Education a Political Duty.

In the moment of its triumph the Republican party will look to its future with hope, yet not without a rational alarm. It bears with it the destiny of freedom; it stands at the front of human progress. The freemen of every advancing nation will be affected by its example, and are listening to its voice. We believe that the chief and favorite labor of Republicanism will be to educate the people. Governments in the future must become school-masters if they would con tinue to exist, and every free gov-ernment has the right to compel all the members of the community to learn the duties of citizenship. Rilearn the duties of ditizenship. Rigid compulsory education can alone dissipate that vast mass of foreign ignorance and prejudice which has made the city of New York a center of fraud and of political danger, the instrument in the hands of foreign priests. A just and thorough scheme of compulsory education must be devised to raise the population of the Southern States into a higher men the duty of labor, and insure to every man a penceful enjoyment profits and more satisfactory reof the fruits of his toil. A compulsory system of education, spreading from the Atlantic to the Pacific, can alone produce that mental squality which is the true tounda tion of union; the golden links of chain together that congerie of minds which is to provide for the free lom and elevation of coming generations. In its future, as in its past, we believe that the Republican party will be faithful to the highest impulses of freedom; that modesty, charity, and firmness will be its guides, and that in all its ed. be its guides, and that in all its ed. Without stopping to discuss the methods of bringing about the result deemed so desirable by Mr. Curtis, we cannot refrain from giving the assumption our fullest assent. It is painfully true that the South has not made provision for the education of her children. She has academies and select schools, and has given her favored youth the benefit of the best training of our best institutions. Here and I is nearly two years since I last.

But it remains true now as ever that she is behind the morth in respecting and acknowledging the importance of a thoroughly diffused and comprehensive system of common school education. Thus it happens that there is a lamentable amount of ignorance among the amount of ignorance among the amount of ignorance among the poor whites, and almost Egyptian darkness so far as the blacks are concerned. As before the abolition of alavery it was made an offense to teach the blacks, as a rule, it is very difficult for those who are clamoring for local government and seking to be let alone, to realize an obligation to provide for the education.

Prom Austin, Tex. to El Paso Bel Norte.

The Philadelphia Press, of Wed-nesday, contains an amusing and entertaining letter from W. E. Sweet late of Washing ton, in which the incidents of a journey from Austin, Texas, to El Paso, in the same State, are set forth. The transition from Pullman cars to the stage coach, the charac-teristics of native passengers and their companious, who are spying out the land, affords a fund of amusement that is used to good purpose. An old lady, to the manor bern, has much to say against the innovations of Yankees, and their success in absorbing land, raising produce, cattle, &c., that lead Mr. Sweet to the following deductions in relation to one Plympton, who has raised the old lady's ire :

First (and chief.) He comes from the North and settles in Texas. Second. He is provident and in dustrious, and does not drink and gamble, being reasonably

The slow and circuitous Gulf route, both for mails and travel, will then be almost entirely abandoned; immigra-tion will flow into the State more rapidly, and the large amount of of Texas mail which will then be forwarded from Houston, will reach its destination with much greater cettainty and celerity than heretoand general relations of Houston with the whole interior of the State. - Houston Union

ALEXIS the Young, the Beautiful, has been toasting us in the wine of memory and the syllabub of gush. T was in Singapore he did it. He protests that he doth love us much, and, like Romeo, hath lent love eyes. This is what he says of us: That we are a country of spleudid men and handsome women, and that of all things he wants to visit us again. He declares that America has not only the most beautiful ladies in the world, but more in proportion to the population than any other country.

Be on the Bafe Blde.

We hold bealth and life by a frail ten ure, and not to protect them to the best of our ability would seem to argue a deficiency of common sense. The searching winds and sold rains of Spring, the tropic heat of Summer, the malarious vapors of Autumn and the paralyzing temperature of winter, are all inimical to those finely adjusted and sensative pieces of mechanism we call our bodies. Each season has its posuliar perile, and the fall is perhaps as prolific of dangerous disorders as any of them; plaints are very apt to take an epidemic form. As a preventative of this class of diseases, Hestetter's Stomach Bitters can not be tee warmly recomended. In it are combined five essential medical preperties It is a tonic, at once powerful and whole some- a stimulant, pure and undefiledan aperient, mild and painless—an antibilions agent of marvelous efficacy,, and a general regulating medicine without an equal in the pharmacopesia. These five distinct properties, operating together in perfect harmony, produce a condition of the system somewhat analogous to that brought about by a course of puglistic training. In other words, as judicious physical training hardens the fisch and renders it commaratively flat proof, so does this marvelous invigorant increase the espability of the organs of the body to resist the more indirect and insidious assaults of disease. It imparls new charticity and strength to the vital machinery, and those who use it as a preventative of intermittent fever, dysentery, diarrhoa, dysepsia, shoumatism, and other ailmenis tommon at this season, may walk fearless through an aimosphese impregnated with the merbid dements which give rise to those males. distinct properties, operating together in

The Epizootic Disease Among horses, which has bee spreading with fearful rapidity all over the country, is now known to have reached Texus, and will, without doubt, sweep across the whole territory unexhausted until the plateaus of Mexico shall have given up their offering to this unrecognized molech of disease. Western Texas is greatly interested in the matter, not only on account of its vast herds of horses, but, also, because these are so scattered over the prairies, and generally in such a wild condition that it will be impossible to give them the care and medicines already ascertained to be to the extent that it is in England or Babeneficial. Meanwhile, here we are enjoying the mildness of more than a Northern Indian summer, with much the same appearance. It is not unlikely that we shall have in a day or two a cold Northern blast, but we can safely rely upon its lasting no longer than two or three days, and then count upon a return of sunny skies and soft breezes. No one can realize the absolute joys of a Western Texas winter except he has previously endured the raw winds, the mud, slush, sleet, melting snows, and other disagreabilities of a Northern winter.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Rural Beauties and City Beiles.—Country girls are not a whit behind their metropolitan sisters in the natural elements of loveliness, but it must be con-coded that the city belles best, understand the art of preserving and heightening their personal heauty. The most perfect features less half their attraction unless the semplexion is properly cared for, and if the pretty girls of the rural districts wish to compete with the "Fair state" of the fashionable world in refined attractions, they must be a contraction of the semiconable world in refined attractions, fashionable world in reflued attractions, they must pay due attention to this impertant point. They ought to know, for the fact is notorious, that Hagan,s Mac-NOLIA HALM imparts to the skin a delicate, panrly appearance, unproduceable by any other preperation under the sun. No matter how the cuticle may have been roughened by exposure or discolored by the sun, the Balm will render it soft and pliable, and removes avery blamish.

CHAPPED HANDS, face, rough skin, pim ples, ringworm, sait-rhoum, & other cu-taneous affections cured, and the skin

The drawing will take place under the direction of a Committee selected by the Shareholders and those present at the drawing, in full view of the audience, and will be by blind children, from 10 to 15 years of area from two class wheels the years of age, from two glass wheels, the contents of which can be seen by the au-dience, one of which will contain the gifts on printed slips in scaled boxes, and the on printed slips in scaled boxes, and the other leather tags with numbers on them corresponding to all the tickets sold. After the centents of both wheels are thoroughly mixed by revolving the blind child at the first will draw a number therefrom, and then the child at the second wheel will draw a gift therefrom, and then drawn will belone to and the gift thus drawn will belong t Thus this process will continue until the 651 gifts are drawn, and it is evident that by this mode of drawing, fraud, favoritism, or a knowledge of what gift any number will draw, is impossible.
