TWILIGHT.

The golden Twilight, soft and weak,
Fled from the rosy glow of day—
Then, waited, with a flushing cheek,
For dark-browed Night, who bade her stay.

Swiftly he threw his mantle o'er
Her form as they together went,
And wooed her gently, as before,
To come within his silent tent.

And now he summoned from afar
His gleaming treasures, clear and bright,
Till on her brow a single star
Gleamed peerless in its heavenly light.

[From the Chicago Tribune, Jan. 7.]
A RUINED FAMILY.

In the year 1838, Edward H. Stokes, a successful cloth merchant of New York, and nearly connected with some of the most prominent representatives of that city, retired from business with a handsome competency. Eight years previous he had married a Miss Stiles, a daughter of a leading Philadelphian, and, Mr. Stokes chose Philadelphia as his future residence. There his eldest son was born in 1839, and named Edward Stiles, after a maternal relative. The lad was a boy of unusual beauty and promise, a quick, active mind, a generous and loving disposition—these traits being remembered well after the lapse of years by those who knew him at that time. Two daughters and two other sons were born in the period between 1840 and 1856. The family is recalled as being rarely endowed with all that seemed needed to insure the happiness of a household. The home was one of wealth and luxury, the culture of the best.

Edward was educated at the University, and took high rank as a scholar. He went to New York at the age of 17, to enter into the store of Samuel Perry, on South Water street, an extensive cheese dealer. Perry failed three years later, and young Stokes made a partnership with a junior of the collapsed house, and they, as Stokes & Butler, opened a cheese store on Vesey street. They had excellent success, their foreign shipping trade being very large, calling Stokes to visit Europe several times within the next few seasons. About this time the senior Stokes was induced to remove to New York, where he made his office with his son, though not originally intending to become entangled in business. Such was the result, however, and not only were the father, but other and prominent wealthy relatives, gradually but heavily involved in the extended ventures of Stokes & Butler. The failure of the firm followed, and father and son were thrown into bankruptcy.

With the wreck of his fortune young Stokes embarked next in the enterprise of establishing an oil refinery at Hunter's Point. Three hundred thousand dollars were expended in the work, which were to be the best of the country, and the company fell into difficulties, and at this juncture the helpful hand of Mr. Stokes' constant companion, the oil merchant, came into the story. Jim was the name of the oil merchant, and he had been employed by even more scrupulous railroads than the Erie, and he had been the Erie was the great thoroughfare to the oil region. A compact was struck. Fisk entered the refinery company, reinforced its capital, and with a change of name and heavy "drawbacks" on the Erie freight bills, the Hunter's refinery sailed strongly into successful competition. Stokes was secretary as well as partner. At one time his profits from the refinery gave him $1,000 per week.

In 1864, Stokes married the daughter of J. W. Southwick, a prominent furniture dealer in New York, one of the oldest in his line in that city. A short time since one of our oldest residents introduced us to a set of furniture, a wedding outfit, brought to Chicago in 1835, bought by Mr. Southwick, who is now a man of immense wealth, and still in active business in a great Broadway establishment. The wedding of Stokes with Miss Southwick seemed to lack nothing that wealth, position and social surroundings could bring to insure happiness. They made their matrimonial home in the Hoffman house, and moved among the most brilliant life of the metropolis.

The next scene to be drawn brings the notorious woman Mansfield into the plot. Solonius described her many centuries ago, and we fear Solonius knew what he was writing about. But his painting has never been surpassed, and if Stokes' mind this little portrait made 2,000 years ago, of the infamous Mansfield and her infamous sisters, it might have gained immortality as the fruits of the new acquaintance.

Here are some of the wise man's colorings of his subject:

She leth in wait as for a prey, and increase the transgressions among men.

Her feet go down to death; her steps take hold on Hell. Her house inclineth unto death, and her paths unto the dead. None that go unto her return again.

He goeth after her straightway, as an ox goeth to the slaughter.

She hath cast down many wounded, yea many strong men have been slain by her.

Her house is the way to hell, going down to the chambers of death.

The dead are there. Her guests are in the depths of hell.

And just precisely that happened which the Son of David predicted; from the house of the harlot the path turned downward. A quarrel between Fisk and Stokes followed. It was carried into affairs of business. Fisk refused to allow the Hunter's Point concern to make a dividend, and thus cut off Stokes' supplies. The disgraceful relation with Mansfield became more shameless, and the father-in-law, Southwick, sent his daughter and her child to Europe early in 1871, to remove her from the scene of the scandal. Stokes, enraged at Fisk, used his position as Secretary to collect $30,000 from Devore, an oil merchant, which sum he held openly and defiantly as his profits. Fisk caused his arrest on a criminal charge. Stokes turned to his wealthy relatives. No one of them would bail him, and he was forced to make terms and submit, and to fund the money. His relation to Fisk were bitter, and out of the intensity of the evil passion and criminality of his position with Mansfield grew murder. Turn to Solomon again, and there is no mystery in the chain of sequences. It is said that the same steamer that took out to Europe the murderer of Fisk by Stokes carried a divorce procured by her family for his wife, who still remains abroad.

The story of family grief and reverses is not all told. The senior Stokes, after thirty years of retirement and enjoyment of a luxurious home, is bankrupt and homeless in his old age. One of the daughters died two weeks after marriage. The second daughter, the wife of a Mr. Stinson, attached herself so strongly to the fortunes of her brother that her husband discarded her, and she is in refuge with her aged and penniless parents. The second son, a young man of great promise, died two months ago, of grief and shame at the family reverses, and the whole tale of the innocent and suffering victims by this complication of crime and shame is not to be fully told without including some of the best known and esteemed of New York families.

If young men in our communities could only ride on express trains to the devil, and take no one with them, there would be less to be said, since, aside from these considerations, it is every man's individual right to barter away his life and fortune and sacred honor at his own price. Satan buys a great many of these poor fellows very cheap, and at short option for seller.

But every ear is part of a family train. The shock and crush of shame and disgrace must fall on innocent as well as guilty. In behalf of the fathers and mothers and sisters of community, let general warning be made of the case of Edward Stokes. Where has romance woven anything so sad? Where, in modern communities, have been given more abrupt and startling variations of light and shade, from the brightest point of promise and assured happiness to the depths of darkness and misery, than those on which the curtain falls?

By the observation of this simple rule.

When you wish to stop, do so by observing this rule you will often avoid going too far.

By observing carefully these rules you will be able to get along without great difficulty.—N. Y. Atlas.

THE Rev. T. S. Shipman, of Connecticut, tells the following story upon himself:

"On an exchange with the Rev. Dr. Bond, of Norwich, as I entered the porch of the church, the chorister, whose soul was wrapped up in music, met me. 'I would thank you to read flats this morning,' said he. 'What flats were entirely beyond my comprehension; but I concluded he might mean flat hymns, so I selected the flattest I could find. My sermon I knew was flat. It is hardly necessary to add that the whole service that morning was a very symmetrical one.'

President Morrises, of the Republic of Bolivia, after having threatened Congress with dissolution because it did not favor his mining projects, and abusing not only the members of Congress but his personal staff, was shot dead by his own nephew, while the latter was being abused by Morrises. Congress quietly elected General Battistoni as the successor of Morrises.

CHAPPED HANDS, face, rough skin, pimples, ringworm, salt rheum, & other cutaneous affections cured, and the skin made soft and smooth, by using the JEWELL'S TANNING SOAP, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York. Be certain to get the JAWPER TANNING SOAP, as there are many worthless imitations made with common tar.

BROMO-CHLORALUM!

THE NEW
ODORLESS, NON-POISONOUS
Deodorizer and Disinfectant.

The want of a certain and perfect deodorizer and disinfectant capable of destroying all noxious odors and gases, or well as germ of disease, and acting particularly on the air, has long been felt, and more particularly, one that was free from poisonous qualities, and that would be safely used under all circumstances.

BROMO-CHLORALUM contains no poison, produces no odor in itself, operates by destroying and not by creating an odor greater than the one to be removed.

INVALUABLE as a Germ in Diphtheria, Sore Throat, Croup, Catarrh and Febrile States.

INDISPENSABLE IN SMALL POX, Yellow Typhoid and Scarlet Fever, Cholera, Typhoid Fever, Discharges of all kinds, and all contagious diseases, both as a means to neutralize fever poisons, and as a disinfectant.

TO REMOVE ALL BAD ODOORS of gas and to DISINFECT SICK ROOMS, suspend Bromo-Chloralum with its diluent, and put it in all chamber utensils before use.

THIS ODORLESS DEODORIZER absorbs in an astonishing manner all odors in the Kitchen, in Store Rooms, Pantries, and Meat Safes, by simply suspending the same saturated with solution of it, also, by sprinkling Calico, Silks, Water Closets, Scurves, etc.

AS A HOUSEHOLD ARTICLE it has no equal for superficially, Scalls, Burns, Mosquito Bites, Chafings, Frost Bites, and sunburn, Erysipelas, Itching, and Cutaneous Affections. For purifying Jarrois, Milk Cans, Babies' Feeding Bottles, and all dishes and utensils that have any bad odors.

USES FOR THE DEAD.—Injected into the arteries of the body full strength, and long externally, it has proved a most valuable, much better than ice.

MOSQUITOES AND FLIES.—It has been discovered among other valuable properties to possess the merit of killing the premises of these household pests, where it is exposed in open saucers or upon sponges, by purifying the air of the room and rendering it unwholesome to the insects.

POISONOUS.—From poison ivy or other vegetation, from Mosquitoes or other insects, relieved at once by washing the parts affected with it.

Hints About Walking.

Start off with the left foot in front, as in army practice. By doing so, when you advance there will be nothing left, and you will be right with "left in front." Don't expect to understand this at once.

Keep your eyes in front. If there are heads ahead of you, you can thus see ahead, and may avoid complications with strangers.

If you wish to ascertain the grade of the walk place your feet down, and you will, if you are wise, know all about it. Man is a pliant animal. When you get hold of the earth with one foot, keep a hold until you get the other firmly fixed in a satisfactory place. By so doing you will feel all the stability contemplated in the Sunday League law.

When you lift up your feet, let go of the dirt. It is not commendable to cling too much to earthy things, nor to walk off with what does not belong to you.

In learning to walk, always place one foot in advance of the other, alternating with left and right, for the sake of gracefulness in movement and ultimate advancement. A man progresses in life as a bird.

Here are some of the wise man's colorings of his subject:

She leth in wait as for a prey, and increase the transgressions among men.

Her feet go down to death; her steps take hold on Hell. Her house inclineth unto death, and her paths unto the dead. None that go unto her return again.

He goeth after her straightway, as an ox goeth to the slaughter.

She hath cast down many wounded, yea many strong men have been slain by her.

From the communication in another column of Dr. Kaitzer it will be seen that great caution is necessary among the people in eating pork. Some time since the people of this city had a "scare" on account of the appearance of this disease. No one should feel himself secure...

Mr. Cunningham, it appears, has introduced a resolution in street Messrs. Davis and Murphy not to bring any more suits in behalf of the city under their contract made with a former City Council. The Council will do well to exercise a little caution in this business. The city is bound by a contract with Messrs. Davis and Murphy, and so far we are not apprised of any grounds for annulling or attempting to annul the contract. In fact, it is questionable if the present City Council possesses any power in the premises without the consent of the people. We have heard repeatedly complaints that the city is overburdened by the attorneys who are employed in the courts in railway bond questions. Confederate currency questions, and others; but the reply to these objections has been that nearly, if not all, of the prominent lawyers at this bar were interested upon the other side. There has been a complaint of neglect by the attorneys who were employed, and so far as the city is concerned it is a mere matter of business—of dollars and cents—just as it would be with any private individual. There have been many false statements made about the streets, but in the columns of the Herald, regarding this business; but the present City Council may feel assured that all of the real facts will be made known, and that by no juggery with figures will it be enabled to dup the tax-payers for any length of time. Davis and Murphy have so far received $7,000 on the bond which upon all others the fee of the firm was made a contingent one, the usual ten per cent upon some of the Confederate currency cases. There is nothing political in the matter, and it behooves the present Council to act without prejudice, with reason and judgment, in the economical interests of the city, and not in the interest of any special class, or of any particular profession.

The Supreme Court. An article with the above caption appeared in yesterday's Herald, evidently written or instigated by some Democratic member of the bar of this city. The partisan motives of the writer proposed to make the subject of the article in the most offensive sense of that term, and to make it a subject of contention in this State. It assumes that a majority which may be, and in all probability is, a transient one, constitutes the people of this State. It assumes that the Supreme Court should be so constituted as to secure a permanent majority in accordance with the will of the majority. It advocates an increase of the members of the Court, and by extraordinary means, in short, the measures proposed evidently have been conceived by a mind revolutionary from force of habit, or false training, and as a precedent for future evil fraught with extreme danger. We might agree with the writer as to the propriety of increasing the number of judges; but to more than double the present number in the manner proposed, would be ample evidence that the controlling motives were strictly partisan, and non-judicial. The judiciary of the State should be as far removed as possible from the influence and domination of the popular will, and should be controlled by its own sense of duty and honor.

Why San Antonio is Behind in the way of Public Improvements, &c. On the subject of railroads a good deal has been said and written, but it strikes me forcibly that, so far as concerns the interests of San Antonio, it is only a waste of time to say anything at all upon the subject. It is true the great majority are in favor of railroads, but majorities in San Antonio are in favor of railroads elsewhere, the power is only in the ballot box. Those of our people who have the means and could do something, if they would, are in the minority, and even this minority might safely be divided into three classes, and in the following order, thus: No. 1, ready and willing; No. 2, would like to see a railroad, but does not care about rendering any assistance; No. 3 does not want a railroad under any circumstances, and why? Because this class monopolize at present the trade and commerce of the place, and are not likely going to favor any movement that might interfere with them in their monopoly, and having no interest save that of making money, they are not likely to remain longer than they can succeed in making it. See if this is not so? How many of these shrewd fellows have any interests other than of a commercial nature? How many of them own the stores in which they live? What have they to keep them in San Antonio, I would like to know, should it come to a question of business? Nothing that I know of, and I fancy if this took place, you would find these commercial men preparing to leave—like rats deserting a sinking ship. This is one great reason why San Antonio is so far behind in the way of public spirit and enterprise. Another reason, and I am sorry to have to mention it, is the great discord among her own people. This ought not to be the case, but unfortunately it is so, and while all of us who own property are very much interested in the future growth and prosperity of San Antonio, it seems that we can't agree in regard to the mode and manner of accomplishing that end. Austin—our sister city, not having to contend against these two great evils, has succeeded in connecting herself with all the world "and the rest of mankind." Will San Antonio profit by the example? "Quite so!" What has become of the "Memorial"? It is to be hoped that some of those who might be classed in No. 3, will appear upon it. This is just what has played the goose with San Antonio, putting such men upon committees. Hope the practice will be discontinued altogether. OFF TO MEXICO.—The Washington Republican of the 8th inst. says: "Mr. J. W. Walsh leaves for Mexico about the latter part of this week to reclaim from P. Miles & Co., merchants in Matamoros or Mexico, who are indebted to Mr. Joseph Walsh, the uncle of the former gentleman, not in the sum of $201,000, as has been stated, but really to the amount of $204,000, which has been withheld from Mr. J. Walsh by bribery, corruption and theft, and also by a continuous line of vexatious suits, which have occupied the courts of Mexico for the last four years. We hope that our active young friend will push his claim with vigor and energy and bring the judiciary of Mexico, through the United States Commission, to a strict sense of duty and equal distribution of justice. "TO SCRAP A QUANTANCE" comes to us from the Roman Emperor Adrian: He was at the public baths one day, when he saw one of his veteran soldiers scraping his body with a tile. That was such poor luxury that Adrian supplied with his old comrade should be offered with more suitable cleansing materials, and also with money. On a subsequent occasion, when the Emperor again went to the bath, the spectacle before him was highly amusing. A score of old soldiers who had fought under Adrian were standing in the water, and each was carrying himself with a tile and wincing at the self-inflicting rubbing. The Emperor perfectly understood what he saw and what was the purpose of the sight. "Ha, ha!" he exclaimed, "you had better scrape one another, my good fellows, you certainly shall not scrape acquaintance with me."

opinions, the Constitution and laws of the State are amply sufficient to reach, remove and punish them. If the Supreme Court needs to be reinforced, the present Senate, politically constituted as it is, is a complete check upon the Governor, should he attempt, when authorized, to impose upon the bench other political justices. If a Democratic Legislature, or a present Democratic majority of the people, attempt to, and succeed in, obtaining partisan control of the bench of the State, they will succeed in laying up for themselves "wrath against a day of wrath." The Legislature, especially the Senate, will do better to consult its own dignity, and the position it occupies to-day before the people of this State and of the whole country, before yielding to the advice of so impracticable and sordid an enemy of sound Republican government as the Herald writer plainly is, endeavor to conceal his animus by delusive assertions as he may. The lessons of the past are too important and instructive to be so easily forgotten, or so flippantly laid aside.

Appleton's Journal reports that the young ladies in one of our Eastern cities are entranced with Joaquin Miller, because he whistles in the parlors of the people who entertain him, "and it's so childlike, you know." When Mrs. Stanton was delivering her lecture on the "Coming Girl," in Green Bay, Wis., she told how her father, when they were going over the highlands of Scotland together, had a pair of boots made for her. After the lecture a bronzed faced, furry individual said to her: "An' wi' ye shak' hands wi' the man that whistled the booties for ye?" and there he was. Shaded.

Stokes declares that he is "the victim of excited public sentiment." We presume Plak was the victim of excited private sentiment—"simply that, and nothing more." A German resident of Davenport, after several years' experiment, has succeeded in manufacturing sugar from corn, which is said to grade with the "coffee A," and can be made at a cost of four cents a pound. A company with $20,000 capital is being formed at Davenport to establish a factory at that place.

The father of Dorabella recently found that little girl's chubby little hands full of the blossoms of a beautiful rose-tree, on which he bestowed great care. "My dear," said he, "did not tell you not to pluck one of these flowers without leave?" "Yes papa," said Dorabella, "but all these had leaves." The pews in Henry Ward Beecher's church were sold on the evening of the 7th and brought $20,250, being an advance of $250 over the sale of the previous year. The highest and lowest priced pews advanced in price, but the middle class were sold at a reduction. Every pew was sold.

France is "growing backwards." The national census, just taken, shows a total population of 36,109,921—a decrease of 306,926 since 1866. It appears that the population of the United States is over 2,000,000 in excess of that of France. Robert Lowe, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, is the freeman of some half dozen Scotch burghs, ranging from Kirkwall to Glasgow. He has more Scotch burghs tickets in his possession than any other Cabinet Minister, and, in fact, has been as nearly nationalized as any Englishman can be.

What the Season Suggests. To assume warm clothing at the commencement of the cold season is only an act of common prudence. But something more than this is required to put the body in a state of defense against the searching atmosphere of winter. Damp has a depressing effect on the vital organs and the animal spirit. The amount of life power taken out of the strongest of us by the chilling vapors which frequently load the air at this period of the year is very considerable, and to the weak and languid they are extremely deleterious. To protect the system against their effects it must be inwardly toned, regulated and reinforced, as well as shielded outwardly by appropriate garments. This essential service is more safely and satisfactorily accomplished by the daily use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters than by any other means within the province of medical science. The fact here stated is as incontrovertible as a demonstration in mathematics. Nobody disputes it. It is a matter of common belief and of general record. Here the case might be stated; but the public, naturally enough, wants to know why this famous vegetable specific is so far ahead of all other remedies of its class. This reasonable curiosity can be readily gratified. The Bitters comprise five important elements, viz: a stimulant, a tonic, an aperient, and a blood purifier. Each of these components, as well as each of the other subordinate ingredients, is the product and best of its kind. They are proportioned in accordance with a formula that has been in use for forty years, and is approved harmoniously and simultaneously, hence the uniform success of the medicine.

A line of ocean steamers, under the American flag, is about to ply between Philadelphia and Antwerp. We are gratified to see that a contract for carrying the mails has been granted to the line, and the country will rejoice to hear of the success of the enterprise. THE SHIPPING BILL AMENDMENT.—The amendment to the shipping bill, adopted by the House on the 9th, provides that the privileges now enjoyed by owners and masters of vessels running between the United States and Canadian ports shall be extended to those running between United States ports and ports in other British possessions in America, the West Indies, and Mexico. Its effect will be to relieve masters of vessels from discharging their crews whenever they touch at one of the ports in the countries named.

MASONS AND LOTTERIES.—To their credit it is stated the Masons denounce lotteries as inconsistent with the principles of their order. The lodges at Omaha have issued an address warning the fraternity against a lottery scheme called a grand gift concert to aid in erecting a Masonic temple at Omaha. We second, heartily, the public sentiment that demands the abatement of the fraudulent gift lotteries that are siphoning the money of poor and thoughtless people. If there is no law to reach them there ought to be one, and it ought to be summarily enforced.
