Vain Regrets.

Ab, how oft, 'mid memory dreamings, We who sorrow's keenness know, Vainly crave for some bright gleamings Of the buried "long ago!"
Sighing for some love long banished, With a bitter throb of pain, Breathing of bright hopes now vanished, Never to return again!

Never! and the heart grows weary, Moaning o'er the bitter fate
That has left it sad and dreary—Sadly waiting—oh! too late!

Vain are the regrets that thrall us, Brooding o'er what might have been;
Nothing ever can recall us,
Of the past, one joyful scene!

All has fled; yet we must linger Till our weary task be done, Awaiting time, whose soothing finger Heals our bruises one by one.
But those silent hours of thinking Bring full many a bitter moan,
And our hearts, within, are sinking,
Still will sigh for what is gone!

The German Press.
(From the Neue Welt.)

Magnanimity is a beautiful virtue but justice is a much more necessary one.
The mind of the American people has for a long time comprehended this truth and formalized it in the axiom "Be just before you are generous." The feeling of fraternity towards our Southern fellow citizens, the former rebels and enemies of the Union, has the noble ring of magnanimity, and if these people lived in the Sunny South no man could make an objection to the attempt to win their hearts by magnanimity.

But the whole picture assumes a very different form when we remember the Southern Union people, and the negroes who live in the South. This picture assumes a different form when we think that while we experiment with sentimentally magnanimity, bands of robbers, systematically organized attack, in an assassinate manner, in the dead of night, the whites and the blacks who were faithful to the Union, and hang up the husband before the eyes of his wife, the father before his waiting children, in the sight of his own house and without accusation or the authority of law or justice.

It is the solemn obligation of the loyal Republican party of the North to protect the loyal citizens of the South, whether white or black, and because the Republican party alone can guarantee this protection, therefore must I continue until it has irrevocably accomplished its great task of securing equal rights for all citizens, not simply upon paper, but also in reality.

It would not occur to any one, when he sees his friend overwhelmed by robbers to talk magnanimity to those robbers, while they are murdering his friend by inches, but every man of honor would hasten to the relief of the distressed, and at least disarm the vagabonds. What a man is to his own friends, that, in the Republican party of the North, to the Union people of the South—Justice and magnanimity equally demand that we do leave our brothers to take care of themselves in the great battle, but that we secure to them the guarantee of our Constitution.

We also believe in the great law of love, but so far as fraternity is concerned we prefer to begin with our brethren rather than with their murderers. Therefore the speech of Carl Schurz at the Southern Hotel may have been very sentimental, and may have attracted tender minds, but is nevertheless an idle dream, which has and can have no political significance.

What's the Matter with that Nose!

Snyder kept a beer saloon some years ago over in the Grindstone Factory in Kensington. Snyder was a pouncing Tenton of very irascible temper—"sudden and quick in quarrel"—getting mad in a minute. Nevertheless his saloon was a great resort for the boys, partly because of the excellence of his beer, and partly because the boys liked to chafe "old Synder," as they called him; for, although his bark was terrific, experience had taught them that he would not bite.

One day Snyder was missing, and it was explained by his "fray," who "jerked the beer" that day, "that he had gone out fishing mit der poys." The next day one of the boys, who was particularly fond of "roasting" old Snyder, dropped in to get a glass of beer, and discovered Snyder's nose, which was a big one at any time, but which was swollen and bilstered by the sun until it looked like a dead-ripe tomato.

"Why, Snyder, what's the matter with that nose?" said the caller.

"I been out fishing mit der poys," replied Snyder, laying his finger tenderly against his proboscis. "The sun it peen hot like ash ter tife; and I purms my nose.
Nice nose, don't it?" And Snyder viewed it with a look of conical sadness in the little mirror back of the bar.

It entering at once into the mischievous fellow in front of the bar to play a trick upon Snyder, he went out and called a half dozen of his comrades, with whom he arranged that they should drop in at the saloon, one after another, and ask Snyder, "What's the matter with that nose?" to see how long he would stand it.
The man who put up the job went in with a companion; seating themselves at the table they called for beer. Snyder brought it to them, and the new comer exclaimed, as soon as he saw him—
"Why, Snyder, what's the matter with your nose?"

"I just tell your friend I peen fishing mit der poys, un der sun he burnt 'em—swi lager—den cents, all right."

Another of the boys came rushing in, exclaiming—
"Hallo, boys; you're ahead of me this time; s'pose I'm in, though. Here, Synder, bring me a glass of lager and a peed—(here he appeared to catch a sudden glimpse of Snyder's nose, looking a moment, and then burst out laughing)— "Ha! ha! Why, Snyder, what—ha! ha!—what's the matter with that nose?"

The preparation of the great Scientist, Dr. Gottlieb Fish, of Germany, is based on the fact that, as all materials of the body are derived from Food, so all Vital Force, or Health, is derived from the Force stored up in Food. Dr. Fish's Bitters enables the System to liberate and appropriate these Forces, creates at once Appetite, cures Dyspepsia, with its resulting Debility, Lassitude and lack of Nervous Energy; so tones the Stomach and Liver as to make Constipation and Biliousness impossible; acts as a Preservative and Restorative; Reinforces the System so it can tide over bad results of changing climate, water, &c., and better endure and meet the demands often unexpectedly made on its Force and Energy. Ladies in delicate health, aged persons, and all emaciated and weak after sickness, will rapidly strengthen by using this great preparation.

What's the Matter with that Nose!

"I've been out fishing mit der poys on the Schoolkill. The sun peen hot like ash ter tife, but I purms mine nose. Now, das ish more vot I don't got to say. Vot kind of peseness? Dat is all rite, I purms my nose, don't it?"

"Burn your nose—burn all your hair off your head, for what I care, your nose'll get mad about it."

It was evident that Snyder wouldn't stand more than one more tweak at that nose, for he was trumping around behind the bar and growling around like an exasperated old bear in his cage.

Another of his tormentors walked in.
Somebody stings out to him, "Have a glass of beer, Billy?"

"Don't care about any beer," says Billy,
"but you may give me one of your best cigars—ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! ha! why, Snyder—who whack-a! ha! ha!
what's the matter with that nose?"

Snyder was absolutely fearful to behold by this time. His face was purple with rage, all except his nose, which glowed like a ball of fire. Leaning his proboscis figure far over the bar, and raising his arm aloft to emphasize his words with it, he fairly roared—
"I've been out fishing mit der poys. The sun is peen hot like hell-tannation. I purms my nose. Now, you no like dose nose, you just take dat nose out w'rwriting your tan American fingers mit 'em That's the kind I tan vot I tan."

It will be seen by the proclamation of Governor Davis that elections are ordered to begin on the 3d day of October 1871, for four Congressmen, two State Senators, four Representatives, and three Justices of the peace, to fill vacancies.—State Journal, June 6.

Poor Men versus Railroads.

There is an underhanded attempt on the part of a number of malcontents and rule or ruin tricksters, to wheedle the poor men into opposition against the donation to the Columbus road. That old cry of taxation has been raised, as also the cry of private speculation and other baleful influences, equally without substance in fact, have been brought to bear upon the railroad question with the poorer classes, in hopes of defeating the project of securing a road for our city.

The history of all places, and especially all growing towns or cities, proves that railroads are of more immediate benefit to the sub strata of the politico-economical system, than to any other classes that exist. The producer, who is the man of toil, who may be planter or farmer, is brought into nearer contact with the more positive principle of politico-economical science, the consumer. It is by the wants and necessities of the latter that the former flourishes and finds employment for his hands or market for his labors. Railroads bring the producer at all times in contact with a larger number of consumers. The space of hundred of miles that without railroads is looked upon as an immense distance to travel, finds its drawbacks annihilated by the running of a railroad through that section, that speeds along at thirty miles an hour.

But, any some of the mechanics, artisans, laborers and manufacturers, we are consumers; we work for a daily stipend, and have none of these advantages. It must be recollected that the dollars and cents which as wages the men receive goes to the purchasing of necessities of life, perhaps in many instances to comforts. Flour, coffee, sugar, dress goods, furniture, lumber, if you desire to build, all have to be purchased. In previous articles we have shown very plainly that on articles of consumption alone, nearly five hundred thousand dollars per annum is so behaved. Not saved by one man, nor by any dozen men, but saved pro rata to every individual in the county, who is obliged to have provisions to eat, clothing to wear, or who lives in a house. The question settled as to the immediate effects upon the consumer and the producer, let us take them both together and consider the subject of taxation. It is the aim always of the State and county, in fact of all governments local or central, to make an equal distribution of taxes, and a rate per cent. on the valuation of property is the means by which the system of taxation is at present maintained.

The poor man who owns a homestead, say worth one thousand dollars, has been told that it is true the railroad will double the value of his property, but that it will also double his taxes and make it harder than ever for him to keep his little place free from incumbrances. The poor man forgets that while his place worth one thousand dollars has increased in value, that of his richer neighbors has also doubled in value and the place worth twenty thousand dollars has become worth forty thousand, thus making the aggregate assessable value of property so large, that the reduction of taxation is a necessity. Let any poor man consider this fact and he will be proof against the wiles of the shabby tricksters who are prating about taxes.

And now one other point. It is generally urged by the shabby exponents of the opposition, that the trade of Mexico, that is now carried on in carts at certain seasons of the year, will be lost to us on account of there being no possible chance for Mexican teamsters to secure a living for the other months of the year when there is no Mexican trade. This is the greatest error into which the opposition have fallen. A railroad running to San Antonio secures us treble the amount of trade from Mexico we now enjoy. Carts by hundreds will open up a great highway between our city and the Northern States of Mexico; for all articles of trade that now reach that country by steamer to its coast and freighting inland can be placed from this place twenty per cent. cheaper than those points where there is no railroad transportation. Let any of our merchants make the figures and they will find that the cost of freight from San Antonio to Mexico, added to the railway charges on freights from here to New Orleans, will aggregate twenty per cent. less than all other routes of transportation running to and supplying Northern Mexico.

Instead of the Mexican carts becoming a thing of the past they will still hold their prestige on the route between here and the northern borders of Mexico, until such time as necessity shall demand the pushing through of the connecting link between the two countries.

In laying these facts before the poor men, we do it that they may think—think whether or not there are not bad men in their midst whose efforts are devoted rather to holding them in the bonds of the past, when toil and labor received but a bare pittance, rather than encouraging them to grasp the future, wherein there is competence, thrift and prosperity for all.

GALLANT FIGHT.

What Texas Boys can do.

We are in receipt of the full particulars of an Indian fight that shows the mettle of our gallant Texas boys, and proves their value as Indian fighters or as their own protectors.

On last Monday morning, between one and two o'clock, the Indians, seven or eight in number, came in at Huebner's ranch, went through his pasture, about eight miles from here, and finding no stock, (Frank Huebner had driven them in the corral near the house,) they essayed to steal some horses belonging to a party who had camped near the house and had a half dozen fine horses. They succeeded in untying several and getting them off, though as the last two were being untied one of the men awoke, and comprehending the situation at a glance fired four shots at Mr. Indian. The reds of course immediately vanished, while the neighborhood was speedily alarmed and a party made up to follow the trail of the Los.

The party consisted of FRANK HUERNER, JAKE HOFFMAN, JOHN HOFFMAN, CHRISTIAN EVERS, JOHN GREEN, Ed. GALLAGHER, CHRISTIAN SCHUCHARDT and GARLAND ODON. All day they kept to the trail, through brush and hollow, over hills and rocks, and traveled forty miles up to three o'clock in the evening. At this time one of the men's horses gave out and he was left behind, the other seven spurting on ahead. In about another hour the boys suddenly rode in upon the Indians, about nine in number, and a fight commenced. The Indians delivered one volley and then commenced their circle tactics, but Texas boys knew too much to be caught in that trap, and leaping off their horses they charged the red devils with such effect as to send them scattering to the right and left; as the boys charged up the hill upon them, John Green received a shot which disabled him from further service. Glancing to the right the boys discovered a Chief under a ledge of rocks who had done the shooting. They made it so hot for him he threw away everything except his arms and plunged off into the brush and hills. The rest of the devils run off—two of them on horses, the balance on foot.

The boys then gathered up the spoils of victory. Sixty-three head of stock they found tethered together; amongst them sixteen fine saddle horses and five work mules. All the Indian bridles, saddles, blankets, ropes and other plunder fell into their hands. The horses of the gallant boys were so broken down that their march back was painfully slow, especially as they had a wounded comrade with them. They succeeded however in getting back safe with all their spoils and literally crowned with glories. The fight occurred sixty-five miles west of San Antonio and twelve miles southwest of Bandera. The Indians were reserve Indians, and the boys are sure that three of them will carry back scars that will not soon let them forget what they met with, at the hands of this gallant band. The Indians were armed with Spencer carbines and bows and arrows. The Chief who shot Green was armed with a Winchester. As his efforts at getting away were clumsy and seemingly painful, it is supposed he went off, an ounce or two heavier with lead from the rifles of the Texas boys.

All honor to the gallant little band, who thus took the redness of their wrongs into their own hands. Their names should be placed upon the State Roll of Honor.

A Flaw in Election Matters.

We think that the County Court has very plainly taken means to invalidate the coming election by their refusal to order publication of the election, order as provided for by the law. The law distinctly states that "The said order shall be published for three weeks previous to the election, in some newspaper published in the county."

The County Court, instead of compliance with this requirement, has ordered its insertion but three times. How easy for the enemies to the proposition to raise the point in courts, of the law not complied with regarding the election, and thus undo what will be the judgment of the people. We call especially the attention of those who favor the railroad proposition, to this matter. It leaves their enemies a hold that speaks illly for the judgment and discretion of the County Court.

Bexar, in common with every other county in the State, is subjected to a tax of sixty dollars every day to keep in force the Davis State Military Police. We call upon the Grand Jury to investigate the actual condition of the state of crime in this county, not only at the present moment, but the whole period of time requisite to bear upon the report of Governor Davis and his man Davidson. If this evil has ever existed as represented by Davis and corroborated by the man Friday, tell by your inquiry, the extent to which it has existed and to what extent it now exists in this county. We want the truth—we believe you will give it to us. We would not believe either Davis or his man Davidson under oath—there every word is a falsehood and a libel on the people of Texas. If in this belief we are mistaken, if to the contrary, in this county of Bexar, we are the desperados and murderers, the lawless members of society as stated by the Governor and reported by his Adjutant General, that it has become necessary to add to the civil police of the county the Davis State Military Police Force, we wish to have it confirmed in unmistakable language by our Grand Inquest of the County, with all the details, &c., so that the remedy can be most emphatically applied.—S. A. Herald.

The logic of some individuals, travel in a circle and begins exactly where it left off. Whatever may be the condition of affairs in regard to crime in Bexar county now, we all know what it has been and what it would be again under a democratic administration. After several years of Republican administration, we find that the old-time system of street fighting has ceased entirely, and given way to the system of adjusting personal misunderstandings by recourse to the proper tribunals. Before the Republican party came into power it was the custom of a large portion of our population to carry concealed weapons and to use them upon the slightest provocation. Upon some slight difference of opinion, men who occupied positions of respectability in the community, would display a blood thirsty vindictiveness that would do credit to a Comanche; on such occasions it was customary for them to parade the streets loaded down with weapons, until they resembled walking arsenals, and after marching and counter-marching, dodging and shifting, the community, after being kept on the qui vive sometimes for weeks, would at last be horror stricken by the ghastly results of some cowardly ambushade. The murderer generally would be regarded with mingled dread and admiration, and so far from denying or attempting to palliate his crime, would "deliver himself up to the sheriff" to be released upon bail, to undergo his trial at the next term of the District Court, at which time a continuance, generally for the want of testimony, would be obtained; and it usually happened that years intervened between the time of the commission of the offence and the trial. By that time the prisoner could safely go to trial, he had ample time to bribe or dispose of otherwise the obnoxious witnesses, if they had not already died in the natural course of human events. Then came the solemn fare of the trial. The public sentiment recognized and approved that manner of settling misunderstandings, and it would be strange indeed if twelve men could be found, who as a body, censured the offender; but for the sake of argument, let us suppose that the jury had not been stocked, and that an intelligent jury of ordinary respectability had been obtained. The verdict had to be either acquittal or death. If by a freak of chance there seemed to be a probability that the majesty of the law was about to be vindicated by the unanimous verdict of the twelve jurymen, a hint would be conveyed to some more timid member, that a verdict against the prisoner would draw down upon him the wrath of some prominent bully, and the jurymen would come to the conclusion that his wife and children had stronger claims upon him than the welfare of a community where such a state of things were permitted to exist; and the consequence would be "an honorable acquittal." This is no overdrawn picture, and its truthfulness can be verified by an inspection of the records of the Court, and if they show one conviction of any respectable citizen, for murder or manslaughter, it has escaped our memory, although there is hardly ten square feet of ground within 200 yards of the historic corner of the Main Plaza and Commerce street, that has not been stained with human blood. It is true that two Mexicans were hung about sixteen years ago, but then they were Mexicans, and had no money. This is so well understood that it is a well known expression that "no white man can be hung for murder in Texas," and it is established by history of the past. This was the state of affairs under democratic rule, and this would be the state of things again.

Under the vigorous and healthful influence of Republican management, three murderers were sent to the Penitentiary for life, and one for ten years, at the last term of the District Court, and the whole number of convicts sent from this county was fourteen, a result unprecedented in the history of the country.

After the Republican Hercules has accomplished the incredible task of clearing up the crime and corruption resulting from decades of Democratic mal-administration, the San Antonio Herald calls upon the Grand Jury to investigate and publish to the world what a law-abiding, orderly people we are, as if its clique were responsible for the extraordinary revolution that has taken place in this county. It is true we still have crime, and we always expect to have criminals in our midst, but the Herald overlooks one very important feature in the case, and that is that instead of being turned loose by a sympathizing democratic jury, they are now punished. And yet the same paper advocates the abolition of the State Police as a democratic measure, and this is the way that the democracy would perpetuate the continuance of law and order.

"Consistency thou art a jewel!"

HOUSTON, June 8.—The Galveston News of Sunday evening, June 4th, has the following:

Since the great storm of 1867, Galveston has not been visited with anything as severe as a tempest, as that which is now about terminating. Since Saturday morning a perfect deluge of rain has fallen, accompanied with a terrible gale, which at times rose to a hurricane. The force of wind at times blew from many different points of the compass, principally from the south-east and north-east, was immense. The observations of the signal officer at this point showing a velocity of thirty-two miles an hour, which was afterwards greatly increased.

From the strength and direction of the wind, the water of the Gulf thrown on the island, was higher than has been known for many years; breaking over the sand hills and causing the surf to beat furiously some distance this side of the barracks, almost to Smith's garden.

The Bay, from the same reason, was backed up until its waters overflowed the streets to the head of the market, and covering all the low grounds on the eastern end of Strand street.

The losses and casualties have been quite numerous and serious, involving the loss of property to a large amount, and we greatly fear, several lives.

Of marine disasters we have to record the loss of the Bark Virginia Dare, which dragged her anchors, grounded and sank on the outer bar.

The Morgan steamer Alabama, from Indianapolis, went ashore 12 miles below here. No lives lost. Her cargo of cattle swam ashore. Four men swamped in small boat, and were lost in attempting to pass through the breakers from the vessel in the roads.

The east end of the Island has suffered more than during the storm of 1867. The water is three feet deep on the flats and the Gulf waters are six inches higher than they were in October, 1867.

The water came within half a block of Ninth street, on Avenue H, and reached the corner of Tenth and Broadway.

No damage done to the wharves, even lumber piled thereon was not floated off.

We published on Sunday that about two weeks ago Joe Parker, Bill Lee and Freeman were arrested near Hog eye, in Hunt county. We should have said that they were all killed, and that old man Lee alone had been arrested.—State Journal, June 6th.

Consumption, Its Cure and its Preventive, By J. H. Schenck, M. D.

Many a human being has passed away, for whose death there was no other reason than the neglect of known and indisputably proved means of cure. These dear and dear to family and friends, are sleeping the dreamless slumber into which, had they calmly adopted Dr. Joseph H. Schenck's simple Treatment, and availed themselves of his wonderful efficacious medicines, they would not have fallen.

Dr. Schenck has in his own case proved that wherever sufficient vitality remains, that vitality, by his medicines and his directions for their use, is quickened into healthful vigor. In this statement there is nothing presumptuous. To the faith of the invalid is made no representation that is not a thousand times substantiated by living and visible works. The theory of the cure by Dr. Schenck's medicines is as simple as it is un-failing. Its philosophy requires no argument. It is self-assuring, self-convincing.

The Sarsaparilla and Mandrake Pills are the first two weapons with which the citadel of the malady is assailed. Two thirds of the cases of consumption originate in dyspepsia and a functionally disordered liver. With this condition the bronchial tubes "sympathize" with the stomach. They respond to the morbid action of the liver. Here then comes the culminating result, and the setting in, with all its distressing symptoms of Consumption.

The Mandrake Pills are composed of one of Nature's noblest gifts—the Podophillum Peltatum. They possess all the blood-purifying, alterative properties of calomel, but unlike calomel, they "Leave no Stain Behind."

The work of cure is now beginning. The vitiated and mucous deposits in the bowels and in the alimentary canal are ejected. The liver, like a clock, is wound up; it arouses from its torpidity. The stomach acts responsively, and the patient begins to feel that he is getting, at last, A Supply of Good Blood.

The Sarsaparilla, in conjunction with the Pills, permeates and assimilates with the food; Chylification is now progressing without its previous tortures. Digestion becomes painless and the cure seems to be at hand. There is no more distention, no exacerbation of the stomach. An appetite sets in.

Now comes the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet given by an indulgent father to suffering man. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup comes in to perfect its functions and to hasten and complete the cure. It enters at once upon its work. Nature cannot be cheated. It collects and ripens the impure and diseased portions of the lungs. In the form of phlegm, it prepares them for expectoration, and lo! in a very short time the malady is vanquished, the rotten throne that it occupied is renovated and made new, and the patient, in all the dignity of regained vigor, steps forth to enjoy the manhood or womanhood that was.

Given up as Lost. The second thing is, the patients must stay in a warm room until they get well; it is almost impossible to prevent taking cold when the lungs are diseased but it must be prevented or a cure cannot be effected. Fresh air and riding out, especially in this section of the country in the fall and winter season, are all wrong. Physicians who recommend that course lose their patients, if their lungs are badly diseased, and yet, because they are in the house they must not sit down quiet; they must walk about the room as much and as fast as the strength will bear, to get up a good circulation of blood. The patient must keep in good spirits—he determined to get well. This has a great deal to do with the appetite, and is the great point to gain.

To despair of cure after such evidence of its possibility is the worst error, and moral certainty in all others, is sinful. Dr. Schenck's personal statement to the Faculty of his own cure was in these modest words: "Many years ago I was in the last stages of consumption; confined to my bed, and at one time my physicians thought that I could not live a week; then, like a drowning man, I was cast adrift, I heard of and obtained the preparations which I now offer to the public, and they made a perfect cure of me. It seemed to me that I had found the great matter in my lungs, and I would spit up more than a pint of offensive yellow matter every morning for a long time.

As soon as that began to subside my cough, fever, pain and night sweats all began to leave me, and my appetite became so great that it was with difficulty that I could keep from eating too much. I soon gained my strength, and have grown in flesh ever since.

I was weighed shortly after my recovery," added he, "then looking like a mere skeleton; my weight was only ninety-seven pounds; my present weight is two hundred and twenty five (225) pounds, and for years I have enjoyed uninterrupted health."

Dr. Schenck has discontinued his professional visits to New York and Boston. He or his son, Dr. J. H. Schenck, Jr., still continue to see patients at their office, No 15 North Sixth street, Philadelphia, every Saturday from 7 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged $5. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not.

The directions for taking the medicines are adapted to the intelligence even of a child. Follow these directions, and kind Nature will do the rest, excepting that in some cases the Mandrake Pills are to be taken in increased doses; the three medicines need no other accompaniment than the simple instructions that accompany them; First create appetite. Of restoring health, hunger is the most welcome symptom. When it comes, as it will come, let the despairing at once be of good cheer. Good food at once follows, the cough loosens, the night sweat is abated. In a short time both of these morbid symptoms are gone forever.

Dr. Schenck's medicines are constantly kept in tens of thousands of families. As a laxative or purgative, the Mandrake Pills are a standard preparation; while the Pulmonic Syrup, as a remedy for coughs and colds, may be regarded as a prophylactic against consumption in any of its forms.

Prior of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sarsaparilla, $1.50 a bottle, or $1.50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills, 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists and Dealers. E. J. HART & CO., 73, 75 and 77 Tchapluis street, New Orleans. Wholesale Agents, 17-11-70d1y.

DIRECT IMPORTATION.
JUST RECEIVED,
 A large lot of the celebrated German Study Lamps

The Study Lamps produces an intense pure white flame, with more effect than two ordinary lamps.
 The Chimneys are made of the best tint annealed glass.
 The wick does not require cutting as the capillary attraction fully supplies the want of the flame until every drop of oil is consumed.
 The method of trimming is simply to rub the slight crust from the top of the wick.
 The greatest advantage of the Study Lamp is its freedom from odor, showing perfect combination and leaving the atmosphere pure and healthy.

The Great Fire in Richmond.
Herring's Safes
IN THE SPOTSWOOD.
$25,000 in Currency, and the Books, Papers, Silver and Valuables of the Spotswood Hotel and the Adams' and Southern Express Companies, are SAVED IN HERRING'S SAFES.

OFFICE OF ADAMS EXPRESS COMPANY, No. 22 Broadway,
 New York, Dec. 21, 1876.
 Messrs. Herring, Farrel & Sherman—Our Agent at Richmond writes: "We got through the night drying and fixing up the money from the late fire. The contents of the safe—$25,000 in bills, we recovered. It was a Herring Safe, and a good one, certainly. Yours, truly,
 "E. C. BARCOCK, Treasurer."
 Messrs. Herring, Farrel & Sherman, New York (Gents: The two Safes of your manufacture, which we had in use on the morning of the 25th inst., at the disastrous fire which destroyed the Spotswood Hotel and adjoining block of buildings, have given full satisfaction, and served to prevent the destruction of some $25,000 in currency, besides the valuable papers and books enclosed therein. It was impossible for workmen to excavate the safe until nearly 48 hours after the fire. Respectfully, J. P. GIBSON
 Asst. Sup't for Adams & Southern Ex. Cos., Richmond, Va., Dec. 22, 1876.
 LETTER FROM J. M. SUBLITT & CO., Proprietors of the Spotswood.
 RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 22, 1876.
 Messrs. Herring, Farrel & Sherman—Gents: On the morning of the 25th inst., we were fortunate enough to have one of your Herring's Patent Champion Safes, which fell into the center among a burning mass of ruins. After the fire, to our utmost surprise, we found the contents, consisting of valuable papers, money and some silver ware, all in good order. Had it not been for your Herring's Safe we would have lost everything.

 to offer it to the public, and is happy to state that he has perfected arrangements for a regular supply of this wonderful Plant. He has spent much time experimenting and investigating as to the most efficient preparation from it, for popular use, and has for some time used in his own practice with most happy results the effectual medicine now presented to the public as

Dr. Wells' Extract of Jurubeda and he confidently recommends it to every family as a household remedy which should be freely taken as a BLOOD PURIFIER in

The great field trials at Dallas, Mo., and at Xenia, Ohio, in the Summer of 1869—where "The Clipper" met some of the best built, and was awarded the First Premium and Gold Medal—prove that the proprietors have been able to perfect the finest their claims of superiority for the Clipper Machine over all others. Its extraordinary lightness of draft takes one-third of the labor of the team. The adjustability of the Super-Dr. to cut high or low without stopping the team is worth $75 on any machine. It is the most mower that has the true center draft in accordance with correct mechanical principles.
 In short, it is the lightest, the most durable, the least complicated, the most perfectly constructed, the most symmetrical in design, of any implement of its class. Farmers who clipper is the Hakes' Friend, and you cannot afford to neglect their welfare. Send for pamphlet—free of charge. See or write to some one who has used THE CLIPPER. See the Machine yourself, before you pay any other.
