Water Conservation District One.

AUSTIN — A $528 million finance bill — most monumental achievement of the legislature to date — finally wound its way through the legislature and moved to the governor's desk.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who tagged the measure an emergency and plugged for it in both houses, applauded passage and promptly scheduled signing ceremonies this week.

The bill was deadlocked for six weeks in Senate sub-committee after Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby insisted the $674 million House version was excessive.

After Hobby engineered a compromise on a $428 million bill with a built-in inflation-adjusting mechanism to take care of future needs, new trouble developed in the Senate.

Briscoe held out for another $100 million to repair weather-damaged roads, and Hobby agreed.

Several senators, including A. R. Schwartz of Galveston and Lloyd Doggett of Austin, who weren't too keen on the highway department getting first crack at a big bundle of money, waged a battle against the compromise in the Senate. Schwartz was particularly irate about addition of the last $100 million.

Schwartz and Doggett claimed commitment of the additional revenue to highways killed a $258 million tax cut passed by the House. Hobby agreed there is now no chance for elimination of the state sales tax in utility bills, but Briscoe insisted the levy can still be taken off.

Over a 20 year period, the compromise bill will provide more money for highway building than the original House version. Briscoe had requested about $825 million in his initial recommendations for additional highway funding.

Session Speeding

The legislature, following an Easter recess, shifted gears for the final month and a half of the 65th session.

Major business — including school finance legislation and a $15.6 billion general appropriations bill for 1978-79 — awaited the House this week. The governor tagged school finance as an emergency.

The Senate may see its Finance Committee's budget bill next week and its Education Committee's school funding proposals soon thereafter.

Presiding officers of both houses and Gov. Briscoe are optimistic over chances for an early windup of the session. But most observers conclude that, realistically, legislators aren't likely to adjourn before the 140-day deadline at the end of May.

Malpractice Debate Set

The Senate will begin debate on a medical malpractice compromise bill April 18.

The Senate Jurisprudence Committee advanced the House-passed measure to the floor with no more than technical changes, postponing the big fight over amendments.

Doctors, trial lawyers and insurance companies are squared away for the showdown battle.

Prostitution Curbed

Legislation to increase penalties for prostitution passed the House last week.

New penalties (up to $1,000 fine and 180 days in jail in first offense) would apply to both parties to a solicitation. Another measure passed overwhelmingly by the House extends penalties to those who solicit others to engage in sex for pay.

AG Rules

Atty. Gen. John Hill upheld in general constitutionality of medical malpractice bill before the Senate Jurisprudence Committee.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

The sales tax on residential utility bills could be wiped out without abolishing the levy on commercial users.

Home rule cities may require public officials to file financial disclosure statements on their assets and incomes.

A bill authorizing a supervisory committee to operate a regional jail presents no constitutional question.

The open records act does not require disclosure of the name of a person who lodged a complaint with another to a city animal control division.

General partners of a limited partnership operating under an assumed name must execute and file an "assumed name certificate" with the county clerk.

An employee of Muleshoe Motor Co. for the past 31 years, Edmiston wouldn't commit himself as to whether or not he will go into the professional fly tying business when he eventually retires. However, he does plan to keep making his famous flies, which have been proven to work, and keep supplying his friends, and anytime Edd Edmiston comes home from a fishing trip, you can be sure that he has his limit of Rainbow, German Brown, Cutthroat or Brook Trout.

First Baptist Will Host Guest Speaker

Good News Texas revival services will begin Sunday morning, April 17, in the First Baptist Church of Muleshoe. The church is one of the Southern Baptist Churches which is sharing "Living Proof" testimonies of notable people on television and radio, revealing that their lives are living proof that Jesus Christ is alive and can give peace of mind and purpose for life, said the pastor, J.E. Meeks. People in Muleshoe and the area are hearing the testimonies of: Oscar Mayer, Jeanne C. Riley, Connie Smith, Bill "White Shoes" Johnson, Dean Jones and others. These testimonies are being presented to help people overcome the number one problem of life - the problem of trying to live life without Jesus Christ, he added.

In conjunction with the "Living Proof" testimonies and publicity, the church will be in revival services April 17-24. The Good News of Jesus Christ will be shared in the services by an outstanding evangelistic team, said the minister.

The evangelist for the Good News Texas Revival is L.E. "Chief" Lawson, Director of the Department of Evangelism for the state of New Mexico. He was director of evangelism in the state of Indiana for Southern Baptists before coming to New Mexico. Lawson was born in Amarillo, Texas.

He graduated from high school in Alamogordo, New Mexico. He is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, Texas and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort

He has been used as an evangelist in twelve states and has represented the Home Mission Board of Southern Baptists in crusades in Canada, New Zealand, Australia, Hong Kong, and at the Baptist World Alliance in Tokyo, Japan," added the minister.

Music evangelist for the Good News Texas Revival services will be: Bill Sky-Eagle. He received his education at Baylor University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. Prior to entering the ministry of Full-time Music Evangelism in 1973, he served seven years on staffs of Southern Baptist churches.

begin June 1. Board members were asked to review the CofC by laws and suggest any potential changes, which will be taken to the membership for approval on the next Chamber breakfast on May 19.

Also discussed were last year's Fourth of July fireworks. Board members will visit local businesses and ask them to help underwrite expenses of the fireworks. They will also pass the hat at the fireworks for contributions to help take some of the burden off the local merchants, explained Black.

Citizen input is asked for the upcoming County Fair, which will be on the courthouse lawn in conjunction with the July 4th celebration. Booths will be available on a first-come, first-serve basis, and organizations planning booths are asked to avoid duplication of other booths as much as possible. For reservation for booth space, contact the Chamber of Commerce office in the city hall or call 272-4248.

An upcoming seminar to be conducted by the Small Business Association is in the planning stages at this time, with two subjects being considered. One is record keeping and the other is advertising. Black has recommended the seminar on advertising be conducted first.

Black also told board members a newsletter, outlining upcoming activities is ready for the printer and will be in the mail next week.

Also planned is a weekly calendar of events, which will outline all club meetings and special events for Muleshoe on a week to week basis. An activities calendar will also be placed in the local motels for the benefit of travelers.

In final reports, discussed was the upcoming membership drive, which will be conducted April 19-21, and directed by board member Ed Cox and the upcoming annual meeting of the Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation.

BEER, MARIJUANA CONFISCATED... Muleshoe City officer Fabian Flores, left; Sudan City Marshal Lanny Ross, center, and Muleshoe City Officer Forrist Williams look over beer, marijuana and other items confiscated from a wrecked vehicle Saturday night. press time. Officers took a large amount of beer and a smaller amount of marijuana from the wrecked vehicle.

Early Sunday morning, another wreck marred the Easter weekend. A nurse from West Plains Medical Center notified the Law Enforcement Center that a wreck victim had been brought in with possible serious back injuries.

ing weather nears this area. Operation is very simple. At the time a tornado or severe wind or a hailstorm is approaching the information is relayed to the disaster control center in Muleshoe and then passed on to the radio station. If they have already gone off the air, the station is immediately re-opened and the station transmits a sound that activates the Storm Sentry receiver. A voice communication then gives you specific information and instructions of what to do for your safety, all within seconds.

The receivers are then shut off and are ready immediately for re-use. They are silent until the call is made. The system is handy and there is never any noise or interference until necessary to warn local citizens of approaching severe weather.

Kiwanis members are currently selling the systems at a reduced price and will make no profit on the transaction. They just want everyone to be personally prepared for potential disaster. It's good insurance, it's cheap insurance, and you will own the system, to use anywhere.

Another feature. The system is in use in many cities through designated radio stations. In the event you should move, or be visiting out of town, your compact system is small enough to take right along with you in your suitcase and be ready by adjusting the simple knobs to the designated stations.

FREE AT LAST BIRMINGHAM, ALA... Ben Pickens is completely free, 40 years after he stole $1,184. But he says he's not angry over his years in prison. He and two other men robbed the Bank of Waterloo in Lauderdale County and kidnaped the bank president in 1936. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

A late model pickup driven by Larry Ross, and occupied by John Street was traveling south of Muleshoe on Highway 214 when Ross lost control after going off the roadway on the right side of the road. He apparently overcorrected, lost control and went into a broadside skid which ended with the pickup overturning.

Investigating officer Ray Cannon of the Texas Department of Public Safety from Littlefield, said the pickup did not completely overturn, as it was stopped by a tree. The back of the pickup was twisted around the trunk of the tree.

Ross walked to the Norman Head home north of the accident and Head took Street to the hospital. He was hospitalized for treatment of his injuries. Ross was uninjured in the accident, which totally demolished his vehicle.

By the time officers were wrapping up the investigation of that accident, another call was received at the Law Enforcement Center. John ried of John's Custom Mill reported that someone had entered his establishment and had stolen two new saddles.

The intruders had broken glass from a door and had entered the building, taking two new saddles from a display in the building. Investigating officers were Sheriff Dee Clements, Deputy Pete Black and City Officer Forrist Williams. Johnny Fried went to the back of the building to check to see if the intruders had attempted entry there, and found the saddles hidden in the back.

Found approximately one-half block south of the business was a jacket belonging to Fried.

During the past week, several other offense reports were made at the Bailey County Law Enforcement Center.

Included were a report by Kelly Joe Barnett of a stolen mattress and air conditioner and a missing whiteface heifer calf by Mrs. E.N. McCall.

Also, a missing floor jack from Johnnie's Shamrock and a CB antenna stolen from a car at a local church.

Two shooting incidents were included in vandalism reports, with Wooley-Hurst reporting a windshield shot out of a tractor and Joe Wheeler at Enochs reported that someone shot a cow and a bull.

Arrests during the past week include six persons charged with being drunk; one for embezzlement; one for assault; two for driving while intoxicated; one for driving while intoxicated and driving without a license and one for possession of marijuana.

Also, one for no driver's license; two for felony theft; one for minor possession (of liquor) and no driver's license; one for driving while intoxicated, contributing to the delinquency of a minor and possession of marijuana.

And, one for drunk and resisting arrest; one for contributing to the delinquency of a minor and possession of marijuana and one for minor possession of liquor and possession of marijuana.

Living With Changes In The Family Focus Of Seminar

It's not always easy for a father to be content during the first year of a baby's life in a supporting role to his wife and child.

contribute heavily to a satisfying relationship.

"Although fathers are familiar figures to an infant, a real father-child relationship doesn't begin until the second year," says Mrs. Robin Taylor, County Extension agent.

The adjustments that a family makes as it undergoes changes during the early years will be the focus of five workshops during a seminar April 21 in Lubbock at St. John's United Methodist Church.

The seminar, which is from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., will feature a keynote address by noted psychologist Dr. Frederick Mears of Texas Eastern University at Tyler. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. Fee for the four-hour program is $1 for adults, and no charge for high school students. Child-care facilities will be available at a total cost of $2.50 for the first child, and $1 for each additional child.

"But if a couple learns to view their child as an individual being rather than an extension of their own egos, and can feel a loving concern for their child, the baby's birth can be a joyous event after all."

The event is being sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with South Plains Development (SPD) Program's family living task force.

Mrs. Taylor says that how children learn will be a focus of attention of another workshop. Parents who compare their child's development to that of other children can be asking for frustration, she adds. How to avoid this kind of situation will be among the many ideas expressed during this session.

In the fifth workshop, the early years of marriage will be outlined. Open, honest communication, sharing feelings, and mutual trust and respect are among the topics to be discussed.

"For most adults, a permanent and rewarding marriage is the most satisfying part of their lives," she says. "No one has yet found the exact combination of effort and promise or of personality and circumstance that lifts a couple and their marriage out of the ordinary. Some general threads weave

"One of the workshops this April 21, will emphasize adjusting to changes associated with interpersonal relationships and on how a person views oneself. "A second session will outline the changes one encounters upon entering marriage, such as developing in-law relationships. Many couples," she adds, "enjoy pleasant, satisfying relationships with their in-laws but others are plagued by conflict and ill feelings. Researchers have found that certain factors

Speakers for the five workshops are Mrs. Ilene Miller, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, College Station; Phil Carpenter, marriage family counselor at Central Plains Mental Health Center, Plainview; Mrs. Nel Loper, executive director for the National Foundation - March of Dimes; Dr. Connie Steele, assistant professor - child development, Texas Tech University, Lubbock; and Deborah Johnson, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, College Station.

Mrs. Bobby Cohorn of Lamesa is program chairman. Mrs. Tom Box of Plains is task force chairman, and Mrs. Catherine B. Crawford, district agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Lubbock, is coordinator.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa, I am a college freshman and I attend a school which is about one hundred miles from my home town. I have been very lonesome since coming here as all these students are strangers to me.

introduce you to her folks. Perhaps she feels that you come from a family of more education and from one who have more material things than her family has. This is nothing to be ashamed of, if her folks are good, respectable people, but it does make a difference with some young people.

But the person who has been really friendly to me is a waitress in the cafe in which I eat my dinners. She is a perfect lady and we have had a number of dates together. There is only one thing that worries me. She never lets me take her home and I have never met any of her family. Why would she act this way? Troubled--Pa.

On the other hand she may have a member of the family who gets drunk and she never knows what to expect when she reaches home.

Answer: There may be a number of reasons why she is reluctant to

Why not ask her why she acts the way she does and let her know that your friendship doesn't depend on family wealth or status.

Coupon Hoax Fails To Aid In Dialysis

A hoax promising free care for kidney patients has tricked thousands of people recently. People have been collecting the black striped computer labels off canned goods and other groceries in the false hope that somebody would pay for part of a patient's treatment on a kidney dialysis machine for every label turned in.

The Texas Medical Association has been unable to find anyone who wants to redeem the labels. In fact, there is no need for such a collection program because Medicare and other tax-financed aid programs pay for a kidney patient's dialysis care. The state's Medicaid program pays 100 percent of the cost for the first three months of care, and then the federal Medicare program takes over by paying 80 percent of the costs.

An official with the National Kidney Foundation in New York said this collection scheme is a common mistake. She said it usually occurs in the spring and people have collected almost everything imaginable, including bottle caps and aluminum can tabs. A worker at the Kidney Foundation of Houston said she got several calls a day from people asking about the computer label scheme.

The rumor seems to spread on its own and well-meaning people begin collecting the computer labels. There are various stories that food companies, schools, churches, hospitals and patients themselves are taking the labels. The doctor of one such patient in East Texas said his patient definitely was not collecting the labels and did not need to because federal aid paid for her treatments.

Kidney dialysis is an expensive treatment by a machine that removes the poisons from a patient's body when his own kidneys fail to do so. Some people have to be treated several hours a week. Often replacing the defective kidney is the only cure, but there is a shortage of kidneys.

People can donate their kidneys after death and help save lives. For more information on donating kidneys, contact the Living Bank, 6681 South Main, Houston, Texas 77005; the National Kidney Foundation, 116 East 27th Street, New York, New York 10016; or the back of your 1977 Texas drivers license may have the information.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

After recovering from the enshal shock of the recommendations of General Council Bruce Bigelow recommending to the W.D.B. (Water Development Board) the issuance of a four year permit to both Plains Weather Improvement Association Inc. and Atmospherics Inc. I have settled down and writing my sentiments to you and the W.D.B.

I remember from my history that back something like two hundred years a man known as King George III imposed on his colonies a tax which they were very much against, and not being aloud to vote on the issue rebelled.

Consequently we now have the United States of America.

A country of many freedoms set forth in the Constitution of the United States.

As I understand the basic freedoms, they consist of The Freedom of Religion, Freedom of the Press, Freedom of assembly, Freedom to own property without the fear of confiscation.

Also a democratic system was set forth so that the people could vote on any issue. This type of system is accepted in our country, and consequently, we do not have any take overs by force as often takes place in dictator type of Government.

We have a very undemocratic development of a situation where by a group of people no larger than the area of less than one county telling the citizen of a area the size of twelve or thirteen counties that they must submit to an act of their liking.

A action that we know is putting us into bankruptcy and taking away from many of us a life time of savings.

This has been going on for six years a burden that is too much for any body to expect its citizens bear, and now we are threatened with four more years of having our rain clouds disipated before our very eyes.

This means four more years of drouth.

We farmers are schooled in the school of experiance, observation, and with years of working out under the sky observing Mother Nature at work in all her wonder.

Now we are told that we must have a understanding of cloud physics and meteorology to be able to tell the effects of a silver iodide injection into clouds.

I must point out that when we see a cloud build up to the point of raining, and then a weather modification plane, from the hail supreshion program come bly around or through the cloud.

What this cloud will disipate in fifteen to twenty minutes. I also want to point out that these planes never appear unless the cloud is going to rain. I am also pointing out that this type of cloud is not one of those clouds in the 90 percent bracket that disipates without producing rain or hail.

I am insulted by the insinuation that we farmers and ranchers because of lack of some type of degree do not know what we are seeing even though we have had the opportunity to observe clouds in the making, and raining all our lives.

I can name person after person that has seen these planes disipate the rain clouds in the summer.

Clouds that we depend on for moisture, to produce our crops. Our very livlihood is being taken away from us because of this hail supreshion program.

We people in what is known as the buffer zone, are the people being hurt. You will note that to the west and north of the target area is where the drouth exist.

And what rain was recieved this year came during the time the hail supreshion planes were not at work.

The only rains we have recieved durring hail supreshion activity are rains that cover the entire State. These rains come very seldom.

Our thunder storms that we depend on so much of the time are destroyed.

We are asking the people that donated money, and painted there forms red to write the Water Development Board, and tell them just what the Hail Supreshion Program is doing to them. We had such a overwhelming response in raising money and desire to put a stop to this hail supreshion program, and by such overwhelming odds in our favor. What I do not see how the W.D.B. can issue another permit.

Without the ladies helping we could not have accomplished as much as we did, I would like to urge the women, that since this is such a busy time for the men, that if there husbands do not have time to write that they do so, and tell the facts just as they are to James Rose, Texas Water Development Board, Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

We must stop this program. Also we must urge the Speaker of the House, Bill Clayton, to see that House Bill 1108, and Senate Bill 632 be presented and passed, and be made into law befor May 6, at which time the W.D.B. could issue a four year permit.

This bill passed as it now reads will allow the citizens of the counties to vote on this issue if they so wish.

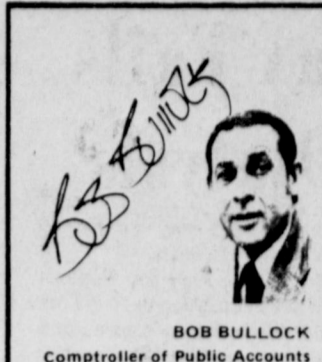

This is all that we ask. Merlin Roberts, Morton, Texas In Behalf of Directors of Citizens for Natural Weather.

BOB BULLOCK
Comptroller of Public Accounts

Dear Mr. Bullock:
My mother recently passed away, leaving a farm and several hundred shares of stock to my brother and I. What is the deadline for filing an inheritance tax return and paying the tax?

The return must be filed within nine months of the death. An extension may be granted, however, in certain circumstances.

Dear Sir:
I recently opened a boutique. Someone from your office told me that I would have to post a bond in order to obtain a sales tax permit. Is the bond necessary?

Yes. State law requires anyone going into business for the first time since January 1, 1974 to post a bond. The bond is security for the State by the permit holder.

Dear Mr. Comptroller:
I never received any notification that I owed property tax. Now I have received a bill for the delinquent tax, as well as a penalty and interest. I don't mind paying the tax, if I owe it, but do I have to also pay the penalty and interest since I wasn't notified of the tax?

Yes. Even though the tax assessor-collector should have notified you of the tax you owe, his failure to do so is no defense for non-payment of taxes. Neither the Comptroller nor any tax assessor-collector or local governing body can legally waive or forgive penalty and interest on delinquent property taxes.

Rural Development Aids Industry

Self-help federal rural development is achieving major success here with the Rural Development Act of 1972 in a unique farmer cooperative venture involving textile manufacturing.

The project, started in 1975, reached another historic milestone on April 1 when the Farmers Home Administration of USDA formalized its loan guarantee for $30,150,000 to American Cotton Growers covering 90 percent of the cooperative's construction loan from the Houston Bank for Cooperatives. FmHA made a conditional commitment to ACG in 1975 for construction of an integrated spinning-weaving-finishing textile mill for heavyweight denim. Its formal commitment could not be finalized until the plant was completed and approved after inspection.

Located about 40 miles north of Lubbock, the mill uses the open-end spinning method which is suited for the type of cotton produced on the High and Rolling Plains of Texas. It has the capacity to produce over 20-million yards of 14½-ounce indigo-dyed, finished denim annually.

"This is one of the most stable projects we have ever supported," Lynn Futch, state FmHA director, said in the document-signing ceremony. Authority for the agency's loan guarantee is contained in the business and industrial loan section of the Rural Development Act of 1972. The act provides for guarantee commitments for approved projects to stimulate jobs and economic enrichment opportunities in rural communities.

At the ceremony, David Dabbs, associate vice president of the cooperative bank in Houston, presented Futch the bank's check for $301,500 to cover the one percent fee charged by FmHA for providing the loan guarantee.

ACG has 3,000 members in 25 ginning associations in Texas who deliver all of their cotton to the association's pool for marketing and manufacturing. About one-fourth of the pool is dedicated annually to the textile mill and the balance is marketed as raw cotton to domestic and international points.

L.C. Unfred of New Home, president of the cooperative, said that all the milestones reached thus far by the association, formalization of the loan guarantee seems most important.

"It signifies that we have passed the tests put before us," he said, enumerating them thusly:

- * Criteria laid down by government regulations and the legislative act.

* The selling of the expanded version of the association to over 2,500 producers in addition to the membership of what is now known as the ACG-Crosbyton Division.

* Development of the necessary "seed" capital from regional cotton cooperatives and the pool gin associations.

* Backing of the cooperative banking system.

* An investment on the part of the city of Littlefield.

* Managerial expertise developed by the association.

* The quality of product being manufactured.

NFU Requesting Rate Increase

National Farmers Union officials from 22 states had a wide-ranging 80-minute discussion late Tuesday afternoon at the White House in which the farm group leaders indicated the "dismay" of the nation's farmers with farm commodity support rates established for 1977 and proposed for 1978.

President Jimmy Carter spent 50 minutes with the Farmers Union presidents, including Texas Farmers Union President Jay Naman of Waco.

The discussion included Vice President Walter Mondale and Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland. "I thought it was a worthwhile meeting," said TFU President Jay Naman. "The President expressed concern at the negative reaction from farmers to his proposed farm program."

* The first-rate market for the association's manufactured product.

The first yard of denim was turned out by the plant barely 10 months ago. Since that time the facility has manufactured several million yards of cloth and made nearly $15 million in sales.

J.E. Chisholm, mayor of Littlefield, said the facility has turned the city into a vibrant, growing area. Building permits are up several times over the 1974 rate, 15 new businesses have located in the area, school and church enrollments are thriving and over 600 new jobs are attributed to the facility.

"From the campaign assurances, farmers expected that support protection at the cost of production meant the full cost of production. What we have gotten so far is an almost straight-line extension of the Butz support levels," National President of the Farmers Union Tony Dechant said. "On top of that we are being nickel-and-dimed in the budget process."

President Carter said that "for the future we would like to have a stable agriculture with an aggressive export capability."

The President noted Monday's increases in support levels for 1977 and the recommended levels for the four-year farm bill and said he regarded them as "better than the Butz figures."

On Wall Street By Bob Hill

Credit unions have become big business. According to a spokesman for the American Bankers Association, they have also become a small but fast growing competitor of commercial banks. Credit unions have been around for about 70 years in this country. They are cooperative thrift institutions, owned by members, just as federal savings and loans are owned by depositors. State savings and loans are different in that they are owned by shareholders who are not necessarily depositors.

Last year, credit unions in some states began offering share-drafts, similar to interest bearing checking accounts. This is when the commercial banks took notice and filed a lawsuit which has at least temporarily halted the share-draft program.

Despite that setback, credit unions are pushing ahead on other fronts. Next month, for instance, federally chartered credit unions hope to get congressional authority to offer 30-year home mortgages, 12-year personal loans, and preauthorized lines of credit. The last item opens the way for a systemwide credit card. All of these new powers for the federal credit unions are contained in a bill tacked onto legislation to extend ceilings on savings-deposit interest rates which expired on March 1. Right now the whole package is jammed up in Congress because of disagreements over provisions of the bill unrelated to credit unions.

Despite its growing power, the U.S. credit union system, with assets of $45 billion, is in no danger of overtaking the commercial banking system with assets of just under $1 trillion. And it has a long way to go to catch up with credit union systems in Canada and Germany. Credit union systems in both of those countries have full service banks that engage in commercial and industrial lending as well as consumer loans.

There are 22,618 credit unions in the U.S. half of them federally chartered. Their assets are growing by more than 14 percent a year, faster than the growth of any other type financial institution. In the U.S. today, 33.6 million credit union members already have access to many kinds of installment loans (credit unions have 16 percent of installment loans market), lines of credit, direct deposit of paychecks, life and auto insurance, trust and financial advice, travelers checks and money orders.

Eat more often

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — Dr. Donald R. Davis, a University of Texas biochemist, says the elderly need to eat a variety of foods and eat often — at least three times and maybe even four to six times daily.

He also advises older persons to take it easy on salt and include fiber (mostly present in vegetables) in their diet.

Those who have osteoporosis (softening of the bones) should take a calcium supplement. About 800 milligrams of calcium are recommended daily for the average person, he says, but the average elderly person only gets about 400 milligrams.

There's quite a difference between being present and doing the work.

Inflation Mandates Teacher Pay Raises

By Nickie C. Landers

Do teachers in the state of Texas need a raise in salary? We are all aware of what inflation has been doing to the cost of living in the last few years. Also we must bear in mind that most economic experts expect a continuing increase of at least six percent in the rate of inflation for each of the next two years. At present a first year teacher with a B.A. degree earns a state base of $8,000 a year; a second year teacher earns a state base of $8,300; a third year teacher earns a state base of $8,600. Muleshoe also pays an additional $250 per year, but many schools throughout the state pay only this state base pay.

Recently Tom Jinks and Nickie Landers of the Muleshoe School System prepared a conservative estimate of the cost of living for a beginning teacher, B.A. degree, with no dependents. Included in this estimate were the expenses of income tax, retirement system, hospital insurance, rent, utilities, food, auto, clothing, and professional dues and fees. These expenses alone ran $8,749.44 per year, which is more than the beginning teacher makes without taking on an additional job. In fact this estimate of $8,749.44 is more than the teacher will make during his third year of service. Items omitted from our estimate but very important to many teachers were: advanced schooling for the improvement of teaching skills, recreational activities, life insurance, savings, and contributions to churches and other charitable organizations. The following is a copy of that estimate.

The level and quality of education in Texas will be no better than the individual classroom teacher. If we are to obtain and hold top quality people as teachers, we must be willing to pay at least a livable salary. Neal B. Dillman, Superintendent for West

U.S.S.R. Fishing Zone

MOSCOW -- A 200-mile fishing zone went into effect March 1 around the coast of the Soviet Union, the government news agency Tass said.

On windy dusty days . . .

your filter can get dirty, clogged, waste energy . . .

but a clean filter saves energy, money.

Clean or replace dirty Air Filters on your furnace or air conditioning!

The purpose of a filter on your air conditioning or heating air blower is to keep the air inside your home clean. The filter catches dust and dirt before it can enter your home. In time, the filter will accumulate dust and dirt . . . if it gets clogged, it can't do the cleaning job it's supposed to. Then it begins to shut off the air flow and has the effect of making your air conditioning or heating unit work harder. When the unit works harder, it uses more electricity . . . and if it works too hard because of a dirty filter, it can be damaged.

To avoid damage to your unit, to keep your home cleaner, and to save energy and money, be sure filters are clean. Permanent types can be cleaned according to the manufacturer's instruction. Non-permanent types are replaced, since they are inexpensive. It is wise to check filters every 30 days.

Save energy . . . save money . . . use clean filters.

Why I'm Proud To Be A Texan

By Tamara Gilliland
I am proud to be a Texan. If I had a choice to live in any other state, I would definitely chose Texas.

Texas is a rich state and has a good government. You have freedom to do many things in Texas. We don't have very many bad laws. There aren't a whole bunch of large cities in Texas, so it is mostly farm communities. I like that because we are not overly crowded. We don't have a whole lot of crime, either.

The land is pretty in Texas, and we have a lot of it. We also have a variety of land. We have a few small mountains, dry, sandy, and land that is very wet.

Track Mules Finish Third At Clovis

On Saturday, April 2, the Mules' eighth grade boys traveled to Clovis for their fourth track meet of the year. In the 440 relay, Felix Norman, Ricky Medlock, Charles Walker, and Israel Orozco had a time of 50.0. In the 70 yard high hurdles Charles Walker finished second and set a new school record of 10.3. The old record was 11.1. In the 100 yard dash, Albert Lopez was fifth with an 11.4. In the 75 yard dash, Israel Orozco and Albert Lopez were fourth and fifth and both broke the school record. Israel Orozco ran and 8.8 and Lopez ran an 8.9, the old school record was 9.0.

The 880 relay team, William Orozco, Bryce Kutzi, Bobby

There are a lot of things to do in Texas. Also, you can go to the coast, go to the mountains, go to the horse races, or you could do some shopping.

A lot of good people came from Texas. Hopefully there will be a lot more people from Texas.

I have talked to people from other states that tell me I am lucky to be a Texan. That makes me feel very proud to be a Texan.

I think Texas has a good school system, too. Proper schooling is very important to us, the young people. If we didn't have good schools, we would grow up not knowing anything. If we didn't know anything when we got older we could't support ourselves, much less a family.

Texas has a good communication system, also. That is important because we need to know what is going on in the other places.

Texas is not perfect, but neither is any other state. I would like to see more communication between the government and the people. I would like to see

I am very proud to be a Texan. I told you a few of the reasons why. There are many other reasons, too. I hope I never have to move away from Texas and I'm glad I have been lucky enough to be a Texan this long. I hope all the other Texans are as proud of being a citizen of Texas as I am.

Department Of Health Aids OSHA Program

President Teddy Roosevelt is credited with originating the phrase, "Speak softly and carry a big stick." He might be proud to know that his approach is embodied in an unusual partnership between the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration, better known as OSHA, and the Texas Department of Health Resources.

In this partnership, state occupational safety and health engineers are the ones who speak softly, and the federal OSHA inspectors carry the big stick. Under federal law, every private employer in the United States is required to comply with a massive set of OSHA regulations, designed to protect the health and safety of workers. The rules cover almost every conceivable aspect of the physical facilities and the environment of the workplace.

To ensure compliance with the regulations, OSHA personnel conduct intensive inspections of several thousand places of business each year. When inspectors find violations of the OSHA rules, the employer is assessed a citation and possible penalties if the violations are of a serious nature and given a certain period of time in which to correct the problem. At the end of that period of time, another inspection may be made. If the violations have not been corrected, the employer can be fined again -- as much as $1,000 for each day from the time of the original inspection until the correction is made to OSHA's satisfaction.

Enforcing the highly detailed and complex regulations is OSHA's only function. Under the law, federal inspectors are not permitted to provide consultation and advice to employers on ways to improve the health and safety aspects of their businesses.

That's where the Texas Department of Health Resources comes in. Through the Occupational Safety Division and the Occupational Health and Radiation Control Division, state engineers are available to provide consultative assistance to all employers in Texas. The consultative program, funded under a contract between OSHA and the Department of Health Resources, allows employers to request a penalty-free inspection.

When an employer asks for an inspection, one of the state engineers -- who has been trained by OSHA -- visits the workplace and conducts the same kind of inspection that an OSHA inspector would perform. At the end of the inspection, the employer is given a list of any violations of OSHA regulations that the inspector has found.

But the state inspection doesn't result in penalties. Instead, the state engineer offers advice and suggestions on how to correct the problem, and points out other ways to improve the workers' safety and health. The employer is free to act on the advice or disregard it as he wishes. Except in rare cases where a substantial and immediate threat to the life or safety of the workers might exist, the state engineers do not report their findings to the federal OSHA engineers.

Since the state consultative program began, the number of requests for consultative inspections has steadily increased. According to Walter Martin, Director of the Division of Occupational Safety, "At first, many employers were afraid that this would trigger an OSHA inspection." Later, however, Martin reported that his engineers were swamped with requests. "We'll make all of the inspections," Martin said, "but it'll take a little while."

In fact, a number of requests for inspections have come from employers that aren't even subject to OSHA regulations -- such as city governments, state agencies, hospitals, and even federal military installations. Obviously, the employers know a good thing when they see it, and their concern for the health and safety of their employees is demonstrated by their interest in the consultative inspections.

The key question, however, is whether health and safety problems are corrected following the penalty-free inspections. As evidence, Martin cites a letter from one of the state's largest county hospitals. The letter was written two months after the state inspection report, and it lists seven violations that have been corrected. It closes, "Thank you and your engineer for your help in maintaining a safe environment for our patients, their visitors, and our employees." The president of an oil drilling company wrote, "It is through inspections like this that we are able to train our people in the proper safety methods in work areas. Please convey my thanks to your engineer for his inspection and hope that sometime in the future he will be able to again pay us a visit."

The executive secretary of one of the state's largest labor unions wrote, "Our organization supports this state program and we feel it should be continued and expanded to reach every place of employment in Texas."

The evidence shows that the Texas Department of Health Resources can, indeed, get a lot done by speaking softly -- and only in part because of OSHA's "big stick."

From The Pastors Desk by Rev David Everts

SELLING OUT TOO CHEAP: Genesis 25:27-34; Hebrews 12:16-17. The story of Esau, like that of Cain, stands out in the Word of God as a beacon of terrible warning. It is like a sign-board across the road of life: "... don't go beyond this point - there is danger ahead."

The whole life story of Esau may be summed up as "that of the mast of a sunken ship, yet still visible above the overwhelming tides." As we look briefly at his life, we observe the following things about him.

FIRST OF ALL AN INHERITED PRIVILEGE: Because Esau was the first born of twins - he possessed the privilege of becoming heir in his father's family. And because God created man in His own image - man possessed certain rights, privileges and opportunities that are God-given, and no man can take them from him if he chooses to keep them. Out of a merciful heart God gives us certain rights and manners of choosing. We have the right to choose in matters of allegiance - loyalty - faithfulness and service. We can either put first things first or do as Esau did.

ESAU DESPISED HIS PRIVILEGE: As he spoke with his brother he said: "... what profit is this birthright to me - what good is it?" Actually it was of no profit at all to him because he was thinking in terms of sensual and temporal things as being more important. He was simply living for the present - trying to take care of the temporal needs of the present. A lot of folks are seeking this means of life today - and if the Bible is true - and must agree that it is - they will come out in the end about the same way Esau did. Esau relied too heavily on snap-judgment and allowed his appetite to dictate and overrule the higher instincts of his nature. Men are still making that same mistake today. By hundreds and thousands they suffer temporal things to take the place of the spiritual. God urges always that we think soberly and use discretion in matters of the things of first import. The Bible says: "... seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you."

WE ARE NOT SURPRISED WHEN WE FIND THAT ESAU LOST HIS PRIVILEGE: He lost it the moment that he put a price on his inherited birthright. He deliberately parted with it as a thing that possessed no value. To fail to accept and grasp an opportunity is to lose it. We live in a funny world - and there are a lot of funny people in it. There are always plenty of Jacobs around ready at any cost to others to make personal gain out of their spiritual stupidity. Moses looked at his birthright with a very different eye when he chose rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season. A person's heart is never more deceitful than when it covets the things which are seen and temporal - and lets slip those things which are eternal. It is bad and a bad bargain to sell the spiritual for that which is natural.

WE ALSO LEARN THAT ESAU LIVED TO REGRET HIS LOST PRIVILEGE: The other part of our text Hebrews 12:16-17 says: "... and afterwards when he would have inherited the blessing, he was rejected though he sought it with tears". The sin of unbelief is sure to be followed with a terrible ... 'afterwards'. As Esau's father died, he brought conviction home to the heart and conscience of his son - but his tears, though many and bitter did not restore his despised blessing. In the sixteenth chapter of Luke we are told of a similar 'afterwards'. "... Son, remember that thou in thy lifetime received good things, and Lazarus evil things, but now he is comforted and thou art tormented". Hebrews 2:3 gives a warning to all men: "... how shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation".
