The California Election.

Horace Greeley's Almanac said that there was to be an election in California on the 5th of the present manth, and the Newspapers said so also. Ten days have now elapsed and yet the telegraph has been unable to plack up sufficient courage to give us any news concerning the result. If there had been a Democratic victory we should have heard all about it with the usual exaggerations long before this. But the News of Galveston says the company has been subsidised by Grant! Can the News tell us why the telegraph is quick to herald democratic gains, and slow in furnishing the will, and the occupation of all these because of their eating half-grown bolls;

Votes of the Oracles

From a file of the Semi-Weekly New York Tribune, which we have preserved, we clip the following extract from an editorial under the above heading, found in the number of July 7th, 1872. Now, is not the language of Greeley as applicable to-day as when he uttered it? Is not his apinion of that day equally good for this, namely, "there ought to be some unanimity among the leaders in the advice which and prosperity at least ten years. they give for the campaign"? But The men who are furnishing capital where is the unanimity ! They do to build our railroads will close know however what they are fight | their money bags once more, and ing for, the spoils of office - that is quietly await the reaction sure to if Wilson and posse, about three miles were satisfied that the ruin of the nation was inexisable. If he should be elected again, in 1864, free republican government was at an end. If Grant should be chosen in 1868, the long predicted universal smash would follow in a fortnight, and the United States become an empire in less three months. The predictions have all been falsified by events. Mr. Lincoln's Presidency raised the country to a higher position than it had ever occupied before; and Gen. Grant, instead of attempting to govern in the absolute and peremptory manner which might perhaps have been anticipat. might perhaps have been anticipated from his military training, has strictly fulfilled the promise of his inaugural that he would, have uo y to enforce against the wishes people. No President that we had has so clearly recognized the duty of the Esecutive to carry out the will and warner at the night. The daily range of the majority. Nevertheless, the Details at the higher station is not so great as at the lower the difference half are not the lower the difference in the lower than the lowe of the mojority. Nevertheless, the Democracy approach the campaign of 1872 with the oldery of danger to our liberties. Even so sensible a man as Gen. McClellau announces that the next canvass "is destined to be one of the most important of all that have been souducted," and half degrees. In cold weather it is found that the air on the top of a hill is never so cold as that in the valley. These observations were prosecuted in a valley as Cobham and on a hill at Denbies, the difference is height being about in hundred. But trusts that "every Democrat will recognize the magnitude of the is sues at stake"-no less, to wit, than the very existence of the free institutions our fathers, etc., etc. Batisfied as they all seem to be of the character of the contest, there ought to be semething like unanimity among the leaders in the advice which they give for the conduct of the campaign. They must at least know what they are fighting for, since they all regard it as so highly valuable.

Will It Pay !

A day or two ago we endeavored demonstration, that the material interests of Western Texas are not only greatly dependent upon the election of our nominee for Congress, Mr. O. W. Hutchinson, but also upon the general success of the Republican party. We promised then revert to the subject, and we now propose to renew the argument, but without making any effort to exhaust it. We wish to prove that it is egally important to the welfare of this section of the State that the Republican nominges for our State Legislature should be elected. Upon their being chosen pepends the most vital interests of the people. There is not only danger of a total destruction of the public free school system, of the laws, which have furnished us with a condition of peace, quiet, and good order never heretofore known, of laws which are daily enticing capital and immigration to our midst, with the promise of a which cannot be estimated, but, also, a violent, revolutionary usurpation of powers by our opponents, inconstitutional and unprecedented. which are certain to result in confusion and disaster.

Suppose these plainly expressed esigns of the Democratic party, (for it is really that party in our 'eill the "ghost" got to her. She then State, so insignificant are the se- went for the spectre, and thrashed-out of called Republican reformers in his disguise a young fellow who merely numbers, who, lured by a hope of wanted to frighten the party. Leading offices have surrendered their principles, and with them their influ ence and manhood;) suppose, these designs were accomplished? In the confusion which would follow can any sane man believe that there would not be an immediate check given to the influx of capital and immigration ?

These two adjuncts are our main reliance for the future prosperity of the State, and they are more sensitive than anything else to an uncertainty of peaceful seciety, good Grant map has since been discharged, government, and public taith and thoroughly cared. eredit. Let it once be made certain in the financial circles of New York that repudiation of State obligations, or even an attempt at repudiation, is the order of the day in ever-run that the worms could be ladled Texas, and apparently the popular up in the furrows by the handful. Such engaged in inducing immigration will be gone; there will be require more hopeful. They still insist, however, ed no longer agents to assist in that without higher prices, the crop will capital, brains and labor such as will astound the most incorrigeable bourbon in the State will set in, until there shall be a universal cry of distress-and with it, the cry. "down with the Bourbons !"

There is not a single threat made by the commingled elements now struggling for power in this State ; "We suppose there never was a political call paign which Democratic orators and platform-makers did not pronounce decisive of "the very existence of the free institutions our fathers gave us." If Mr. Lincoln should be elected in 1860, they in fact, but more especially of this section, are invited to.

We do not believe it is what they desire, nor what they will relish; therefore, they will thwart the schemes of these political guerrillas, cling to free schools, good order, and a well grounded hope for railroads, immigration, and other blessings, and at the polls defeat these machinations.
