A. SPERRING & CO., Publishers. JULIAN W. VAN DYKE, Editor & Proprietor. Official Journal of Bexar County. WEDNESDAY, DEC. 20, 1872.

The Express would have our Editor's... press the wrath of this modern Caesar... and purchase a consideration of policies in which we have a vital interest.

And how can the Express one of the leading Journals of Texas support a man for the highest position in the gift of a nation to whom it confesses owing to "adverse elections" we need not look for a consideration of our interests?

Will the Editor answer? W. M. KEY.

COMMENTS BY THE EXPRESS.—The foregoing letter is in many respects a just, if not a complete, criticism upon the extracts taken from the EXPRESS. Our correspondent must be aware that we are not in a position to speak authoritatively for the President of the United States, we know of no newspaper editor who is our means of judging the executive policy—is not superior to that of our correspondent, except we may prove to be a clearer observer—than he. But we feel compelled to acknowledge that our language quoted is too general, and unauthorized. There is nothing in President Grant's past action as executive of this Government which would justify the conclusion that he is capable of any sectional distinctions. On the contrary, there is much convincing testimony that if the President can be biased at all it will be in favor of the South. He has shown repeatedly a determination to build up every interest peculiar to the South, and a constant desire to relieve it from the burdens which have been caused by the unwise and unpatriotic action of its own leaders in politics. With regard to frontier protection he, and indeed, all the old army officers, have taken the lead in pressing upon the Congress such measures as seemed necessary. We have not yet had in Texas a single commander who has not proven himself a friend of Texas, and of Texas interests, and the well digested recommendations of each of them have not only been heard by the President, but acted upon and recommended to the Congress by him. The stumbling block so far has been the Democratic minority, who prefer to manufacture a little cheap political capital to doing anything beneficial to this section when recommended by a Republican President. This minority has so far shown a determination to sacrifice all public interests for the accomplishment of party success. Now, we do not hesitate to acknowledge an error when we fall into one. We did err, unquestionably, when we stated that the casting of the electoral votes of this State might influence the executive action. On the contrary we are confident it would have had no effect whatever upon the President. But it might have had some little effect upon the popular sentiment of the country, convincing the people everywhere that we are not a lawless and disloyal people, and thus have produced an effect upon the Congress which is the real arbiter of the destinies of the whole country. The President executes the laws, but he does not make them. Since Washington we have had no executive to whom the appellation "Caesar" is so inaptly and unjustly applied as to Gen. Grant. In conclusion, let us remind our correspondent, that while we ardently, in good faith, believing it to be for the interest not merely of Texas but of the whole country, that he should be re-elected, advocated Grant's reelection, and rejoice over its accomplishment; at the same time the President is not responsible for our mistakes, nor are we bound to defend him in his, should he make any.

Notes from Washington.

Doings in Congress.—Reorganization of the Senate Committee.—The Naval Bill adopted in the House.—Reduction of the Officers and Expenses of the Internal Revenue Service.—The case and present condition of the Louisiana Middle.

which were agreed to. The so-called "Liberal" Senators are less prominent as Chairmen of new committees than they were on the old ones. The changes in the Chairman are as follows: Mr. Edmunds is now chairman of the Judiciary Committee; Mr. Pratt, of Finance; Mr. Robinson, of Manufactures; Mr. Boreman, of Removal of Disabilities; Mr. Hamlin, of Mines and Mining; Mr. Carpenter, Contingent Expenses; Mr. Windom, Enrolling Bills. Mr. Wilson declines to serve on Military Affairs in view of his retirement from the Senate. Mr. Logan will probably be his successor. Mr. Wright goes on the Judiciary Committee; Mr. Feary, on the Finance Committee; in place of Mr. Fests, and Mr. Morrill of Maine, on Appropriations, in place of Mr. Edmunds.

Of the "Liberals" Mr. Trumbull is placed on Privileges and Elections and Intoxicants; Mr. Fenton, on Manufactures and Territories; Mr. Tipton on Public Lands, and Mr. Rice on Indian Affairs and Pacific Railroad.

The committees having been arranged, the Senate will commence with the Calendar on Monday, and proceed with the business of the session.

PROCEEDINGS IN THE HOUSE.—On Thursday the Naval Bill was passed, providing for the building of six steam vessels of iron or wood, as the Secretary of the Navy may decide; three to be constructed in the United States Yards, and three under commission contracts. Yesterday, a bill from the committee on Ways and Means was passed to reduce the number of officers and expenses of the Internal Revenue Service, which, it was conceded by democratic members, would cause a saving annually of $1,700,000.

The project of a census in 1875, to precede the Centennial Celebration, was discussed and referred to the committee on the celebration.

The Louisiana controversy is now in the United States Circuit Court at New Orleans, and a decision and definite results may be looked for immediately. From well informed and reliable parties just arrived in Washington from New Orleans, your correspondent has obtained the following facts in reference to the origin and present condition of the controversy. The Republican party was united and harmonious in that State until after the election of Governor Warmoth. This man who, with previous services or real claims to the honor, having secured the important position of Governor by the Republican vote, entered upon and continued his administration with the sole view of self aggrandizement. He was a poor man when he assumed the functions of his office at a salary of $5,000 a year. Now he declares himself that he is worth $100,000, while those well informed assert that his fortune is not less than $200,000 and may be half a million.

Before the Congressional investigating committee, last winter, he admitted that he accumulated his wealth by speculating in Louisiana bonds, warrants and certificates, which by controlling legislation affecting the same, he caused to rise and fall from 75 cents to 40 cents on the dollar, meanwhile converting his official office into a brokers shop, in which the Chief Executive officer of the State was the chief operator. This was not all! The legislature was completely under his control, whether by weakness or through bribery, or partly both, is not very clear. But it was made to do his bidding, in legalizing speculative schemes of which the slaughter-house job, now before the Supreme Court of the United States, the Mexican Gulf Canal scheme, which has proved a complete failure, and other equally profitable schemes in the State, each on building and reaping lesson, and without return have involved the State to the extent of fifteen or twenty million dollars, and forced it to the verge of bankruptcy. In these operations he had his "sting" but was himself the controlling power. He admitted to the Congressional investigating committee that he could defeat or cause to be passed in the General Assembly, any bill which he might desire. Such was the influence of this unscrupulous man.

After securing his election, mainly through the influence of the colored population, he turned his back upon them and their interests; and treated them with harsh disdain. As his wealth increased he sought the favor, society and social honors of the more aristocratic politicians of the Shiloh school, who at first admired him; but in the hope of obtaining office and power, soon began to renege his advances and use means to secure his separation from the Republican party, to which he was indebted for his election.

Having by his skill and unscrupulous gradually forfeited the confidence of the Republicans, white and black, and at the same time consummated a partial union with the Democracy, he with their approval took part in the Cincinnati Convention. Returning to New Orleans he commenced preparations for the State election. In order to make friends with the view of securing his own reelection for another term, he promised the Democrats and Liberals all the offices he could control throughout the State, such as those of mayors, judges, Parish Jurors, &c. He made special efforts to extend the new liberal organization by drawing from the ranks of the republicans and the "Young Democracy." He and his allies were in assembly and used the most unscrupulous means to secure his ends.

tion that the choice was to fall upon another, he left the seat in a passion. Fests was nominated. Finding that his own was becoming desperate, Warmoth and his friends now went to work and succeeded in forcing the democratic and liberal. A new ticket was then made up with Mellory for Governor and another for Lieutenant Governor; Warmoth to be United States Senator on the retirement of Kellogg in March next.

With this programme the campaign for the State election was commenced. Mellory had the reputation of Warmoth, and he used his power most unscrupulously to defeat the republican ticket. The supervisors of registration, were all of their own selection, and though there was a majority of 20,000 republicans in the State, the determination of Warmoth was to prevent the colored voters, so far as possible, from registering and from voting. One device was to open the registration offices only at inconvenient hours, at great distances apart, and keep them open for a few of the day only. Some ten thousand at least were thus defeated from registering, and of course from voting. Other devices were resorted to, an election day.

When the returns were all in the hands of the Chief Supervisor of Registration, Warmoth broke up the returning Board of election, whose duty it was to count the votes, because he believed that two of its members, Lynch and Heron, were disposed to see justice done to the Kellogg voters. Two others, Anderson and Pinchback were declared ineligible as returning officers, they being candidates for election. This left only Warmoth, Heron and Lynch, and thus there was a majority of the Board against him. This, believe, is a true history of the Warmoth embroglio, and for this most disgraceful affair that unscrupulous man is responsible. Kellogg has carried the case into the United States Court, in a suit Kellogg vs. Warmoth, et al. Telegrams from New Orleans (Dec. 6), announce that by order of Judge Durall, the United States Marshal, supported by two companies of Artillery, has taken charge of the Mechanics Institute, used as a State House, which is now held subject to the final decision of the Court. The Court will be advised by the President.
