FOR PRESIDENT,
Ulysses S. Grant,
OF ILLINOIS.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
Henry Wilson,
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS—4th Dist.
J. R. BURNS, of Fayette.

FOR CONGRESS—STATE AT LARGE,
HON. LEMUEL D. EVANS,
HON. A. B. NORTON.

FOR CONGRESS—4th District:
HON. JAMES H. BELLI, of Travis.

Republican Congressional Convention in the 4th District re-assembled.

The Hon. Jas. H. Bell having declined the nomination tendered him by the Republican Convention assembled at Gonzales on the 15th of July; by request of Delegates and other prominent Republicans the members of that Convention are requested to re-assemble at Victoria, on Tuesday the 27th day of August, 1872 for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress in the place of Judge Bell declined, and for transacting such other business as may properly come before the Convention.

A full delegation from every county in the District is requested. The basis of representation will be the same as in the original call.

W. C. BARDEN,
Chairman Executive Committee 4th Congressional District.

The Young Democracy

Of this section look as blue as do the reformers. Republicans over the result of the various caucuses, Conventions, and other curious proceedings lately had in this part of the world under the management of the old "hard-heads" of the Democracy. They have been utterly ignored—and virtually told to mind their "papa's."

The old fellows have always taken "their straight," and they don't mean that their young ones, nor the interloping reformers, shall get either sugar or lemon into the dose to be swallowed next November.

We tender our sympathies to the junior of the Herald. We really hoped that his claims would receive recognition in the Democratic reformers Convention of last Saturday; in refusing to do so that distinguished meeting offered an obvious insult to the newspaper press which we feel called upon to resent. But we make a suggestion that Mr. Thompson announce himself now as an independent candidate. He will be untrammelled, will command the support of "numerous friends," and may be the means of doing some valuable service to the people of this county. Doff your bashfulness, Henry, come right out and take the stump of your own, and go in to win the battle or die! Remember Horace Greeley and R. Grant are old quill drivers—the Herald will be a power in the land for you!—On to the rescue!

The Liberal Republicans

As they presume to call themselves, are not enthusiastic over the manner in which the Democracy of this Senatorial District treated their claims in last Saturday's Convention. They have made the discovery that the whole thing was "fixed" by the regular old "blue-light" of the Democracy of the olden time. They have had thrown to them as bait the seductive and incomparable Julius Berends, who is supposed to carry the "German element" in his hat. It remains to be seen to what extent this bait will prove satisfactory, and whether Berends' hat is as capacious as the old white hat and coat of the Chappagna sage.

The majority of both factions now following don't appear to like the Volley Davidson judgement. Their peculiar Republicanism, it is feared, will be as little recognized in the Legislature as it has been heretofore by the Democratic party leaders. Their fears are wholesome, and will lead to good results—as we shall see.

The British Parliament, as announced by telegram, was prorogued on Friday.

It was stated in her speech that she was every over the individuality composed by the tween England and the United States was announced. What are the democratic newspapers and stump speakers going to do, now that this prolific theme no longer affords them opportunity for abusing Grant? Volumes have been written proving to the satisfaction of the writers, at least, that the treaty was a failure, and although the real work of the commission has from the beginning been kept profoundly secret, it has been charged, again and again, not only that the arbitrators could not agree, but with a naive inconsistency, that, at the same time, our government had surrendered all it had ever claimed.

Sensible men will appreciate the support our government has received from the democratic press of the country, and the truths upon which their attacks upon the administration were based.

Here is Greeley's opinion of "the illustrious soldier and judicious statesman," before he coveted the place now accepted by Grant. We copy from the N. Y. Tribune June 1868:

"Upon General Grant's accession to the Presidency a number of those who had supported his election, with some who had not, sought office at his hands or expected him to bestow it unasked. He was unable to gratify their aspirations. Their lamentations mingled with the howls of the disappointed, made a doleful dissonance, whereof the only meaning deducible runs thus:—'General Grant is found wanting—his administration is a failure!' 'Failure! how! in what! Have we not peace and plenty in the land? Is not our flag displayed and respected on every sea? What foreign government molests and threatens us? Who fears insurrection at home or invasion from abroad? In which of the thirty-six States are the masses wanting work, discontented, suffering? 'Consider our financial condition. Nearly every State and municipality paying off debts incurred in raising men for the war, while the national debt has been reduced nearly thirty millions in the four months that General Grant has had his hands on the helm. The public expenditure is falling off on every side, while the revenue is up to high water mark.

"Yes General Grant has failed to gratify some eager aspirations, and has thereby incurred some intense hatreds. These will not and do not fail; and his administration will prove at least equally vital. We shall hear lamentation over his failure, from those whose wish is farther to the thought; but the American people let them pass unheeded. Their strong arms bore him triumphantly through the war and into the White House and they still upheld and sustain him. They never failed and never will!"

Greeley is one of those "whose eager aspirations Grant has failed to gratify," hence his "intense hatred" of the White House.

The U. S. Mail in Western Texas

Western Texas has always been, more or less, a neglected region by the authorities at Washington. The War Department, it is true, has been compelled to pay us considerable attention, on account of Indian depredations merely, but because this is a frontier, bordering upon a nation whose border inhabitants at least, are not disposed to wards special friendships. The Indian and border forays with which the whole of West Texas is familiar, it would seem, might require of our government the establishment of frequent as well as rapid mail facilities.

Certainly the transmission of army dispatches through a regular mail express is cheaper and equally as reliable as by special couriers. But the inhabitants of the towns and country have some claims also. The Northern part of the State, we are told, have vastly better and more frequent mail transportation than we of the West have.

There is no longer any reason why we should be so neglected. In a short time the mails from the North to the San Antonio Post Office, for distribution through the West will come via the railroad; it will be the most direct and the quickest route, and the "trunk" line, as it may be called, to Corpus Christi thence into Mexico, will be direct from here to Corpus, and the amount of mail matter to be transported will demand a daily mail. At present we have only a weekly mail sent from here there, which furnishes facilities for sending only about one-half the mail matter on the direct route; the balance having to be sent round about ways, and is therefore a long time in reaching its destination. It frequently takes 12 and 14 days for a mail bag to travel from this city to Corpus Christi, when it ought to take no more than 3 or 4. The amount of mail matter at present passing through this office for that section is at least sufficient for a tri-weekly if not a daily dispatch.

When the change above mentioned is made it will no doubt compel the P. O. Department to establish a daily mail from here to Corpus Christi. A glance at the map will show that this is the shortest, quickest, and cheapest route for the government to adopt; and while the people will be greatly benefited by immediate action, the government will save money by taking immediate action. We need now more than ever a daily mail to the frontier of Mexico—plainly the best route both for our people and for the government is via Corpus, and Rio Grande city to Brownsville and Matamoros—the real center of the Mexican States bordering upon the Rio Grande. We beg leave to call the attention of the Post Office Department to the necessities of establishing a daily mail from here to Corpus and Brownsville immediately. Our citizens ought to take some action in the matter without delay. It is also the duty of our Senators in Congress and all who can exercise any influence, by bringing the facts before the proper Department, to do so. We shall take occasion hereafter to explain the case more explicitly.

Notes from Washington.

Charles Sumner's Apostasy.
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 31, 1872.

The chafing Senator has defined his position. In reply to a letter from twenty-four respectable colored men in Washington, asking his views as to which of the two candidates for the Presidency they ought to support, the Senator, after nineteen days delay in battling with conscience, at last replied:

"My vote will be given for Horace Greeley." And after two columns of argument upon the "antecedents" and "present position" of the respective candidates, he adds: "I have shown you why, as colored fellow citizens, and also all who would uphold your rights and save the colored race from indignity, should refuse to sanction the re-election of the President and put your trust in Horace Greeley."

We give the Senator credit for the unequivocal and emphatic language of his letter. There is nothing doubtful in it. Grant is abused or Greeley praised in every paragraph and nearly every sentence of the document; and the abuse and the praise are just about as intense, as words in the English language can possibly render them.

But apart from the absence of ambiguity, his letter has nothing to commend it, even to the colored citizens to whom it was addressed. Analyzed it will be found to be composed of hatred, revenge and misrepresentation, compounded in a malignant spirit, and that too, to use his own language, applied to the President, by "a bad, bold, and dangerous man."

On the morning that Sumner's letter was published, a business transaction called the writer of this paragraph into the office of a prominent democrat, whom he found eagerly perusing the Senator's epistle.

"Good morning, sir," was our salute, to which was added, "I presume that letter of Sumner just suits you?"

"Well," he replied, raising his spectacles, "I despise the man; but I like his letter. I think it is the only good act of his life."

Here we have a key to the spirit in which Charles Sumner and his letter will be received by the Democracy into whose hands the Senator has committed his future keeping. The Satchels of Tammany, like the Priests of the Sanhedrin, accept the boon, but repudiate the traitor and despise his motives.

The charges against Grant are simply a repetition of the same old catalogue, conceived and already often repeated by the Senator, commencing with the San Domingo affair, which is newly embellished in a manner to make it more effective in creating a hatred among the colored population of our own country against the President. The charge in order drawn up to prejudice the colored mind, is now dressed up in the following garb. He says:

"Sailing into the harbor of Fort-Prince, with our most powerful monitor, the Dictator, properly manned for this service, and the frigate Severn as consort and other monitors in their train, the admiral, acting under instructions from Washington, proceeded to the executive mansion, accompanied by officers of his squadron, and then, pointing to the great war ships in sight from his windows, dealt his menace of war, threatening to sink or capture Haytian ships. The President was black, not white.

"The Admiral would have done no such thing to any white ruler, nor would our country have tolerated such insult from any Government in the world. Here was indignity not only to the black republic, with its population of eight hundred thousand, but to the African race everywhere, and especially in our own country. Nor did it end here. For months the navy of the United States was hovering on the coast, keeping that insular people in constant anxiety, while President Grant was to them like a hawk sailing in the air and ready to swoop upon his prey."

law and etiquette. There are two governments upon the island, whose rulers were at the time at war. The Dominicans, the weaker party, were harassed by the Haytians, and threatened with extermination. At this juncture, the United States Navy, under authority from Washington, sent the olive branch of mediation, and Charles Sumner, and he not been already in a quarrelsome mood, and determined to oppose, and if possible, defeat the President, would have been among the first to approve the act that defied the Dominicans against destruction.

From this, the Senator, in a spirit of malignant hatred and revenge, turns and seizes upon another circumstance, with the sole view of prejudicing the minds of colored voters against the President. Here is his charge:

"Nor can it be forgotten that shortly afterward, on the return of the commission from this island, Hon. Frederick Douglass, the colored orator, accomplished in manners as in eloquence, was thrust away from the company of the commissioners at the common table of the mail packet on the Potomac, almost within sight of the Executive Mansion, simply on account of his color, but the President, at whose invitation he had joined the commission, never uttered a word in condemnation of this exclusion, and when entertaining the returned commissioners at dinner, carefully omitted Mr. Douglass, who was in Washington at the time, and thus repeated the indignity."

From this the revengful Senator descends to a repetition of the frivolous charges of repeated by himself, of the personal government and personal pretensions of President Grant, involving nepotism, repayment of gifts by official patronage, neglect of public duty, absenteeism, military rule, disregard of Constitution and law, with general unfitness and indignity to the colored race.

This "indignity to the colored race" is a new feature, it will be noticed in the catalogue of crimes of which the President has been guilty, and is as silly and inapplicable to the man against whom it is aimed, as those which preceded it. But it is now added for a purpose. The colored vote must be wrested from its custom of going as a unit for the Republican party, and secured for Greeley and the Democracy; and for the first time Sumner now charges the President with "indignity" toward the colored race. Anything to beat Grant and gratify a revengful spirit.

A DESPERADO COME TO GRIEF.—Our readers will doubtless remember the bold robbery committed in Calvert about five months ago, when one A. Faulkner was chopped and hewed in a terrible manner by a hatchet in the hands of the burglar.

A reward of $1000 was offered for his arrest, and last week Sheriff Zimmler arrested him in Austin. His name is Nelson Johnson, and there are some six or eight rewards offered for his arrest on as many different charges of grave offences.—Houston Union.
