SATURDAY, DEC. 28, 1872.

A suggestion has been made and concurred in by several republican newspapers that a republican convention be called to meet at Austin during the approaching ses sion of the legislature. Such a convention working in the interest of the party principles, and not in schemers, would undoubtedly accomplish good. We favor the convention because the effort ought to be made to harmonize and consolidate the cutire republique element of the State.

THERE have been three leading newspaper editors in the country during these many years, without equals in fame and influence. The circumstances of their deaths are striking. Henry J. Raymond, the founder of the Times, the youngest, but the first to die, was found dead in the hall of this house after midnight. James Gordon Bennett of the Herald died without a relative by his bedside, comparatively deserted in his extremity; and Hor ace Greeley, sadden than all, went to his final rest in the desolate gloom of a private mad house.

THE Hereld of this city ought to procure somebody to perform the Cosarion operation upon its perturbed brain supon in shrain because there is where its dangerous unborn Cresar lies not less then five of them stitlist if the travail in its yesterday's leader is any indica tion. Dann and Greeley."

Mr. Chas. A. Dans, editor of the N. Y. Sun, was for a long period associated with Horace Greeley as one of the editors of the Tribune, where he had ample opportunities of observing and learning the real character of his chief. That he has a keen, shrewd tast for penetrating selfind the scenes visable to the ordinary world, no one who has observed his career can dispute. Indeed, it would seem to be a mapia with him to probe and dissect; unfortunately not always in the publie interest, but rather to discover and lay bare if possible the repul-sive diseases which most of maukind are studious to conceal,

Mr. Dana was one of the most setive schemers and tollers in the movement which culminated in the mination of Mr. Greeley for the Presidency—and Mr. Greeley was his choice. In a jate number of the Sun we find an editorial, remarkable not only for its statements, but hat it should have been written at trolling ideas were the advancement of the Tribune, and the concentration of free labor against stave labor. He was an abolition int not because he eared for the negro, but because he thought the destruction of the slavours of the South, and its controlling power in the government necessary to the success of his pet theory that the laboring classes should govern the country.

He was apt to seize hold of every sm which sprang up, but never kent a tenacious hold upon any.

Mr. Dana says also that "a mo ral unsteadiness diminished his power. The miseries of his childhood had left their trace in a querulous, lamentable, hopeless tone of feeling, into which he fell upon any little misfortane or disappointment, and as he grew older he came to lack hope," There are many more facts stated in the article, but each of the above possess salient points which will be astonishment and incredulity. The reader may judge for himself, and draw his own conclusions. It will be remembered that Dana once wrote a life of Gew. Grant, teeming with praise and admiration of his character, but that during the late campaign he was his most bitter and unreleating traducer. We have only to say, that such a fact tends to destroy the confidence of the public in the necessary of the fact compiler - as well as his conclu-

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution-Bill to increase the Presidents Satury-Civit Rights and Amnesty - News and Society Notes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 11th, 1872.

ROPOSED CHANGE IN THE MODE OF MA ECTING THE PRESIDENT.

Lynch of Maine, introduced into the House a Joint Resolution to amend the Constitution of the Daited States, some to provide for the election of President by the direct vote of the people, without the intervention of electors. The Vice President to be elected in a similar manuer would be Governors of that State. The reselution was referred to the Judi ciary committee. It will not receive apecial attention as the proposed change is not generally popular in, or outside of ment.

General Banks also introduced a Count tutional amendment to limit the President to one term of six years, and to be ever after ineligible for re-election. Referred to the Judiciary committee. Mr. Banks introduced a bill providing

From the period when surgeous applied their nalvas to weapons instead of wounds to the present wide-awake age, the medical profession has often unwittingly taken side with Disease in its conflicts with the human agatem.
