The Unlucky Lovers.
 Fanny Foo-Foo was a Japanese girl,
 A child of the great Tycoon;
 She wore her head bald, and her clothes
 were made
 Half petticoat, half pantaloons;
 Her face was the color of lemon peel,
 And the shape of a tablespoon.

A handsome young chap was Jonny Hi-Hi,
 And he wore paper-maslin clothes;
 His glossy black hair on the top of his head
 In the form of a shoe brush rose;
 His eyes slanted downward, as if some one
 Had savagely pulled his nose.

Fanny Foo-Foo loved Jonny Hi-Hi,
 And when, in the usual style,
 He popped, she blushed such a deep orange tinge,
 You'd have thought she had too much
 life,
 If it hadn't been for her slanting eye-lashes,
 And her charming wide-mouthed smile.

And off, in the bliss of their new born
 love,
 Did these little pagans stray
 All around in spots, enjoying themselves
 In a strictly Japanese way:
 She blowing a song on some stringed lute,
 On which she thought she could play,

Often he'd climb to a high ladder's top
 And quietly there repose
 As he stood on his head and fanned himself,
 While she balanced him on her nose;
 Or else she would get in a pickle tub,
 And be kicked around on his toes.

The course of true love, even in Japan,
 Often runs extremely rough;
 And the fierce Tycoon, when he heard of this,
 Used Japanese oaths so tough
 That his courtiers' hair would have stood
 on end,
 If only they had enough,

So Tycoon buckled on both his swords,
 In his pistol placed a wad,
 And went out to hunt the truant pair,
 With his nerves braced by a tad.
 He found them enjoying their guileless
 selves
 On top of a lightning rod.

Steadily he ordered the gentle Foo-Foo
 "to come down out of that there!"
 And he told Hi-Hi to go to a place—
 I won't say precisely where;
 Then he dragged off his child, whose spasms evinced Unusually wild despair.

But the Tycoon, alas! was badly fooled,
 Despite his paternal pains;
 For John, with a tooth-pick, let all the blood
 Out of his jugular veins;
 While, with a back somersault on the floor,
 Foo-Foo batted out her brains.

They buried them both in the Tycoon's
 lot,
 Right under a dogwood tree,
 Where they could list to the nightingale
 and
 The buzz of the bumble bee;
 And where the mosquito's sorrowful chant
 Maddens the restless flea.

And often at night when the Tycoon's wife
 Slumbered as sound as a post,
 His almond-shaped eyeballs looked on a sight
 That scared him to death almost;
 'Twas a bald-headed spectre flitting about
 With a paper-maslin ghost!

Land Grants to Railroads.
 The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial presents the following suggestions to the consideration of the readers of that paper. We copy from his letter of the thirteenth instant:

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.
 The indications now are that this measure, already passed by the Senate, will become a law. Of course we shall have the usual outcry against donating the public lands to soulless corporations, and divers and sundry journals will be sorely distressed. I never have been worried much in that direction
 were we to give all of our public lands to the construction of railroads, it would be a better disposal of them than that in vogue heretofore, where land speculators and corporations, making no returns, have taken up our domains. The land that goes to make a railroad gives us something in return, and the only question to be considered is, after making the grant, whether the road will be built. Every alternate section is a small item in comparison to the good that is realized.

Through these improvements vast regions are brought within the reach of the emigrant, and the railroad becomes a pioneer instead of the follower in the march of civilization. For such a good result the land can very well be given, and when the roads are thus donated to the government and the use of the people, a better gift is secured
 than can be found in inaccessible regions. It is true that we do give to soulless corporations a part of the public domain. And in like manner we donated to soulless corporations in Ohio two-thirds of the stock paid in for making our railroads, and yet we lost nothing; the improved value of our lands, created through our being brought within reach of the market, more than repaid our investment.

The real objection to this business is to be found in the creation of monopolies that threaten other encroachments than those upon our lands. A few men possessed of the enormous power there guaranteed forever through a corporation, are dangerous to the republic; but the creation of the Northern and now of the Southern Pacific railroads is in direct antagonism to the monopoly we dread. The more of these companies we call into existence the less is the power possessed by any one of them. But while we are lamenting the loss of public lands, and playing into the hands of one monopoly by striving to defeat other corporations, combinations are going on among railroad companies already in existence, far more dangerous than those created by Congress. In a few years the great lines, stretching from the East far into the West and South, will be under the control of a few millionaires in Philadelphia and New York.

At a time when we most need cheap transportation, and the agricultural regions recede further and further from the market, these combinations increase, until now, in the interior of Ohio, we have to give one bushel of grain to get another to the seaboard. Here is work for indigent patriotism. Here is something that has a meaning to it, and can constantly employ our highest faculties in setting right.

To Southern Ohio, and to Cincinnati in particular, this Southern Pacific railroad is of vital importance. Of late years our entire railroad system has been so remodelled
 as to funnel everything through Chicago, and what with Chicago thus absorbing all the business at the North, and Louisville blocking us at the South, our city is in a pitiful condition, and if she lifts her voice against this improvement it is well to be sure that the principles are well founded, for the sacrifice is great. I doubt, however,
 whether there is any principle in it.

As I said before, the lands were almost worthless without the railroad, and with the railroad the rise in value of what is left more than pays for what is taken.

I have never had any great faith
 in the financial operations of Jay Cooke & Co., as connected with our Government, but I believe that in the best building the Northern Pacific railroad, and so managing its lands to accommodate the actual settlers, they are public benefactors and in the good future will be blessed as such. In the meantime, we want our share of these lands, even if it be plunder. When the roads
 now built were first agitated, it was well enough to take a high position, perhaps, and fight all corporations, but now that roads have been built not only for the benefit of other regions, but to our direct injury, we propose a fair divide, and therefore I say again, that I am glad the Southern Pacific is about to be a reality.

A VALUABLE SANDWICH.—At St. John, N. H., a few nights ago
 there was a very happy gathering of the members and congregation
 of Leinster Street Baptist Church.
 The Telegraph says that a very fine supper, embracing all the requirements of the appetite included between cold turkey and hot coffee, was prepared. Grace was said by the Pastor, Rev. W. S. McKenzie, at half past seven, after which a blue rosetted committee of eight young gentlemen passed the refreshments around among the seated assembly. A little girl, Miss Ida Ge-row, carried a sandwich to Rev.
 Mr. McKenzie which looked suspiciously thick, and was constructed with more than the usual number of layers. A paper on the first layer bore the inscription, "A sandwich for our pastor from his loved and loving people." Beneath the first slice nestled four $5 gold pieces, which were duly pocketed;
 another slice removed and a $50
 bill was discovered; another slice and three $5 pieces, and another slice revealed another $50—bill.
 The recipient was too full for utterance—he could get the cash to his pocket, but he could not eat the sandwich.

Policy of the Administration.

In conclusion, I would sum up the policy of the Administration to be a thorough enforcement of every law, a faithful collection of every tax provided for, economy in the disbursement of the same, a prompt payment of every debt of the nation, a reduction of the taxes as rapidly as the requirements of the country will admit, the reduction of taxation and tariff to be so arranged as to afford the greatest relief to the greatest number, honest and fair dealing with all other people, to the end that war, with all its blighting consequences, may be avoided, but without surrendering any right or obligation due to us, a reform in the treatment of Indians and in the whole civil service of the country, and finally in securing a pure, untrammelled ballot, where EVERY man entitled to cast a vote may do so just once at each election, without FEAR of mob violence or PROSCRIPTION on account of his POLITICAL FAITH, NATIVITY OR COLOR.

U. S. GRANT.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 5, 1870.

A Scrap From Burmah.

In the happy days when Karbath an Parah was King of the Burmese, a potter formed in his heart an evil plot against the prosperity of his neighbor, a wealthy washerman who lived in the same village. The envious potter, bent on injuring his good neighbor, went to the palace of the king and thus addressed him:

"O, illustrious prince! is it not well known in the mountains and valleys of our land that all the calamities which have come so severely and suddenly upon your kingdom of late years, have arisen from the fact that your majesty has no longer the charm of a white elephant, since the unfortunate death of the lucky white elephant which belonged to your father, who now reposes in rapture in the seventh heaven of the blessed immortals? Do you not know, O king, that the elephant which now carries you is but a common black beast, which brings only black luck to us? Having, therefore, your prosperity and glory at heart, O king, and kissing the dust from your golden feet, I venture to propose the following plan to your majesty: There is a washerman in this city of extraordinary skill in washing or dyeing a white everything brought to him, however black it may be, and however difficult to make white and beautiful. Let now, my lord the king consider well the word of his servant, and bid this skillful washerman to wash your elephant white, so that the white days of prosperity may once more dawn upon your blessed majesty and on the realm."

The king, who was weak in mind, heard the potter's project with delight, and readily assented to it. He summoned the skillful washerman, whose fame was great, and thus addressed him:

"I command thee, most loyal subject thy skill in washing my elephant white, that I may enjoy white days of prosperity even as my father before me."

But the washerman, who was a shrewd man, and ready withal, suspecting the plot of the potter to ruin him by so vain a project, thus spoke to the king—

"O my lord king! that I may wash my lord's royal elephant white, a suitable washing-house must be erected, and also a pot of corresponding size must be constructed, and then I will wash your majesty's highly respected elephant white, and feel myself thrice blessed in having carried out my lord the king's wishes."

On this the king summoned the potter, and enjoined him, on pain of his royal displeasure to construct a pot of sufficient dimensions to hold the royal elephant, as well as to sufficient quantity of water and other constituents for the ablution. The potter, in fear and trembling, collected an immense mass of clay, out of which he constructed a pot large enough to hold the royal elephant.

When, however the elephant stepped into this huge pot it broke into several pieces. Another pot was made of considerable thickness by the potter, who dares he would could not even by his largest fires bake it thoroughly, so as to make it both compact and strong. So the unfortunate potter was in this dilemma: if he made a thin pot it was broken by the weight of the elephant, and if he made it thick enough to resist such a weight, he could not, with all his efforts get the pot sufficiently baked and was obliged at last to give up the task as beyond his power, and to brave the royal displeasure, which consigned him to a prison for the rest of his life, and confiscated his goods.

"Plot not against thy neighbor," says the Burmese proverb, "lest thine own property suffer by the plot"—a proverb which is here well enforced.

Beauty and the Beast.

An instance of the American has come to my ears, and very funny I think it is. It seems that during the run of "As You Like It," a pretty school girl witnessing the performance became desperately smitten with the charms of Mr James Mace, the wrestling hero of the piece.

It appears that her infatuation was not too deep for utterance, and she gushed in several notes, which were sent to Mr. Mace's home in Twenty-third street. The fair demure laid her plans. She would write frequently—interest the puglist hero, and probably at the Lederkrans or masquerade ball of the winter, they would meet, and she would disclose to him her identity with the loving "Eoline," as she had signed her letters. But at the 'Americus' she found herself squeezed up in a corner with—who of all persons but the redoubtable James.

Heaven knows how she opened the conversation, but Mace finally took the whole atrocity in and addressed the little snuffer thus:

"So you're the one who wrote them letters signed Anodyne? Well, just let up on 'em will you? I have been in a pretty sweat about 'em. For you see my old woman is up to the house, and always laying for letters. She reads writing first rate and if she'd ever nailed one of them letters, I might just as well jump out of a four-story window; it would have been all day with me."

Poor Eoline! Lucky for the child, perhaps, the first indiscretion was committed in that direction—for she is thoroughly cured by Mr. Mace for all coming time.—New York Cor. St. Louis Republican.

A Lunatic in Love.

Late last night, Joseph Hudson, son of an ex-police captain, was found in a state of nudity, trying to climb a telegraph pole on Seventh avenue, near Thirtieth street. He was taken to West Thirtieth street police station, where he told the following story:

"I am in love. I was to have been married to night, and just before the hour appointed I saw my own, my lovely, walking along the telegraph wires on Seventh avenue. I tried to follow her, but a big black devil would push me down the pole faster than I could climb it."

Reared in the lap of luxury, poor Joe Hudson never had an ungratified wish, and lived like a butterfly for the hour only. Two or three years ago he became enamored of a Twenty-third street beauty, and she noticing evident signs of insanity, to be rid of his painful attentions, agreed to marry him last night. Never forgetting the hour and day named, he persistently followed her, when she jumped into a Seventh street car, and escaped from him. Her sudden disappearance being unaccountable, he imagined she had climbed a telegraph pole and escaped on the wires, whereupon he took off all his clothes and attempted to follow her. The police have properly cared for him.—New York Sun, Jan. 19.

The Army has reason to be well satisfied with the manner in which the reduction of its strength in the closing months of 1870 was conducted. Individual cases of hardship undoubtedly occurred, and there may be many officers discarded who feel that their services merited other treatment. But of the method pursued at headquarters there can be no criticism. When, after the discovery of the few officers who were no credit to the service, the question came down to the selection of one out of two of three deserving men, who were liable to the operation of the law, it was decided simply on the merits of the rivals. Their record was studied, the points of their service allotted fair value, and the discharge of the unsuccessful ones became a matter not of favor, but of judicial decision.

the court being the Secretary of War and the General of the Army, and the argument being the records of service. "Certainly nothing could be more just, and we are convinced that the plan has been carried out by the high-officers whose task it was, with all the fairness possible, and with as much impartiality as it is in human nature to exercise.—Army and Navy Journal.

SOME admirable person, who does not desire to be seen of men, is constantly sending anonymous gifts of $5,000 to English charities.

"I AM going to the postoffice, Baby shall I enquire for you?" "Well, yes, if you have a mind to, but I don't think you will find me there."

"IT ACTS LIKE A CHARM."—This is what we hear on all sides of DR. TUTT'S EXpectorant. In cases of Croup, Bronchitis, Asthma and all diseases it affords instant relief. THE NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

Through struggle and suffering, at the cost of multiform agonies, bereavements, devastations, the American Idea embodied in the preamble to our fathers' Declaration of Independence approaches its complete realization. The noble, inspiring assertion that "all men are created equal," and endowed by their Creator with inalienable rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, is no longer a glittering generality, a poet's fancy, a philosopher's speculation, but the recognized basis of our political fabric. The benign Revolution, which dates from the Boston Massacre of 1770, finds its logical completion, just one century later, in the XVII Amendment, which gives to the equal political and civil rights of every man born or naturalized in our Republic the shield and defense of the Federal Constitution. The billows of Caste and Privilege may roar and rage around that rock, and may transiently seem on the point of washing it away; but its foundations are deep, laid and steadfast, and the breakers of Reaction and Slavery are hurled against and dash their spray over it in vain.

We do not underrate the forces of Prejudice and Aristocracy. We do not forget that a very large minority of the American People still hold in their inmost hearts that Black have no rights which Whites are bound to respect. We fully appreciate the desperation with which all the existing elements of hatred to Republican achievement will be continued and hurled against the battlements of Republican ascendancy in the Presidential Election of 1872. We do not doubt that local successes, facilitated by Republican ferocity and dissensions, will inspire the charging host with a sanguine hope of victory, such as served it to justify its utmost strength in the earlier stages of the contest of 1864 and 1865. Yet our faith is clear and strong that the American People will bless God that, on the field of battle of our late civil War, the Union was upheld and Slavery destroyed, and will never consciously decide that the precious blood thereon poured should be lavished in vain.

The Tribune believes in the prosecution of the great struggle by legitimate means to beneficent ends. To State Sovereignty, it opposes indissoluble National Integrity; to Slavery for Blacks, Liberty for All; to Prescription, Enfranchisement; to Republicanism, Universal Extension; to Intensity and tenacity of Whirlwind Hate, universal and invincible Good Will. It would fain do its utmost to hasten the glad day when the South shall live with the North in exultation and gratitude over the disappearance of the last trace or taint of that spirit which impelled Man to exult in the ownership and chattelhood of his fellow Man.

Profoundly do we realize that the contest is not yet ended; that Millions more, more or less publicly, the down-fall of the slaveholders' Confederacy, and rear their children to hate them by whose valor and constancy its overthrow was achieved. If we ever seem to differ essentially from other Republicans, our conviction that magnanimity is never weakness, that vengeance is never politic, and that devils are not cast out by Beelzebub, must serve to explain alleged eccentricities whose perfect vindication we leave to Time and Reflection.

THE TRIBUNE has been, is and must be a zealous advocate of the Home Industry. Regarding habitual idleness as the greatest foe to human progress, the bane of human happiness, we seek to win our countrymen in masses from the ensnaring lures of Speculation, of Traffic, and of always overworked Professions, to the tranquil paths of Productive Industry. We would gladly deplore our over-strengthened cities, where thousands vainly jostle and crowd in misguided quest of "Something to Do," to cover prairies and plains with colonies assimilated in Agriculture, Mechanics and Manufactures, and constantly projecting into the blank, void wilderness the homes and the works of civilized Man. Holding the Protection of Home Industry by discriminating duties on imported Wares and Fabrics essential to the rapid, beneficent diffusion of Production in all its phases and departments, and so to the instruction of our people in all the useful arts of Peace, we urge our countrymen to adhere to and uphold that policy, in undoubting faith that the true interest, not of a class or a section, and every useful class, is thereby observed and promoted.

The Tribune aims to be preeminently a Newspaper. Its correspondents traverse every State, and present on every important battle-field, are early advised of every notable Cabinet decision, observe the proceedings of Congress, of Legislatures, and of Conventions, and report to us by telegraph all that seems of general interest. We have paid for one day's momentous advice from Europe by Cable far more than our entire receipts for the issue in which those advices reached our readers. If, in our unbounded vigilance, and unbounded faith in the liberality and discernment of the reading public, we enable us to make a journal which has no superior in the accuracy, variety, and freshness of its contents, THE TRIBUNE shall be such a journal.

To Agriculture and the subservient arts, we have devoted, and shall persistently devote, more means and space than any of our rivals. We aim to make THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE such a paper as no farmer can afford to do without, however widely his politics may differ from ours. Our reports of the Cattle, Horse, Produce, and General Markets, are so full and accurate, our essays in elucidation of the farmer's calling, and our regular reports of the Farmers' Club and kindred gatherings, are so interesting, that the poorest farmer will find therein a mine of suggestion and counsel, of which he cannot remain ignorant without positive and serious loss. We sell THE WEEKLY to Clubs for less than its value in dwellings for waste paper; and, though its subscription is already very large, we believe that a Half Million more farmers will take it when they shall be convinced of this statement. We ask our friends everywhere to aid us in so commencing it.

Section 1. That each and every person, firm, bank, banker, corporation or association of persons, liable to pay a license tax under any ordinance of the City imposing the same, shall before pursuing any occupation, business, avocation or calling, or before exercising any privilege, a license for which is required, pay to the City Collector the amount of license required by said ordinance, and the said Collector shall give a receipt therefor, which shall be presented to the City Clerk, who shall issue to the party the required license under the corporate seal of the city, and signed by the Mayor and City Clerk, and no license shall extend to more than one establishment, or include more than one occupation, avocation, business, calling or privilege.
Sec. 2. If any person, firm, bank, banker, corporation or association of persons, shall engage in any business, calling, avocation or occupation, or shall exercise any privilege, which by ordinance is subject to a license tax, without first having obtained said license, he, she or they upon conviction before the Recorder, shall be fined in a sum of ten dollars and costs, for each and every day said violation of said ordinance may continue, and in default of payment shall be committed to the City Jail and condemned to hard labor on the public works of the City, for not more than ten days nor less than five days, and the penalties and property of the ordinance shall be seized by the Collector, and placed in the hands of the Police of the city, until the said license tax shall be paid. Local Intelligence.

NOTICE.

All legal advertising in the San Antonio Express must be paid in advance...

See advertisement of Dr. Batts' Dispensary, headed "Book for the millions"...

The City Directory for 1871, of the city of San Antonio, for sale at 50 cents...

The little frost of the other morning did no damage to the fruit trees.

Stock buyers are invading this region of country.

Plain hats are to be the fashion of the coming season.

Corn rules at $1.50 per bushel. Large quantities scarce at that.

The plover season will open in about fifteen days.

Beer is in a terribly poor condition. A fat piece of beef would be a rarity...

The spring trade is opening. Two large wagon loads of spring goods arrived for a firm yesterday.

Dysenteric folks should travel awhile with the Cardiff Giant, or else go with Charlie Parker. He swears he cures 'em.

The recorder's court presents very few cases of disorderly action in the city. Most of the fines are upon notorious rascals who get drunk and lay around loose.

The entire corps of the Express employ-ment is extending their thanks to Mr. W. Noyes and his efficient and courteous manager, Mr. Robt. McCallis, for the present complimentary tickets to his Circus City Circus.

Our friend Dosche went out hunting day before yesterday. He went from fifteen to seventeen miles, and came back within twenty-four hours from starting, bringing three deer, the result of his expedition. It takes a prize shot and a good hunter to beat that.

Since the advent of Charley Noyes' Circus, we have been unable to do anything with Quilp.

He's got a mustang, and has been jumping over a banner, a la Wooda Cook, and yesterday smashed his wooden head into a wash heap. The doctor was afraid his brain was hurt, until he found he had none. As we write Quilp looms up, adown the street with his head tied up, and his hands full of tin whistles.

We'll bet a horse he thinks to play Charlie Parker's whistle trick on us.

The citizens of San Antonio are determined to do Charlie Noyes and his enterprise and excellent management full justice. Tuesday night the pavilion was densely packed, there hardly being standing room left for late comers. Charlie was equal to the emergency. He had provided a change of programme, introducing features even more attractive than the night before. No feasible to all, was the improvement by the riding of Mr. Nichols. The fractions horse of the night before had been discarded, and Mr. Nichols gave to the audience an exhibition of fine equestrian skill. His feat of riding around the arena, while standing upon his post on the horse, is something never before witnessed in San Antonio.

Charlie Parker, the California clown, (the fat clown) was just brim full of genuine fun. His jokes and witticisms sparkled around, hitting right and left, and leaving streaks behind them that were death upon buttons and tight clothes, and really placed him in public estimation, in the front rank of the brilliant, in his profession.

On the announcement by Mr. Poland of the entrance of Mrs. C. W. Noyes and her Arabian steed, the house was hushed to a quiet, almost painful in its intensity. Spectling and bewailing the horse came into the ring, bearing upon his back a perfect picture of grace combined with daring. Quietly the animal by a steady hand and a soothing voice, Mrs. Noyes began the performance. To the air of a grand march the animal went into the ring, keeping perfect step to the music. The music changed to a lively waltz, and as the strains of a polka floated merrily forth, the horse under her careful management, danced, actually danced, taking a step and alternately changing his feet a perfect marvel of skillful training and discipline. Then a waltz, then an ardent and fatiguing step, combining the steps of a half waltz and polka, to which the horse kept perfect time. Language fails to describe a title of the beauty and artistic excellence of this performance. The bright eyes of the driving, graceful and modest equine must be seen, showing that true fire of genius, which prompts this display of perfection in equine management and training.

The horse she rides is a full blooded Arabian, got dangerous to a degree, painful even to those who have been accustomed to his wild and fiery nature. No one ever mounted him until Mrs. Noyes, and the horse who stands that she alone is... his mistress. On her exit from the ring Tuesday evening, the horse plunged in a way to excite the apprehensions of a large part of the audience for Mrs. Noyes' safety, but when she half turned and smiled her appreciation of their assured solicitude, such a storm of applause went forth as San Antonio prodigets seldom, if ever, listened to. We do not pretend to have delineated a tithe of the beauty and worth of this manage act of Mrs. Noyes. The superlatives of the English language in all their strength would fail to convey a proper appreciation of its beauties.

The "love of the ladies," little Harry Conrad, was fully up to the standard of the night before, in his role of crown and acrobat. We may hereafter speak of his wonderful talents, at length.

Charley Noyes next introduced his four-year old thoroughbred "Grey Eagle." A horse six weeks training, has rendered this horse thoroughly subservient to the will of his accomplished teacher.

If a little fractions and unsuly at times, the crack of the whip speedily calls him to his duties. He unties a knotted handkerchief from either of his legs; finds it after being hid by Mr. Seely, in comical essay; keeps perfect step to the music of a waltz; waltzes around his master, stands upon his hind feet, and in that position backs out of the arena, a vision of noble strength, under the control of cultivated human judgment.

We hope Charlie may be able to preserve him from the singular fatality that has attached to other beautiful horses formerly exhibited here, for of all ever exhibited thus, Grey Eagle is the most promising and talented.

Wooda Cook essayed a new feat last night, and to all purposes succeeded. He successfully made a backward somersault through a balloon and alighted upon his horse, but the horse was very fractions and in nearly every instance slackened pace after Wooda's leaving his back, which threw Wooda from his balance in falling. The audience greeted his attempts with rousing cheers for he has demonstrated beyond cavil, what pluck and native talent can do. The other performers filled their roles with due credit to the manager who has promised our people the finest show ever in Texas. He has already redeemed and far exceeded all his promises, and yet new novelties and attractions are at hand.

We are only afraid that the bills presented to Charlie for damages to buttons, to ripped waistcoats and "sich like," the effects of Parker's "pure essence" will have the effect of reducing his profits considerably.

We were pleased to meet yesterday our pleasant friend Col. J. C. DeGress, who has just been placed upon the retired list, in consequence of harassing wounds received in the service of our country. The Colonel is as thoroughly Republican as he was a brave and gallant soldier, and these qualities united to his innate refinement and true gentility make him favorite wherever he goes. The Colonel speaks encouragingly of the future of Texas, and will probably take up his abode in our State, where the climate best agrees with his health. He has our best wishes for his continued happiness, and trust the inconvenience and suffering of his wounds will find relief in the rest which he will now be enabled to enjoy, after arduous duties in active service.

Five hundred persons visited the Panorama of New York city Tuesday night, and many went away because they could not be admitted. Yesterday afternoon the hall was crowded again. It exhibits at Munch-hall only this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and to-night.

Although we expected to see a remarkably faithful and artistic copy of the city of New York, we were astonished by its beauty and accuracy. It is everything it claims to be, and more. It gives not only a lifelike representation of the city itself, but a view of life, in all its phases, there in. As we apparently pass up and down the streets, the City Hall, Astor House, Tompkins, Trinity, University, Hospital, &c., rise before us in all the charm of faithful representation; while before them are seen the various characteristics and incidents of every day life in New York. Here are the veritable Kipp & Brown omnibuses—there the "pure Orange countymilk" in the yellow wagons; here the news-boy with his "Red Hextra" there the "do's" with his white hat in mourning. Here is the rag-picker, (who would reap a rich harvest by picking his own back,) and there is the pick-pocket, picking his teeth on the steps of the Astor. Here is John Chinaman, peddling cigars, and there is John Bull, trying to smoke them. Now we see Myrner and Nonsieur, and Patrick poor emigrants, just landed on our free shore, now Jonathan and Zeke and Joshua, who have just come from the rural districts, to pass a week or two, and see the sights. Younger is Horace Gregory in the vegetable and drag horse gun. Geo. P. Morris, in his regimentals—here comes Tom Thumb in his pony carriage, here is Scarsapilla Townsend in a blue coat, and on the corner, over there, is N. F. Willis, in all the glory of a monstache. On the corner of Broadway and Bleeker streets, the omnibuses are in a snarl, and a few blocks further up, a thunder shower overtakes you, and the ladies scamper in hot haste, to empty backs. In short, it is a mine of portraiture, landscape, beauty, pathos, and fun. The great merit of the painting all who see it will acknowledge, and we hope every body will see it.

Having for the last thirty-five years devoted my whole time and attention to the study of lung diseases and consumption, I feel that I understand fully the course that ought to be pursued to restore a tolerably bad case of diseased lungs to healthy soundness. The first and most important step is for the patient to avoid taking cold, and the best of all places for this purpose, for this purpose in winter, is Florida, well down in the State, where the temperature is regular, and not subjected to such variations as in more Northern latitudes. Palatka is a point I can recommend. A good hotel is kept there by Peterson. Last winter I saw several persons there whose lungs had been badly diseased, but who, under the healing influence of the climate and my medicines, were getting well.

One hundred miles further down the river is a point which I would prefer to Palatka, the temperature is more even and the air dry and bracing, Meltonville and Enterprise are located there. I should give a decided preference to Meltonville. It is ten miles from river or lake, and it seems almost impossible to take cold there. The tables in Florida might be better, and patients complain at times but that is a good sign, as it indicates a return of appetite, and when this is the case they generally increase in flesh, and then the lungs must heal.

Jacksonville, Hibernia, Green Cove, and many other places in various parts of Florida, can be safely recommended to consumptives in winter. My reasons for saying so are that patients are less liable to take cold there than where there is a less even temperature, and it is not necessary to say that where a consumptive person exposes himself to frequent colds he is certain to die shortly. Therefore my advice is, go well down into the State out of the reach of prevailing cold winds and fogs. Jacksonville, or almost any other of the localities I have named, will benefit those who are troubled with a torpid liver, a disordered stomach, distended bowels, sore throat or cough, but for those whose lungs are diseased, more southern is earnestly recommended.

For fifteen years prior to 1869, I was professionally in New York, Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia every week, where I saw and examined on an average five hundred patients a week. A practice so extensive, embracing every possible phase of lung disease, has enabled me to understand the disease fully, and hence, my caution in regard to taking cold. A person may take vast quantities of "Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sassafras Tonic and Mandrake Pills," and yet die if he does not avoid taking cold.

In Florida, nearly all are using Schenck's Medicine, especially Schenck's Mandrake Pills, for the climate is more likely to produce bilious habits than more northern latitudes. It is a well established fact that natives of Florida rarely die of consumption especially of the southern part. On the other hand, in New England, one third, at least, of the population die of this terrible disease. In the Middle States it does not prevail so largely, still there are many thousands of cases there. What a vast percentage of life would be saved if consumptives were as easily alarmed in regard to taking fresh cold as they are about scarlet fever, small pox, &c. But they are not. They take what they term a little cold, which they are credulous enough to believe will wear off in a few days. They pay no attention to it, and hence it lays the foundation for another and another still, until the lungs are diseased beyond all hope for cure.

My advice to persons whose lungs are affected even slightly is to lay in a stock of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Sassafras Tonic, and Schenck's Mandrake Pills, and go to Florida. I recommend these particular medicines because I am thoroughly acquainted with their action. I know that where they are used in strict accordance with my directions, they will do the work that is required. This accomplished, nature will do the rest. The physician who prescribes for cold, cough or night sweats, and then advises the patient to walk or ride out every day, will be sure to have a corpse on his hands before long.

"My plan is to give my three medicines, in accordance with the printed directions, except in some cases where a few of the Mandrake Pills necessary. My object is to give tone to the stomach, to give up a good appetite. It is always a good sign when a patient begins to grow fatter. I have hopes of such. With a relish for food and the gratification of that relish, come good blood, and with it more flesh, which is closely followed by a healing of the lungs. Then the cough loosens and abates, the creeping chills and clammy night sweats no longer prostrate and annoy, and the patient gets well, provided he avoids taking cold."

Now there are many consumptives who have not the means to go to Florida. The question may be asked, is there no hope for such? Certainly there is. My advice to such is, and ever has been, to stay in a warm room during the winter, with a temperature of about seventy degrees, which should be kept regularly at that point, by means of a thermometer. Let such a patient take his exercise within the limits of the room, by walking up and down as much as his strength will permit, in order to keep up a healthy circulation of the blood. I have cured thousands by this system, and can do so again. Consumption is as easily cured as any other disease if it is taken in time, and the proper kind of treatment is pursued. The fact stands undisputed on record that Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Mandrake Pills and Sassafras Tonic, have cured very many of what seemed to be hopeless cases of consumption; the wherewithal, you will be almost certain to find some poor consumptive who has been rescued from the very jaws of death by their use.

So far as the Mandrake Pills are concerned, everybody should keep a supply of them on hand. They act on the liver, better than calomel, and leave none of its harmful effects behind. In fact they are excellent in all cases where a purgative medicine is required. If you have partaken too freely of fruit and diarrhoea comes, a dose of the Mandrake will cure you. If you are subject to sick headache, take a dose of Mandrake, and they will relieve you in two hours. If you would obviate the effect of a change of water, or the too free indulgence in fruit, take one of the Mandrakes every night or every other night, and you may then drink water and eat watermelons, pears, apples, plums, peaches or corn, without the risk of being made sick by them. They will tend to those who live in damp situations, and catch colds and fevers. Try them. They are perfectly harmless. They can do you good only.

I have abandoned my professional visits to Boston and New York, but continue to see patients at my office, No. 15 N. SIXTH STREET, Philadelphia, every Saturday, from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged five dollars. The Respirometer measures the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not. For 1869, I distinctly undertake that the value of my medicines depends entirely upon their being taken strictly according to directions.

In conclusion, I will say that when persons take my medicines and their systems are brought into a healthy condition thereby, they are not so liable to take cold, yet to one with diseased lungs it is a sudden change of atmosphere, where without the liability of greater or less irritation of the bronchial tubes.

Full directions in all languages accompany my medicines, so explained and clear that any one can use them without consulting me, and can be bought from any druggist.

 The great field trials at Sedalia, Mo., and at Xenia, Ohio, in the Summer of 1869—where "The Clipper" met some 40 competitors including all the leading machines built, and was awarded the First Premiums and Gold Medal—prove that the proprietors have been able to sustain in the field the claims of superiority for the Clipper Machine of draft takes one-third of the labor of the team. The adjustability of the finger-bar, to cut high or low without stopping the team is worth $25 on any machine. It is the only mower that has the true center draft in accordance with correct mechanical principles. In short, it is the lightest, the most durable, the least complicated, the most perfectly constructed, the most symmetrical in design, of any implement of its class. Farmers THE CLIPPER is the Horse's Friend, and you cannot afford to ignore their welfare. Send for pamphlet—investigate. See or write to some one who has used THE CLIPPER. See the Machine yourself before you buy any other.

WONDERFUL RAPIDITY.
 Perfectly Regular and Even Distribution of the Seed. Caboon's Broadest Seeder. For Sowing all Kinds of Grain and Grass Seed.
 The unprecedented success of this Seeder the past season is without a parallel in the history of Agricultural Implements. The farmers of the Country have no longer get to wait in the hurry of Seeding time for the imperfect process of Hand Sowing, nor for the "Slow Coboshes," called "Combined Seeders."
 A Hand Caboon's Seeder will sow as fast as five, and a Power Caboon's Seeder as fast as twelve of them, and the work will be done better than it can be done by any means whatever.
 Farmers save your money and your time. Look to your own interests and not to the pockets of interested dealers and manufacturers.
