Of the soiling plants there is nor better than Lucetne, and especially is it applicable to the South. It can be sown broadcast, or by the drill, and it is strange that it has not been more generally adopted in this country—but one improvement is apt to make way for another, and hence we find by the Utica (New York) Herald, which has taken such a leading part in the establishment of the Cheese and Butter Dairy system, that it is strongly recommended for soiling purposes in that State. It is a deep rooting perennial plant, sending up numerous small and tall clover-like shoots, with blue and violet spikes of flow

says:
"The Alfalfa grass, over which the California farmers have gone into ecstacies, proves to be nothing else than the Lucerne grass, well known in our Eastern States and cultivated for years on the European Continent. Its value however, is not overrated. It is exceedingly well adapted to dairying purposes, as it will live through very dry weather and still yield very bountifully. It is said that ten acres of the Lucerne grass will yield for soiling purposes more forage than one hundred acres of ordinary pasture. During the first year of its growth During the first year of its grown, it can be cut twice, and afterward three crops can be cut from the same land. It will live in very dry sandy or gravelly soil, for it sends sandy or gravelly soil, for it sends at roots dear late the subsoil for moisture, and when once it is well started it will stand prolonged periods of drought, and still help the

A Task for the Commissioner of

So many absurd jokes have been poked at Horace Greeley and the unfortunate commissioner, that it does one good to find something of does one good to and something of the funny kind to come up for real. At least it is said that the follow-ing epistle, addressed to the distin-guished author of "What I Know guished author of "What I know About Farming" by a Pittaburger and constituent of General Negley, is an "ower true tale." If it does is an "ower true tale." If it does not fetch the gooseberries and the hairy caterpillars, it is evident the three gentlemen named will have no heart for the gennine, unsophisticated farmers who look up to them with such unhesitating trustfulness when any really new idea is to be brought out.—But we must let Mr. John Silvas speeck for himself.

John Sikes speak for himself.

"To Horace Greely: Sur. As U no about farmin I konkluded to ask your advice about a nu sort of gozeburry I red of in a paper which a tom Hood rote about.—He says a tom Frost sed to a horticultural society as follows. ociety as follows:

We have, in years past, most urgently appealed to the farmers of the Middle and Southern States to introduce this plant.—It has been grown in Maryland with great success, and yet it has been but poorly followed up. In our Farmer, in 1853 or cheese is fixed, and when a rath when the process of the control of -4, we proclaimed that; as a soiling provender, there was "nothing superior to Lucerne," and gave minute directions as to its cultivation. Democracy Bently The Deme Stand in Texas.

We give below the views of the Denton Monitor, and in contrast there with the comments of the Gal veston News upon the same article. The Monitor says :

We observe that a paragraph from the Monitor, in which we de-clared that we could neither vote for Greeley nor indorse his plat-form, has gone the rounds of the press, eliciting considerable comnt from the wisby washy organs of Texas. A number of them cau-not understand what objection we have to the Cinciunati platform. Our objection is that it recognizes all the uncivilized creatures in human shape on earth as equal, be-fore the law, and consequently as much entitled to vote as the most sivilized and refined, and that it indorses the illegal amendments to mountering our sons, insulting our daughters and destroying our prop-erty, is recommended by that plat-form to be paid by the South as wall as the North, while the South favor of the repudiation of Further, that platform talks apout the "rebellion" too flippantly The late war was not regarded as a rebellion by the world, and we shall not assume that the confeder-ates were traitors and should be punished as rebels. Commenting upon the Montter's emphatic language, the News says

The chore is plain language, and we are glad to find even one of the Bourboan so caudid and outspokes. They are all actuated by the same motives, and doubtless entertain the same sentiments, but they avoid coming to the point definitely the above paper. They studio very vaguely, but patriotically, about their undying devation to Democratic principles. The determination is to eep the country in constant agita tion, with a view to made all that has been done by the war, because principle to policy or expediency, attended closely to the legitimate business and so they are determined to fight of the session. The Senate was not so fortier, and Governor Bard interviewed the it out on that line if it takes to the tunate. A number of lengthy discussions end of time. Alexander H.
