Speech of Mr. Williams on the State Fair of Western Texas.
The Agricultural, Stockraising and Industrial Association of Western Texas, the oldest Association of the kind existing in this State, has the honor to announce that it will hold its Third Annual Fair, for the purpose of obtaining and promoting an association, fully appreciating the beneficial, practical results, ever flowing from them to all classes of society, have delighted to attend your Third Annual Fair. For them let me sincerely thank you for so kindly, on this occasion, permitting me to say a few words in the interest of the advantages of the fair to the State.

After crossing the Colorado river, going westward, one is what has come to be called Western Texas, extending on to the western limits of the State.

It is not true, that if we are willing to acknowledge a certain American character, it is that we work too much, and content and express even our occasional aspirations for what is only pleasant and beautiful in nature.

It is a fact that only on such occasions as these do all our people meet and mingle together with kindest feelings, forgetting temporarily all arbitrary and often bitter lines of sectional, sectarian and political divisions.

It is a fact that only on such occasions as these do all our people meet and mingle together with kindest feelings, forgetting temporarily all arbitrary and often bitter lines of sectional, sectarian and political divisions.
