I dream of a beautiful time
When elephants and hyenas
Shall blossoms on every tree,
When tamanduas and potatos
Shall grow in the same country,
When turpentine trees shall blossom
In the gardens for evermore.

I dream of a great republic,
When the sun sets over the West,
How plums and raspberries
In the land they love the best;
Where pig-tracks and molasses
Are the chief articles of commerce,
And chickens lay in the barnyard,
While gourmets toil at the mill.

The Thomas Cat who has been one of the Springfield Equitable editorial corps
for the past few years, in a paroxysm of despair at having been named "Horace Graeter," threw himself into a wheel in the engine-room of the establishment a few weeks since, and miserably perished.

James Fenton, the author of the life of Horace Greeley, was once forced to say that there was no office he should so much like that of light-house keeper, for the keeper has but to turn his light and read or write. When Greeley becomes President he must erect a model light-house for Fenton.

JUDGE W. VAN SLYCK, Editor & Proprietor.
Official Journal of the United States
OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF BEXAR COUNTY.
WEDNESDAY, JUNE 12, 1872.

FOR PRESIDENT,
Ulysses S. Grant,
OF ILLINOIS.
FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
Henry Wilson,
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

We call attention to the communication of Hon. F. E. Grothaus published on the first page of today's issue. It is based upon a statement, evidently from official sources, which appeared in the Austin Journal of the 5th instant, and which predicates the statement of Mr. Grothaus. At least so far as this gentleman is concerned, the reflections intended to be cast upon the former commissioners are robbed of their force. Of the other members of the commission it is unnecessary to say anything; if there be charges against them there are legal and proper methods of making them; and it strikes us as the lowest trick of the demagogue when a governor approves a law, makes the appointments under it, and then when the results are not quite satisfactory to every one, he should attempt to make a little cheap capital by an anonymous attack through the newspaper press upon his own officers.

But we have seen some remarkable gymnastics in the Executive office, and have no right to be surprised at this:

Mr. E. Degener's Letters.

There may be a difference of opinion concerning the wisdom or policy of Mr. Degener's declining to act as Presidential Elector under the election of the Houston Convention. It is an office without emolument, and therefore one of the most honorable which could be conferred upon any man.

A defeat could not justly be construed as a personal defeat, nor would a triumph add greatly, under ordinary circumstances, to the personal popularity of the elector. For ourselves we feel it proper to say, that we regretted and opposed the declination of Mr. Degener. It seemed to us that he might make a square and successful issue with our opponents in the Presidential campaign, without committing himself, or the National Republican party, in the slightest degree, to the glaring faults of the State Administration. It seemed to us, furthermore, that Mr. Degener was the proper person to engage in the contest. No man in Western Texas is better acquainted with the people, or better acquainted with the trickery and chicanery with which the Austin ring has attempted to tie its fortunes upon the stern of the National Republican ship. An exposure of all the facts, a plain exhibition to the people of the real antagonism between Grant and Davis Republicanism, would, coming from our ex Congressman, we thought, enlighten the people, and strengthen the party in Texas. But Mr. Degener has thought it best to cut loose from even a scathing asseveration in the action of a State Convention as thoroughly and corruptly stocked as was ever any Truman Convention in New York—a Convention which will, for all time, stand as a warning to decent and honest Republicans throughout the State.

But whether Mr. Degener has done well or ill—and we confess we cannot decide—it must be acknowledged that his reasoning is founded upon facts, and that he expresses himself clearly and logically, and with telling effect upon our State Administration:

The people will be convinced that, in the coming contest, the Austin Ring are to be abandoned to the fate they have chosen for themselves, and they will rally to the support of Grant and Wilson, and true Republicanism—which means "a government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 6th, 1872.
In accordance with a call published by the Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of the Fourth Congressional district, for a convention to be held in the town of Gonzales, on the fifteenth day of July next, to nominate a candidate for Congress; the Republican Executive committee of the several districts, composing the 20th Senatorial District, will call noon-day conventions or mass-meeting on or before the fifth day of July, for the purpose of selecting delegates to said Convention.

W. J. LOCKE,
Chairman, Ex. Com. 20th Senatorial Dis.
The foregoing call is published for the information of all whom it may concern. Although the officer making the call was irregularly chosen, in our opinion, and although we believe he was so chosen, with others, for the purpose of assisting finally in manipulating the Convention called to meet at Gonzales, the Republicans in this District may act in the matter as they may choose after consultation and deliberation. The Convention was not called, by Mr. Newcomb, to meet at Gonzales without a purpose. What that purpose was, will, without doubt, be soon enough ascertained. It will be time enough for the republicans of this District to take action after Mr. Newcomb's itinerants have ground out of his hand organ his little tune.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, June 10, 1872.
EDITOR EXPRESS:

The West Texas Republican, a new paper started in Bexar, Kendall county, opens its first editorial column with a list of candidates for the next election.

My name being given as a Presidential Elector for the State at large, it will be necessary to publish the annexed two letters, to prevent the error from spreading into papers of a wider circulation.

I have hitherto refrained from communicating these letters to you, because I considered it a question of courtesy, to give the Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee time to publish my resolution first, in his own paper, which by this time had been published.

Very respectfully,
E. DEGENER

NO. 1.
SAN ANTONIO, May 29.
Mr. J. G. TRACY, Chairman Rep. Executive Committee, Houston.

Dear Sir:—Although I have to date received no official communication from the President of the Houston Republican Convention, I send the telegram and news paper reports to correct, which state, that I was nominated a candidate for Presidential Elector of this District.

Fully appreciating the honor conferred upon me, and desiring as earnestly the election of President Grant, for a second term, I must, nevertheless, most respectfully decline to serve in the assigned capacity.

The course pursued by the Houston Convention, is, in my estimation, not calculated to insure the success of the National Republican party in this State.

From the information given by the last General election, the Congregant ought to have learned that the Republicans of Texas are not prepared to carry the weight of our State administration through the entire of Marchant.

The theory of the Houston platform, however, and in connection therewith, certain nominations, are so unequivocal an endorsement of the policy hitherto pursued by our State administration, that the National issue, instead of being the main question before the Convention, appears as a mere accessory, if not as a pre-text.

Being on that account unable, conscientiously, to endorse the action of the Convention, I can logically not accept a charge, be it ever so honorable, tendered to me by the same Convention.

The letter of the Houston platform,

which I enclose, to modify my letter,

May 29th, by saying that the duties of the Convention, is ordered to be performed by the Houston Convention, require more time than I can

regularly occupy, need not

be regarded as a mere accessory.

Very truly yours,
E. DEGENER.

NO. 2.
SAN ANTONIO, May 30.
Mr. J. G. TRACY, Chairman Rep. Executive Committee, Houston.

Dear Sir:—I received your favor of May 29th, in which I am compelled to make some observations to modify my letter.

May 29th, by saying that the duties of the Convention, is ordered to be performed by the Houston Convention, require more time than I can

regularly occupy, need not

be regarded as a mere accessory.

Very truly yours,
E. DEGENER.

The Manchester (England) Examiner shows that a pound of tobacco leaf, when raised at Liverpool or any other British port, is worth about 6d, and that the pound is taxed 3d 6d—their is nearly 700 per cent. additional tax on the import value of the tobacco. In fact, it is 1,140. Retailers cannot buy tobacco at 6d, and retail at 6s. So the pound of leaf is taken and manufactured, until it has absorbed about half a pound of water. The consumer, therefore, who buys the pound and a half of manufactured tobacco for 6s, and pays just 3d 6d for duty, is 114d for water, and 1d for tobacco; or, in plain English, he is paid for nothing, and 6d for tobacco. As the yearly expenditure for tobacco in the United Kingdom is £13,500,000, the people, therefore, pay £12,250,000 for nothing, and £1,250,000 for tobacco, by strangers sent across the sea.

The questions at hand are of such moment, that any subtlety, calculated to deceive the people on the motives by which I six months ago was wrong, and a stain on my own political honor.

You know as well as I do, that the Republican party in Texas might have been saved, if the administration in Austin had abandoned the system of intermeddling with matters which every Republican community considers as its own business. The financial blunders committed since the assembly of the Republican party in Texas have been forgotten, the increased taxation forgotten, in view of the advantages arising therefore, had the people been left to govern themselves, instead of being treated like a set of school boys, by strangers sent across the sea.

With the assurance of all proper diligences, the English influence should be used, to cause our legislature to pass the course here—unbiased—to recover the ground lost by previous action. I understand during the last course to defend the motives of our State administration, though my own candor led me to believe that Mr. Grant has done half the dignity that Mr. Grant has done.

Knowing that my course would probably lead to my own defeat, I nevertheless at the dictate of the Republicans Convention at New Braunfels took this unnecessary weight on my shoulders, for the purpose of preventing a split and saving this State for the National Republic, as it stands in a status quo position, as an佐助 to the most careful managers to bring about what may come of it.

The profits of manufacture is now, however shown by the facts that England paid the United States last year £18,499,000, and by making this cotton up into fabrics she earned £100,000,000 of net profit. This statement of the immense profit growing out of the manufacture of the great Southern staple should stimulate every community in the South and North, favorably located, to turn its attention to manufacture, as a means of almost doubling the value of the cotton crop.

As to the size of that lot, and the number of trees. It does not believe that taking Mr. Greeley's own estimate of the quantity under corn and under orchards, it can be more than ten acres, and safely comes to the conclusion that these trees must be well trimmed, and that their proprietor has fairly earned the title of "The Great American Trimmer."

"Spotted Tail" indignantly denies that he authorized the association of his name with that of Victoria C. Woodhull, on the Presidential ticket. The following dispatch has been received from him:

"Woudhull? Squaw! Ugh! Me no run."

Did the Convention not fully realize the true condition of affairs, or did they lack the manliness to indicate to the Governor and the people, the true cause of the general dissatisfaction? Instead of re-establishing the respectability of the Republican party, the action of the convention conveys the idea that the Administration meets the full satisfaction of the people, and the most prominent nomination is a strong confirmation that the continuance of the same modifications of policy is deemed unavoidable.

As a true Republican I am subscribe to such a course. Jealous of my own honor I must decline a nomination, the acceptance of which would leave no explanation but that my ambition obscures my sense of propriety.

My refusal on the other hand would be subject to misconception, if I did not make it clear, why, in advance of Mr. Greeley's election, referred to some in a position which would afford the best opportunity for showing the earnestness of my convictions.

If the Houston Convention had manifestly condemned the policy of our State Administration, the great majority of the Republicans in this State, who are now flocking into the Cincinnati camp, would have co-operated with us in curing the abuses of which every true Republican complains.

In identifying our State administration with the national administration of President Grant, the Houston Convention has virtually killed the Republican party organization in this State, and turns Texas hopelessly over to the Democrats.

For these reasons I must request you to publish my letter of 20th of May "unmodified," and this letter as well, to exemplify from the apparent neglect of not soon replying to the action of the convention in my behalf.

A French colony in Franklin, Kansas, has established a valued manufactory at that place, which is said to be the first on the market by importation, thus building themselves up while awaiting an increase of the domestic product. We have been glad heretofore to record the success of the California Silk Manufacturing Company, which has a factory at South San Francisco, employing forty operatives, and capable of turning out $250,000 worth of goods per annum. The products are machine sewing silks, twist, tram, organdie, and fringes, which are of excellent quality, and find a ready sale in this market. The business was begun on a modest but safe scale, and it is to be gradually extended.
