EUGENIO NAVARRO.

FOR COUNTY CLERK,
GOTFRIED LEEK.

M. G. ANDERSON, Esq., is candidate for the office of District Attorney of the 2nd District, as the regular nominee of the Texas County Republican Convention.

We are authorized to announce FRED. COCKE, Esq., of this city as an independent candidate for District Attorney at the coming election, in this Texas District.

We are authorized to announce A. RADEB, Esq., as a candidate for the office of State Auditor for this county, at the coming election.

M. G. GREEN, Esq., is announced by authority, as a candidate for the office of District Attorney, at the coming election.

THE Gazette makes the absurd assertion that Senator Morton of Indiana has a $7,000,000 fund with which to conduct his campaign against Hendricks; and it also says that Hendricks is backed by the New York rings, and can see this sum and go a little better. If the Gazette had said $7,000,000,000 we might perhaps be induced to believe the assertion; but that two such distinguished men as Morton and Hendricks should undertake a political campaign in the Hoosier State with the trifling sum each of $7,000,000 is simply preposterous.

Col. Kullback must be mistaken in his figures. The fact is, both of these gentlemen have nearly all the gold as well as the currency in the country at their backs. We hope the Colonel will make the correction.

THE Nation, also, agrees with the Herald, and says: "There is no question that the Greeley movement is fast flagging. This is acknowledged on all hands. Of course the reasons assigned for it vary. The World says there is 'a lull in the canvass'; while other prominent Democrats say there is 'a pause' &c. &c."

The Nation adds: "The fact seems to be that Greeley is not a candidate to bear examination. The criticism of the canvass falls on him as it probably never fell on any candidate before. One of his prominent supporters remarked in our hearing, after the nomination at Cincinnati, that 'it would either prove an avalanche or a fiasco,' and the more ardent Greeley men expected it to prove an 'avalanche,' or, in other words, expected to carry him into the White House by harrumphing and repeating catch-words. This expectation has been completely disappointed, and although the movement has as yet by no means turned out a 'fiasco,' discussion tells us it daily. The result of the North Carolina and the succeeding election has opened the doubting, and there has been a total stoppage of 'accessions.' Moreover, Grant's silence compared to Greeley's noise—for in the popular eye the latter, his retirement to the contrary notwithstanding, is still the true editor of the Tribune—begins to tell powerfully in Grant's favor, and even to excite a kind of enthusiasm about him which is stimulated by the personal attacks on him. A man who, in the midst of the luscious hounding about his spending a couple of months at the seaside, goes calmly to the Thon-son Islands on 'a jaunt,' and lets his enemies rave away, shows a quality by which the hearts of most people are more or less stirred. 'By Time?' says Hessa Biglow, 'I do like a man that ain't afraid.' Here is the testimony of two of the ablest journals in the country, possessing the best opportunity possible for close and accurate observation and knowledge; both possessing wide influence, and both having started out in the beginning of the Presidential agitation favorable to the Cincinnati movement; and even now non-partisan in their views, bearing evidence that that movement is already approaching a 'fiasco.' It will be but a repetition of the history of all unwholy alliances.

The Presidential Canvass.

The N. Y. Herald of the 10th reviews the situation in view of the result of the elections which have already taken place, and announces its opinion that the New England States are sure for Grant. Connecticut, it says, is the only doubtful one among the number, and it is predicted that the Republicans will carry that State by at least as large a majority as it did at the last election. The Herald says that there is great depression every where among those recreant Republicans who went into the Greeley movement, which added to the lukewarmness of the Democracy will exercise great influence over the elections soon to take place in Pennsylvania, Indiana, and other States. The campaign in the South is pronounced as having been so far equally fruitless results favorable to the hope of carrying any of the Southern States where the negro vote exists in large numbers. The battle, it says, is to be fought in the middle and Western States; but even there, owing to bad leaders and cold-hearted followers there is very little hope for Greeley.

In the meantime, says the Herald, outside the politicians, the people appear to be making up their minds to suffer our national affairs to go on for the next four years without change, and the financial interests of the country apparently shrink from the extreme experiment of turning over the administration to Greeley, with a double-headed party at his back, whose members would, probably, be dragging him in opposite directions in the event of his success. His final decision is, we can only conclude at present, judging facts as they are, that the States which voted for Gen. Grant in 1868 will vote, or nearly vote, for him in 1872, and that there will be no more change in Indiana, Pennsylvania, Ohio, &c., in October than there has been in Vermont and Maine in September.

O'Connor on Greeley.

In his last letter declining the Louisiana nomination, Charles O'Connor says: "My views as to the duty of resisting the Baltimore nomination coincide with those you have expressed. Unless their lines are kept firm and their antagonism on some real or supposed principle consistently sustained, political parties can do no good. They are on their face mere reactions—combinations to delude the people, and divide, as profits of a trade, such proportions of wealth as can be wrung from under the forms of law. Consequently in a country governed by parties, an avowed coalition of elements, before deeply and vitally antagonistic, for the mere purpose of carrying an election, is not honorable. The participants in it part with their regard for decorum, and it is familiar knowledge that this is the last reliance against dishonest action after virtue and public action are extinct. Undoubtedly in all things there are degrees, and in imaginable instances that may be wide toleration. Indeed I am quite prepared to say that there are a large number of eminent men in the Republican party who might well have aspired to the Presidency, and whose acceptance as the candidate at Baltimore would not have been unjustifiable. The nomination which was in fact made is utterly so. Its folly is manifest, and its failure inevitable. A public coalition, though it has all the inherent qualities of conspiracy, has not the same chance of success. The people may be sacrificed by secret betrayal; they never consent to open sale."

He intimates very plainly that if the choice be between Greeley and Grant, the latter should be chosen, but thinks there is time yet for a straight-out Democratic nomination. "I regard the Baltimore nominations as exhibiting in their climax the vices of the nomination system, with its pledges and platforms, shocking to honest pride and sound morals, and the career of bargaining which is now generally required to procure such. The platform is a thing gotten up for emergency. On it the candidate is made to sit, as on a stool of repentance, or an one placed in stocks, by holding him to pledges now forced upon him.

NEWS ITEMS.

The North Platte, Nebraska Democrat says: "A herd of stock cattle passed by the place last Wednesday, on its way to California numbering forty or hundred head. They were driven from Mason county, Texas, and were owned by Billigan & Brooks.

The Republican convention for the 30th Senatorial district, which held its session on the 10th of August, nominated for the Legislature Dr. J. Willett Wedderburn, of Karnes, James Downing, of Starr, and Samuel Jarvis, of Webb county. The ticket is considered a strong one.

Horace Greeley has started on a Western tour embracing Columbus, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville, Nashville, Chicago, Toledo, Cleveland, Detroit, Erie and the coal mine regions of Pennsylvania. He will be gone about two weeks and make several speeches on the route.

Tax Houston Union of the 15th says: "Yesterday the various houses handling cotton reported large receipts of wagon cotton. The receipts by wagon and rail have exceeded those of last year fully one hundred per cent.

Tax office of the Houston Union has been enlarged, and large additions made to its printing material.

Tax announcement through the telegraph that the award of the Geneva arbitration to the United States was $2,500,000, should have been $5,000,000 pounds sterling.

Tax State Gazette says: "We are reliably informed that the Houston and Texas Railway Company will soon have a corps of engineers in the field making a preliminary survey of their branch road from some point in Navarro county, through Kaufman, and thence in the direction of Paris, in Lamar county. The route contemplated in the survey passes through a very desirable portion of the State. At Paris it will in all probability connect with the Missouri River, Fort Scott and Gulf road, known in the State as the Joy road."

The forty-eighth annual session of the R. W. Grand Lodge of the United States, commenced in the city of Baltimore on Monday, September 16. The members of the order always feel a deep interest in the annual communications of this grand body, as it is the fountain head of all the laws of the order. The coming session will no doubt be an important one, as the grand officers for the next two years are to be elected, and several amendments to the constitution to be acted upon, the most important of which are to change the title of the grand lodge from "the Grand Lodge of the United States" to "the Grand Lodge of America" to lengthen the term of representatives from two to four years, and make the sessions "biennial." An effort will probably be made to lengthen the terms of subordinate lodges to one year.

Among the contributions sent to the New York Times office for its fund for giving excursions to poor children, was one accompanied by this touching note: "To the Editor—Some days since I sent you a check for $25, to be used for the poor children of New York. Then we had a most precious darling little one of eight months, our first and only one, who was in health. In two hours he was snatched from us, and to-day we are childless. Baby had a little back account of his own, and his mother and myself have decided to put it into your hands, to be disposed of for the benefit of the poor little ones of New York. So we enclose check for $25, accompanied with the sympathies and blessings of a bruised and bleeding heart. Please acknowledge the above as from BABY."

A French correspondent writes: "The old chateau of William the Conqueror, situated on the Normandy coast at Bonneville, you put up at auction the other day, and knocked down for a moderate price. It was there the redoubtable soldier planned his scheme of conquest, and a French paper says: 'The English counts which he snatched from there, though they were hidden from his eyes, perceptibly excited his appetite.' The idea of the odor of England irritating the nostrils of the warrior who afterward conquered us has the merit of novelty. In later days the shadow was used as a price by Richard and Count de Lion. Under France it is now a hunting lodge, and now it is a ruin."

There is no longer scarcely a doubt of the re-election of General Grant. The people are quiet, but they have mostly made up their minds. They contrast this administration with that which we should be likely to have under the lead of Grant's opponents. They believe it to be on the whole consistent with the ideas prevailing at the time of its assuming power. They have no doubt that it will be flexible to the wants and wishes of the citizen and sober part of the nation, and they therefore deliberately determine that it shall continue in power.—New York Post.

The Massachusetts Democracy have made General Banks a present of a pair of fine horses and an elegant coach as a reward for his casting "blind crew." If Banks deserves such a recognition from the Democrats for merely sailing away, what testimonial ought to be due him from them on the score of his Red River expedition.

Lieutenant Hunt von Hafften, of the Prussian army, who was decorated with the Iron cross at the battle of Gravelotte, has been ordered for having aided with the two daughters of a Berlin banker, named Steinberg. He is now believed to have gone with the two girls to Salt Lake City.

Mr. Greeley assumes the same relation to the constitutional amendment that Esau Steinberg did when Mrs. Partridge had him up as a candidate for the Presidency, to the prohibitory law. He was in favor of the States law, but opposed its enforcement.

It is related that during the time of the Delago, a fellow who was clinging to a plank headed West and asked to be admitted into the Ark. Noah said so, whereupon the fellow indignantly exclaimed: "Go to the devil, your old ark—it isn't my kind of a shower, after all!" This is exactly the manner in which the Democratic papers are treating the elections in North Carolina, Vermont, Maine &c. The old ark still sails on however, safe and secure, but when shall we hear of that fellow?

The New York Independent says of General Dix: "His nomination is equivalent to his election, and that too by a large majority. There are thousands of war Democrats in the State whose natural place is with the Republican party, and who, under the leadership of General Dix, will this fall give their cordial support. This we regard as settling the question for Mr. Greeley, so far as the State of New York is concerned."

The Missouri Democrat says: "It is not a safe thing to invite Carl Schurz to dinner. The first thing you know he'll send in a bill like this: Dr. To saying grace..... $10 00 Cr. By dinner..... 5 00 Balance due C. S..... $5 00"

The next important elections to take place will be the "October elections" in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, for State officers and Congressmen—October 8. They will follow the example of North Carolina, Vermont and Maine.

Perhaps the need of popular education has never been more pitifully put than when Mr. Eaton, National Commissioner of Education, said: "While 300,000 voters turning from one side to the other would control a Presidential election, this is smaller than the number of illiterate males entitled to vote."

In St. Louis a brick fell from the third story of a building and hit a German on the head; the brick was broken into half a dozen pieces. He looked at it with an amused smile on his face and said: "Ach himmel! You think you peas peety hart. Das was goot, py jinks; boot you fuddt dot I was a harter carakard den you vas. You no more play dem ten tricks some more dimes."

The New York Herald has given Greeley the mitten. The Herald is a good indicator. Only those who are blind can fail to see that Greeley is on the down grade and going at terrible speed. The "sober second thought" has already helped common sense to a part of its rights, and the next few weeks will suffice to complete the work.—New York State-Zeitung.

Mr. R. R. Barrow, of Terrebonne Parish, La., has issued a circular giving his reasons for supporting Grant instead of Greeley.

I sime no politician— But once I watched a fly— A sailing round and round a web— A spider sitting by. He sighed and said "I love her so! I should rejoice if she 'Dashed hands across the bloody chasm, And came and practice reconciliation— at once!" That spider said to me.

Best Harts said when Mr. Greeley heard that the Democratic Convention at Louisville had nominated Charles O'Connor: He smiled a stolid smile, And curled up his nose. And the subsequent proceedings interested him no more.

I know they find fault with Grant, Cap. They say he loves horses and snakes; But then, an angel from heaven Wouldn't suit the sort of folks. I have looked at the matter careful, And find that the trouble grows. From the fact that those folks follow Cap's lead him by the nose.

OLD LOVE.
The broadest lozenge is bitter
As it hangs in the ancient hall
Rusted and blint grows the keen-edged blade
That once so gallant a champion made,
As it gleamed from the castle wall.
The jewel loses its luster
As it lies in its velvet nest
All dull and dim is the good red gold
That showed such a royal light of old,
As it flashed from a beauty's breast.
The blue eye loses its power
As age comes creeping on;
The fair form droops from its stately grace,
The roses fly from the nascent face.
The charm from the trembling tone.
The color fades from the canvas.
The wags from ringing rhyme
Now is there a joy in this world of ours
Riches, or glories, or hopes, or flowers—
But dies at the touch of time.

How to Treat a Horse.
"Some English grooms at Saratoga are teaching the 'Yankees' how to take care of a horse."
To-day I asked one of these grooms who has spent twenty years in the stables of royalty, what he had to say of our American way of taking care of a horse.
"Why, sir," said he, "you don't take good care of your horses; you think you do, but you don't."
"Why?" I asked.
"Because, when a horse comes in all wet with perspiration, you let him stand in the stable and dry with all the dirt on. In England, we take a horse as he comes in from a drive and sprinkle blood-warm water all over him, from his head to his feet. Then we scrape him down and blanket him, rubbing his legs and back dry. Thus, in an hour, he is clean and dry, and ready to take a good feed, while, with your way, he will stand and stickey for hours, and finally dry, stickey and dirty. Our horses never founder and never take cold. We never use a currycomb. You scratch your horses too hard. The only care necessary is to have the water not very cold, then bathe them quick and blanket them instantly, while you are rubbing their legs."
