Methodist Church To Welcome 'Lion'

Rev. David Hamblin, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, said he would like to extend a personal invitation to everyone in the community to be at the church on Sunday, May 7, at 6 p.m.

"Want to Win," he added. "Teach young Americans to win, to do the best you can." He said, "It is no disgrace to lose, the disgrace is in not giving 100 percent of your efforts."

He admonished the young people to work for whatever they want, because the only way to really have anything is by hard work.

"Respect," he concluded. "Respect your body as the greatest machine that God ever made. Take care of it and it will take care of you."

"Respect your parents, tell them 'I love you,' respect your teammates and respect you date."

Brief remarks were given by Derrell Oliver, master of ceremonies; Head Football Coach and Athletic Director Mike Wartes; and Paul Poyner, president of the Muleshoe High School Athletic Booster Club.

Reese Speaker For Jaycees

Guests and members at the Muleshoe Jaycee meeting Monday heard political candidate Jim Reese speak in behalf of his candidacy for the 19th congressional District Congressional seat.

The Republican candidate was introduced by Gene McGuire and told some of his background in this area, and as an active politician.

He said he got interested in what was going on in Washington while he served as Texas Jaycee President and warned the Jaycees, "We are fast losing little by little, the freedom we have. Carter has a 2-1 majority in representatives now, and we seem to be losing out."

He also cautioned the audience that the United States is fast losing the arms race with Russia, and told of Russian bomb shelters being constructed, and what lives would be lost in a nuclear attack.

Suggesting the de-federalization of the welfare programs, he said, "What will work with the people in Rochester, N.Y. will not work with the people in Muleshoe. By moving the tax basis closer to home, we will find it a lot less expensive for our local people."

Reese advocated that although the farmers got the attention of the nation in the farm strike, that if the same amount of money and time had been spent in re-electing people to Congress, and changing Congressmen who do not favor the farm programs, that the time and money would have been more effective.

"With enough man hours, and money, Mickey Mouse could be elected to Congress," he stated.

Regulations Are Listed For Ag-Youth

With the summer months fast approaching, potential summer employers of agricultural youth should be aware of certain age and labor requirements which apply to them, points out Spencer Tanksley, county agent

Hance Outlines Qualifications For Congress

Kent Hance of Lubbock, a candidate for the Congressional seat being vacated by long time Congressman George Mahon, made a swing through Muleshoe Tuesday morning for a press conference at the XII Restaurant.

When asked about his candidacy, he replied, "In my opinion, the main issue in the Democratic primary Saturday is simple: Who is the best qualified by experience, background and temperament to be the best Congressman for this West Texas district?"

"Government is a very serious business to me. As a State Senator, I learned that it takes more than just a persuasive voice to make government work. It takes cooperation, study, alliances, and a good plan of action based on reality to get things done."

"By working hard to build stature and influence early, I'm convinced that it is possible to be effective in Congress right away, without a long drawn-out training program. I intend to start my homework on Congress before I get of Washington, and save valuable time. It worked for me when I was elected to the Senate and I think Congress offers the same opportunity."

"When people go to the polls Saturday, I hope they think very seriously about qualifications, experience and their hopes for the future of West Texas. By working together in friendship, determination and stability and with logic and intelligence as our guides, we can all do much for West Texas. I want to help, as your next U.S. Congressman," he concluded.

with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Under provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act, producers may employ minors 16 years of age and over at any time in any agricultural occupation. Youth 10 to 15 years of age may also be hired but with certain restrictions.

Youth under 16 may not be employed during school hours and may not be employed at any time in an agricultural occupation declared to be hazardous by the Secretary of Labor. Hazardous occupations include the handling or applying of anhydrous ammonia and certain hazardous pesticides; operating, driving or riding on a tractor over 20-horsepower; operating, riding or unloading certain power-driven farm and fieldstead equipment; and working from a ladder or scaffold at a height of over 20 feet.

Examples of some permitted jobs for youth under 16 included operating a truck, auto or garden-type tractor on the farm proper; loading or unloading trucks; picking produce and placing them on conveyors or in containers; clearing small brush and trees; hand planting and cultivation; milking cows; raising and caring for poultry; picking cotton; cleaning barns and other buildings.

Tanksley explains that the only exceptions to these provisions apply to employment of youth by their parents. Also, certain student learners enrolled in vocational agriculture education training programs and 4-H youth 14 and 15 years of age completing a tractor and machinery safety project may be certified to operate select, but not all, hazardous equipment.

Tanksley further notes that nonhazardous work may be performed with written parental consent by youth 12 and 13 years of age on any farm. Also, youth under 12 may work only on small farms having less than 500 mandays of labor during any quarter in the preceding calendar year.

Joseph Califano, HEW Secretary:

"President Carter has decided to submit a national health insurance plan to Congress this year rather than wait until 1979."

Michael Blumenthal, Treasury Secretary, on SS tax hike cut:

"We do not believe that there is any urgent need in view of the President's (income) tax cut proposals that this be done this year."

John Hill Opposes State Income Tax

When he announced for Governor, Attorney General John Hill said that he would oppose — and would veto — a state income tax or any other new tax bill. He has repeated that pledge many times since. Any one who says that Hill would support a state income tax is just trying to mislead the public.

As Attorney General, John Hill cleaned up political corruption in Duval County, sued the phone company to stop an increase in rates and worked for a national energy policy that would be fair to Texas.

As Governor, John Hill will use the state's budget surplus to reduce property taxes and to help pay more of the cost of our public schools. There will be no state income tax and no other new taxes if Hill is elected Governor.

Morris Sheats, Democratic Congressional candidate for the seat being vacated by George Mahon was in Muleshoe, Wednesday, May 5, concluding his primary campaign tour through all seven counties, Sheats stated, "Since I announced in September, our campaign has been a People-to-People Campaign. I am the only candidate that has involved over 2,500 active volunteers across the district.

Recently, on a television forum, I was asked a question I had never been asked in seven months of campaigning. The question was, "Why should your opponent not be elected?"

Without attacking my opponent's character, let me give you three facts why you should not vote for my opponent.

1. I am not a lawyer; he is a lawyer. I have nothing against the legal profession, but I believe there are too many lawyers representing us in Congress and it is time to broaden the base of representation.

2. I am not a professional politician; my opponent is a professional politician. So far, he has run totally on his "ability" to work with the Texas Delegation. I believe we must have someone to go to Congress to represent and be a voice for the people of West Texas. I can do that.

3. I am not obligated to special interest groups; my opponent is obligated to special interest groups. He has received thousands of dollars from all kinds of political action groups. I have been supported financially in this campaign by the individual man.

Here are some hard facts about the Morris Sheats Campaign: I have been in Hockley, Lamb, Midland, Bailey, Ector, Gaines, Dawson, Deaf Smith, Hale, Martin, Castro, Andrews, Yoakum, Terry, Cochran, and Parmer counties 176 times. I have been in each county an average of 11 times; I have been an active leader in Lubbock County for 20 years, had 192 coffees, made 154 speeches, been attacked by three dogs, had three flat tires, consumed 220 (or) hamburgers on the road, travelled 22,000 miles and made hundreds of new friends.

Now, let me give you three reasons to vote for Morris Sheats on May 6:

1. I am a conservative. We have an economic crisis in this country. Our deficit spending is causing massive inflation. We need zero based budgeting. The Congress must require all agencies to justify their expenditures more carefully.

2. I am a man of character. By character, I mean keeping my word. Looking down the road and seeing what impact a decision today will mean ten years from now.

3. I am a communicator. We need a strong communicator in Congress. Someone who will speak up for our farmers, our oil and gas people, and our need for water. I believe I am the most effective communicator of all the candidates.

My opponent was asked on television a few days ago by the press why he had refused to accept my debate challenge. His answer: "I do not want to assist Morris Sheats with his campaign." He admitted such a debate would be in my favor."

Sheats concluded his speech by reminding the audience of his commitment to the county by saying, "I will return to your county at least two times a year to visit with you about your opinions and views and to inform you of pending legislation. I WILL STAY IN TOUCH."

A State Income Tax. A Hangman's Noose For Texas.

If you think taxes are choking you now, consider the possibility of a State income tax. It would be a noose around your neck. Around the neck of every Texan. And around the future of Texas.

A vote for John Hill is a vote for:

- bigger government.
- more government spending.
- more inflation.

AND FOR A STATE INCOME TAX.

A vote for Dolph Briscoe is a vote for:

- fiscal responsibility
- less - not more - government.
- continued economic growth.

AND FOR NO NEW TAXES.

- We don't need New York-style government in Texas.
- We don't need Washington-style bureaucracy in Texas.
- And we don't need a big spending liberal activist as Governor of Texas

LET'S KEEP DOLPH BRISCOE AS OUR GOVERNOR.

"We are already footing the bill for run-away government in Washington. As Texans we should not have to foot the bill for run-away government in Austin.

"I don't think Texas should spend itself into a state income tax. That is exactly what will happen if Mr. Hill fulfills only some of his political promises."

Vollers Merits Election To Criminal Appeals Post

GUEST EDITORIAL

Once upon a time (in 1976) Texas voters, enraptured with a "familiar name" on their ballot, elected Don Yarbrough to the Supreme Court of Texas. Despite advance warnings sent up like rockets, the voters behaved like unthinking sheep, electing a man without qualifications and flaws both serious and obvious. It took time, trouble and humiliation to rectify the error. Ex-judge Yarbrough was convicted of perjury and sentenced to prison. Please tell us the voters learned a lesson and won't do it again.

Because there are similar "familiar name" pitfalls in the May 6 primary elections. One case in point involves the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Two men seek the Democratic nomination: Sam Houston Clinton and Jim Vollers. See the problem?

Everybody knows Sam Houston. Some may know Sam Houston Clinton. Everybody should know Jim Vollers. He is the kind of man who should be elected. He has everything but a familiar name. Mostly what he has is good qualification, experience and legal fairness.

The State Bar of Texas poll of lawyers' preference supports our opinion. Jim Vollers won their poll over Clinton by 5,154 to 3,562. But then lawyers bother to find out about people running for state judgeships. Average voters, lamentable, usually do not.

So, who is Jim Vollers?

He is many things. Let's start with the fact that he was appointed last January 1 to the Criminal Appeals post he now seeks in public election. He has served well since selected by Governor Briscoe when voters approved expansion of the court.

Just before that he was state prosecuting attorney for nine years, 1969-77. Before that he was an assistant attorney general under Crawford Martin, 1967-69. Before that he was assistant district attorney in Jefferson County (Beaumont) for six years. Before that he was in private law practice four years in Beaumont. That was just after 1955-56 Army service as assistant to the Legal Assistance Office, Staff Judge Advocate. Before that, in 1954, he was graduated from the University of Texas Law School and got married. Before that he was born and reared in Goliad. As a matter of fact, his 47th birthday was April 20.

Jim Vollers has an uphill fight for name recognition, despite the fact that he currently sits on this most important state-wide Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, which is the criminal law equal of our State Supreme Court.

Selection for this judgeship is too important to risk electing the wrong man, just because one candidate with a familiar name has a knack for getting publicity, and the other candidate has a less familiar name and does an excellent job in the quiet and studious manner of being a judge.

The Reporter-News recommends Jim Vollers for the Democratic nomination to a full term on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. It'd help if Pa and Ma Vollers had named him "Jim Bowie" Vollers or "James Fannin" Vollers, but just plain Jim Vollers is making it on his own...with a little help from voters who look beyond the label.

KENYANS BEING TRAINED

WASHINGTON NEWS REPORT

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- Two days before the President won a victory in the Senate, getting that body to give away the $10 billion dollar canal, the zone and all its military installations and buildings, tough words were exchanged in a private top-level aides' session at Camp David.

The secret meeting was called to find out what could be done to check the slide in Mr. Carter's popularity. After a long session the decision was made to hire several new aides and shake up the White House staff, so that Mr. Carter's wishes would be carried out more efficiently and that he would get a greater spread of advice.

This was supposed to offset what some as the Georgia Mafia handicap--wherein six of Carter's top seven aides are people he brought with him to Washington from Georgia. The firing of one or more Cabinet officers or other top officials might also help--in the view of some at the meeting--though this remains a threat as yet.

Mr. Carter's popularity slide stems from the public perception of him as a man who wants to spend too much money, which could wreck the budget, dollar and the country's economic stability. They see him weak in bowing to unions, to domestic and social demands from the jobless, shiftless and minorities, a President who talks about voluntary restraint but whose timidity in the coal strike finally produced a thirty per cent wage hike in that industry.

What the President needs even more than new advisers and a tougher attitude with administration officials, however, is a change in direction. If he follows the advice of his new Federal Reserve Board Chairman, William Miller, he will reduce his proposed deficit by cutting tax reductions. That would probably be the most shrewd political and economic move open to Mr. Carter today.

JOHN TOWER

Panama Canal Mistake?

WASHINGTON—America's decision to relinquish control of the Panama Canal could not come at a worse time for the conduct of our foreign affairs.

It represents a sharp departure for a country known for its resolve in world affairs and will no doubt be met with delight by those who have been testing our mettle on other fronts.

In and of itself, the Panama Canal decision represents a serious foreign policy mistake. The Canal is a vital commercial and naval waterway, important to our economic well-being and to that of the world. Its national security importance to this country is above dispute.

Provisions added to the treaty which proponents argue will guarantee our right to keep the Canal open and operational are only so many words. The instability of the Panamanian government offers little assurance of the Canal's future operation should fragile political conditions there take a turn for the worse.

Moreover, the adverse impact of the decision to relinquish control was well-documented before the Senate Armed Services Committee: direct and indirect costs to the U.S. Treasury could well exceed $1 billion. The absolute minimum cost to the taxpayers will exceed $750 million.

Necessary payments to the Panamanians from Canal revenues will require substantial toll increases, particularly as inflation raises the cost of operating and maintaining the Canal. Toll increases will raise the cost of goods shipped, causing higher prices in the United States, and diminishing the economic attractiveness of Canal passage.

This in turn will have a detrimental impact on the economy of those ports handling ships which use the Canal. The loss could cost thousands of jobs in Gulf Coast ports.

The Senate gave little or no consideration to these arguments, made over and over again by those of us who believed such facts had critical bearing on ratification.

The real importance of the Canal decision, however, will be the impression it leaves both on our allies and on our potential adversaries. Far from representing an example of good faith in dealing with smaller countries, the decision to relinquish control may be interpreted as an example of wavering foreign policy, an uncertainty of purpose the American government can ill-afford to reveal.

The United States has always operated the Canal to the benefit of all maritime nations in an even-handed fashion. Besides throwing into question continued international access to the isthmus waterway, our action relinquishing control most likely will be perceived as a retreat from necessary tough decisions in foreign policy.

In the Horn of Africa, at the SALT negotiating table in Geneva, in the Middle East, the eyes of the world are trained on decisions required of the United States.

For that matter, so are those of a lot of concerned Americans.

I want to congratulate you and the citizens of Muleshoe for your dedication, spirit and humanity. Your support of ESA's Million Dollar Bike Ride is greatly appreciated by ESA Women International and St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

Without all of you, the doctors and scientists at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital would have an even more difficult time as they work to conquer the deadly diseases of children, so that all children, everywhere, will have a chance to live.

Thank you.

(s) Sydney Feraco (ms.)
Project Director

Dear Editor:

Two days hence, May 6, 1978, is Election day. Potentially, the beginning of a new era in our Nations History. We Americans are afforded the opportunity to exercise a freedom which far too few in our World possess, to take pen in hand and vote in a free election.

In this age, the greatest threat to our Nation lies not in armed invasion from outside our Country. Shall we citizens continue to sit idly by as radical, tyrants, and spend thrifts chart our Nations course? Are we, the American people, to remain silent in our convictions and confine our course of action to weak complaints and complacency and indifference?

I certainly think not, Our pride in our Country and the Freedoms we hold dear will compel us to act. The most important thing we can do as Americans is to exercise our full Freedom as Citizens and voice our opinions freely.

First of all we must vote and elect Officials to our County, State and National Governments who are open and responsive to the will of their people, who will voice our opinion, argue our case and weigh carefully the full effects of their course of action.

Secondly we must attend our Precinct Political Conventions and present our opinions in the form of Resolutions to our party and elect Delegates to the County, later the State, and eventually the National Convention. Resolutions are in order on any Political Issue, and are quite often the foundation of later Legislation. These Precinct Conventions will be held at the place you vote and are scheduled at 7:15 p.m. on May 6, 1978.

I'd like to encourage all voters to participate in these Conventions, the only qualification being that you must have voted that day in the Party's Primary. Further I feel that we owe it to our Legislators and Representatives to let them know how we stand. They cannot read our minds. Be vocal on the issues whether in the form of a phone call, letter, post card or in person. Give them a full and fair chance to represent us fully.

Shall we turn out at the polls and serve our Country fully as a Citizen or shall we let it slide? The time is upon us, the opportunity is before us, let us VOTE and stand up for what we believe.

We can determine the direction and chart the course of the Great Nation of ours, but we must work, and work together to make it as great as it can be.

Sincerely,
Stan Black (s)

INFLATION & JOBS
Federal Reserve Chairman G. William Miller said that rising prices, unless checked, will cut into the housing market, slow economic growth and lead to higher unemployment.

Incumbent Justice T. C. Chadick is the overwhelming choice of fellow lawyers throughout Texas; has been endorsed by the Houston Chronicle, Waco Tribune Herald, San Antonio Light, Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Dallas Morning News, Dallas Times Herald and many other newspapers throughout the state; by the Dean of the Texas Senate, A. M. Aikin; by Baylor University President Abner McCall; by 10 former Supreme Court Justices; and literally hundreds of informed people throughout the State.

In Texas, we've learned the bitter lesson of voting for a well known name, rather than a well respected and qualified candidate for this highest court position. Let's don't make the same mistake twice.

On Saturday, May 6th, let's return Justice T. C. Chadick to the Texas Supreme Court, Place Four.

Meat Import Legislation Is Proposed

The Senate Finance Committee Wednesday approved by a vote of 13-1 Senator Lloyd Bensten's legislation to clamp down on meat imports.

The Bentsen Beef Import Bill would impose reasonable quotas on the amount of beef which can be imported into the United States.

"My bill will reverse the boom and bust cycle in the cattle industry by allowing increased imports during periods of high prices and reducing imports at times when the U.S. cattleman is unable to get a fair price for his price," Senator Bentsen said.

"This counter cyclical control of imports will add stability to the cattle market and assure the U.S. consumer high quality beef at reasonable prices." This legislation would replace the "pro cyclical" 1964 Meat Import Quota Act, which allows imports to increase at the same time domestic producers are liquidating their cow herds.

Senator Bentsen addressed the serious problem facing cattlemen and feedlot operators who have gone bankrupt the last several years during periods of rising beef imports and high domestic supply.

"Even a small increase in imports can have a very negative effect on cattlemen during periods of overproduction. This is particularly true for smaller cattlemen. A countercyclical formula would be particularly beneficial to smaller, family-owned farms and ranches, which are less able to withstand the upswings and downswings of the cattle cycle than larger corporated operations with ready access to financial markets. Many cattlemen have been caught in a cost-price squeeze and have been victimized by serious drought. This has led to bankruptcy for smaller ranchers," Bentsen said.

"Added stability in the cattle sector would provide an economic climate to encourage investment in cost-reducing technology, improvements in productivity, better breeding stock, pasture improvements, better machinery and equipment, and better veterinary programs."

The Bentsen Beef Import Bill is a consensus bill designed to stabilize the cattle market to the benefit of both consumers and stabilize profits to ranchers at levels that are reasonable for consumers. In particular, this approach will help moderate beef prices for the American housewife during times of domestic beef shortages, Senator Bentsen said.

Backyard Farmers, It's Tomato Time!

Without a doubt, America's favorite vegetable is the tomato. With spring looking like it might have finally arrived, no doubt many gardeners will begin journeying to garden centers to buy tomato plants.

Tomatoes are not easy to grow in Texas—they require long periods of mild weather, temperatures above 65 degrees at night and below 90 degrees during the day in order to set fruit. Most areas of Texas do not have many days like that in a row, and tomatoes fade with hot weather. As a general rule the smaller fruited varieties will produce over a long period of time during hot weather than will big-fruited varieties like Beef Steak and Ponderosa.

Since variety selection is important in growing tomatoes, here are some of the varieties to look for when shopping for tomato transplants: Almost all the small-fruited types like Cherry and Porter will do well and bear over a long period of time, but when you get into the larger-fruited forms you need to look for varieties like Spring Giant, Bigset, Bonus, Terrific, Better Boy and Early Girl.

Take along a note pad and write down the names of the varieties you buy. Also note where the varieties are planted in the garden because one of the most frustrating things is to have great success with one tomato plant out of eight varieties and not be able to remember which it was. A small plot plan showing the location of each variety will save a lot of headaches next year.

There are many secrets to successful tomato growing. Few plants are pruned these days, but if you stake your plants you may want to prune out the suckers that grow in the leaf axils and shoot for larger fruit, although total production will be down.

The best way to grow tomatoes is in wire cages made of reinforcing wire. A five-foot section bent into a cylinder and pushed down over the tomato plants is ideal support. The only drawback is that the wire also makes a good perch for mockingbirds which like to poke holes in tomatoes—but they'll do that, perch or not. Other hints include using gallons cans with holes punched in the bottom and sides which are inserted in the soil one foot on either side of the plant, leaving about one-inch of the can sticking up. The can serves as a reservoir to put water and nutrients into the soil at the root zone area for the tomato plants.

Some people also like to put black plastic mulch over the

Now is the time to make some definite plans for beautifying your yard and garden. If you don't, no one will do it for you.

Simply cut holes for the tomato plants and for the cans, thereby eliminating weed problems at the same time. These are precautions, though, that need to be taken with black plastic mulch as temperatures get hotter. Either take it up, lightly cover it with a light-colored straw mulch or take latex paint mixed one-to-five with water and spray the black plastic white. Otherwise it will absorb too much heat and bake the plant roots. Insect and disease control are important with tomatoes, and a general purpose fungicide plus an insecticide used at weekly intervals beginning soon after transplanting, will help ensure a bountiful harvest.

One for the people.

As Chairman of the State Insurance Board, Joe Christie slashed proposed insurance rate increases by more than $500 million and he shocked the politicians by asking the Legislature to reduce the Board's budget.

His opponent, who has only lived in Texas 11 months out of the last 19 years, is the hand-picked candidate of Big Oil, and he votes their way every time no matter what effect it has on Texans' utility bills or the skyrocketing rate of inflation.

For the people... for the taxpayer. And nobody owns him.

John Hill is ready to lower property taxes, reduce utility bills and cut state spending. He's committed to holding the line on taxes and will veto a state income tax if proposed. He'll continue to stand behind our farmers and ranchers and will deal tough with the Washington bureaucrats — on energy and other matters affecting Texas.

Isn't this the kind of Governor we need now... working for Texas?

New Leaflet Explains Act

A new leaflet explaining the Resources Conservation Act of 1977 and the public's role in its implementation is now available at offices the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service.

Under the new law, SCS will appraise the nation's soil, water, and related resources; develop a comprehensive 5-year strategy to guide conservation efforts; and evaluate the effectiveness of ongoing conservation programs. SCS will carry out the work in cooperation with appropriate citizen groups; conservation districts; and other federal, state, and local agencies. The appraisal and program will be completed by the end of 1979 and updated every 5 years.

Copies of the leaflet, "Your Role in Conservation's Future" may be obtained by calling 272-4538 or coming by the Soil Conservation Service office.

"The Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District and the Soil Conservation Service will co-sponsor a workshop or open meeting about this legislation in the future," Jerry Wenmohs, SCS district conservationist, said, "and it would be helpful to read the leaflet before the meeting."

Wenmohs said that public participation is a built-in feature of the Resources Conservation Act, and suggestions from interested groups or individuals are welcome at any time.
