SPECIAL NOTICE.

The San Antonio Express is the appointed Official Organ for the 34th Judicial District, composed of the counties of Bexar and Wilson; also for the 25th Judicial District composed of the counties of Medina, Uvalde, Bandera and Maverick. The Republican Party in the South.

There is nothing that exasperates the impotent old rebel fossils as much as the constant accession that the Republican party in the South is receiving of the best men of the old Confederacy. The reason of their sensitiveness is evident.

REBELS, (by which term we mean secret rebels, who would be open ones if they dared),

WILL NEVER BE ALLOWED TO RULE THE SOUTH AGAIN,

and the leaders of the Democracy in the South, expecting a collision at some future day, are dismayed at finding a daily diminution of material to place between them and the Federal army; hence the avalanche of abuse that is hurled at all ex-Confederates who refuse to be made tools of any longer. The ex-Confederate soldiers throughout the South cannot help seeing that the leaders of the democratic party, are not ex-Confederate Generals, that have shared the dangers of the battle field with them, but that they are of the most part of that unrepentable class that has been so well described by the Democratic candidate for Congress for this District.

When candidates for official position are chosen by the so-called white man's party, the ex-Confederate soldier is persistently ignored, and renegade Federals, Confederate Cotton Agents, or some member of the immortal peace militia, receives the candidacy. There is too much intelligence among the better class of ex-Confederate soldiers, and hence we find that in Texas, for instance, their worth is recognized by the Republican party, and many of them are now occupying positions of honor and trust. The State Police, where bravery and intelligence are absolutely necessary, has in its ranks many of the boys who wore the gray. The Republican party of the South will be made up of the unflinching Union men who went through the fiery struggle with honor, as Governor Davis, for instance, of the hard fighting Confederates, of which Gen. Parsons is a fair type, and the much-abused negroes. The Democracy is welcome to the balance.

Signs of the Times.

The birds of prey show themselves again. We are informed that we have in our midst a hero of the old Confederacy, Confederate Capt. Ed. Lilly, the Thief of the Nueces, is in our city. On August 19th, 1862, this man, with a large body of Confederates, about 100, fell upon 40 young Gen. Mans from the upper counties, who were endeavoring to get out of the reach of the Confederate conscripting officers, and murdered them all with the exception of 14, who escaped. The heroes (?) of the lost cause are again on the war path, in consequence, probably, of the democratic demonstrations of late in this city.

As "the Thief of the Nueces," Captain Lilly, has made his appearance, will Judge Devine tell us how long it will be before the Thief of Pines, Colonel Duff, will make his appearance.—Free Press.

Within a brief space of time, it will take a million throated cannon to drown the universal hiss and roar with which he will be saluted when a victorious and outraged people hurl him from place and power.—State Gazette.

Nobody will hiss except the Copperheads, and as for them "It is their nature to."

The Governor has been among the people and they received him like a friend; they cheered so loud that they drowned the hiss of the Copperheads. Whenever the hissing Copperhead raises his head to strike, he will be taken by the end of his tail and put in a bottle of alcohol, where he will feel at home. But as for using artillery on such vermin—"Shoo fly don't bodder us."

DEMOCRATIC papers call Jefferson a noble old Democrat. You mean a d—d old abolitionist.

PRICE CURRENT.—A democratic exchange says Hancock stock is rising. Does he mean apples are going up. They generally go up (a tree) wherever he has been speaking.

THE Herald has his suspicions again. Try McLane's Vermifuge.

The Question before the People.

The argument advanced by the republican party against the democracy is, that the democracy is unfit to be entrusted with the management of public affairs. We say, you once attempted to take the national life and well nigh succeeded. From the fact, that you put forward, as leaders, the same men, who were guilty of this treason, and from the tone of your press and the speeches of your orators, we have reason to believe, that your sentiments have undergone no change. We therefore conclude, that should time and opportunity be propitious, you will make a second attempt to destroy the national government, and it is therefore the duty of every man, who loves his country, to prevent you from obtaining the ascendancy.

Now, to refute the argument, the democracy should either deny, that any serious attempt was made on the government by their party, or else they should show, that their feelings toward the government have undergone a change and that they have no disposition to attempt anything inimical to a republican form of government.

As it is a matter of recent history, they cannot deny, that a malicious attempt was made by the democratic party, to destroy our government, and as to the democratic party entertaining feelings of reverence or loyalty toward the government, the fact that the democracy has repudiated the Vallandigham departure, prevents them from even assuming the role of a hypocrite.

As the democracy is unable to convince the people of the United States of the fitness of the party to control the destinies of the nation, they are compelled to fall back on a very ancient device, and that is—to confuse the public mind to such an extent by denunciations, lies, slanders, howling &c., that they may be regarded as no worse than the republicans.—In the dark all cats are black.

If all the people of the United States were as ignorant and used their mental faculties as little, as followers of the democratic party; this plan would succeed, but as they are not, this last despairing hope is fading from their vision.

The republican party has shown, that in their present temper the democracy is unfit to govern the country with safety to the liberties of the people, and they plainly indicate what claims republicanism has on the people.

In the first place the republican party saved the country and, for this reason alone, our claims for the management of public affairs is better than that of the democratic party, supposing them to have one at all; and for the perpetuation of free institutions, we have the following policy.

- 1st. Enforcement of the laws, particularly those relating to the securing of criminals.
 - 2nd. Education of the masses by a system of free schools.
- These two sentiments are the pillars of the republican edifice.
- Now, on these points we are willing to go before the people and we are ready to prove, that the republican party is the only one, that will make these fundamental principles of civil government, a reality.
- Call the jury, Mr. Sheriff

Dodging the Issue.

The democratic papers have taken their key note from Hancock. We hear one prolonged diurnal howl about taxes and the State police, and they keep it up with marvelous persistency, so much so, that the object of the election has been in a measure lost sight of.

In the name of common sense, what has the coming election to do with the State police or any other State measure. What has either Mr. Hancock or Mr. Degener to do with our State affairs, as members of Congress? Their actions in Congress has nothing to do with these questions. We have defended the measures referred and are prepared to continue the fight on this line all winter, if the democrats desire it; but would it not be more in place for Hancock to define his position toward the general government with a little more distinctness; he has accepted the departure and thus throws it over board and it is difficult for his best friends to say with certainty, what his views on the vital questions of the constitutional amendments are.

General Reynolds and the New Orleans Custom House Shame.

We notice that a number of Republicans, as well as Democratic papers have named General Reynolds as being a party to the outrage committed upon the delegates to the Louisiana Republican Convention, by Casey, Packard & Co.

This was to be expected from the moral Democracy, but we are sorry to see so many unquestionable Republican journals jump at Democratic conclusions, and join in their hiss and cry against a consistent and careful officer, before they have examined the evidence in the case.

The New York Times Express, alias New York Sun, charges that in the event of Gen. Grant's disclaiming his sanction of the outrage, it will establish the fact that General REYNOLDS aided and abetted the scheme of CASEY and PACKARD, and should be sent before a Court Martial for the offense.

Republican journals have intimated the same thing.

Now we do not wish to be understood, as considered the apologists of such mistaken headed, ambitious blunders as the Casey-Packard crowd, but join hands and voices with our Republican contemporaries in denunciation of their bighanded and dangerous experiment; but we do wish it understood that we are prepared to assume the championship or defense of any officer of the Government, wrongfully, or maliciously misrepresented. We also have facilities for knowing the facts concerning Gen. Reynolds' connection with the Custom House affair, which are as simple as they can well be, being nothing more or less than that Gen. Reynolds was an innocent of the knowledge of the real object for which the troops were to be used, so misrepresentation could render him.

Mr. Packard did not telegraph to Gen. Reynolds for troops as President of the Republican State Central Committee, but as United States Marshal, alleging that they were required for the protection of the public property. Gen. Reynolds being at a point remote from the scene had no means of judging either as to the expediency or necessity for the troops asked for, and was compelled to repose confidence in the statements of Mr. Packard by virtue of his official position as United States Marshal.

In any event it was not the place of Gen. Reynolds as a military commander, not upon the spot, to sit in judgment upon the representations of a U. S. Marshal. It was enough for him to know that, under the law, Packard was duly authorized and empowered to make requisitions for troops to enforce a law or ensure protection to life and property.

The requisition of Marshal Packard having been made under the latter pretense it was the plain duty of Gen. Reynolds to comply with the demand made, without delaying to investigate the necessity of the same.

If Marshal Packard used his official position to mislead or deceive Gen. Reynolds, and after securing through this means the force necessary to give the protection it was alleged was necessary, prostituted the same to a false and illegal use, why should Gen. Reynolds be lagged into its responsibility?

No, the burden of the whole affair rests where it originated, with Marshal Packard and his fellow conspirators, which Packard has publicly declared, and on them alone should fall the censure and penalty. We hope to hear no more of this unreasonable twaddle connecting Gen. Reynolds with disreputable business.

The "Reformer" is putting in some good lies in the line of reform. It knows the corruption of radicals, and knows just where to strike.—S. A. Herald.

The above suits us exactly. The Reformer and the Herald belong together, and should support the same candidate for Congress. To be consistent, the Reformer should imitate the Herald and call Mr. Degener "incurable."

The immigration from Europe has been unusually large this year. With free schools law and order and republican institutions, generally, Texas will be able to command a large share of it at no distant day.

We are afraid Bill McKillop will take to drinking, as we notice a San Antonio lawyer is going to address the tax payers of "Attorney." We hope his morals will not become corrupted by bad associations.

The Waxahatchie Democrat, in discussing Gov. Davis' speech, made insulting remarks about Mrs. Davis.

Here is the simple pure Southern civility—scrapping out again. It is enough to make a Texas advocate of his state.

WHISKY JACK and Old Fense taxed the palaces of the Antislavery lately by an address to their fellow citizens—all for nothing.

A. B. Van Buren passed a forged check on a Broadway firm of New York for $50,000 and made good his escape.

GEN. NOYES, the republican candidate for Ohio is stamping the State with great success.

HARRISON County sent the first specimen to Shreveport this year.

Here Chivalry.

J. W. Oliver, the Davis appointee for the 3rd Judicial District, is said to be grossly betrayed a goose, a hyena and a jackass.

A friend, idiot and humbug—E. J. Davis. These Radicals who talked about the country, telling the colored people that they are just as good as themselves, have a great deal of assumption. Any colored man, however low he may be, is immeasurably superior to a white Radical. Some people were surprised when E. J. Davis resigned his seat on the stand at Calvert to aid Ned Butler's wife. It was simply that instinctive feeling which actuates the brute in the presence of a superior being. (Harris Free.)

Col. B. Frigg, District Attorney, called on us yesterday morning, and we are glad to meet him. The base and infamous slanders of the San Antonio Advertiser, and the ignominious efforts of its local supporters to tarnish his reputation, only serve to heighten the esteem and respect of good men. Mr. Frigg, under appointment from Gen. Reynolds and Gov. Davis, has been district attorney for his district one year last March. During that time he has prosecuted to conviction over three hundred felony cases, and about twenty-five hundred misdemeanors. Few district attorneys can refer to such a record; and he owes his success to the fact that neither sniles nor frowns of combinations hostile to the interests of his client, the State, could betray him into disregard of the obligations imposed by his official oath. We look and predict for him that the seditions and assaults of seditious animity will always be in this instance, fall harmless at his feet.—State Journal.

Quadrat endeavored to say the other day that "glass windows were used for lights in 1870," and he got it, "glass windows were used at night in 1870."

KE-KLUX IN Cass County.—We learn from reliable sources that several cases of Ke-Kluxing have happened in Cass county lately. But one hardly supposed of late in this section of Texas in cold-blooded atrocity and cruelty. On a plantation near Scott's Mills, eight men were cowhided, while pistols were held to them, making them submit to the treatment. The facts are well known to the community in that neighborhood, and will be looked into. We shall have more to say hereafter on this case.

Gov. English, of Connecticut, reckless of the Democratic vote in his State, has given $1,000 toward the building of a school-house at Plainfield. An education advanced Democratic votes diminish.

Mr. Louis Miller, of Tuscatwasa county, Ohio, while destroying some weeds in his potato patch, was bitten in the foot by a large copperhead snake. Every remedy that has ever been heard of was tried, and finally the snake (which was killed on the spot) was laid open, and its flesh applied to the wound. Mr. Miller insists that he could feel the flesh draw the poison out.

A Connecticut man, with considerable spite in his composition, has announced his intention to fire a salute at the passage of every train of a certain railroad in which he is interested, until the company pays a dividend.

Capital owes something more to labor than simply to use it; labor is to be enlightened, instructed, trained; and capital must give the needed aid, or both will be involved in ruin.

Without virtue there can be no true happiness; but we want love with virtue to give us the good which this world is capable of bestowing.

Every one is the son of his own works.

A COLLISION AND SKIRMISH.—Friday Evening, as Major H. B. Still Onward and Upward.—The extraordinary increase that has taken place in the sale of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters during the past year, is another proof that intelligent people, although they may try all things, hold fast only to that which is good.

Therefore, for every man and woman who desires to purchase the genuine Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, see to it that they have what they pay for, and not the result of an infamous imposture. Look carefully at label, stamp and name blown in the glass, and do not forget that the true bitters is sold in bottles only.

A descent from the sublime to the ridiculous may sometimes be effected by the substitution of but a few words. For instance, take the beautiful lines: "You may break, you may shatter the vase if you will, But the scent of the roses will hang round it still."

A married lady of our acquaintance thus sums up three years' experience of married life: "The first year my husband called me 'dear'; the second year, 'Mr. A.' and the third year 'old soxy top.' The last I could stand."

The "HOWE" Is the most durable, simplest, most complete in all its parts, uses the shortest and smallest needle, for the same sized thread, than any other Machine, which is far less liable to break; it is so perfect in all respects that with ordinary care, it will last a life time without repair.

Consumption, Its Cure and its Preventive, By J. H. Schenck, M. D.

Many a human being has passed away, for whose death there was no other reason than the neglect of known and indisputably proven means of cure. Thousands and tens of families and friends are sleeping the dreamless slumber into which, had they early adopted Dr. Joseph H. Schenck's simple Treatment, and availed themselves of his wonderful medicinal medicines, they would not have fallen.

Dr. Schenck has in his own case proved that wherever sufficient vitality remains, that vitality, by his medicinal and his directions for their use, is quickened into healthful vigor. In this statement there is nothing presumptuous. To the faith of the invalid is made unrepresentation that is not a thousand times substantiated by living and visible works. The theory of the cure by Dr. Schenck's medicines is as simple as it is unerring. Its philosophy requires no argument. It is self-assuring, self-convincing.

The Sassafras Tonic and Mandrake Pills are the first two weapons with which the circle of the malady is assailed. Two thirds of the cases of consumption originate in dyspepsia and a functionally disordered liver. With this condition the bronchial tubes "sympathize" with the stomach. They respond to the mercurial action of the liver, here then comes the culminating result, and the setting in, with all its distressing symptoms of Consumption.

The Mandrake Pills are composed of one of Nature's noblest gifts—the Podophillum Peltatum. They possess all the blood-purifying, alterative properties of calomel, but unlike calomel, they "Leave no Sting Behind." The work of cure is now beginning. The vitiated and mucous deposits in the bowels and in the alimentary canal are ejected. The liver, like a clock, is wound up. It processes from its torpidity. The stomach acts responsively, and the patient begins to feel that he is getting, at last, A Supply of Good Blood.

The Sassafras Tonic, in conjunction with the Pills, permeates and assimilates with the food. Oxygenation is now progressing without its previous tortures. Digestion becomes painless, and the cure is seen to be at hand. There is no more flatulence, no exacerbation of the stomach. An appetite sets in. Now comes the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet given by an intelligent father to suffering man. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup comes in to perform its functions and to hasten and complete the cure. It enters at once upon its work. Nature cannot be cheated. It collects and ripens the impured and diseased portions of the lungs. In the form of gatherings, it prepares them for expectoration, and in a very short time the malady is unobscured, the rotten threads that it occupied is renovated and made new, and the patient, in all the dignity of regained vigor, steps forth to enjoy the manhood or womanhood that was.

Given up as Lost. The second thing is, the patient must stay in a warm room until they get well; it is almost impossible to prevent taking cold when the lungs are diseased, but it must be prevented or a cure cannot be effected. Fresh air and riding out, especially in this section of the country in the fall and winter seasons, are all wrong. Physicians who recommend that course lose their patients, if their lungs are badly diseased, and yet, because they are in the house they must not sit down quiet; they must walk about the room as much and as fast as the strength will bear, to get up a good circulation of blood. The patient must keep in good spirits—he determined to get well. This has a great deal to do with the appetite, and is the great point to gain. To despair of cure after such evidence of its possibility in the worst cases, and moral certainty in all others, is sinful. Dr. Schenck's personal statement to the Faculty of his own cure was in these modest words: "Many years ago I was in the last stages of consumption; confined to my bed, and at one time my physicians thought that I could not live a week; then, like a drowning man catching at a straw, I heard of and obtained the preparations which I now offer to the public, and they made a perfect cure of me. It seemed to me that I could feel them penetrate my whole system. They soon ripened the matter in my lungs, and I would spit up more than a pint of offensive yellow matter every morning for a long time. As soon as that began to subside my cough, fever, pain and night sweats all began to leave me, and my appetite became so great that it was with difficulty that I could keep from eating too much. I soon gained my strength, and have grown in flesh ever since."

"I was weighed shortly after my recovery," added the Doctor, "then looking like a mere skeleton; my weight was only one hundred and twenty five (225) pounds, and for years I have enjoyed uninterrupted health."

Dr. Schenck has discontinued his professional visits in New York and Boston. He or his son, Dr. J. H. Schenck, Jr., will continue to see patients at their office, No. 18 North Sixth Street, Philadelphia, every Saturday from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged $5. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not.

The directions for taking the medicines are adapted to the intelligence even of a child. Follow these directions, and kind Nature will do the rest, excepting that in some cases the Mandrake Pills must be taken in increased doses; the three medicines need no other accompaniment than the ample instructions that accompany them: First create appetite. Of returning health, hunger is the most welcome symptom. When it comes, as it will come, let the despairing at once be of good cheer. Good blood at once follows, the cough lessens, the night sweat is abated. In a short time both of these morbid symptoms are gone forever.

Dr. Schenck's medicines are constantly kept in tens of thousands of families, as a laxative or purgative, the Mandrake Pills are a standard preparation; while the Pulmonic Syrup, a cure of coughs and colds, may be regarded as a prophylactic against consumption in any of its forms. Price of 1/20 Pulmonic Syrup and Sassafras Tonic, $1.50 a bottle, or $7.50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills, 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists and Dealers.
