How a President is Elected.

The question is often asked as to how the President of the United States is elected. We will answer. Each State is entitled to as many electors for President and Vice President as it has Senators and Representatives in Congress. Hence

A Pair Question.

When a business man neglects his affairs cial standing, his paper goes to protest and his fortune and business go rapidly the "demnition bow wows." A similar result should follow in the affairs of a na tion that has the misfortune to be pillaged and mismanaged by scoundrelly and i competent officers. Yet it is one of the paradoxes of the time, that while, according to Democratic authority, Grant and conutries to waste their gains. Go his 50,000 thievish office-holders have been robbing the treasury, oppressing the people wasting our substance, and the public business has been neglected by the President and his Cabinet officers, who have been drinking whisky, attending horserying long sharp bills, and casting races and wasting valuable time in seaside a cold glittering eye for a carcass. loiterings and palace-car excursions, and Do they buy or build residences ? all this deviltry going on for four years-Do they build and own their storest notwithstandig all this, our foolish people are increasing in numbers, wealth and prosperity, the gold premium has declined from thirty-nine cents to twelve, American securities are worth more in the European ever attend, or take any interest in market than ever, fooliah and deluded impublic meetings of any sort gotten migrants are flocking to our aboves in unup for the good of the people ? Fire Company No. 2, are requested to meet at their Hall at 4 o'clock to-day, for the purpose of watering the Main Plaza. 8. W. MCALLISTER, Chief.

WE were notified by telegraph day be fore yesterday, but too late for insertion in yesterday's issue, of the nomination of Hon. F. E. Grothans, by scolimation, by the Republican Convention of the 24th Senatorial District; as candidate for the Senatorial office of the district. The Convention could not have selected a better, stronger, or worthier man. Mr. Grothans is one of the few who served in the last legislature with a clean record, and whose honesty and integrity is above suspicion. True, he could not get along very well with the "clique," because they could not use him; but the people of his district honor him all the more for that. Mr. Grothaus has not only experience but ability, and is one of the most promising men of the west in public affairs. With his great popularity, in connection with the recommendations we have mentioned, he Havana and Demestic Cigars, is quite sure of being elected. He has, also, the satisfaction of running against an honorable opponent, George P. Finlay, Esq., whom we highly esteem in every-thing but his radicallsm in politics; and since our friend Grothaus is not an extremist, we predict for him success.

Mr. Grothaus has been spending a few months in this city, with the view of winding up some of his brother-in-laws affairs, (who has gone to Europe as Emigrant Agent,) and will now shortly return to his home. The best wish we can make for the 24th District is, that he may be triumphantly elected.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Desense Recoils From the system that has been invigora ted and regulated by course of that most beneficent of all vegetable clixirs, Hostetters Stomach Bitters. Such, at least, is the inference we are compelled to draw from the testimony of thousands of persons residing in unhealthy districts, who attribute their escape from the epidemic and other complaints which prevail there in the spring and autumn solely to the use of this great protective and preventive medicine. Many western and southern farmers and planters, as invariably as they sow and plant in the spring and reap and gather in the fall, administer it at those seasons to their families and employes, times a day. The demand for it in the fever anp ague district bordering on the Mississippi, Ohio and Arkansas Rivers is imense: and wherever the natural conditions are such as to generate intermittent or remittent fevers, it is held in the highest esteem, both as an antidote to the atmospheric virus which provokes them, and as a swift and certain remedy for those distressing forms of disease. It is almost un-necessary to say that this renowned tonic and renovator is now generally accepted as a standard specific for judigestion, biliphysical weakness and mental deapondency, not only by the public at large, but by all unprejudiced medical men. The vast all unprejudiced medical men. The vast popularity of the Bitters has of course led to many connectfeits and imitations, against which the community are requested to be on their guard.
