LOVED.
For the Cincinnati Gazette.
In and out, among the grasses,
Come the dainty, slippered feet;
Come unconscious of their errand,
Bringing me a message sweet.
Eyes for want of rest, half hidden,
Eyes I have to read as well.
Ah! a glimpse of something dearer
Than I knew the lip will tell—
Of the faith and truth as steadfast
As the light of stars at sea—
Of the glory gleaming, love's night,
Shining softly there for me.

What the words are I 'tis needless Common words the lips have said.
More, a tenderness that troubled
In the low toned voice, I read.
Love's lips open, and lips a quivering,
Brought the dainty, slippered feet,
Lips and eyes, revealed to hidden,
Showered to me, my message sweet. — E. E.

The following dialogue is one of the concoctions of a first class ear is very French why?
"My little angel," asked a fond husband,
"are you comfortable in your room?"
"Yes, thank you." "You do not feel the cold?" "Not at all." "Your window is closed?" "Naturally, dear." "Then come and take my place!"

The Household Tonic.
The efficacy of Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters as a specific for restoring the unfeeling body and cheering the deponding mind has passed into a proverb.
In the United States, where this marvelous tonic has borne down all opposition and slipped all rivalry, the demand for it has annually increased in a heavier and heavier ratio for years, until at last, the regular sales of this preparation exceed other preparations combined. Eminent members of the medical profession and hospital surgeons without number, have candidly admitted that the pharmacopoeia of the family contains no preparation that produces such beneficial effects in dyspepsia, general debility and nervous diseases, as Hostetter's Bitters. To use the language of a venerable physician of New York, "The Bitters are the purest stimulant and the safest tonic we have. But the name of the great vegetable antidote are much more comprehensive than such praise should imply. As a preparatory antidote to epidemic disease, a general stimulant, a promoter of constitutional vigor, an appetizer, a stomachic, and a remedy for nervous debility, no medicinal preparation has ever attained the reputation of Hostetter's Bitters. It is the household tonic of the American people, and in all human probability will be so for centuries to come.
The magnitude of science recognizes martials; and that it is emphatically the medicine of the masses, is proved by its vast and ever increasing sale.

An Ordinance.
Providing for the preservation of good order within the City Limits.
Sec. 1. Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of San Antonio,
That if any person within the City Lim-fense.

through the authorized committee or delegate, apply to the Mayor for permission to fire said cannon within the City Limits, and the Mayor may in his discretion give such permission under such conditions as he may prescribe, but in every sion shall give previous public notice thereof through the press of the city, and the Beginnings of the End.

In the fall of Paris, and the temperate action of the Versailles Government, headed by Thiers, we see, we hope, a lucid interval in the craziness of France, that will at least give the horror-stricken people of that once fair land, breathing time, and enable them to inhale one sweet breath of peace, instead of absorbing the noxious atmosphere of bloody, savage and interminable strife.

The world, for months, has read of horrors and terrors prevailing in unhappy France, that fairly rival all precedents of the insanity of that nation, not excepting even the bloody revolution of 1790-92. The wall that goes up from the hearth-stones of that people, reaches in its harrowing intensity, to the farthest corners of the civilized world, and as the news flashes along, that there is a hull, that there is a rift in the clouds of destructive war, and a hope for a final peace, every heart will echo in thanks, that the world is spared a further knowledge of the desolation and ruin, that like some fearful sign, has with its hot breath, blasted and withered the hills of France.

America, especially, that has emerged from the shadows of internal strife, will send her cheerful greetings to France, and bid her God speed in the work of regeneration and reform, that is before her. The apathy, the luxuriousness of life, that had settled upon the French people ere the storm of war, found them unsheltered from its wrath, has been dissipated in the trials, fatigues and sufferings of long, weary months, where madness ruled the hour, and the cup of a people's bitterness of woe, has been drained to the dregs. With the approach of quiet, the air is cleared of the frivolities and extravagances of royalty, and true worth, is likely to become the standard, by which a people select a ruler; they having learned by bitter experience, the need of something besides the mere outside show of government, to make them a strong and self-reliant people.

We have hopes that the madness of the people of France, has gone from them, forever. We have hopes, that with the last evanescent echo of royal steps, that the people will have become so republicanized as to create a firm, substantial Republican Government. We have hopes, that the narrowness of views that pertain to Cæsarism, have given place to the broader logic of the necessity of a people's government.

France has hungered for republicanism for a hundred years. Brooding over the wretchedness of that hunger, is what has driven her, at times, mad. Her people have clamored for bread, and royalty has given them a stone. They have asked for release from the wretchedness of the lower strata of society, from the social and moral taint with which royalty has in times past diseased them, and they have been answered by the mocking presentation of tinsel adornment and gilded trappings, and told to dress themselves in those hollow mockeries, while all was rottenness within. No wonder the Nation's reason tottered and fell, and that the other extreme of misery was reached. Like the pent up waters when bursting from bonds and barriers, destruction has followed the course of the Nation's renunciation of Royalty, but now a clear sun shines beyond, the waters are seeking their level, and we have hopes that the beautiful valleys of La Belle France will again become the abodes of peace and contentment, and of a free, enlightened, happy people.

War among the South Jersey editors still continues. "Dirty, filthy-mouthed skunk," is the latest sweet name recorded.

The Legislature of Sonora has made large appropriations for the purchase of needle guns to carry on the war against the Apache Indians.

Climate Advantages of Western Texas.

When, by reason of the completion of the Columbus road, we shall have emerged from the obscurity that has heretofore surrounded us, and made our city accessible to the outside world, the climatic advantages of Western Texas will bring into our midst thousands of invalids and pleasure seekers from all parts of the north, who are at present deterred from visiting us, by the miseries of a three days ride in a lumbering and close stage.

Then, a trip to New York will not involve one half of the discomfort that under the present system, must be undergone in a trip to the coast.

Although our western country cannot compete with other parts of the State in the item of regular and heavy crops, we have what is infinitely more important to the welfare and prosperity of the people, and that is, a healthy climate. Any person who has travelled through the rich bottom lands of the Brazos and Colorado, can not have failed to notice the yellow and debilitated appearance of the inhabitants; in fact, a stout, healthy specimen of humanity can scarcely be found; and it seems that in Texas the moisture necessary to ensure "seasons," produces the malarial atmosphere that is prejudicial to health.

In this section of the country, however, we are blessed with a happy medium; and while we have rain sufficient to carpet our prairies with grass requisite for the support of our vast herds of cattle, horses and sheep, and to raise an average crop of cereals, we are exempt from the fevers that devastate the more favored regions before referred to. The heat of our long summer, is not of that debilitating nature, that is so wearing to weak constitutions, but tempered by the delightful south-eastern Gulf breeze, occasional loss annoyance and discomfort, than is experienced during the same period in our northern and western cities; and whatever lassitude the system may have sustained during the long summer, is fully repaired by the cool, bracing temperature of the night.

To the invalid, desirous of restoring his shattered health, Western Texas presents peculiar advantages, that prevail in no other section of the Union.

Not only is the climate admirable, conducive to reviving and recuperating the impaired physical vitality, but the natural beauties of the country are well calculated to charm and soothe the mind, which is absolutely necessary to the successful restoration of health. Who can do justice to the serene majesty of our Texas moon-light nights? The cool, clear, bracing atmosphere, the moon and stars glowing in the cerulean blue, with an unearthly brilliancy, can only be understood by actual experience.

Another natural beauty of Western Texas, is found in the singularly gorgeous sunsets and sunsets, and the varied and fantastic shapes, hues and tints of the fleecy clouds, contrasted with the peculiar intensity of the blue sky.

As soon as the advantages are more fully understood and appreciated, and railroad communication established, we will be astonished at the invasion of a health and pleasure seeking army from the north, that may do much to restore fraternal relations and friendly intercourse, should the sectional sheet in our midst, that is at present in a state of canine madness at the proposed visit of a distinguished invited guest of the State, become defunct, for want of patronage, or pass into more respectable hands.

Our Disgraceful Recorder.

Some of the delectable few, who believe in sacrificing every motive of justice and honor, to their love of ease, tax us with working detriment to the harmony of the Republican party, by attacking Judge Gamble's capacity and efficiency. As Judge Gamble never possessed either capacity, efficiency, or any other ordinary quality, pertaining to the duties of a judge, the charge laid to our door, is one of those baseless fabrications of a vision, that weak men, and still weaker partisans, occasionally conjure up to abridge them with ideas of loss of their official heads.

Paying no attention to them or their howls, we turn our attention to the public, and feel, that in a few words, we can depict the situation, whereby we feel a burning shame, that the fair principles of Republican justice have received tarnish from the hands of one who has ever pretended to be a leading Republican.

Some doubts have been thrown upon the genuineness of the bill of costs which we published a few days since, while others believe our assumption of wrong done a gentleman and a worthy visitor, a fiction. We refer all such to Mr. Arthur H. Eley, who was the gentleman and merchant arrested at noonday in a broiling sun, with out a warning of his offence, dragged like a common felon, through the streets, and compelled to give bond for his appearance, because his horse stepped upon the sidewalk of a street, not a main thoroughfare, at that. Summoned before the Recorder, his clear, gentlemanly statement had its effect, for in the small fine of fifty cents imposed, is a tacit acknowledgment of a fiction, of an unintentionally violating an ordinance he, as a stranger, knew nothing of.

The law was vindicated, but the inmate man of the oppressor, the thirder and greed for fees, unappreciated, and deeming the small fine, a bait to entrap the gentleman into pleasant feelings at accepting the few so easily, the costs are heaped up, just as we published them, for the copy we published, was certified to by G. W. Bartholomew, city clerk.

A glance at that bill of costs, by any intelligent citizen, is enough to damn forever, Gamble, and the foul record he is building up for himself. We there see how witnesses are summoned in a case where a fifty cent fine is involved, so that the costs of subpoenas may drop into his pockets. We find the judgment that he delivers of a fine of fifty cents, drops seventy cents into his pocket, and we drop our heads with shame to think he should even have the effrontery to present a gentleman a bill such as is presented, for it is a blot upon our city, upon its fair record of the past two years, that will never "out," even at the bidding of the most lenient.

The Republican party has received a stab from a man who should, from the confidence placed in him, be its first exponent of its justice and its probity. Placed in an office, to make friends and allies for the party by a sound administration of his duties, he prostitutes that office, disgraces his party, and violates his oath, that he may succeed in his personal aims, to grasp a little filthy lucre.

As a Republican, we make the charge, and as a firm Republican newspaper, we publish it to the world. He disgraces the name of our party. We arraign him at the bar of public opinion, lay our evidence forth, and demand of the party, his removal.

SAN ANTONIO, May 27th, 1871.

Editor of the San Antonio Express:

In your issue of 26th you remark, that Hon. Edward Degenor has not as yet signified his intention of becoming a candidate for Congress.

You certainly have not forgotten the 4000 circulars, Mr. Degenor sent to his constituents and of which one was sent to you, giving an account of the manner, in which he discharged his official trust in Congress. In this report Mr. Degenor expresses the wish, to be a candidate for re-election and, as a true Republican, submits his name to a convention for nomination.

This was well known to the editor of the Free Press, who states in his story of a communication from New Braunfels in one of his last numbers.

Please publish this, to prevent errors.

C. H.

The worst joke, says an exchange, that was ever perpetrated on scientific men took place recently at Louisiana, Missouri. A man was sick with rheumatism, or some thing and a fellow went around to the doctors, and professors and things, and told them it was the queerest case on record. He said the man had no feelings. You would stick pins in his body all over and he paid no attention to them at all. He was perfectly numb. So the doctors got together and called on the sick man to experiment. All arrived with pins, needles and bookies. The man was asked, and they got around him, and each one stuck his pin in the patient; the sick man rolled over and looked at the crowd, and thought they had come to dissect him, so he took a chair in one hand and a bed-post in the other, and drove the crowd thence. They were around several days after with their heads tied up, looking for the man who said the sick man had no feeling.

The other evening, in Tremont street, Boston, an individual sat himself resolutely down on the curbstone, and resting his feet on the horse-car track, which in that place comes close to the sidewalk, waited, with no definite idea about anything in general or particular. A car was approaching, and persons who noticed the man's danger hurried him away just as the car came up, and was stopped by the driver. "Lime alone!" exclaimed the drunken man, resisting the kind efforts of those who took out of him's way. "But you'll get run over if you sit there." The car passed on, and the man returned to his seat on the curb, saying in reply to the warnings of the bystanders, "I'm going to sit down ere I am. Now come on with yer old hoss-car!"

LADIES are carrying parasols with long, heavy handles and long points - using them as walking sticks, and, as a lady has been seen to carry a parasol, as if a man has of using a fan, it is extremely indelicate to behold the operation. First you are reminded of a hatbox on the Mississippi, with some energetic citizen shouting along in the mud; then, as she comes nearer, prodding the horse's side, you think of men you've seen appearing cells, till finally you see she is not acting a charade, and begin to pity her for a poor blind girl, but all of a sudden and it's only a girl of the period, trying to walk with an overgrown case, that has a slight suggestion of parasol broken out along its spine.

THE DETROIT TRIBUNE says: "Kentucky has neither carpet bag nor seceding rule. It is the most Democratic of all Democratic States." It has Democratic State officers, a Democratic Legislature, Democratic county and town officers, and Democratic Congressmen, and yet it has been buffeted with the Ku-Klux as almost any Southern State, South Carolina perhaps excepted. How are we to account for this? There is only one way of accounting for it that we can think of, and that is this: That the Ku-Klux themselves are Democrats, and probably feel themselves an influential part of the Democratic government of the State.

Illinois has a strange way, even of committing suicide. In Warrensburg, recently, Mrs. Alice Day discovered her husband had another wife, and shot herself dead. The husband, who was in prison for bigamy at the time, when he heard of the murder of one of his consorts, was to overcome by sorrow and remorse that, having nothing else within reach, he swallowed a box of hooks and eyes, a bottle of hair dye, a brass breastpin, several pieces of glass, six vest buttons, and a small pen-knife. These miscellaneous articles did not prove fatal; but at last accounts Day complained of indigestion.

There is one thing in which Mr. Greeley differs from some other men in this section. At least we fear there are some Northerners who would regard prosperity at the South with about such an eye as Hannan cast upon Naboth's vineyard. He desires the prosperity of every part of his country. Mistaken as some of his opinions are, he is the friend and advocate of industry and enterprise in Texas and the whole South, no less than in New York and the entire North East, and West. [Bronham Banner.]

DR. J. W. BRIGHT.

"Schiedam" is a remedy in chronic catarrhal complaints, etc.

I take great pleasure in hearing highly creditable testimony to its efficacy as a remedial agent in the diseases for which you recommend it. Having a natural tendency to the mucous surfaces, with a slight degree of stimulation, I regard it as one of the most important remedies in chronic catarrhal affections, particularly those of the genito-urinary apparatus. With much respect, your obedient servant,

CHAS. A. LEAS, M. D., New York.

30 Pine Street, New York, Nov. 21, 1867.

Udolphi Wolfe, Esq., President - Dear Sir:

I have made a chemical examination of a sample of your "Schiedam Schnapps" with the intent of determining if any foreign or injurious substance had been added to the simple distilled spirit.

The examination has resulted in the conclusion that the sample contained no poisonous or harmful admixtures. I have been unable to discover any trace of the deleterious substances which are sometimes employed in the adulteration of liquors. I would not hesitate to use myself, nor to recommend to others, for medicinal purposes, the "Schiedam Schnapps" as an excellent and unobjectionable variety of gin. Very respectfully yours, (Signed) CHAS. A. SEELY, Chemist.

Chemical and Technical Laboratory, 18 Exchange Place, New York, Nov. 25, 1867.

Udolphi Wolfe, Esq., Dear Sir: The undersigned have carefully and thoroughly analyzed a sample of your "Aromatic Schiedam Schnapps," selected by ourselves, and have found the same free from all organic or inorganic substances, more or less injurious to health. From the result of our examination we consider the article one of superior quality, beautiful as a beverage, and efficient in its medicinal qualities. Respectfully yours, (Signed) ALEX. TRIPPEL, Chemist.
