

The Daily Express.

A. SIMMERING & CO., Publishers.
Official Journal of the United States.
OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF BEXAR COUNTY AND CITY OF SAN ANTONIO.

SATURDAY, JAN. 20, 1872.

BLANK DEEDS,
OF ALL KINDS FOR SALE AT THE
"EXPRESS" OFFICE.

Republican State Convention.

A Democratic Convention of the Republican party of Texas is hereby called to assemble in the city of Houston, Feb. 1st and 2nd, for the purpose of nominating Presidential Electors, and for a thorough re-organization of the party.

The basis of representation is fixed at one representative from each county under the present apportionment.

Papers friendly to the objects herein expressed will please come to our office.

Our Standard State
Democratic Committee.

J. P. NEWCOMB, Secretary.

Congress' Office
OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES U. S.
Washington, Dec. 11th, 1871.

To the publishers of the "Daily Express," San Antonio.

The Express has transmitted for publishing such acts and resolutions passed during the second session of the Forty-Second Congress, and also such public documents as are to be issued by the United States Government, which you have directed were to be sent to you by the Secretary of State; in all cases to be published without delay.

I am, &c., respectfully,

E. McPherson,

Clerk of House of Representatives U. S.

We extract from Blake's Bulletin of Jan. 11th, as follows:

The friends of the Administration, Regd. on by Davis, just before the adjournment held a cause, before which it was resolved to call a session of the Legislature on the 10th of January, to consider a bill to number in consideration of themselves. In the meantime the reform element gained in strength till Davis became frightened and repudiated the whole scheme.

It is now most infectious. The above the friends of the administration are contemplating in this state. The whole of the above except is a malignant infection of this malignant disease, which, according to Blake's Bulletin, without a single exception is found in every city, state, and his editor to name a single friend of the administration, who was urged by Davis to join in a session of the Legislature on the 10th of this month. We are in a condition to state that the Governor, with his cabinet, especially the attorney general, a fall session of 1872, and will consider Hamilton's when he comes to town, and he is to throw the whole of the bill session upon the shoulders of the Legislature.

We are in a condition to state that the Legislature in October last, in session in January, 1872, by unanimous, even by force, if necessary. But it seems to be the policy of the "pious" press of Texas, to make the Governor responsible for every terrible act of a contemptible set of legislators, who shall find their places each, more to the ungodly state of affairs in 1860, than to their own sins.

We are in a condition to state that the above extract, from Blake's Bulletin, with which we long since contented ourselves, is but a faint echo of the repudiation of the administration, which we found in the publication in the Houston Telegraph, and the Tribune, who do the Governor the justice to tell the truth in full, as we state it.

The West side of the ground back street.

Legislation and Representation.

As far back as the year 1864, the "Express" announced, as now, a leading Liberal organ, speaking of the "House of Lords,"

"It is a question of how long it may be for which time, that questions not involving the interests of the South, yet yet again introducing the establishment of these colonies, it is to be considered, not in a hurry, nor yet in a precipitate, indecisive, or hasty manner."

It seems that now, when all manner of political reforms, civils and crooked, are agitating the British public, the same ideas represented in Mr. McFarren, (member of Parliament from Midlothian,) advocates the plan of using by natural process, the "House," now, including the "House," upwards of 400, to 500, and propose that those 200 should be elected out of the whole number, not members of the House of Commons are. To this the now leading Liberal paper of England says, "producing the whole idea of the "Exemption" of 17 years ago:

"Our objection to this is, that if you are to have a House of Commons, representatives as well as members of the "House," you will make them too strong; you will give them no excuse for arbitrary use of the instruments of legislation, but will be compelled to have some, which have been accustomed to do so.

Ministers should also present their views to the government, and the public should be willing to rest on the seventh day.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country, in so many instances, do not care for us as we do they should. Even sons of honest men, upon manual labor as hereditary the duty of a gentleman and lady. To labor is honest, and not to labor is dishonestable, is the true way to be.

"Be that as it may, there would three, himself should either hold or die."

Accorded by Franklin, more than one hundred years ago, in "Poor Richard's Almanack."

The above extract did not mention making the Northern people more frugal, especially those of New England. It is a man's education, and taught the people; people, not preaching.

The farmers, the farmers son and daughters, the country,

