SATURDAY, MAY 4, 1872.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

CHANGE OF TIME ORDERED.

A Delegate Convention of the Republican party of Texas is hereby called to assemble in the city of Houston on the second and Tuesday of May, 1872, for the purpose of nominating Presidential candidates.

Circumstances require a thorough reorganization of the party, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the body.

The date of the convention is fixed at five hundred votes in each county.

County mass meetings are called by delegates where regular conventions are impracticable, and the subjects herein expressed will please copy this call.

J. G. TRACY,
Chairman of the Republican State Executive Committee.

J. P. NEWCOMB, Secretary.

The Associated Press Dispaches.

Our readers see that we have incurred great expense in order to furnish them with the latest news from the Cincinnati Convention, as well as from all other points. They are very lengthy, and necessarily crowd out nearly all of the editorial matter; but we have thought that our citizens would appreciate this unembarrassing, and assist us to some extent, by purchasing an extra edition.

Now, we have one word to say concerning these dispatches. Yesterday they furnished us with the interesting piece of news that there had been a dog fight in Alexandria Va. It also returned us, but which did not publish, a long telegram sent from this city to New Orleans, giving account of the Indian outrages which account we had already published. S. P. Chase's letter was another very important production to send over the wire at this time. To-day's dispatches are replete with repetitions, and needless prolixity. Why should we be inflicted with the whole of Schurz's speech? This is the outrageous manner in which we are swindled by the rapacious telegraph company.

In order to get five dollars worth of what we want, we are made to pay twenty-five dollars for whole columns of worthless rubbish. It is plain that no paper can afford this thing for any length of time. We hope the editorial convention which will soon meet in Houston will take this matter in hand, and see if some means cannot be devised whereby the inland press of Texas can get at reasonable rates just what they want of telegraphic news, and nothing more. We mean to have daily condensed dispatches if possible from this office; but we are neither willing to pay for such rubbish as the associated press gives us, nor to fill our columns with it to the exclusion of better matter.

In yesterday's Herald is a remarkable communication without date, or signature of the place where it was written, signed "J. B." It describes with considerable minuteness just how the Indians and apportioned while perpetrating the recent feudish outrage, account of which was given in yesterday's Express. Among other details this writer gives the following:

"They then tied their victims under the wagons, piled wood around and set fire to the pile. They remained with a diabolical stolidity till the death throes of the tortured Indians ceased to give their gasps, then they deliberately collected their maws and spills, with the dignified air of conquerors."

Now, no one but an actual spectator could have furnished this description, nor that which precedes it. The two who escaped did not stay to see the closing scene of the tragedy, nor are any of the victims quite in a situation to write letters to the Herald.

It is therefore clear that the Herald correspondent was one of the attacking party who perpetrated these horrible deeds, and is now narrating them "with the dignified air of a conqueror." His evidently exultant rejoicing concerning the actions of Gen. Merritt and the U. S. troops, is corroborative evidence. That is the old trick of misrepresenting the enemy — about whose real deeds "J. B." could know scarcely anything. Now is it not plain that it is the duty of the Herald to disclose who this enemy of mankind is? Can it calmly receive communications from one, probably the chief, of a band of murderers and robbers, publish the exploits of this band so well authenticated, and refuse to denounce his name?

Such a course might, not doubtless, lead to the breaking up of the band, and the bringing to justice of its correspondent as well as a large majority.

Convention considering Rhodes tariff resolution.

Cassius M. Clay deplored the question, which he pronounced an apple of discord, which should not be introduced here.

Sister Matthews urged as impossible taking the question out of the hands of the platform committee, though properly to secure careful deliberation on all points of policy; but if we must have a fight, we must have a fair one. He concluded by proposing Missouri tariff plank. Apprised.

On motion of Atkinson, of Massachusetts, Rhodes resolution was tabled by a large majority.

Presentation of candidates then again ordered, and on motion, adjourned till 10 o'clock to-morrow. A. M. moved and carried.

Proclamation.—The baronets will probably rise over the New England, Middle and Southern Atlantic states, on Friday, but fall from the lower Mississippi; northerly winds and east weather will generally prevail at the middle and southern states.

CINCINNATI, May 2.—Arrived at the station there shall be no formal nomination, pressed.

Law—Platform unanimously adopted. Great cheering.

From this date I will run the

Years went, years came,
Light met with shadow;
Love met the maid again;
Dreaming through the meadow,
"I am come," urged the boy,
"I am come to love you now."
"By and by," she mocked reply,
"Love's still in season."

Years went, years came,
Light met with shadow;
Love met the maid again;
Waiting in the meadow,
"Pass no more, my dream is o'er,"
"I can listen no more,"
"I am come to meet the boy,"
"Love's still in season."

Love met the maid again;
Waiting in the meadow,
"I am come to meet the boy,"
"Love's still in season."

Years went, years came,
Light met with shadow;
Love met the maid again;
Waiting in the meadow,
