Weather Leaves Slight Crop Damage

Cotton Replanting Gets Underway Here

Predicted rain failed to materialize Tuesday night, after a thunderstorm which threatened a wide area Monday night. Most of the Monday night storm was concentrated north of Muleshoe with Lazbuddie bearing the brunt of the storm.

A brilliant electrical display lighted up the Monday evening sky, while depositing only .3 inch of rain, along with an unconfirmed report of a tornado on the ground southwest of Lazbuddie. Very little hail fell with the storm and no crop damage was recorded in the immediate area.

At the same time, Muleshoe received .03 rain, no hail, and apprehensive citizens listened closely to weather reports as civil defense and law enforcement officers kept a close watch on the threatening clouds.

Recent adverse weather, especially a sudden, whipping sand storm last Friday afternoon, has blistered and burned young cotton, some beyond saving, according to south and southwest Bailey County residents.

Some young cotton received minor hail damage along the southern edge of Bailey County, especially Enochs to Maple, and in the Bula area. However, Bailey County Agent Spencer Tanksley estimates that approximately 5,000 acres of cotton are affected some way, with 90 percent of the damage being

On the plus side, most cotton was planted by May 15, and with approximately seven or eight days left to plant, or replant cotton, some producers were already in the fields attempting to replant their crop.

On the minus side, some of the damaged cotton will go ahead and die, Tanksley said, especially the severely sandblasted and burned cotton from sandstorm which came right on the heels of a hard rain.

He said that hard rain on Thursday, followed by additional moisture on Thursday night and again on Friday morning, kept producers out of fields with sandfighting equipment. Tanksley said that by the time the producers could get into fields, some cotton could not be saved.

"What we need right now is dry, hot weather," said Tanksley. "Producers need to be getting into their fields for cultivation and side dressing."

Moraw Receives JCI Senatorship

In an emotion-packed room at the Catholic Center, Charles Moraw was presented Saturday night with the highest of Jaycee honors. Following presentation of Muleshoe's Sixth JCI Senatorship, the large crowd broke into a standing ovation which helped Moraw and his wife, Sheila, regain their composure.

At the close of the annual Muleshoe Jaycee Officer Installation and Award Banquet, Bill Russell, a former Muleshoe Jaycee, now of Clovis, started the presentation by giving some of Moraw's background in the Jaycees. The present local recipients of JCI Senatorships, with four present, lined up back of the speaker's podium. They were Ken Henry, Bob Stovall, Darrell Oliver and Curtis Walker. Not present was Jeff Smith.

It was noted that less than one percent of any Jaycee organization receives the coveted award, and the highest of honors. An emotional Butch Duncan, who made the presentation following Russell's introduction, led the way to pandemonium as the award was presented the surprised Jaycee.

It was brought out that Moraw has held every desirable office in the Jaycees, helped young people and has always been active in all Jaycee projects. As the presentation went on, Moraw and his wife realized who they were discussing, and held each other as Moraw's name was called out.

Local and visiting Jaycees congratulated Moraw, his wife, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Moraw, who were present for the award presentation. Butch Duncan also presented the Outstanding Citizen of the Final tallies on the 1976 cotton crop show the value of production to be $1,112,018,000, just slightly under the record set in 1973. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown, announced this week.

Final Cotton Tallies Show Near Record

The total Texas crop value was 84 percent higher than the previous year. Number of bales was 3,307,000, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

"An all-time high for U.S. cash receipts for cotton was $3.7 billion in 1976," Brown reported. U.S. production totaled 10.6 million bales.

"All of our reports show that the 1977 cotton crop will be even bigger in Texas. There is little indication so far that foreign

Horticulture New WTSU Degree Offer

An increased interest in horticulture as a career and as a hobby has prompted the West Texas State University Department of Plant Science to offer a degree option and three classes in horticulture for the fall semester of 1977.

Ornamental horticulture, which is the art and science of growing and arranging plants to beautify one's surroundings, will be in three-hour courses of Home Horticulture, Introduction to Horticulture and Principles of Horticulture.

Home horticulture will be offered at 11 a.m. on Monday and Wednesday with a practical laboratory experience at 11 a.m. on Friday.

The course will include basic principles of plant propagation and practical care of lawns, gardens, shrubs, flowers and house plants and elementary landscape design.

"This course is especially designed for individuals interested in horticulture as a hobby, particularly for interested individuals in the community and for non-major students," said Dr. Ron Thomason, head of the Plant Science Department.

Housewives, amateur gardeners and senior citizens might be interested. Introduction to horticulture will be offered at 8 a.m. on Tuesday and Thursday with lab work at 1 p.m. on Thursday. The general survey course will cover the principles of the various disciplines of horticulture including vegetable crops, ornamental plants, fruit trees, turf management and landscape design.

Basic principles of flower propagation and greenhouse production techniques for the commercial and home flower grower will be included in the course on principles of floriculture which will meet at 9 a.m. on Monday and Wednesday with lab experience at 1 p.m. on Monday.

Career opportunities in horticulture are available in the areas of greenhouse production of floricultural plants and vegetables; in retail sales of ornamental plants, trees, shrubs, and lawn care products; in turf management services for lawns, golf courses, municipal parks, campuses, cemeteries and roadside parks; and in landscape design services for beautification of homes, public buildings, parks, golf courses, and campuses, Dr. Thomason said. State and federal positions are also available in research and extension.

For a degree option in horticulture, students must complete 124 hours for graduation including 37 hours of general education requirements, 34 hours of agriculture courses and the remaining hours in plant science.

Clean Air Conditioner For Efficiency

A clean, well-maintained air conditioner means more efficient cooling—and comfort—for the family, says the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Regular inspection and cleaning of filters and grills in home air conditioner units keeps the house cooler—and saves fuel.

Filters are traps for the almost invisible impurities in the air that regularly build up an accumulation of dirt. Air conditioner filters in most units require vacuuming and warm-water washing monthly. Shake off excess water, dry and replace filter.

An alternative to that is the disposable filter—available in various sizes, usually easy to change, and inexpensive.

New homes—or recently remodeled homes—may need

Consumer Protection Act

The Texas Farm Bureau, along with Farm Bureaus over the nation, is making a big push to defeat the Consumer Protection Act of 1977.

U.S. House and Senate Committees have reported out bills, H.R. 6118 and S. 1262 would create an independent, non-regulatory "Agency for Consumer Advocacy" charged with the responsibility of representing consumer interests before all federal agencies.

In an action-requested letter sent to all counties in Texas, the TFB urged that communications be sent to Congressmen, both Texas Senators, and to President Carter in opposition to the proposed Consumer Protection Act of 1977.

Farm Bureau policy on the matter reads in part: "We do not believe the government can protect every consumer in each of his transactions without infringing upon his personal freedom. We oppose the establishment of any consumer agency..."

The Agency that would be established in the proposals would be directed by an administrator appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate for a four-year term. The administrator and his staff could intervene in the actions of any federal agency which affects consumers, and could sue any agency in federal courts to force concessions on behalf of consumers.

According to Ed McKay, TFB national affairs director, prime areas of action for the Agency would be prices, quality, safety, availability, and reliability of products and services for consumers.

Actions of organized labor would be exempt from intervention by the Agency. Prices of raw agricultural commodities would be exempt in the House bill, but not in the Senate bill.

"Exemptions for raw agricultural commodities would mean nothing if wholesale or retail prices are restricted," McKay said.

During debate on the bill, an amendment was offered to exempt import-export transactions. The amendment was rejected by supporters who said one of the chief objectives would be to impose embargoes on agricultural exports to prevent another "Russian wheat deal."

Post Planting Care Of Young Shade Trees

Summer is a critical period for recently planted shade and ornamental trees, so they often need special care to withstand hot, dry weather, says a landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Water is the prime need of young trees during the summer season since a great deal of moisture is lost from the leaves and stems," points out Everett Janne. "Since young, transplanted trees have a limited root system, they can only use water close by. If this soil area becomes dry, the leaves wilt, turn brown and drop. Death of many branches or even the entire tree can follow."

Janne suggests watering at regular intervals all trees planted within the past year. If the soil is sandy, water about once a week; if it is clay or loam, thorough watering every 10 days to two weeks should suffice.

Using an open-end hose, regulate the water flow so there is no run-off and let it run until the soil around the tree is saturated. To determine whether or not you are supplying the proper amount of water, take soil samples between waterings at depths of 12 to 18 inches; the soil should be moist but not muddy.

"Insect control is also an important part of post planting care of trees," notes the horticulturist. "Since even a light infestation can cause severe damage to a newly planted tree, control measures should be taken promptly when insects are found. This means applying appropriate insecticides according to the manufacturer's instruction."

Promoting steady, vigorous, growth through the proper use of fertilizers once trees are established will reduce the chance of insect damage, especially from borers, adds Janne.

Money, and not morality, is the principle of commercial nations.

demand will lessen. Prices should remain good, despite the increased acreage," Brown said.

Southern High Plains farmers were able to harvest 1,635,000 bales from 2,100,000 acres despite hail damage early in the season and freezes in October. Yield was increased over last year from 282 pounds per acre to 374.

Drought Areas Can Get New Water Loan

Rural areas that have suffered substantial losses and hardships due to a diminished water supply caused by abnormal drought conditions may be eligible for loans and grants from Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

The loans and grants are part of a program of special federal assistance to drought-stricken areas announced recently by President Carter, according to

He added, "It's not impossible for producers to replant cotton by June 1, but I would like to caution them to check carefully before replanting."

"It is possible to produce a near normal crop if they still have two seedlings per foot row, although we prefer four seedlings. But, if they do plan to replant, or have enough damage that replanting will be necessary, it will have to be done, pronto."

Tanksley estimated most of the damage in the county across the far southern part of the county, and from Bula to Circleback with lesser amounts in the sandhills' farm area. He said that most crops would not need to be irrigated for the next two to three weeks, even if no additional moisture would fall.

However, according to present weather forecasts, the intermittent rain, along with some severe thunderstorms would be continuing for a few days. Last week, most of the severe weather was three or four counties to the east of Bailey County, and Tanksley said crops were severely damaged in Hale, Hockley, Garza, Lubbock, Crosby and Floyd Counties. A brief tour of those counties showed varying amounts of crop damage, with some crops totally wiped out.

Spotted damage was reported from Enochs through Littlefield with a few farmers wiped out by hail or washouts from heavy rain, according to Claunch Gin at Bula. Nearly six inches of rain has fallen during the past week in that area.

At Maple, Maple Seed and Delinting said severe weather had damaged crops southwest of Maple, moving across the county on the west side. Hail and sand were attributed to damaging the crops in that area. Slight damage was reported in the Lazbuddie area, with Foster Fertilizer reporting that farmers are fertilizing and cultivating their land.

John C. Kennedy, FmHA County Supervisor for Bailey County. FmHA is a rural credit service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The special FmHA loans and grants may be made to eligible applicants in federally designated drought disaster areas when needed to provide an adequate water supply to those communities faced with severe problems as a result of the drought conditions.

Assistance may be provided for the construction, enlargement, extension, or improvement of water facilities to improve drought caused problems. This assistance may include, but would not be limited to deepening existing wells, drilling new wells, developing a new water source or extending water supply lines to other water sources. The deadline for applications and certification of eligibility is September 30, 1977. Projects must be completed by November 30, 1977.

The special FmHA aid will come from funds in addition to those already allocated for the current fiscal year for FmHA's Water and Waste Disposal loan and grant program. The supplemental appropriation provides $150 million for loans and $75 million for grants.

FmHA makes loans for water and waste disposal systems in rural areas and communities of up to 10,000 population to public bodies and non-profit organizations. Mahon Urges Emphasis On Beef Exports Congressman George Mahon, 19th District Representative, met today with Ambassador Robert Strauss, the President's Special Trade Representative, to discuss strategy for increasing U.S. beef exports to Japan and other countries. Also attending the meeting were representatives Jack Hightower and Bob Krueger of Texas.

"The High Plains is one of the largest beef-producing areas in the United States and we must work actively to develop better foreign markets," said Mahon after the meeting.

Ambassador Strauss, also a Texan, agreed with the Texas group that greater stress should be placed on agricultural exports and that in future trade talks agricultural considerations would be treated on a par with industrial needs, which has not been the case in the past. Strauss expects bilateral negotiations to begin in late summer or early fall.

Presently the U.S. has about 12 percent of the beef import market in Japan and Japanese import quotas prevent more American beef from being sold in that country. U.S. beef can be shipped to Japan and sold to the Japanese consumer at $10 to $15 per pound for choice beef. "It is important we push for a greater share of this highly desirable market," said Mahon.

Ambassador Strauss reported in the meeting that he had had two discussions in recent months with Japanese government officials on the subject of beef imports and that President Carter had discussed the problem with Japanese Premier Fukuda when he visited Washington recently.

MRS. MARK CORKERY

Miss Debbie Furgeson, Corkery Repeat Vows

Vows were solemnized for Miss Debbie Furgeson and Mark Corkery Friday, May 20, in the Three Way Baptist Church of Maple. Randy Daw of Canyon officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.F. Furgeson of Maple. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Corkery of Whitharral.

Miss Cindy Caswell of Leveland sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer". She was accompanied by Mrs. Doyleen Terrell of Maple, organist, and Miss Karen Corkery of Whitharral, pianist. Serving as candlelighters were Miss Susan Corkery and Miss Kristin Corkery, sisters of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white dotted swiss fashioned with a deep scalloped neckline edged with Venice lace. A small edged cape formed a short sleeve. The full A-line skirt cascaded into a chapel length train and a deep flare ruffle formed the hemline of the skirt and train. The headpiece was a bandeau of matching lace holding a laced-edged veil of illusion.

Miss Connie Richardson of Maple attended the bride as maid of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Lea Legan of Whiteface, Mrs. Melissa Qualls of Lubbock, and Miss Kathy Foard of Littlefield. They wore formal length gowns of rainbow dotted swiss styled with empire waists and rounded necklines. They were trimmed with white lace at the empire waist. Miss Krista Green, niece of the bride, and Miss Lauren Corkery, sister of the groom, served as flower-girls.

Serving as best man was Chuck Dupler of Maple. Groomsman were Dan Simpson of Goodland, Alan Nickson and Joey Nichols, both of Lorenzo. Ushers were Johnny Boyce and Ronnie Richardson, son of Maple, and Jerry Sowder of Bula.

Matthew Corkery, brother of the groom, and Brian Green, nephew of the bride, attended the bride and groom as ring bearers.

A reception, following the ceremony, was held in the Three Way Homemaking Department. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake and punch was served from the table covered with a white lace table cloth. Miss Aletha Magness of Canyon, Miss Leann Abbe of Floydada, Miss Pam Partlow of Needmore, Miss Cindy Partlow of Morton, Miss Susan Daw of Midland, and Miss Kandy McCarty of Denver, Colo., served the guests. Serving at the registry table was Miss Sydney Smith of Lorenzo. Miss Tammy Davis and Miss Robin Reeves passed out rice bags to the guests.

The bride and groom are both graduates of Three Way High School and are now attending West Texas State University in Canyon.

After a wedding trip to San Antonio, the couple will reside in Canyon.

HARD WORKING...Mrs. Ruby Bruns second grade class of Lazbuddie was one of the many classes working hard to collect cereal box tops to obtain physical fitness equipment for the school.

GIFTS FROM YOUNG HOMEMAKERS...Dana McDonald, left, and Pat Dale, both of Lazbuddie High School, display gifts from Lazbuddie Young Homemakers. The Young Homemakers bought a card table and chairs, a punch bowl and set and an oven roaster for the Home Economics Department.

Young Homemakers Continue Projects

The Lazbuddie Young Homemakers continued their projects of 1976-77 by helping with the Swine Flu Clinic, held in the Lazbuddie Cafeteria on November 28, 1976, under the direction of Dr. Paul Spring of Friona Hospital. Approximately 75 persons took advantage of the free clinic.

On January 27, the Young Homemakers helped the Lazbuddie F.H.A. girls with their annual style show. The Young Homemakers furnished the salads and several members were models.

The Post Cereals Box Tops for Fun-n-Fitness program in the Lazbuddie school system was sponsored by the Young Homemakers. A total of 261 box tops were collected by Lazbuddie elementary, Junior High and High School students and community members in the two month drive.

The box tops were redeemed for a General Sportscraft basketball and four inflating needles.

The Young Homemakers purchased a folding table, a 51 piece punch bowl set, an 18 quart over roaster and a card table and four chairs to express their appreciation to Mrs. Bill Morris, their advisor, and to the F.H.A. girls who babysat during their meetings. These gifts were presented to the Lazbuddie Home Economics Department.

The effort to secure selfish advantages explains much of what is termed "politics."

Tommy came home proudly from his first day at school. "What did you learn in school?" asked his mother. "Nothing," said Tommy; then, seeing the look of disappointment on her face, he added, "but I learned a lot during recess."

Music Students Presented Certificates

Students of Mrs. Sam McKinstry entertained the mothers with a party and a program of music Friday, May 20, in the studio of Mrs. McKinstry.

A tradition is some news of the dim past that happens to fit in with someone's present plan.

The "more pay for less work" idea has a counterpart in "more profits for less goods."

The average youngster can tell his, or her, parents, how life should be lived, and then some.

School Children Purchase Items For Classes

The Muleshoe Elementary PTA presented each grade at Richland Hills and Mary De Shazo with a check for $50. This money came from proceeds from the Halloween Carnival.

The Kindergarten class bought a vacuum cleaner with their money. Ropes, balls and etc., for recess and after lunch, were purchased by the first grades. The second grades bought mimeograph materials for math and reading. Children in the third grades purchased a cassette recorder and tapes. A cassette recorder, duplicating masters for creative writing and finger puppets were bought by the fourth graders. The fifth grades were able to purchase a cassette recorder, tapes and thermo units.

Farm Accident Showing Effects

Farm machinery and recent winter weather have taken their toll of Texas farm and ranch accident victims, according to Dr. Gary Nelson, a safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Nelson bases his report on information obtained from 300 volunteers who have recently begun collecting facts about accidents on a sample of 3,000 Texas farms and ranches. The accident study is being carried out through a cooperative effort of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the National Safety Council. The efforts of volunteer data collectors are directed toward decreasing the 200 accident fatalities and approximately 4,000 disabling injuries which occur on Texas farms and ranches every year. Data will be collected at the end of every quarter throughout 1977. "Early returns of accident descriptions indicate that 30 per cent have involved slips and falls, with the majority involving falls on ice. Other falls included those from ladders and slips and falls on mud," points out Nelson. Another 30 per cent of the reported accidents involved machinery, with tractors leading the list. Nelson notes that one type of tractor accident which involves the handling of large round hay bales contains a potential for a fatal outcome. This occurs when the front-end loader is raised too high and the bale-all 1,000 pounds worth-rolls down the arms of the elevated loader and lands on the head of the tractor operator. "Other accidents revealed in early study returns involve the mishandling of animals, inadequate lifting of materials, and misuse of handtools," notes the safety engineer. "It is important to learn what accidents are occurring to our neighbor farmers and ranchers," emphasizes Nelson. "This will assist equipment designers in correcting discovered deficiencies and will cause operators and users to give special attention to following correct procedures where a high potential for mishap exists."

Clayton Predicts Outstanding Record

Every major piece of legislation which was expected to be brought before the Texas Legislature during its present session has now been addressed by the House of Representatives, according to House Speaker Bill Clayton.

Clayton, a Springlake farmer and representative of District 74, said the House has taken affirmative action on the pressing issues of school finance, property tax reform, medical malpractice, coal slurry pipelines, appropriations for the state for the next two years, and many other issues.

"There have been more than 4,000 pieces of legislation introduced during the House and Senate during the 65th session," Clayton said. He added, "While we cannot hope to address every bill introduced, we have worked very hard to look at substantive issues.

"While we in the House cannot control the flow of legislation from the Senate, I am pleased that it now appears that we will be in a position to end this session with a good record on statewide problems."

The appropriations bill, which took eight days of debate time in the House, was approved at $15.37 billion. The Senate approved a larger bill and the two bills have been reconciled by conference committees of the two houses. The spending measure dictates how and on what the state will spend its income over the period 1978-79.

"The spending bill is always the most important bill to be addressed, but there are probably as many as 200 major bills which we need to pass to make the state more efficient and more productive. There are also a great number of bills which deal at regional, city or county levels that must be attended by the Legislature.

"About half of the legislation introduced can be discounted either from the standpoint of being bad for the state or a particular segment of our citizenry or being superfluous and not needed.

"I think in this session, with as much emphasis as we have placed on teacher salaries, highways, our needy citizens and anti-crime legislation that we are coming to the conclusion of the session with a record that will stand on its own merits," Clayton added.

The Legislature must complete its business by midnight May 30. The 140-day session began January 11.

On Wall Street

By Bob Hill

Economic, fuel-saving Japanese automobiles are pouring into the U.S. The question now is, what can this country send to Japan to offset the large amounts of imports to the U.S. The answer is live cattle, a basic "energy related" export, airfreighted to Japan.

Swimming Safety Is Emphasized

Hot weather is here and families are once again heading for lakes and rivers to engage in water sports. These can be fun times, yet they can quickly turn into a tragedy, points out the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Water sports provide excellent recreation, but safety must be foremost in the minds of everyone engaged in such activities. Accidental drowning claims thousands of lives over the United States each year. Last year about 600 Texans lost their lives in water-related accidents, with most of the deaths occurring during the summer months.

Listed are some safety tips on swimming to make those outdoor outings to your favorite lake both fun-filled and safe:

1. First of all, all non-swimmers should enroll in a swimming course. Check with your local Red Cross, YMCA or YWCA, or other community groups that may be conducting such courses.
 2. Never swim alone and know the area in which you are swimming. Even a strong swimmer can be undone by strange currents, tides or sudden drop-offs.
 3. Supervise small children constantly.
 4. Don't swim if chilled, overheated or overtired, or if a thunderstorm threatens.
 5. If a person near you is in danger of drowning, don't jump in after him unless you are trained in lifesaving. Instead, extend a pole, life buoy or anything that will float.
- Surveys have shown that almost half the drowning victims in the United States last year were reluctant swimmers. That fact in itself should serve to make people more cautious around water.

a beef-lift seem impossible. A 1,200-pound steer selling for $600 in Colorado or Montana costs another $600 to fly to Tokyo from Moses Lake, Wash., staging area for most cattle charter flights. The importer pays $250 in duties plus another $250 for a quarantine for two to four weeks before the animal can be slaughtered.

But now U.S. cattlemen have found that American Beef-on-hoof undercuts Japanese wholesale beef prices by 30 per cent. The U.S. beef is also only slightly higher in price than lower quality grassfed Australian beef, which accounts for 85 per cent of Japanese beef imports. The break for U.S. cattle exporters came in mid-1976 when the Japanese slashed by 22 per cent its six-month quota on butchered cattle imports. The U.S. was allowed only 12 per cent as its share. Live steers are quota-free, enabling U.S. cattlemen to easily skirt the Japanese protectionism.

The U.S. flew 2,938 head of slaughter cattle to Japan last year, up from just 79 head the year before. In the first three months of this year, 1,781 head of cattle flew the great circle route to Tokyo. Flying Tiger Line, Inc., the airline which hauls 40 per cent of all cattle to Japan expects a banner year. Airlines have shipped breeder cattle for many years, so handling the animals poses no new problems.

Some shippers fear the Japanese government could crack down on cattle imports. In fact, the Japanese government has warned U.S. officials informally to hold down on the number of exported animals. However, the Japanese have an automatic ceiling: the quarantine capacity is only 900 cattle at any given time.

Cattle are not the only animal protein flying to Japan. Exports of bluefin tuna to Japan are soaring. Flying Tiger expects to haul one million pounds of whole tuna packed in dry ice from Boston to "sushi" bars in Tokyo, double last year's shipments. Tuna in Japanese waters are mercury-contaminated. California skin divers are making high wages diving for sea urchins roe, which the Japanese eat like caviar at $2 a spoonful.

Digging in Italy

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) - A University of Texas archaeology project is digging into what rural life was like in ancient Italy from about 600 B.C. to 400 A.D.
Taking place near Metaponto, Italy, the excavation will help UT Austin scholars learn about the homes, industries, places of worship and cemeteries of the rural populace during the period when the classical Greek and Roman civilizations transformed the area.
Dr. Joseph C. Carter of the Classics Department says little is known about the rural folk who lived outside of cities and who made up 90 per cent of the population of the classical world.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights
by Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN - The 65th legislature is winding down, with most of its major finance chores unfinished but with significant legislation clearing both houses at a fast clip.

As the last week of the session began, lawmakers had still to accept a conference committee's version of a $1.4 billion 1978-79 state budget.

They also had yet to resolve differences between the House's $700 million school finance bill and $373 million teacher pay raise measure and the Senate's $820 million wrapup of both subjects.

Among issues on which both houses came to terms were the bill to bring Texas unemployment compensation laws in line with federal statutes. The measure also increases maximum unemployment benefits from $63 to $84 a week (with an escalator feature to cope with inflation).

Its passage assures Texas employers of retaining $600 million a year in federal unemployment program tax credits and retains $60 million in administrative aid to Texas Employment Commission.

The legislature has also passed and sent to the governor a bill to grant Texas motorists an exemption from insurance and drivers license "penalties" for speeding violations in the 55-70 miles per hour category.

Major casualties of the legislative session may be bills dealing with property tax reform and the medical malpractice crisis.

A variety of law and order compromise bills are finding their way through the legislative maze to Gov. Dolph Briscoe's desk.

Agencies Merged
Merger of three major state water agencies has legislative approval.

The consolidation act (SB 1139) combines the Water Development Board, Water Rights Commission and Water Quality Board under a new three-member State Department of Water Resources.

The six-member Water Development Board, effective September 1, will exercise legislative functions of the merged department. An executive director will handle administrative functions.

A three-member Texas Water Commission will exercise judicial functions of the department.

Farmers Union Looks At New Legislation

Texas Farmers Union President Jay Naman of Waco released the following statement on the federal farm bill which has recently been reported out of the agricultural committees of both houses of Congress: "Despite reports from Washington that members of the House Agriculture Committee congratulated themselves with applause on the voting out of the four-year farm bill, Texas farmers do not share this enthusiasm. They view the committee approved bills as a dismal display of irresponsible action that will condemn agriculture to four more years of tottering on the brink of economic ruin.

"A recent Department of Agriculture survey shows that Texas is one of the nine states surveyed by the Federal Reserve Bank indicating that 'the financial condition of the farmers has deteriorated'. The report pointed out that one-third of the farmers in these states are having difficulty getting re-financed and one-fourth of the bank borrowers in these states will be forced to re-finance their loans or dispose of their farm assets, if price improvements are not imminent. It showed that 11,300 Texas family farmers are in extreme economic difficulty.

"With the exception of the dairy section of the farm program, in itself not good enough, both the Senate and the House versions of the farm bill are totally inadequate to meet the needs of a financially strong agriculture. Prices on all the basic commodities are set at or below the cost of production. Among the worst sections of the farm bill are those which pertain to cotton, peanuts, and rice, but when a farmer asks himself what commodity he might produce and be better off, it becomes a question of whether he is 'shot or hung'.

"The peanut provisions of the bill are a radical departure from what peanut farmers have voted for and supported traditionally. The language which substitutes poundage quotas for acreage allotments will be extremely discriminating and detrimental to producers in Texas and Oklahoma. In fact, the proposed peanut program will wreck the economies of those areas which have traditionally produced peanuts in the southwest.

The cotton section of the bill sets loans and target prices at or below the cost of production and assures the U.S. cotton producer that it is unlikely that he will ever again receive a parity or fair price for his crop. The bill contains provisions which permit the importation of an unprecedented amount of raw cotton. In other words it puts a lid on the price of cotton at a low level.

The rice section of the bill perpetuates the grave mistake which was made two years ago in repealing a good rice program which farmers had supported and voted for through the years.

"The farm bill, as approved by the Senate and House Agriculture Committees, provides a gigantic windfall to the processors and handlers of farm commodities. By setting loan prices at depressed levels and permitting the importation of raw cotton, the international grain traders and cotton shippers are assured of the continuation of a high volume of low priced farm commodities. The peanut bill is a special interest peanut program designed to benefit the peanut shellers and crushers at the expense of family farmers.

"The implications of cheap grain which will be guaranteed under the proposed farm legislation will extend beyond the producers of that grain and will affect an already depressed cattle industry by intensifying the problem by encouraging more production of cheap red meat. Sadly enough, the low prices and economic chaos which will result from the new farm bill will not result in lower retail prices to the consumer. In fact, the consumer can anticipate even higher prices when more family farmers are put into bankruptcy.

"Farmers Union commends the handful of members of the Senate and House Agriculture Committees who had the courage to vote against the majority because of the inadequacy of the legislation. We shall work with them in an effort to get floor amendments to the farm bill that will improve it. We cannot support the legislation as it is presently constituted."

California Gov. Brown said would follow death law.

Collecting art

AUSTIN, Texas. (Spl.) — More than 20 students in a new course at The University of Texas this spring were given an imaginary $5,000 to "spend" for art works.

The course, Collecting Contemporary Art for the Beginner, was designed to acquaint non-art majors with art terms, techniques, dealers and private collections so they will be confident about collecting works of art for their future homes or offices. Each student, as part of his grade, has to justify his art purchases.

Among other things, the course has taught students "you can't buy a genuine signed Picasso print for $75, including the frame," says Dr. Kenneth Prescott, who conducted the class.
