REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

CHANCE OF VOTE OBTAINED.

A Delegates Convention of the Republican party of Texas is being called to assemble in the city of Houston on the second Tuesday of May, 1872, for the purpose of nominating Presidential Electors, meeting Delegates to the Philadelphia National Convention, for a thorough re-organization of the party, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the body.

Republican County Conventions.

The Chairman of the different County Republican Executive Committees of the 29th Senatorial District, the names of the counties composing which it is not deemed necessary to name, but which comprise nearly all of the western counties of Western Texas, are requested to call County Conventions at as early a day as may be possible, in their respective counties, for the purpose of electing delegates to the General Convention which will assemble at Houston on the 2nd Tuesday of May, 1872.

It is desirable that the whole people claiming to be Republicans in principle should be represented in these Conventions, and that delegates shall be chosen who represent the majority, and the real principles of the majority, of the party in this portion of Texas, without distinction of race or color. The work to be performed at Houston is of the utmost importance, and it is hoped that harmony, coupled with energetic purpose may characterize every County Convention, and that men of superior intelligence, integrity and influence will be selected. ED. ZOELLER, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the 29th Senatorial District of Texas.

To the Republicans of Texas.

After consultation with prominent Republicans, it is deemed advisable to modify the notice for a county convention of the Republicans of this county, as published in yesterday's Express. Instead of precinct conventions appointing delegates to the county convention, it is thought preferable to hold a General Mass-Meeting of the Republicans of the whole county at the time and place named.

The request is, therefore made, that a full representation of the Republican voters of this county, from all of its precincts, meet at the Fireman's Hall, on Market Street in this city, on Saturday the 14th instant, for the purpose of electing delegates to the State Republican Convention to be held in the city of Houston on the 2nd Tuesday of May proximo. A full representation is requested, in order that delegates may be chosen who will express the Republican voice of this county in the State Convention.

The Cincinnati Convention.

It appears to be a settled matter that there will be a Cincinnati, or "mass-meeting," at Cincinnati on the 1st of May next, of men who call themselves "liberal" republicans. We do not recollect who originated the movement, but he believes it was Wendell Phillips. This is sufficient to stamp its character for liberality—and there is no doubt but it will be composed of the most liberal men in the republican party. What they expect to accomplish for themselves is a mystery. Let us glance at the elements of this movement. First, Wendell Phillips who still stands on what he has called an "anti drama-hop plan" in the new platform. Second, Carl Schurz who will not consent to give up his larger beer. Horace Greeley, who will leave the convention if it adopts a free trade plank; Trumbull who will do the same thing if it does not. Then there will be "Reformers," whatever that may mean—and there has not been a single man, or newspaper, or our knowledge, who has undertaken to state just what reform he wanted in that direction. There will be anti-slavery reformers too, and female suffragists, and probably Mr. Newcomb, insisting upon a plank endorsing the Union State administration. Blue spirits and black, white spirits and gray, all will be there, each struggling to secure the highest seat.

But who knows what may come of it? We are living in wonderful times, and nothing strange or unexpected. Suppose for instance, that such an intelligent assemblage of the most brilliant intellects of the country, should nominate A. J. P. Newcomb for the Presidency? Would there be the slightest doubt of his election? His talents and brilliant career in the U. S. are too well known, to need any further proof.

When the Cushman Schoolhouse was dedicated in Boston, Wendell Phillips, for whom it was named, made a brief speech. "I am happy," said he, "to see this schoolhouse, and I am glad to see that the Union is not yet broken. I am glad to see that the Union is not yet broken. I am glad to see that the Union is not yet broken." (The rest of the speech is omitted for brevity.)

The Mo. Democrat of St. Louis said last week for nearly $200,000; but this sale did not work for him in its politics. It will still continue to exercise its great influence in behalf of Republicanism. The value of the paper is not in its circulation, but in its circulation and advertising postage. It will be estimated when it is known that the material property of the office, that is to say, the property outside of the good-will is estimated at only about $100,000.

It is not altogether unlikely that some ignorant persons may recall the remark of the New Hampshire rustic, who when asked, by a gentleman travelling in that State, during the Presidential canvass when Franklin Pierce was a candidate for the Presidency, what was the general impression concerning Pierce at home, among the granite hills, and the farmer replied: "Well, we thought he'd do very well right here, but we always were afeared he'd go mighty high when you come to spread him over the whole country." But this philosophy is not sound. Because a great man does not spread very well at home is no reason why he won't spread like the finest sort of treacle when he gets away from home. And the great question at Cincinnati will be, "Will he spread?" The reformers of Texas know that there is no doubt about it, and we therefore, desirous of doing them and the country a great service, again urge upon the great mass meeting which is to assemble at the Queen City of the west the nomination of the "Sourest man in Texas."

The Hartford Post believes that Mr. Sumner encourages and will attend the Cincinnati Convention, because he sees in it the only hope of reform. He will be the only leader of the Philadelphia gathering. The Post adds, however, that his decision at Cincinnati, not only gives him influence to the Cincinnati movement, but to take an active part in directing it, may therefore be accepted as proof that the Cincinnati Convention is designated, by its friends simply for consolation, and to organize a caucus in opposition to the Republican party.

A Visit to Missouri.—A N. Y. Herald correspondent writing from St. Louis, makes an account of a visit paid to the late President of Missouri, whose unfortunate Maximilian and Carlota spent many happy days, previous to their ill-starred expedition to Mexico. The beautiful palace of the Austrian Archduke, by the waters of the Adriatic, which he loved so well, remains in the same condition as when he departed from it for far off Mexico. An act of unparliamentary conduct was committed in the city of St. Louis, in the month of April, 1872, by a few of our citizens, who were desecrating the grave of the late President of Missouri, and the bodies were occasionally drawn to the spot by the historic interest now attached to the palace of the good Admiral.

Mr. BUREAU expresses his opinion upon the Presidency in the Christian Union. He is not looking to Cincinnati for political salvation. General Grant is good enough for him. He says, "I have no need of a combination of qualities which have upon trial, produced on the whole better results." He thinks it will be found wise to elect him. "There has been a good deal of talk about the late President of Missouri, and the bodies were occasionally drawn to the spot by the historic interest now attached to the palace of the good Admiral."

A North Carolina State Senator has been fined one dollar for slandering others on the public highway, and he is now in the hands of the law. He is now in the hands of the law. He is now in the hands of the law.

What Washington knew about Russia was worth knowing. In 1871 he had five hundred and eighty acres in grain; five hundred bushels of oats, seven hundred bushels of wheat, and so on. He had a very large estate. He had a very large estate. He had a very large estate.

How to select a good horse.

No part of the horse more prized or valued than the head. The head is the key to the horse's nature. A horse with a good head will be a good horse. A horse with a bad head will be a bad horse. A horse with a good head will be a good horse.

The horse should be selected for its ability to perform its duty. It should be selected for its ability to perform its duty. It should be selected for its ability to perform its duty.
