Hospital Auxiliary Boosting Project

Muleshoe's Hospital and Nursing Home Auxiliary Christmas Card project has been chosen for this year, according to Mrs. Roland McCormick.

She said it is to be a fetal monitor, which will cost $6,500. According to her explanation, a fetal monitor is a piece of equipment used during the labor of a mother-to-be, which can detect any trouble during birth. She explained the machine can detect the trouble long before it can be detected by the doctor. "This machine saves many infants' lives and will be a very vital piece of equipment for our hospital to have ready to use," she added.

In order to obtain this piece of equipment, the Hospital Auxiliary said they need everyone to donate to the annual Christmas Card project. Any money spent on buying Christmas Cards and mailing them in Muleshoe can be contributed to the project. The annual Christmas Card will be in an edition of the Muleshoe Journal shortly before Christmas and will list all the contributors to the project.

Funds from the project will be used to help purchase the equipment.

Twelve County Gins Beyond 30,000 Bales

At mid-point in the cotton harvest, the 12 gins in Bailey County have surpassed the 30,000 mark in total bales ginned to date. On November 9, which was one week ago Wednesday, the tally was 25,665, according to figures released by Joe Harbin of Bailey County Electric Cooperative.

He said that combined with the 12 other gins in surrounding counties served by Bailey County Electric Cooperative, a total of 56,160 bales had been ginned on November 9 last week.

The Bailey County Electric spokesman also said that last week, the total bales ginned had exceeded those ginned in 1974 through 1976. In 1974, 52,000 bales had been ginned at this point; 53,000 in 1975 and 51,000 in 1976.

The largest crop ever ginned on the 24 gin system was in 1973, when a total of 129,898 bales were ginned. Harbin expects the total bales to far exceed that amount by the time

McVicker Wins First Place This Week

He has been persistent and regular with his entries, and finally it has paid off. J.E. McVicker won first place in the weekly football contest for the past week. He was the only person to miss only one game. His wrong prediction was on the Arizona State-Brigham Young game, where 1.3 ranked Brigham Young was upset by the Arizona team.

In second place after figuring the tiebreaker scores was Ruth Malone, who missed two games and was 30 points off on the double tiebreaker. Third place winner, also with two wrong guesses, was Mike Perez. He was 40 points off on the tiebreakers. Cliff Buckner, with two wrong predictions was just out of the money as he was 48 points away on the double tiebreaker scores.

All other contestants missed three or more games.

As the football contest continues, you still have time to enter and perhaps to be the big winner. Currently, Mrs. Hugh (Pat) Young is leading the contest with two first place wins. However, just behind her is Mike Perez, who gained a few points with his third place win this week, and was a previous first place winner.

Top prize will be two tickets to the Cotton Bowl on January 1 along with a check to help cover expenses.

the season has ended. He said the freeze had helped the farmers get into the field and start their harvest, and all gins are running at top speed at this time.

Maple Co-op Gin is the only gin in Bailey County to be utilizing the cotton module builders this year. They are stacking the module builders in the fields and have converted one of their two gins to handle the module builders.

Another duo of gins on the Bailey County Electric System are the G and C Griffiths. They pile their own cotton in the fields as they gin their

RECIPE

By Sarah Ann Sheridan

Whether you prefer fruit cake for Thanksgiving or Christmas, this is an old but good recipe.

Fruit cake is much improved by time. Standing allows the many kinds of fruits and spices to blend together to make a delightful cake.

Dark Fruit Cake

- 1 dozen eggs
- 1 lb. sugar
- 1 lb. butter
- 1 lb. flour
- 2 lb. nuts, chopped
- 1 c brandy
- 2 t cinnamon
- 2 lbs. raisins

- 2 lbs. currants
- 1 lb. dates, chopped
- 1 lb. citron, cut fine
- 1 c molasses
- 1 t cloves

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Texas' foul weather months have just started and many people are beginning to think about ways to cut back on a high heating bill.

The first thing that comes to the minds of many of us is the cozy and inviting blaze of a fireplace, although it may be questionable as to how much warmth and comfort a fireplace can provide in actually heating a home on a chilly evening.

There is no doubt that it can provide a reasonable amount of heat if it's installed correctly and the proper materials are used. Otherwise, some consumers who are thinking of adding a fireplace could find that resulting problems may cause more discomfort than comfort.

The lawyers in our Consumer Protection Division have had a number of reports of fireplace construction problems. One incident involved a woman who hired two itinerant contractors to build a fireplace. When it was finished, all the fires she built went out immediately. She discovered later that the contractors had failed to install a damper to regulate air flow, and the resulting draft blew out every fire the woman tried to start.

To avoid problems after a fireplace is built, give plenty of advance thought to what you want, and take certain precautions before hiring a contractor for the job. The initial step is to decide on the type and size of fireplace. Three kinds are available. The best known is the traditional version with firebrick interior and brick or stone chimney.

Another is a preassembled built-in unit with metal firebox and flue. This kind can be installed to look like the traditional version, even to the extent of enclosing the metal flue within a chimney. The third kind is a freestanding pre-fabricated unit that can be placed anywhere in the room. Any of these types, if properly installed and made of quality materials, should be satisfactory and safe.

Several sizes of fireplaces are available. The size you choose will determine the maximum size of the logs you can burn. You should also decide whether to include certain options in a fireplace, such as a gas or butane starter or an outside door or special drawer for ash removal.

Think, too, about some of the heat-circulating devices that can improve the ability of the fireplace to heat an entire room. Some of these might be a worthwhile investment if you plan to use the fireplace as a major source of heat.

It is also advisable to get several bids before selecting a contractor to build or install the fireplace. When you have decided on a contractor, discuss with him exactly what you want. Reputable companies or individuals will be happy to show you examples of their work. After you have reached an agreement on the work to be done, the price, and the timetable for completion, draw up a contract. Some companies will have their own contract.

Also, when contracting a fireplace, be wary of paying too much money before the work is completed. Our Consumer Protection attorneys say a good rule of thumb is to hold back a substantial part of the price until the job is completed.

If you have a consumer complaint, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division in Austin, San Antonio, Houston, Dallas, Lubbock, McAllen, or El Paso. If you live outside these areas, call toll-free: 1-800-252-9236.

Concrete bridges lead 'double' lives
AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — A process has been developed by University of Texas engineers that could double the life of concrete bridges.

The process impregnates concrete with a polymer (a plastic-like material similar to Plexiglas) that seals the surface without changing its appearance. The treated concrete is stronger, skid resistant, highly resistant to acid and water adsorption, and able to withstand up to 15 times the average freeze-thaw stress of non-treated surfaces.

Asthma Chronic Disease

Asthma is the most common chronic disease in childhood. And most asthmatic children show symptoms before the age of five. Even babies a few weeks old can develop the disease.

In childhood, the disease is twice as common among boys and girls. And over half the children do not "outgrow" the condition. Even when Asthma symptoms seem to disappear, the sensitivity in the lung, which is an essential feature of the disease, may remain unchanged.

According to the American Lung Association, asthmatic attacks can be set off by many things such as irritants in the air, by exercise, cold air, allergy viral infection, tobacco smoke. While these substances or situations do not trigger reactions in everyone, the air passages of the lung of certain persons are sensitive to one or more of these elements.

During an asthma attack, the air passage of the lung suddenly constrict. An attack can be terrifying, especially to young children who do not understand what is happening. The child feels as if he or she is suffocating. The natural tendency is such a situation is to breathe rapidly to take in more air. But this only makes matters worse, trapping air in the lungs. There is sufficient air in the lung already, but it is trapped in the narrowed passages. The problem is not to fill the lungs but to empty them slowly.

Proper medication and avoidance of the irritating substances can help defuse or prevent most asthmatic attacks. Some lung associations also hold classes for asthmatic children to teach them how to practice exhaling gently through pursed lips, using the breathing muscles in their chests and diaphragms. To find out more about asthma, contact your lung association—the "Christmas Seal" people. And to contribute to the fight against all kinds of lung disease, answer your Christmas Seal today. Hunters Need
To Remember
Their License

LUBBOCK—Apparently a few Texas hunters have forgotten to purchase their new 1977-78 hunting license as citations continue to be issued afield by Texas Parks and Wildlife game wardens.

The Texas hunting/fishing combination license, the regular hunting license, and the fishing license is valid from Sept. 1, 1977 through Aug. 31, 1978. The P&WD is reminding hunters preparing for the upcoming season of quail, deer and turkey to check before leaving home and make sure the new license is in your billfold and in your possession.

A resident hunting license is required of every Texas citizen hunting outside a county of residence or who hunt deer or turkey except that: persons under 17 or over 65 years of age, persons hunting on land where they reside or disabled veterans, may hunt deer or turkey if a holder of the $1.25 resident exempt hunting license.

All of these Texas licenses contain deer and turkey tags which must be filled out and attached to the deer and/or turkey carcass immediately upon possession by the hunter.

To qualify for the resident license, an applicant must have been residing in Texas for more than six months immediately preceding application for a license. Members of the Armed Forces with proof of assignment on active duty at any federal installation within the state for a period of more than 30 days may purchase a resident license.

Hunting license fees include: resident hunting - $5.25; combination hunting and fishing - $8.75; non-resident small game hunting - $37.75; non-resident general hunting - $100.75.

A non-resident small game hunting license will allow out-of-state hunters to participate during the legal season for quail, pheasant, and other small game.

The non-resident general hunting license will allow out-of-state hunters to hunt all legal species of game including small game, deer and turkey.

Congress & Carter

What long, bitter fights on energy, tax, welfare and other issues between Congress and President Carter reveal is the disquieting fact that most members of Congress, even majority Democrats, have little faith in Mr. Carter's legislative proposals.

House leaders claim Carter's welfare proposals would add more than ten million recipients to the welfare rolls. Senators on both sides of the aisle say Carter's energy and tax proposals were too hastily drawn, would not achieve desired goals, etc.

In short, most members of Congress obviously believe President Carter's 1977 legislative proposals were too often the work of amateurs, idealists, and big spenders. With a heavily Democratic Congress, a Democratic President could normally expect broad cooperation from Capitol Hill. Carter isn't getting it.

The lesson could be beneficial for Mr. Carter and the nation. The President is handicapped because he received no mandate in the 1976 election. Labor, blacks and minorities elected him, and he has been forced in recent months to pay off. That alone will not reelect Mr. Carter; he must win in spite of this, if he is to be reelected. But Mr. Carter has largely lost the battle of 1977 in Congress.

The German Crisis

The wave of terror in West Germany, the only European NATO nation with a chance to halt the push of Communism from the east, is of concern to all the West.

Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's government won new support from the German people with its recent daring rescue of hijacked passengers. But few believe the terrorist problem in West Germany has been permanently solved.

Two suspicions are logical, though the evidence is often confusing, in explaining the wave of German terrorism. First, communist agents are encouraging the terrorists, influencing the Red Army Faction, as the most notorious terrorist leadership is known. Anything which weakens the strongest democratic, free enterprise nation in Europe is a plus for the Communists.

Secondly, the universities of Germany are partly to blame--professors who stress the Federal Republic's admitted faults and teach pure idealism, often impossible of attainment. Most of Germany's terrorists come from middle class families and the universities. They are frustrated idealists, in many cases turned to terror and murder to gain their ends.

It's estimated there are today 170,000 college students in West Germany living in segregated, left-wing university communities--completely removed from normal society in many cases. In these youth centers (as was true in America in the sixties) intimidation, terror and law breaking are envisioned and planned for the "cause."

Until German authorities are able to cope with university revolution mills, and convince young idealists of the necessity of law, order and democratic change (and also identify the communist influence involved) the German terrorist crisis will continue to threaten the democratic West.

AUSTIN--The issue of public pension plans is becoming increasingly important at all levels of government. Other states have experienced rather serious problems because of increases in benefits without corresponding increases in contribution levels. In addition, unanticipated changes in the labor force and the economy have intensified the problem. As a result of these factors, pension funds have suffered in many areas of the nation. A considerable amount of research is currently being done on the topic. It is being found that one of the most important steps that should be taken to prevent unsmooth management of pension funds is to institute uniform standards. This measure is necessary in reporting, management, actuarial assumptions, and all other aspects. Texas currently has periodic reporting requirements (annual audits and five-year actuarial reports), and there probably is a need for further improvements in standardization. Disclosure is also important so that pension funds can be monitored by both contributors and investors.

Complete attention should be given to retirement age trends as well. The years of service and related level of compensation have a significant influence on the financial health of a retirement fund. Careful consideration must be given to ages, contribution rates, regulations, and other related factors. There are many other factors which affect public pension funds. Every state is experiencing different problems, but there is a common interest in keeping the funds financially sound. In order to prevent a "pay-as-you-go" system like Social Security or a collapse like that experienced by New York City, every state must take a close look at the issue and develop appropriate policies. Only by maintaining policies which keep benefits and contributions at equilibrium and generally keep reserves at an adequate level can public pension plans remain strong. In an effort to prevent any major difficulties in Texas, I have appointed a special joint House Committee to investigate the matter. The Committee is charged with the study of all public pension plans in the State, including their fiscal condition, actuarial soundness, participation requirements, benefit levels, investment policies, and general administrative practices. The recommendations developed by this legislative committee will help the Legislature and individual retirement systems to develop ways to keep public pension funds financially sound.

WASHINGTON NEWS REPORT

Carter's Spending-Tax Reform Delayed-The Vote In Panama-A Grim Outlook.

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- The fear of business, that President Carter is turning out to be another big-spending Democrat, is proving well founded. With Bert Lance at his side, Mr. Carter initially resisted high-cost welfare, minimum wage, urban relief and foreign aid programs, among others.

Having been elected primarily by blacks, unions, and minorities, however, Carter has found himself under increasing pressure to pay off to these population segments. He has compromised earlier convictions and agreed to a sharp minimum wage increase.

He has agreed, idealistically, to increase foreign aid. He has proposed a welfare program which would vastly increase spending--after initially trying to fashion a program with emphasis on work and no increase in spending.

He has moved to expand urban renewal and special job aid to blacks, admittedly needed but nevertheless costly. He faces the probable necessity to cut income taxes, since the economy seems to be faltering, which will--in the short term at least--increase the deficit.

All these developments and more (perhaps increased defense spending among them) have made it crystal clear Mr. Carter won't be able to balance the budget in the next three years and will run up huge annual deficits. Nor is there now any chance Congress will give him a tax reform bill any time soon.

Add to this prospect the record international trade deficit the nation is now encountering, plus the steady fall of the dollar--as foreign economists exhibit concern over what's happening here--and the future looms as a grim one, economically.

That's one reason the stock market has been falling, even though inflation hasn't yet sharply increased. But inflation acceleration is expected. That's why the Federal Reserve Board has been hiking interest rates--to dampen anticipated flames.

If Chairman Arthur Burns goes, as is likely, and a liberal replaces him on the Board, confidence in the future will not be increased.

The 2-1 vote in Panama favor of the new canal treaty was not unexpected. Why shouldn't Panamanians vote to accept a turnover? But the mood of the Senate is ominous, and ratification would likely be defeated if a vote were held today. Some 40 Senators are still uncommitted, with more announced opponents than supporters--about 32-28.

160 ACRE LIMITATION?

WASHINGTON--You may be among the scattered few who think the Federal government by now surely must recognize that its intervention into the affairs of people and private enterprise increasingly does more harm than good.

You would think that after all the promises of the last election to roll back excessive regulation, someone in Washington would consider backing up all the rhetoric with decisive policy.

Think again. Fresh examples of arbitrary and often contradictory regulations crop up almost daily, and a proposed ruling handed down by the Secretary of the Interior raises some rather alarming possibilities for the future of the Nation's agricultural economy. We all might do well to pause and consider the implications.

The Secretary's proposed ruling, stemming from a little-enforced 1902 law, limits the size of individual farms to 160 acres, as well as outlaws absentee ownership of farmland irrigated by Federal water projects. This proposed ruling throws into question issues which go far beyond the Federal government's attempt to make it easier for small farmers to buy land, and thus to play a larger role in producing this country's food and fiber.

Principally arising from a controversy in California, the ruling could have consequences for all other states, including Texas, which have farmland irrigated by Federal water projects.

The proposed ruling really boils down to a question of who has the right to own land, in what size parcels, and based on whose judgment--in this case, the Federal government's.

Much more is assumed about the result of this proposed ruling than the Federal government can justify with fact.

For example, the small farmer who is presumed to be the beneficiary of the plan might not benefit at all. Resale of the land large owners would be forced to sell would be conducted by lottery, and there is every likelihood that farmers from the middle to upper income brackets would have the first option to buy.

Would such a large scale land redistribution plan help or hinder our national efforts for adequate farm production at prices consumers can afford and at the same time allow farmers to realize a reasonable profit? At this point, it's clearly unclear.

Many farmers and agricultural experts disagree over the size farm necessary to be economic in today's topsy-turvy economy because of the large amounts of capital required. Would 160 acres turn a profit and be self-sustaining? Tractors and other implements of modern day technology cost a great deal of money. Farmers strapped just to come up with down payments on choice tractors would face the prospect of further indebtedness for the required machinery. Would the plan then only further the growing crisis of farmers leaving the land because of the increasing difficulty to realize a return on investment?

Most importantly, should the Federal government be allowed to assume such unprecedented authority over the traditional ways in which technology has best utilized America's land abundance to maximize growth and maintain our preeminence in world agriculture?

Many more questions are raised than can be answered. And this is just the point. We don't know yet if wiser courses are available to us to achieve the same ends. Legislation I have cosponsored would delay such a sweeping Federal mandate for one year, at least providing time to assess economic and environmental considerations. On balance, it's a small price to pay.

On the South Plains, the overall crop is expected to be the largest ever ginned on the Plains with the crop potential placed somewhere around the 3.3 million bale figure in a 25-county area.

This is expected to be up from the 1,986,500 bales ginned last year in the same 25-county area and should exceed by a large percent, the 2,888,700 record bales ginned in 1973. this year. South of Lubbock, some cotton gins report they are near the end of the harvest, especially where heavy use was made of harvest-aid chemicals.

Quality of the cotton has remained good to outstanding, although some grades have started declining following the earlier levels. The slight drop in grades was attributed to the freeze and strong winds last week.

Many farmers are expected to take a long look at planting cotton in skip row patterns and irrigate every other row next year, alternating with feed grains.

For dryland producers, subsoil moisture prospects for next year are just a little dim, following a very dry fall and extended warm weather.

Also next year, many farmers are expected to apply a pre-planting irrigation, plant cotton on land formerly in feed grains, and then depend on rainfall and existing subsoil moisture to carry the crop to maturity.

If they are required to irrigate the cotton during the summer, the amount of water needed to sustain the crop still would be far less than the volume needed for cotton and corn.

Commissioners Hold Routine Meet Monday

Spending money occupied the Bailey County Commissioners Court during their regular meeting Monday. Besides paying routine bills, commissioners approved payment of $54,000 in warrants for work completed on the new civic center.

They also authorized payment to judges and clerks during the special election held last Tuesday and heard Harold King reference road maintenance on the county dirt road leading from 1760 to King Feed Lot. Commissioners also passed an order authorizing Pioneer Natural Gas Company to lay a pipe line across a county road and approved a charge order in construction of the civic center.

Million Cotton Bales Classed

Over one million sample had been graded by High Plains Classing Offices through Friday, November 11. Around 248,000 samples were graded this week, according to Paul R. Dickson, in charge of USDA's Cotton Classing Office in Lubbock. This compares with only 111,000 graded by November 11 last year, according to USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

Prices paid growers declined $2.00 to $3.00 per bale the week ending November 11.

Growers sold mixed lots of mostly grades 51 and better, staples 30 through 32, mikes 3.5 through 5.3 for about 43.25 cents per pound. Mixed lot of mostly grades 51 and 51, staples 30 through 32, mikes 5.0 and higher brought around 40.00 cents per pound, Dickson said.

Predominant grades from High Plains Classing Offices this week were grade 31 at 23 percent, grade 41 was 32 percent, and grade 32 accounted for 21 percent.

Staple lengths were mostly staple 31 at 30 percent, staple 32 was 30 percent and staple 33 accounted for 16 percent.

Micronaire was mostly in the desirable 3.5 to 4.9 range and was 84 percent of the total. Around 12 percent was higher and 4 percent was lower.

About two percent were reduced one grade because of grass and one percent for bark.

Average breaking strength was 87,000 pounds per square inch for High Plains cotton.

Gins paid growers 57 to 70 dollars per ton for cottonseed, mostly 63 to 64 dollars.

Proposed 1978 normal cropland acreage and set-aside acreage regulations need significant changes if they are to be compatible with High Plains conditions and farming practices, according to the organization representing cotton producers in 25 counties surrounding Lubbock.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, made this point November 10, along with specific suggestions, in response to Department of Agriculture proposals published in the October 14 Federal Register.

The Agriculture Act of 1977 calls for the establishment of a Normal Cropland Acreage (NCA) base for each farm and stipulates that planted acreage each year be no greater than that base minus any acreage the farm may be required to set aside under cotton, wheat or feed grain programs.

USDA proposed that NCA's be established from the acreage planted to specific crops in 1977, plus "any other field crop significant acreage which is recommended by the State ASCS Committee..." PCG suggested that the most normal cropland acreage in 1975, 1976 or 1977 be used to establish NCA's "to give all parties greater assurance that adjustments can and will be made for abnormalities in 1977 cropland acreage."

In the designation of set-aside acreage the Department put forth hard and fast rules concerning which land would and would not be acceptable. In lieu of this, PCG asked that the decision on eligibility of set-aside acres be left largely in the hands of State and County ASCS Committeemen who are familiar with regional conditions.

USDA also proposed that an approved cover crop be required on set-aside acreage by the normal period for planting spring crops. To this PCG responded that the establishment of a cover crop is not always possible on the High Plains because of inadequate moisture. "We do not believe it is the intent of Congress or the Administration to declare ineligible for program benefits a farmer who is unable to establish a cover crop because of drought, sand or other conditions beyond his control," PCG said, "nor is it in the nation's best interest to have farmers using scarce energy supplies and depletable irrigation water for the sole purpose of establishing cover crops."

PCG also objected to USDA's intention to flatly deny all grazing of small grains used as a cover crop on set-aside acreage. PCG urged (1) that grazing of spring wheat and other small grains be permitted in the same manner as those crops are normally grazed when planted for harvest, and (2) that grazing be permitted in November and December on 1978 set-aside acreage planted to a small grain crop in the fall for harvest in 1979. "When these crops are planted in the fall and attain good growth," PCG pointed out, "they can and often do suffer severe cold weather damage unless grazed in November and December."

Wealth is the thing most honored among men, and the source of the greatest power. -Euripides.

Turkey--The Pilgrim's Pride

Turkey was the pride of the Pilgrims back in 1621 at the first Thanksgiving. That part of Thanksgiving has never changed. Only the turkey itself has changed -- and much for the better. The modern edition is more plump and tender, with a greater proportion of white meat to please these pampered moderns.

While you can prepare a turkey for the oven in about six minutes without stuffing -- and the turkey flavor will be just as good -- many people love a great stuffing with their turkey, especially at this holiday time. Try this rich chestnut dressing for a change. We assure you, you won't be disappointed.

Although the Pilgrims didn't know this about turkey, they were eating one of the most nutritious foods there is. Turkey has the highest quantity and quality of protein of any popular red meat or poultry, and it is an excellent source of riboflavin, niacin and even iron. Yet turkey is low in fat and cholesterol. In the three centuries since 1621 the popularity of turkey has never waned, yet it remains one of the most economical meats in the market today. A remarkable bird -- this turkey! No wonder it was the Pilgrim's Pride.

Carter has launched reorganization studies.

WILFORD BOREN

On Wall Street
By Bob Hill

Foreign companies, mostly British and German, are taking advantage of our weak stock market and a plunging U.S. dollar to purchase American companies or substantial minority interests in American companies. European companies acquired 59 U.S. manufacturing companies in the first nine months of this year at a cost of $590 million. In 1976 they acquired 39 companies at a cost of $338 million. A sliding stock market made it cheaper to acquire a going concern rather than starting up a new business. But foreign investors are interested in American companies for several reasons other than their relative low price.

1. The U.S. is the world's biggest single market. Foreign companies want to get an operation going in that market.
2. Because of our stable economy and political atmosphere, an investment in this country is a way to keep dollars working in the free enterprise system. Most of Europe has gone socialist, but the U.S. is still considered to be the last bastion of capitalism.
3. Our labor productivity is higher than in most foreign countries.
4. European accounting rules do not require companies to write off goodwill, an advantage that a foreign company has on any investment it makes in the U.S. where American companies are at a disadvantage in bidding for other U.S. companies.

Although British and German companies have been the most aggressive buyers, Japanese companies are expected to get on an acquisition binge in the near future. Japanese money has been going into U.S. real estate and art but there are several potential acquisitions underway by Japanese manufacturers.

Basketball season is now in full swing with everyone excited about the games. Both the Varsity and Junior Varsity girls have won their games against Sudan and Amherst. Tuesday we'll be taking on Cotton Center. The boys are also doing very well. Last Tuesday, they switched their previously proven football power to "dribble power" and came off the court with a victory. Both varsity teams will be traveling to Spade this weekend to participate in a tournament there. Everyone's doing our best to make an attempt at a District Championship in basketball competition this year.

Kindergarten Knot-Ups

This has been an exciting week. On Wednesday we went to the plays put on by the high school girls.

Thursday, we made our first trip to the dentist. He is Dr. Charles Lewis in Muleshoe. He took pictures of our teeth with an x-ray machine. He has a chair that goes up and down. Even though we were a little scared at first, we found that going to the dentist can be fun.

After the dentist, we ate a big lunch at the Dairy Queen, with ice cream for dessert. A man at the Dairy Queen showed us a deer that he had shot while hunting in Colorado.

Then we went shopping and bought a new fish for our aquarium. We also went to see the Mule statue downtown.

Friday, we helped Scott Terrell celebrate his 6th birthday. Mrs. Tommy Terrell brought a large cake decorated with cowboys and Indians. Scott picked that theme because we are studying Indians. Happy Birthday, Scott. We also made Indian drums this week for part of our Thanksgiving Costumes.

Staring at Nap Time were: Janell Covazos, Heather Hutton, Shannon Johnson, Debra Locke, Kristie Risinger, Norma Rubalcava, and Sheila Tucker.

The man who tries to work all day, and night, too, isn't always the fellow who gets the most work done.

Second Grade Kapers

Albert Belez had his eighth birthday on November 1. We enjoyed singing "Happy Birthday" to him.

We have been studying about the pioneers in Social Studies. We sure are glad life is easier now.

We have made several Thanksgiving decorations for our room. We can't wait to taste turkey.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek expresses himself this week on the issue of Saturday mail service.

Dear editor: The U.S. Postal Service is thinking about maybe discontinuing Saturday mail delivery, but before it makes up its mind it wants to find out what the public thinks.

What interests me is the way the Postal Service is going about trying to find out. It has paid for three public opinion surveys, sampling a so-called scientific cross section of the population, but the results have been confusing. Eighty percent of those polled said they could do without Saturday mail, but a majority said they weren't in favor of doing without. This has the Postal offices confused.

In fact, they're so confused it never has occurred to them that they don't have to hire a private polling firm to find out what we want. All they'd have to do is use their own postal service. Just mail a ballot to every box-holder in the country and let everybody vote on it, unless of course they figure it'd take too long to get the results back.

One argument the Postal officials are using in favor of abolishing Saturday delivery is that it would save an estimated 412 million dollars a year, a figure not to be sneezed at. On the other hand, if they'd go whole hog and abolish mail service on the other five days of the week also, they could save $2,060,000,000. In three or four hundred years that saving alone would wipe out the national debt.

What we'd do with all those vacant post office buildings I can't say, but I understand practically every city in the nation is now equipped with juvenile gangs capable of wrecking any vacant building left unguarded for 24 hours, a service that wouldn't cost the government a cent.

However, I want the Postal Service to know that I am opposed to eliminating Saturday mail service. Most of us people living out in the country get a big city daily paper and we have just as much right to be misinformed on Saturday as any other day in the week.

Yours faithfully, J.A.

Declining Water Concerns Farmers

Declining water tables, increased cost of energy, and low grain sorghum prices make irrigation farmers ask, "How long can sorghum wilt without reducing yield?" Dr. H.V. Eck and J.T. Musick have conducted research to help answer the question. Their studies were conducted in 1975 at the USDA Southwestern Great Plains Research Center at Bushland. Dr. Eck is presenting their results at the 69th Annual Meeting of the American Society of Agronomy at Los Angeles, California on November 15.

The researchers used mid-afternoon leaf curling as an indication of stress. They found that 12 days of wilting during booting, heading, or grain filling did not affect yields. However, drought periods of 24 or more days reduced yields. Also stress during booting and heading was more detrimental than during grain filling. These results are applicable to furrow irrigated clay loam soil in the Southern High Plains, according to Dr. Eck.

The Agricultural Research Service scientists conducted their experiment on level borders of Pullman clay loam that were 35 by 92 feet. The soil was sampled to determine nitrate content and enough urea fertilizer added to give the sorghum 200 pounds per acre of nitrate-nitrogen. Pioneer Hybrid 8311 was planted at 9 pounds per acre in two 12-inch rows per 40-inch bed on June 15. A four-inch irrigation was applied before planting on May 14 and dry, hot winds made it necessary to apply a two-inch watering on June 18 to assure a good stand.

Six inches of rain fell from emergence irrigation to August 6. This was enough water for vigorous growth until plants were starting to boot.

When plants started to wilt at early boot stage, the scientists used eleven different irrigation schedules to create stress periods varying from 12 to 50 days. Stress intervals at different stages of sorghum growth were achieved by irrigating or not irrigating at early boot, heading, early grain filling, midgrain filling, and late grain filling.

Full irrigation with no stress from early boot to maturity required four, 3-inch irrigations applied at early boot, heading, early grain filling, and late grain filling. This took a total of 18 inches of water and produced 6690 pounds of grain per acre. The most efficient treatment received three irrigations applied at early boot, early grain filling, and late grain filling. This treatment produced 6700 pounds of grain per acre and required only 15 inches of water. A 12-day stress period between heading and early grain filling was not detrimental. Other treatments that missed one irrigation at either early booting, early grain filling, or at late grain filling produced about 6460 pounds per acre. Missing two consecutive irrigations resulted in 24-day stress periods. Yields on treatments missing irrigations at both early boot and heading or both heading and grain filling were reduced 27 percent to 4870 pounds per acre. Yields on treatments missing irrigations at both early and late grain filling were reduced only 12 percent to 5860 pounds per acre. When one irrigation was applied at mid-grain filling, the 35 days of stress cut yield to 3830 pounds per acre. When irrigation was delayed 41 days, until late grain filling, yield was reduced 54 percent to 3060 pounds per acre. When no irrigation was applied and plants were stressed for the entire 56 days, yields were 3100 pounds per acre. In other words, after sorghum had been stressed for 41 days, water could not make it recover.

Seed size and seed number were measured to determine how moisture stress reduced yield. "When stress was initiated at early boot stage and continued for 25 days or longer, both seed size and seed number were reduced", Eck said. When stress started at heading or later, yield reductions were caused by reduction in seed size only. The scientists speculated that reduced seed number in treatments that were stressed early came out when light seeds were blown out during threshing.

Yield of stalks and leaves was not reduced by 24-day stress, but were cut if stress continued for 35 days or more. Measurements taken at weekly intervals showed the stalk and leaf weight accumulation ended with heads emerged from the boot. "This explains why late season moisture stress could not cut forage production", Eck said.

The scientists also checked the effect of moisture stress on nutrient accumulation. Plant water stress reduced nitrogen and phosphorus concentration in leaves and increased nitrogen concentration in stalks and heads. Nitrate-nitrogen, potassium, calcium, and magnesium concentrations were not affected by water stress in sorghum plants. Nutrient levels never got low enough to reduce growth, according to Eck.

"Our research shows that maximum water efficiency will be achieved by timing irrigation to avoid long water stress periods from early boot to late grain filling", Eck said. Three evenly spaced irrigations will produce as much grain as four, if plants are not allowed to wilt for more than 12 days. If water is short and only two irrigations can be applied, stress during grain filling will be less damaging than during booting and heading, Eck concluded.

Henry Jackson, Energy Committee Chairman: "I don't want the federal government to take over state functions. We seek the same goals (as the President) but by different means."

Not all hunting and fishing trips are bona fide hunting and fishing trips.

AUSTIN—Texas voters have patched up the century-old state constitution five more times, but they balked at amendments to allow electronic banking and permit formation of assessment-levying agricultural associations.

These amendments were approved in a light turnout (about 12 per cent) November 8:

- Enlargement of the Court of Criminal Appeals.
- Addition of $200 million in bonds to the veterans land program and allowing widows of servicemen who died in line of duty to participate in the long-term, low-interest land loans.

Titles Go On Block With No Favorite

The supremacy of the East and the championship of the Big Ten are two of the titles that will be on the college football line this Saturday. And there isn't a clear-cut favorite in either game.

Pittsburgh is the home in its clash with Penn State. This rivalry is probably the closest of any long-standing rivalry in the country. Over a period of 76 years, the Nittany Lions have won 37 times, the Panthers, 36, and there have been just three ties. During the 1977 season, each team has lost only once, Penn State to Kentucky, Pittsburgh to Notre Dame. The Panthers were also tied by Florida. They faced three common opponents, Syracuse, Temple, and West Virginia. Syracuse gave both powers the most difficulty, losing by just seven points to each of them. Pitt bombed Temple, 76-0 while the Lions beat Temple this past weekend, 44-7. And against West Virginia, the Panthers showed a much better defense, beating the Mountaineers, 44-3. Penn State whipped West Virginia, 49-28. What's it all prove? Nothing! It's a whole new ball game when these two square off against each other. Our winner: Pittsburgh by seven points.

- Authorizing judges to deny bail to repeat offenders.
  - Permissible tax relief for historic and cultural property.
  - Strengthening and renaming the Judicial Qualifications (Conduct) Commission.
- Voters rejected amendment six which would have authorized the legislature to let banks use electronic terminals at shopping centers and other locations for payments, fund transfers and money withdrawals.
- Opponents claimed the amendment would open the door to branch banking and eliminate the cancelled check as proof of payment. Bankers, who championed the proposal, said it failed because of the light turnout and because voters were confused about it. Some small and independent bankers opposed the amendment too.
- Also going down the drain was amendment five to authorize formation of associations of agricultural and marine commodities producers with power to levy mandatory assessments for product promotion. The proposal was little understood, and some feared it may lead to high food costs.

Money Records Set

New revenue and expenditure records for state government were set in fiscal 1977, according to Comptroller Bob Bullock's annual report.

Nine billion dollars in revenues (and a starting cash balance) supported expenditures of $7 billion, leaving a net cash balance of $1.98 billion August 31.

"This favorable position was made possible by record revenues from all major sources, including $4.42 billion in tax collections, $1.85 billion in federal funds, $372 million in licenses and fees, $279 million in investments of state funds, and $341 million in income from state-owned land," said Bullock.

Foundation school program grants accounted for 24.9 per cent of spending, salaries and wages of employees 25.4 per cent, assistance and medical care for the needy 12.8 per cent, other education 8.4 per cent and capital outlays for highways 5.7 per cent.

Appointments Announced

Gov. Dolph Briscoe named Charles H. Schmidt of Amarillo and reappointed Dee S. Osborne of Houston to the board of regents of West Texas State University.

At the same time he reappointed Dr. J. K. Davis Armistead of Lubbock, Robert L. Grainger of Houston and James A. Elkins Jr. of Houston to the University of Houston board of regents.

He appointed Supreme Court Chief Justice Joe Greenhill, District Judge Herman Jones of Austin and C. Raymond Judice, executive director of the Texas Judicial Council, to the Criminal Justice Division Advisory Board.

Courts Speak

A Nacogdoches County double murder conviction was reversed by the Court of Criminal Appeals because no separate hearing was held on the sanity of the handicapped slayer.

The Supreme Court held a lawyer cannot be disbarred solely for failure to file an income tax return.

The high court affirmed an intermediate court decision favoring Hasting school trustees' effort to annex Laige Independent School District over objections of Giddings school authorities.

A suit by 11 bridge companies claiming the state owed them $400,000 in extra cost for repainting bridges in 10 counties was turned down by the Supreme Court.

Retrial of a $1 million products liability decision against General Motors was ordered by the Supreme Court in a Houston case.

AG Opinions

A county may not reject a low bid solely because the bidder is not a local merchant or businessman, Atty. Gen. John Hill concluded in a new opinion.

In other recent opinions, Hill determined: Harris County Hospital District has authority to construct and maintain a hospital chapel to be constructed with state and federal constitutional provisions on separation of church and state.

If a clinic foundation and clinic association operate as purely public charities, property belonging to the foundation which is so operated would be exempt from taxation notwithstanding the lease of the property to the association.

A county may not combine justice precincts so that there are only two precincts in the county.

Short Shorts

The Governor's Committee on Aging awarded 30 grants totaling $7.7 million in federal funds to support social service programs and nutrition projects for older citizens.

More than 8,000 attended a festive campaign kickoff rally for Gov. Dolph Briscoe in Dallas.

Texas slipped from third to fourth place in the national travel market in spite of a 14 per cent increase (to $6.1 billion) in income from travellers last year. New York moved to third behind California and Florida.

Income from cigarette smoking to the State Treasury increased $2.1 million last month—to $24.5 million as compared with $22.4 million in October 1976.

Former Gov. Preston Smith, a candidate for governor, called on Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Atty Gen. John Hill to join him in filing complete financial disclosure statements and income tax returns.

Houston Attorney James A. Baker III, who headed the President Ford campaign in 1976, told an Austin audience he has encouragement of top level Republicans to run for Texas attorney general.

you and the LAW

Q: I'm considering buying a new automobile and the dealer is offering a rebate from the automobile manufacturer. Do I have to pay the motor vehicle sales tax based on the sticker price of the car before the rebate is deducted?

A: No. The rebate amount must be deducted from the sticker price and the tax applied to the net cost of the automobile. The same situation applies when you trade your auto to buy a new one: the sales tax should be levied against the net cost to the buyer, after the value of the trade-in has been deducted. Anyone who was charged more sales tax than the law allows can obtain a refund by contacting the office of the State Comptroller.

Q: Problems keep building up, and I'm thinking about moving out and getting a divorce. If I do it, I want to get it over with as quickly as possible. How long does it take to get a divorce in Texas?

A: After the divorce petition is filed, the law requires a mandatory sixty-day waiting period. You could get back together during that time and drop the proceedings. After this 60 days, the final hearing on the divorce can be scheduled.

Farm Policy Removes Boom, Leaves Bust

"Policies designed to take the boom and bust out of agriculture have only removed the boom, leaving farmers to contend with the bust," said an economist in marketing and policy with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service here today (Nov 9). "My greatest fear in the '77 Food and Agriculture Act is that the combination of income supports, reserves and set-asides could lead us back into the same policy dilemma that existed in the 1960's," noted Dr. Ronald Knutson at the annual Houston Agribusiness Conference. He said the biggest factor leading to his conclusion is the 30 to 35 million ton grain reserve which will tend to hold prices near loan levels.

"The biggest advantage of the '77 Act is that it is designed to keep the U.S. competitive in the world market," added the economist.

Knutson pointed out that the greatest challenge facing the agriculture establishment in the future may not be that of getting higher target prices but of maintaining what they currently have.

"Estimates of the cost of the '77 farm bill run from $4.4 to $10 billion. With a federal budget of $450 billion, this means only 1 or 2 percent is being spent on policies to insure an adequate supply of food. It is too much? If I had confidence government could solve the problem, I would argue that we should be spending more," said Knutson.

He pointed out that target prices in the new farm bill are based on the national average cost of production. If market prices remain at or below target prices during most of the four-year life of the bill, farmers with an above average cost of production will go out of business. "It is possible that the middle and small size family farmer whose survival we are most concerned about will be the first to go," noted Knutson. "Thus the question, what kind of a farm production system will emerge? Many suspect an acceleration of the trend toward bigness."

Deep Tillage Will Increase Crop Yield

Crop yields can be greatly improved on some soils with deep tillage. So said Dr. Paul Unger, Soil Scientist, from the USDA Southwestern Great Plains Research Center at Bushland to members of the American society of Agronomy Meeting at Los Angeles in Mid-November. Unger was an invited speaker at a Symposium on "Soil Environment, Root Growth, and Yield".

The Agricultural Research Service Scientist said deep tillage and soil profile modification will increase crop production by creating a larger soil zone for root growth and activity. Since problems in soil that limit production vary widely, their nature should be understood. This enables farmers to select equipment and producers necessary to correct the problem, he continued.

Three major problems in soil can be alleviated by deep tillage. Compact soil layers that restrict root growth can be destroyed. Toxic concentrations of salts, chemicals, and radioactive fallout on or near the soil surface can be buried. Soil productivity can be improved if course sand on the soil surface is buried, and clay and silt from within the profile are placed on the soil surface.

Unger continued his presentation by citing research in Texas and other areas where deep tillage proved beneficial. Houston black clay, which covers four million acres in the Blacklands of central Texas, has dense clay layers that restrict drainage, aeration, water penetration, and root development. Drs. Earl Burnett and J.L. Tackett, USDA scientists at Temple, Texas, tilled this soil to 24 and 48 inches. The deep plowing improved aeration and root growth in the top 6 feet of soil. Cotton and grain sorghum yields were increased 95 and 20 percent, respectively.

Pullman clay loam occupies five million acres in the Panhandle of Texas. This soil has a dense clay layer at the 10- to 27-inch depth which restricts percolation of rainfall and irrigation water. After the soil surface is wet, water infiltration drops to 0.05 inch per hour with normal tillage about 6 inches.

Unger mentioned several experiments at Bushland where deep tillage was beneficial. In 1964, Drs. Victor Hauser and Howard Taylor compared disk plowing to 24 inches with chiseling 24 inches on 80-inch centers with and without vertical mulching. Chiseling without vertical mulching increased irrigation water infiltration for only 1 year. After 3 years, infiltration rate with deep plowing and vertical mulching was still almost twice as much as with regular tillage. Better soil moisture conditions in the root zone increases irrigated sorghum yield.

Unger pointed out another experiment by Drs. Arland Schneider and Aubra Mathers. Pullman soil at Bushland was plowed 16, 24 and 32 inches with a large moldboard plow. This was compared to plowing 8 inches deep. Tillage to 16 and 24 inches loosened part of the dense layer and 32-inch tillage mixed the entire layer with surface soil. All depths of plowing increased irrigation water infiltration, water storage, and depth of sorghum rooting. With pre-irrigation and one seasonal irrigation, sorghum grain yield was 3,400 pounds per acre with 8-inch plowing. Yield was 5,200 pounds per acre with 32-inch plowing. With two summer irrigations, highest yields were made with 24-inch plowing. Sugar beet yields were markedly increased by 24-inch tillage. "The beneficial effects of deep plowing still persists after 8 years," Unger said.

Larry Bratcher, administrative officer of the Texas Farmers Home Administration, USDA, and Tom Linguist, representing the Lubbock office of the Small Business Administration, will talk about their agencies' interest in farm production credit.

Alex Sheshunoff, president of Sheshunoff and Co., Austin, will discuss bank profitability.

Bennett said that the latest economic outlook from the 1978 Agricultural Outlook Conference, Nov. 14-17, in Washington, D.D., will be incorporated into the conference.

Texas Tech's Department of Agricultural Economics will furnish outlook material on 1978 production costs and expected price trends for the major crops and livestock enterprises of the area. Thad McDonnell, president of the Levelland State Bank, is president of the board of directors for the conference. O.R. Start Jr., president of the Quittaque First National Bank, is vice president.

Bankers from Texas, eastern New Mexico and western Oklahoma are expected to attend, but the program should be of special interest, Bennett said, to the bankers throughout TBA Districts 6, 7 and 8.

LUBBOCK--A special 25-foot, steel-hull barge was hauled to Lubbock's Yellowhouse Canyon lakes last week by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and over 1,000 old vehicle tires were banded and sunk in two of the lakes.

These artificial fish "attractors" are part of a state-wide plan to help replace some of the natural cover that was eliminated during lake construction such as trees, rocks and brush which were considered undesirable in the lakes.

The vehicle tires were used in the Lubbock project due to their availability and all were furnished by the parks and recreation department of Lubbock along with several crews to help in the two-day operation.

Each fish "attractor" consisted of five tires banded together and placed at strategic spots in the two lakes. These areas are accessible to anglers and each "attractor" should concentrate fish for harvest.

For years, management of public lakes for sportfishing consisted of stocking these freshwater lakes with desirable game fish but, many times, the fish were not available to the bank fisherman or were scattered over the lake.

This new management techniques assists in improving fish habitat and provides an area where fish can hide from predators, rest, find food, and, in some cases, spawn.

Other forms of "attractors" have been used in various Texas lakes and all should help provide better fishing for state anglers.

Nobel Prize goes to prof at UT Austin

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — The University of Texas professor who won the 1977 Nobel Prize in Chemistry is something of a Renaissance man.

Dr. Ilya Prigogine, a Russian-born Belgian who divides his time between UT Austin and the Free University of Brussels, has a keen knowledge of and collects pre-Columbian art, plays the piano and knows a lot about music, is widely read not only in science but in the social sciences, art and literature in general, and enjoys analyzing the role of science and society.

One of his UT colleagues says it is difficult to start a conversation on almost any subject in which Dr. Prigogine is unable to join. Discussions with the professor are as likely to focus on the economy, art or life in Europe as they are on scientific matters.

Dr. Prigogine's wife, Marina, holds a Ph.D. degree in chemical engineering. They have a young son, Pascal, age 7. Dr. Prigogine has an older son, Yves, 32.

At UT Austin, Dr. Prigogine is a professor of physics and chemical engineering and directs the Center for Statistical Mechanics and Thermodynamics.

He was awarded the Nobel Prize for a thermodynamic theory that for the first time links physics, chemistry and biology. His discovery has far-reaching applications for biological structures ranging from enzymes to humans.
