WHEN.
BY SUBAN COLLIER.
If I were told that I must die to-morrow,
That the next day
I should be laid in the cold earth,
I should not care.
I do not think that I should shrink or falter.
I would not care to change my work, nor seek to alter.
I might as well die to-morrow,
As to die to-day.
I might as well die to-morrow,
As to die to-day.
I might as well die to-morrow,
As to die to-day.

THE GENTLEMAN FROM ASIA.
Arrival in New York of the Asiatic steamer, in Full Force.
In a recent discussion in this paper of the preparation that are being everywhere made in the remotest parts of this city to offer a warm and cordial welcome to the cholera this summer, it was stated that this grisly phantom, born of Ganges slime, and nurtured by Juggernaut fanatics, had planted its batteries over against our coasts on those of Europe last fall. As a result of a forerunner, our sanitarians had carefully prepared on the outlying works of the dead besieger. They told of the appearance of the disease, in early winter, in the coast cities of Germany, England and France, and foretold a movement upon us "along the whole line" this summer. But, as often happens in human warfare, the first attack had been from an unexpected battery, and by making a long detour the enemy had approached us suddenly, and ended as it were upon our unguarded flank. In a word, a horrider of many pests, has sent us the cholera, having herself but just received it.

FOR PRESIDENT,
Clyde S. Grant,
OF ILLINOIS.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
Henry Wilson,
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

The Constitutional Convention.

The cork of the Congress side bottle popped yesterday near noon, and the champagne fell in San Antonio in the shape of a telegram from the Senator of the House. The Democratic Convention adjourned at 10 o'clock P. M. of Thursday, having nominated for Congress from the State at large A. H. Mills, Esq., of Galveston, and B. Q. Mills, Esq., of Navarro. The delegation to Baltimore are left to stick to dry land or take to water, but as may appear to them the most seductive and promising—that is, without instructions.

We found the following note without signature on our desk yesterday morning, which came through the Post office:

SAN ANTONIO,
MR. EDITOR:—Dear Sir,—You omitted in your article on the future of our city to say anything about LINDY HILL!

We have said "without signature" but it is possible that "Lindy Hill" is the name of our esteemed correspondent. If so, he (or she) is probably requested in some way with the removed mailmen, celebrated by the poet Longfellow, whose euphonious name was Minnie-hill!

A third correspondent, of course, and the third ripple of laughter and make the name very proper. Minnie-hill has had in the past a reputation for being the number one in the city. It is a name which comes necessary to designate the family will become burdensome to editors and compositors. But there is a very serious side to this increase of the Hill! ha! ha!

How would it strike the reader for instance, if he were to receive an epistle like the following: Dear Sir:—It is my painful duty to inform you that your aged neighbor across the way another himself yesterday with an old white hat, supposed to be Horace Greeley's. He was discovered wandering along the streets of this city in a naked state, with a sign on his breast that said "HARRIS FOR GOV. 1872." A variety of other almost incoherent utterances, when suddenly discovering that the whole world was looking upon him in amazement, it is supposed that under a sense of shame he pulled the old white hat down over his eyes, nose and mouth, and before he could be extricated from it he fell a helpless corpse. In consequence of his shameful appearance but few undertook his rescue, and fewer still attended the funeral of your poor old and aged neighbor. Yours sincerely,
Hill! ha! ha!

Now it is anticipated that the name of the correspondent is not suggestive of funeral services, and it may be of funeral, and in reply our illustration, in all seriousness, for the benefit of our correspondent, we assure him that his Hill! ha! ha! comes in at the wrong place, if, as we suppose, he believes the land titles of San Antonio are any more precarious than in any other city in the country. If it were really true that the tenure of lands here is uncertain, it would be no laughing matter. But it is not true. Probably the titles to four-fifths, if not more, of the soil embraced within the radius of three miles having its center at the Main Plaza are held by the highest courts. We do not know of any considerable amount of land which can be held by any individual, except that which is held in common by the people, as a disputed inheritance. In fact, we may go farther, and state that the whole county together, inside from question of boundaries, descent, and other questions common except where, the titles to land are as yet unsettled as in many portions of the Union. The old Spanish and Mexican titles, as far as the question of titles, therefore, are "settled" in a very nearly so. In consequence of the cheapness of land here, therefore there has been an astonishing amount of land bought and sold, but as the land increases in value, more and more are exhibited, and it is likely that there will many more go out of this business. There is, however, one defect which should be remedied by legislative enactment—and that is, a proper facility for tracing a title to its origin. We ought to have a law which should furnish business in it should be to furnish a history of the title.

It should be a bonded and responsible officer. The first thing to be done would be a thorough compilation of all the records of the colony, complete and accurately digested, and then every transfer of land should be duly recorded in a book for record. The county, and purchases, are so easily made now, that they are rarely thorough and exhaustive, and scarcely ever reliable—still more seldom from responsible men. No reflection is meant to be cast upon the profession, but the labor of tracing up an intricate title to a long tedious and painful job which few men are willing to do for a reasonable price. It is in the real difficulty, and the big defect in the title themselves.

We say to any one wishing to buy property here, that he will now clear dirt cheap; that he will buy little dirt in the title in 1872; that ten years from now land will be worth four or five times what it is now; and that if he buys now he will find the profit all on his side in good time.

The San Antonio Irrigation Project—No Title and No Requirement.

It is a well known fact that the proposed irrigation of this city, the suggested irrigation, if accomplished, will bring out immediate and substantial lands into use, and enhance the value of the city.

It will locate, by development, thousands of new homes in the city, and extend our city, increase the population and the tax-payers, and will enable us to pay for our general improvements, such as streets, bridges, public buildings, railroads, &c.

It will absorb from the surrounding districts, water which flows through the arid, unproductive lands, and will irrigate and subdivide into small farms, and will maintain lands for the common use of the city.

The city, "Napa's gift," should be held, not as idle speculation's land, but used to support all-around life. It is a complement will, with more success, reliance and confidence, quicken the building of railroads.

The first thing to be done would be a thorough compilation of all the records of the colony, complete and accurately digested, and then every transfer of land should be duly recorded in a book for record. The county, and purchases, are so easily made now, that they are rarely thorough and exhaustive, and scarcely ever reliable—still more seldom from responsible men. No reflection is meant to be cast upon the profession, but the labor of tracing up an intricate title to a long tedious and painful job which few men are willing to do for a reasonable price. It is in the real difficulty, and the big defect in the title themselves.

We say to any one wishing to buy property here, that he will now clear dirt cheap; that he will buy little dirt in the title in 1872; that ten years from now land will be worth four or five times what it is now; and that if he buys now he will find the profit all on his side in good time.

The San Antonio Irrigation Project—No Title and No Requirement.

It is a well known fact that the proposed irrigation of this city, the suggested irrigation, if accomplished, will bring out immediate and substantial lands into use, and enhance the value of the city.

It will locate, by development, thousands of new homes in the city, and extend our city, increase the population and the tax-payers, and will enable us to pay for our general improvements, such as streets, bridges, public buildings, railroads, &c.

It will absorb from the surrounding districts, water which flows through the arid, unproductive lands, and will irrigate and subdivide into small farms, and will maintain lands for the common use of the city.

The city, "Napa's gift," should be held, not as idle speculation's land, but used to support all-around life. It is a complement will, with more success, reliance and confidence, quicken the building of railroads.

What if you are an old man...
Her eyes were bright and clear...
The old man looked at her...

Only a glimpse of the old man...
A glance of the old man's face...
And a leg in blue and white...

And I thought of a dream...
Of a woman with a face like...
And I thought of a dream...
