THE TROUBLESOME BABY.

The little one who is the mother's With kisses that softly fall, But somehow the troublesome baby In nearest her heart of all; She is losing her youth and beauty, And fretful and small; But dearest to mother of all!

The neighbors wonder and pity, Hearing its querulous cry; "She is losing her youth and beauty," Say friends, as they pass her by. "Well were the babe to die, And the mother rest," they sigh.

Not over the wee white cradle, Her soft eyes full of prayer, Bendeth the weary mother, And never was face so fair; Pale and tired with care, But the glory of love was there!

Now and round and dimpled, Dewy with childish sleep, She tucks in her little feet, When angels watch and keep, Ah! if a darker angel Anear this treasure keep!

Bless thee, beautiful mother! Thy heart hath a place for all— Room for the joys and sorrows, However fast they fall; Room for the baby's smile, That may love thee best of all!

THE GERMAN PRESS.

The Rejection of the Trading Class of Americans to Politics.

Certain protective tariff organs, one of whose former favorite occupations was to talk about the New York free traders—as they delighted to term the importers and whole sale dealers of this city—now do their best to come out as heavily for Grant. In fact, the trading class of the Americans has exerted a great influence upon the present presidential election, and after the opposition party succeeded in making the Grant party a conservative party, this influence was exerted in the interests of the latter. Some time since we explained how the opposition in this struggle, by nominating Horace Greeley, was guilty of the same failure into which it fell in 1868. At that time, by submitting to Protectionism, and by the nomination of Blair, it assumed a revolutionary odor; by its refusal to profess any economic system, and by its nomination of a man who is feared because of his eccentricities and leaps in this province, it has now permitted the comparison between the parties from an economic point of view to again turn out in favor of the Republican party.

American trade has become a power which no political party can defy with impunity. It forms a perhaps not yet well known but tweright to demagogism, and we believe that it is fortunate for this country that this trading class is determining to take part in politics. These conservatives not only are no brake upon progress, but are a most powerful lever. The conservatism of this class may have a very material foundation; the patriotism be of a very selfish nature. But this selfishness is in perfect harmony with our idea of State. This idea demands no more of the citizen than that he should seek the promotion of his own welfare in promoting that of the public.

To make this conception of our trade more accessible is principally the result of the heavy crisis through which the United States have been compelled to go for a number of years. The value, the necessity of a favorable condition of the public affairs was hereby placed before the eyes of the traders, who were thereby induced to take more active part in the affairs.

We would not deduce from the fact that this class by the dik-mas of the last presidential elections were forced into the Republic with this party, that it sympathized with this party. It is not only irreconcilable with the fallacies of its economic policy, so which this class can not be blind, having suffered the most from them, but it may perceive that the constitutional system to which the United States owe its great development, and whose fruits have been garnered in no small degree by our trading class, is extraordinarily endangered by the centrifugal tendencies of the Republican party.

Of this correct appreciation we had a brilliant proof in the yesterday's proceedings of the national council of the Merchants' Association. The eloquent manner in which a blind nat merchant spoke against the motion to advocate the control of the railroads by Congress, and the enthusiastic applause of the meeting, are in this direction significant. Also, the tendency of the paper placed before the meeting upon immigration, and that in regard to the rights of the government and the individual State.

In the nature of the case, the traders must be a decided opponent of the system of "patron government," and decided advocates of the greatest possible free development of the nation in the sense of our Constitution. Even on this account they would have thorough antipathy toward Greeley, and would be obliged to work for his defeat as a proof of their aversion of the system above mentioned.

An almost-sighted-as-it-is-to-see-down the free trade endeavor of the trading class as a mere striving for gain and traffic, and to deny that these endeavors contain the correct idea for promoting the public as well as the individual welfare, foolish it is to attempt to deny the sound sense displayed by our tradesmen in opposing Greeley. This opposition was the necessary sequence of the whole tendency to which our trading classes in their political exertions must remain true, if they do not totally mistake their interests.

Wire Surface of Plastering.

A most ingenious device has recently been patented for the use of wire in forming a plastering surface. The plan consists not in the use of any wire network expressly manufactured for the purpose, as might be supposed, but simply in the fastening of ordinary wire upon the posts, in place of lath. The wire is passed from a reel and drawn tightly in parallel horizontal lines about half an inch apart. It is attached to the standards by means of two narrow strips of iron, one of which is nailed to the post, and another fastened in the same manner upon the first, the wires being held at equal distances apart between the iron strips. It would naturally be supposed that plastering applied upon this wire would pass largely through, and fall off; but this does not prove to be the case, and the result of the device is a solid wall of plaster, through the middle of which the wires extend, holding it firm. The cost of this plan is comparatively small, and the result is what the inventor claims for it—a wall surface which is absolutely fire-proof. The device is already being adopted with much success.

SUNDAY.

HOW AH SIN KEEPS THE DAY.

The San Francisco Bulletin says it is the custom among the Chinese house-servants to stipulate with their employers for a portion of Sunday, on which day they visit their countrymen in the Chinese quarter, talk over the news from home, have their heads shaved, go through with their genealogies and salutations in joss-houses, smoke opium, &c., some of them closing up the day's performances by getting rid of their week's wages in the Chinese gambling-houses, which are so thickly located along Deponet street. The sidewalks swarm with these gregarious beings, whose nature is to huddle in flocks on the surface and burrow in bands beneath. Their dens are bivouacs of industry on week days, and rooms reeking with smoke on Sundays.

A visitor who ventures inside has to step over the prostrate bodies of opium smokers, and feel his way through clouds of smoke, meantime holding his nose against a sickening stench of food, decayed fish—in short, a conglomeration of odors nowhere to be found outside of a cellar reeking with the fumes of a crowd of Chinese. For the sake of the delectable pleasure to be found in such places, John frequently refuses to take good situations in the country; like Bridget, he must be in town, where he can at least once a week see his "cousin." The Chinese have hosts of relatives; uncles and cousins—especially the latter—are counted by the score. They regard as cousins those several removes further than a white man ever thinks it worth his while to inquire. These "cousins" are generally friends, all belonging to the same commercial company, and when they meet on Sunday, the jabbering is energetic beyond description. All day, and late in the night, John keeps up his round of visits among his cousins, but manages to be on hand Monday morning, ready to work, which he generally performs cheerfully, and with fidelity.

UNDER THE HEAD OF "RELIGIOUS."

The Sunday editor of the Cincinnati Commercial has the following:

"A minister once told Wendell Phillips that it is his business in life was to save the negroes, he ought to go South where they were and do it. 'That is worth thinking of,' replied Phillips; 'and what is your business in life?' 'To save men from hell,' replied the minister. 'Then go there and attend to your business,' rejoined Mr. Phillips."

Blind and Lame Varnishes.

The Chinese are said to make a varnish by beating together fresh blood with quicklime, which is extensively used as a coating for wooden articles which they wish to make completely water-tight.

Non Schwan, who first introduced this substance to the notice of Europeans, says he has seen in Fokin wooden chests that had been varnished with it, which, after a journey over Siberia to St. Petersburg and back, were still sound and perfectly water-tight. Even baskets of straw, used for the transportation of oil, are made fit for the purpose by means of this varnish. Pasteboard coated with it becomes, both in appearance and firmness, like wood. Articles requiring to be absolutely impervious are varnished twice, or at the most three times, by the Chinese. The preparation has been tested in various ways both in Europe and Australia, and although it gives to vessels covered with it a rough, ugly and appearance, it is recommended as a sure means of making wood impervious to water.

the immigrant more fatigued and money, 100 per cent more, than to travel an equal distance any where else in the United States.
New what does the intelligent man who may start from home, in one of the old States or from Europe, with a desire to settle in our country, as when he arrives at Austin or Victoria, and first learns the cost in time and money to reach San Antonio. Something like this, Western Texas may be as truly the true, rich, healthy country as asserted by those people of San Antonio and other Western towns and counties, but if so, they assuredly lack enterprise, and are deficient in public spirit and faith in the boasted value of their lands, or they would, long ago, have built railroads to go through their country. A city, now-a-days, without a railroad to it, is no place for an active enterprising man to settle in. Life is too short, and time is too valuable to go there and wait. And so he decides to commence business, merchandising or farming, within reach of railroad facilities somewhere east of the Colorado, or Guadalupe rivers. And, this conclusion is reached without any unfair influence from officials of Eastern or Middle Texas.

Well, what are we to do about it? Let those who have the lands and the capital see to it forthwith.

Young People on the Farm.

There are but two things needed to make American farm life attractive to young people, and those are, a knowledge, scientific and practical, of all that pertains to the farm and its surroundings, such as botany, entomology, geology, physiology, especially the branch relating to the breeding of domestic animals, and other kindred sciences to which any member of the family may have a natural taste. In addition to these, give the children an interest in the annual receipts. Every farmer who has children can afford to make them his partners in business, for he must know from his own experience, that as soon as a child knows the value of money, a desire to possess it, and have a separate, individual purse of his or her own, is born. Parents may say that all the property will go to the children when we are done with it, but "waiting for deadman's shoes" is not in keeping with the spirit of "Give America."

Give the boys a direct interest in the products of the farm, and they will have an incentive to work better, save more, besides learning how to keep farm accounts and do business. And if there are daughters, let them share with the rest, and never fail to settle the accounts annually, allowing the children to draw their cash, even if they lend it to their parents again, taking notes on interest for security.

You then find it so difficult to keep the children at home, or interested in farming, buy a few books relating to the subject we have named, and next January make the boys and girls, ever sixteen partners in the business, promising to the younger ones an equal chance when they arrive at that age, and see what effect it will have upon them, as well as yours.—N. Y. Sun.

FRATERNITY IN DESTRUCTION.—There has probably never been an election held where the losing party did not charge the other with bribery and fraud. The Greeley papers during this campaign have made these charges their principal stock in trade. They have indignantly insisted that if General Grant was elected it would be because the people were stupid and would be bought. Well, General Grant is elected, and we would like to know, for instance, who bought Alex. T. Stewart, Wis. R. Foster and Cornelius Vanderbilt—just to form his acquaintance.

(SPECIAL TO THE EXPRESS.)

ELECTION RETURNS.

New York, Nov. 6.—The Herald estimates given Grant 230 of the electoral vote, at the lowest 70 for Greeley, with each of the States.

The Tribune gives Grant 230 electoral votes, Greeley only 68, with the balance of the doubtful States.

New Jersey elects six Republican Congressmen. The Liberals carry all our county in Kansas.

Grant's majority in Chicago is 3000. Grant's majority in Illinois is about 25,000. Illinois elects twelve Republican Congressmen. 140 precincts outside.

San Francisco gives Grant 6700 majority. Both parties claim Virginia.

Louisiana still divided by both parties. The Liberals claim the State by 10,000. News from Alabama is meagre.

The Republican majority in Wisconsin is 15,000. Six Republicans and one Democrat are elected to Congress.

Atlanta, Nov. 6.—Election for Congress in this district is close and doubtful. Young and Bell Democrats, are elected.

St. Louis, Nov. 6.—Greeley nearly complete top for Grant 130,077; Greeley 57,900; Grant's majority 73,177. Washburn majority for Governor 71,238.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 6.—187 turns give Grant 31,527; Greeley 27,688 scattering 21,490 votes to hear from.

Wartons, Tex., Nov. 6.—Voting lively. Republican majority 700. Every body voting for Houston for State Capital.

Waco, Tex., Nov. 6.—777 votes polled yesterday, very heavy vote cast to-day.

Crockett, Tex., Nov. 6.—413 votes polled, Republicans 100 ahead, everybody voting for Houston for the capital.

Corpus Christi, Nov. 6.—Democrats holding the system with Hostetter's Bitters before the caucus, which, if they win, will be a great triumph.

Houston, Nov. 6.—At the time of closing the polls the vote stood for the city 1088, county 1448. Everything quiet, voting is going on briskly, almost impossible to give an idea as yet, how the vote stands in regard to a general election here.

Florida is claimed by both parties, by very small majorities.

From present indications it is believed that North Carolina will go for Grant by 10,000 majority.

New York, Nov. 6.—All but three election districts heard from, the city gives for Mayor, Havemeyer, Republican, 51,307; Lawrence, Tammany 46,565; O'Brien, Apple Hall 34,391. Havemeyer's plurality is 24,654. Assembly will probably stand 44 Democrats to 84 Republicans.

The latest thing in suicides comes to us from Cleveland, Ohio, where an individual rashly imprudent, went to his death after the following unique preparation. He first procured a revolver and connected it with a species of clockwork, so that it should be fired off at a certain time. He then got into bed and took a dose of chloroform, after having placed the pistol behind his ear. He then under the influence of the narcotic went to sleep. At the given time the clockwork pressed the trigger of the pistol, firing it off and launching the idiot into eternity.

ANTIDOTE FOR POISON.—We find the following commended: If a person swallows any poison whatever, or has fallen into convulsions from having over-eaten the stomach, an instantaneous remedy, more efficient and applicable in a number of cases than any half a dozen medicines we can see, is this, of a heating tea, spoonful of common salt, and as much ground mustard, stirred rapidly in a teacup of water, warm or cold, and swallowed instantly. It is scarcely done before it begins to come up, bringing with it the remaining contents of the stomach, and least there is any remnant, of a poison, however small, let the white of an egg, or a teaspoon of strong coffee, be swallowed as soon as the stomach is quiet; because these very common articles dilute a large number of virulent poisons than any medicines in the shops.

PUTTING PLANTS.—A plant should not be potted when it is very dry, nor when soaked with water. In the former case, it is very likely to remain dry, as the water will pass through the fresh soil without penetrating into the old ball of earth. When the roots are thickly interwoven they should be carefully disengaged, that they may be spread out into the fresh soil, but in shifting young, healthy, growing plants, the roots which may be reaching the side of the pot, should not be disturbed, as it is important to preserve the health of that plant chiefly depends.—Rural New Yorker.

STOMACHIC.—The following "society" associate is just imported from Brooklyn. A Republican and a Democrat of that city, standing together, saw approaching a man under the influence of cognac, said the Republican.

"I will bet five dollars that that man is a Democrat!"

"Taken," replied the Democrat; "but you must accustom the feet from the bottom!"

"An the paper approached he was accented by the Republican.

"My friend, I have just made a bet on you, which you see to decide. I have bet my friend here that you are a Democrat. How is it?"

"Well," replied Mr. Democrat, "I am sorry to say you have lost your money; I acknowledge I've got the question; but not the disease."—Editor's Drawer, in Harper's Magazine for November.

days Gerrit Smith: "Thank Heaven for the cheering signs that the days of the Democratic party are numbered. With the return in his hands four years longer, President Grant will make a much of a Klondike, and a faith of Klondike will be a faith of democracy. Klondike and Democracy being one, will die one death and go to one grave."

Reasonable Suggestions. The heavy mist and cold night down which characterize the present season are very trying to delicate organizations, and in low-lying and swampy localities they produce an enormous crop of intermittent fever of various types and degrees of intensity. At this very time there are probably half a million of people in the United States suffering from periodical fevers by miasmatic fogs and exhalations. What makes the prevalence of this evil the more deplorable is the fact that it might in all cases be easily prevented. Malaria and damp produce little or no effect upon the system pre-fortified by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Every fall and spring hundreds of letters are received from persons residing in fever and ague districts, who state that while their neighbors are incapacitated for labor by that debilitating disease, they have been happily exempted from attack by the regular use of the great vegetable antidote to miasma.

As a cholinergic or specific for intermitten- tist and remittent fevers the Bitters may be justly considered valuable. They eradicate the complaints in their most obstinate forms; but the wiser course is to forestall attack by taking the preparation as a preventive. The absorber of protective labor withdrawn from active service during several months in the year by malarial miasma is in danger, and the pecuniary losses to individuals, families, and the nation from the cause is incalculable. Bear in mind that by taking and regulating the system with Hostetter's Bitters before the epidemic season, it may always be avoided, and in all cases be remembered that indigestion, general debility, biliousness, constipation, nervous complaints, and indeed almost all disturbances and derangements of the physical system are controllable by this general restorative.
