SUNDAY, DEC. 29, 1872.

THE "BREATHEN CHINER" will soon rejoice himself that he can testify in the courts of California. Heretofore while doing the lowest and most degrading of menial service for the "civilized" whites, he has been worried and badgered, stoned, stabbed and shot without the right to testify in his own defense or to call upon a brother Almond Eye to testify for him. It is only a few days ago that a white man was arrested for assault with intent to rape one Betty Wade, an ignoble Celestial. She was called as a witness in the first trial, and "white" was convicted. The case was appealed to the supreme court of the State, and the old decision that the Mongolian could not testify in the courts of California, was reiterated, and the offender granted a new trial at which he will undoubtedly be set free. But on the first day of the new year, the new code, recognizing men of all nationalities of whatever color, as competent witnesses, will go into force, and the word of Ah Sin, if unimpeachable, will be as good as that of any other man. Civilization triumphs.

The agricultural papers through the north west have lately been discussing the use of trees for fence posts, and the predominant opinion seems to be that they may be used successfully and with profit. Throughout all the States west of the Mississippi River, as well as in this State, there are large tracts of land which could be utilized for either agricultural or grazing purposes if it were not for the want of timber and fencing material. True to Louis Rappaport (liberal democrat) says the democratic party has not a particle more strength, in a national point of view, than it had at the close of the Presidential election of 1860; that essentially there are very little differences in the political platform of Mr. Thurnam, the straightforward Senator, and those of Carl Schurz, the Republicans, who declares he cannot consent to be classed with democrats; and that the problem for the leaders of the politicians is to convince the opposition as to make it as difficult as "wearing upon" as is conspicuous in being warded against. In short, in order to make the combined opposition formidable, the only thing necessary—according to the Republicans—is a name. There is something in a name, then after all. But whether the mock and file of the democracy will "smell as sweet" by any other name is a question for political perfumists to decide.

The RAILROAD.—A petition to the Secretary of War, setting forth the exposed condition of the Western portion of Texas, lying between the Rio Grande and the Guadalupe rivers, and praying government aid to a railroad connecting the Rio Grande with the nearest railroad terminus, bears the following indorsement from Gov. Davis:

"I think the construction of a railroad to the Rio Grande the only certain and lasting means of affording protection to the Indians, &c., and also of securing to the Government, without preference for any particular company."

E. J. DAVIS, Governor.
Executive Office, Austin, Dec. 21, 1872.

The petition is also signed by Jacob Eustace, Commissioner of Lands; John A. Gahan, Treasurer; A. Blodoo, Comptroller; the Judges of the Supreme Court and other officials.

The suggestion strikes us as a good one and we hope the petition will be granted.

MUCH has been said during the late past campaign about the number of days a executive and heads of the different departments were absent from Washington. Just now the papers in Great Britain are publishing accounts of the attendance of parliament of the members of the House of Commons. A table published in an Edinburgh paper furnishes some remarkable statistics in relation to the attendance of the members from Scotland at the recent session. Scotland was represented in the House of Commons by fifty-one members; of whom six were paid for their services; while the remainder, fifty-five, served without compensation. Of the former all but two were present more days than they were absent; though the most punctual of them were absent no less than six-seven days. Of the unpaid members, forty of the fifty-five were absent more days than they were present, the least punctual answering to his name but twice. The average length of the session was two hundred and eighty-seven days, of which one, eleven members were present over two hundred days or over; twenty-five, over一百 days or over; while the majority, twenty-five in number, were present less than one hundred days each.

A conservative English paper thus drew out an answer to the question, "What were the Communists who destroyed Paris?" "Kiss were shoemakers, &c., were constituted there, four or five years ago; their working journeymen, one huckster and two half, three and two, two liberators, two assassins, two forgers, two bakers, two tailors, two keepers of disreputable houses, two one-eyed men, one stable boy, a mender, a rabbit-skin merchant, a cooper, a chimney-sweep, and five madmen." What a singular governing body!

Three years ago a man built a house in Clinton for $700; any time in two years after he could have cashed it at that price. Last week he tried his best to sell it for $2500 and afterward to wait several months for $150. In other words, he could not get half price for his home, even when he offered to throw in a half acre of ground, well fenced.

Now, we will not make a statement quite so strong concerning Democratic rule in this State, because a Republican administration has already given such an impetus to immigration, that a revolution only could stop it; but that all progress will be greatly retarded by Democratic rule we believe. Should the incoming Legislature accomplish the violent desires of the Bourbons of the party the inward tide will soon cease and there will be an outward flow of the best of the population as well as of the capital, and the same results would be demonstrated in Missouri.

Mr. Eugenio Diazco, a celebrated violinist from the City of Mexico, is now in our city, and proposes to entertain, in a short time, our citizens with an exhibition of his superior art. We publish below a letter numerously signed by the most worthy citizens of Brownsville, inclosing names, if not every official and professional man of that city, which speaks for itself. The names are omitted on account of their numbers. We have also in our possession private letters most flattering to Mr. Delgado. Moreover, we have no evidence that this artist has performed with remarkable success, and, in fact, in the city of Paris, having there studied by the most accomplished artists and critics. Our citizens may congratulate themselves upon the opportunity of listening for once to music such as "Ode Belli" himself, if he said, has never surpassed.

Brownsville, Tex., Nov. 13th, 1872.

The undersigned, having listened with the highest delight to the admirable performance of the celebrated Violinist Senator Don Eugenio Delgado, of the City of Mexico, we take the greatest pleasure in introducing him to all lovers of music and art in the State of Texas, as a performer ranking with the greatest masters. The Senator Delgado is not only an artist, but he comes with the highest recommendation as an accomplished theorist, and as an artist and a composer. We commend him to the kindness of our friends in Texas.

True to Louis Rappaport (liberal democrat) says the democratic party has not a particle more strength, in a national point of view, than it had at the close of the Presidential election of 1860; that essentially there are very little differences in the political platform of Mr. Thurnam, the straightforward Senator, and those of Carl Schurz, the Republicans, who declares he cannot consent to be classed with democrats; and that the problem for the leaders of the politicians is to convince the opposition as to make it as difficult as "wearing upon" as is conspicuous in being warded against.

In short, in order to make the combined opposition formidable, the only thing necessary—according to the Republicans—is a name.

The Missouri Democrat says:

"While the society of Friends is publishing congratulatory pamphlets on the success of their missionary labors among the Indians, Phil. Sheridan refuses to be comforted. He says he would take a contract to clean out the last of the red-skinned in sixty days if the government would only give him the old Michigan brigade of cavalry he once commanded.

The Missouri Democrat says:

"The Autocrat gives the following line by Tim Moore as now published for the first time:

"When I'd look lone and dreary,

What light can dispel the gloom?

When Time's swift wing is weary,

What charm can refresh his plume?

'Tis woman, whose sweetness breatheth

On all that we feel or see,

And if man of Heaven o'er dreameth,

'Tis when he thinks parfum of them.

Oh! woman!

Sheet-iron waste, stove-pipe hats, and bullet-proof breeches, are very popular now among young New Yorkers, who can not dodge a pistol ball, nor learn the emotional insanity dodge.

Another tribe of Indians have joined the great father at Washington for the necessities of life. This time they want velocities to chase the bison over the plain, and a few busters for the squaws to carry packages in while on the march.
