

Local Intelligence.

SENATOR HESTER has returned to this city and his editorial labors on the Press.

THE Postoffice will be removed this morning, (June 6th) to the house formerly occupied by Frank Newton, on Soledad street, opposite the Yeramendi house.

THE Gamblers, (Gamble-lights) the latest political sect, are having a revival. The "recording angel," and several others reported on the "anxious seat." They will all be on the mourner's bench before long.

IN consequence of the unhealthiness of green watermelons, and the prevailing opinion among our citizens that they are absolutely dangerous, a countryman found no sale Sunday for a cartload of them, and returned home, watermelons and all, a disgusted individual.

OUR office acknowledges the receipt of a fine keg of Lager beer from Mrs. W. A. Meuser. Meuser Beer takes the premiums of Texas for its purity and quality and is an acceptable beverage at all times. Our boys return their thanks for the compliment.

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS, under the new registration required for the county election, for, of against, the proposed donation to the Columbus railroad, commences Tuesday, June 13th, and continues through Friday, June 23d, excepting the intervening Sundays. Every voter in the county should register; ten full days are given.

CAN NOT a few mass meetings be called to consider the railroad subject? While the Press is a power in placing the facts before the people, a little judicious plain talk to the masses would also go a long way to clearing up the doubts that still exist in the minds of some of the people whom the newspapers do not reach.

WE have a fine prospect for rain, which is much needed. The beneficial effects of the late rain have evaporated. One good soaking rain of about three days duration would be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to the country, and in securing us the corn crop alone.

MORE than one hundred thousand persons annually die in this country from Consumption, which is but the child of Catarrh. $500 is offered by the proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy for a case of Catarrh he cannot cure. Sold by druggists, or send sixty cents to Dr. E. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and get it by mail. A pamphlet free. 1-6-17-33t.

CONDENSED statement of mortality in the City for the month ending May 31st, 1871, as reported to this office:

Table with columns for Zymotic Diseases, Constitutional, Local, and Total. Lists various ailments like Typhoid Fever, Cholera, Small Pox, etc., with their respective counts.

DR. FRED. PETERSEN, City Physician. San Antonio, Texas, June 2d, 1871. WE DROPPED into the Recorder's Court yesterday morning and found Mayor Thibault officiating. With true and proper understanding of the law, he was leaving to the clerk the duties of the clerk, and the young aspirant for democratic honors was swearing the witnesses and plaintiff as the law required.

WE haven't tried them. Victim of debility, why is responsible for your feebleness? Not yourself, you will say, for you've done all you could to cure it. That's a mistake on your part. You haven't tried Hostetter's Bitters. Gloomy dyspeptic, with an uneasy stomach and a world-weary face, of course you don't think yourself responsible for your own torments. But you are. It is easy to see from your condition that you haven't tried Hostetter's Bitters.

Friend, on whom fever and ague alternately blows hot and cold, and whose brain seems to be bursting with the effects of some powerful drug, do you assume the responsibility? O, no! You've taken pills, quinine, and all the regulation medicines. What could you do more? One thing more—the very thing that would have exempted you from all the pangs that now rack you.

You have never tried Hostetter's Bitters. Nervous invalid, what have you to say? You plead that you have taken all the nervines of the pharmacopoeia. If they have done you no good, it is not your fault. You are not responsible. Wrong, all wrong. You have, in reality, nobody to blame but yourself.

THE Stock Law. As our friends further west, the stock raisers, manifest considerable anxiety over the fate of the bill introduced for the protection of the interests of the stock raiser, we will tell them that the bill, after being furnished with dozens of additional amendments, became a law, and immediate steps will be taken by our worthy Governor to put the thing in proper shape for its full and complete enforcement.

THE bill as originally offered, we have already given a synopsis of, and as soon as we can get a copy of the bill as it passed we shall publish it in full with our comments. We can assure our friends however of this much: That on all sides we hear commendation of the bill, and assertions that it is the right thing in the right place for the interests of our largest and wealthiest western enterprise, stock raising.

THE bill would long since have become a law, but for a steady vein of opposition from the eastern members of the legislature. From some reason or other they filibustered over what the west had fairly the right to demand, and much valuable time and money was wasted by the old eastern spirit of opposition to allowing West Texas any rights or privileges or advantages to go forward. The truth is, the only salvation the west will ever find will be in division of the State, and the sooner it comes the better for our section.

TO Representatives Locke and Evans, our stock raisers are largely indebted for the final passage of the stock law. They worked hard to bring about its passage, while other representatives were dawdling away their time in a mystic search for Crosby or a close study of the Lobbyist's Lexicon or Guide.

TWO thousand copies of the stock law as passed have been ordered printed and distributed. At the earliest moment we shall lay it in full before our readers and patrons.

READ CAREFULLY.

Ague and Fever. The only preventative known for Chills and Fever is the use of Wolfe's Siediam Schnapps.

Wolfe's Siediam Schnapps is good for Dyspepsia.

Wolfe's Siediam Schnapps is a preventative of Chills and Fever.

Wolfe's Siediam Schnapps is good for all kidney and bladder complaints.

Wolfe's Siediam Schnapps is used all over the world by physicians in their practice.

Wolfe's Siediam Schnapps is good for Gout.

Wolfe's Siediam Schnapps is good for all Urinary complaints.

Wolfe's Siediam Schnapps is recommended by all the Medical Faculty.

Wolfe's Siediam Schnapps is good for Colic and pain in the stomach.

Wolfe's Siediam Schnapps is imitated and counterfeited, and purchasers will have to use caution in purchasing.

I beg leave to call the attention of the reader to testimonials in favor of the Schnapps.

I feel bound to say that I regard your Schnapps as being in every respect pre-eminently pure, and deserving of medical patronage. At all events it is the purest possible article of Holland gin, heretofore unobtainable, and as such may be safely prescribed by physicians.

DAVID L. MOTT, M. D., Pharmaceutical Chemist, New York.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 1. I feel that we have now an article of gin suitable for such cases as that remedy is adapted to.

"Schnapps" is a remedy in chronic catarrhal complaints, etc.

I take great pleasure in bearing highly creditable testimony to its efficacy as a remedial agent in the diseases for which you recommend it.

The examination has resulted in the conclusion that the sample contained no poisonous or harmful admixture. I have been unable to discover any trace of the deleterious substances which are sometimes employed in the adulteration of gins.

I would not hesitate to use myself, nor to recommend to others, for medical purposes, the "Siediam Schnapps" as an excellent and unobjectionable variety of gin.

Very respectfully yours, CHAS. A. SEELY, Chemist.

26 Pine Street, New York, Nov. 21, 1867. —Udolpho Wolfe, Esq.: Present: Dear Sir: I have made a chemical examination of a sample of your "Siediam Schnapps" with the intent of determining if any foreign or injurious substance had been added to the simple distilled spirits.

The examination has resulted in the conclusion that the sample contained no poisonous or harmful admixture. I have been unable to discover any trace of the deleterious substances which are sometimes employed in the adulteration of gins.

I would not hesitate to use myself, nor to recommend to others, for medical purposes, the "Siediam Schnapps" as an excellent and unobjectionable variety of gin.

Very respectfully yours, CHAS. A. SEELY, Chemist.

Chemical and Technical Laboratory, 18 Exchange Place, New York, Nov. 25, 1867. —Udolpho Wolfe, Esq.: Dear Sir: The undersigned have carefully and thoroughly analyzed a sample of your "Aromatic Siediam Schnapps," subjected by ourselves, and have found the same free from all organic or inorganic substances, more or less injurious to health.

From the result of our examination we consider the article one of superior quality, healthful as a beverage, and effective in its medicinal qualities. Respectfully yours, (Signed) ALEX. TRIPPEL, Chemist.

Consumption, Its Cure and its Preventive, By J. H. Schenck, M. D. Many a human being has passed away, for whose death there was no other reason than the neglect of known and indisputably proven means of cure.

Dr. Joseph H. Schenck's simple Treatment, and availed themselves of his wonderful efficacious medicines, they would not have fallen. Dr. Schenck has in his own case proved that wherever sufficient vitality remains, that vitality, by his medicines and his directions for their use, is quickened into healthful vigor. In this statement there is nothing presumptuous. To the faith of the invalid is made no representation that is not a thousand times substantiated by living and visible works. The theory of the cure by Dr. Schenck's medicines is as simple as it is unfailing. Its philosophy requires no argument. It is self-assuring, self-convincing. The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are the first two weapons with which the citadel of the malady is assailed. Two thirds of the cases of consumption originate in dyspepsia and a functionally disordered liver. With this condition, the bronchial tubes "sympathize" with the stomach. They respond to the morbid action of the liver. Here then comes the culminating result, and the setting in, with all its distressing symptoms of Consumption.

The Mandrake Pills are composed of one of Nature's noblest gifts—the Podophyllum Peltatum. They possess all the blood-purifying, alterative properties of colomet, but unlike colomet, they "Leave no Sting Behind." The work of cure is now beginning. The vitiated and mucous deposits in the bowels and in the alimentary canal are ejected. The liver, like a clock, is wound up. It arouses from its torpidity. The stomach acts responsively, and the patient begins to feel that he is getting, at last, A Supply of Good Blood. The Seaweed Tonic, in conjunction with the Pills, permeates and assimilates with the food. Chylification is now progressing without its previous tortures. Digestion becomes painless, and the cure is seen to be at hand. There is no more flatulence, no exacerbation of the stomach. An appetite sets in. Now comes the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet given by an indulgent father to suffering man. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup comes in to perform its functions and to hasten and complete the cure. It enters at once upon its work. Nature cannot be cheated. It collects and ripens the impaired and diseased portions of the lungs. In the form of gatherings, it prepares them for expectoration, and in a very short time the malady is vanquished, the rotten throb that it occupied is renovated and made new, and the patient, in all the dignity of regained vigor, steps forth to enjoy the sunshine or moonlight that was Given up as Lost.

The second thing is, the patients must stay in a warm room until they get well; it is almost impossible to prevent taking cold when the lungs are diseased, until must be prevented or a cure cannot be effected. Fresh air and riding out, especially in this section of the country in the fall and winter season, are all wrong. Physicians who recommend that course lose their patients, if their lungs are badly diseased, and yet, because they are in the house they must not sit down quiet; they must walk about the room as much as they can, as the strength will bear, to get up a good circulation of blood. The patient must keep in good spirits—he determined to get well. This has a great deal to do with the appetite, and is the great point to gain. To despair of cure after such evidence of its possibility in the worst cases, and moral certainty in all others, is sinful. Dr. Schenck's personal statement can be found in his own case in the most modest words. Many years ago I was in the last stages of consumption; confined to my bed, and at one time my physicians thought that I could not live a week; then, like a drowning man catching at straws, I heard of and obtained the preparations which I now offer to the public, and they made a perfect cure of me. It seemed to me that I could feel them penetrate my whole system. They soon ripened the matter in my lungs, and I would spit up more than a pint of offensive yellow matter every morning for a long time. As soon as that began to subside my cough, fever, pain and night sweats all began to leave me, and my appetite became so great that it was with difficulty that I could keep from eating too much. I soon gained my strength, and have grown in flesh ever since.

"I was weighed shortly after my recovery," added the Doctor, "then looking like a mere skeleton; my weight was only ninety-seven pounds; my present weight is two hundred and twenty-five (225) pounds, and for years I have enjoyed uninterrupted health." Dr. Schenck has discontinued his professional visits to New York and Boston. He or his son, Dr. J. H. Schenck, Jr., still continue to see patients at their office, No. 13 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, every Saturday from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged $5. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not. The directions for taking the medicines are adapted to the intelligence even of a child. Follow these directions, and kind Nature will do the rest, excepting that in some cases, the Mandrake Pills are to be taken in increased doses; the three medicines need no other accompaniments than the simple instructions that accompany them: First create appetite. Of returning health, hunger is the most welcome symptom. When it comes, so it will come, let the despairing at once be of good cheer. Good blood at once follows, the cough loosens, the night sweat is abated. In a short time both of these morbid symptoms are gone forever.

Dr. Schenck's medicines are constantly kept in boxes of thousands of families. As a laxative or purgative, the Mandrake Pills are a standard preparation, while the Pulmonic Syrup, as a cure for coughs and colds, may be regarded as a prophylactic against consumption in any of its forms. Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic, $1.50 a bottle, or $1.50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills, 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists and dealers. E. J. HART & CO., 13, 15 and 17 Telephone street, New Orleans. Wholesale Agents.
