Saturday was, as usual, a busy day among the society circles. The balmy at mosphere brought everybody out, and the streets presented a gay appearance, so full were they of carriages and ladies and were they of carriages and ladies and gentlemen on foet. Quite a change has been made this winter, by which, sepecially in fine weather, carriages have been dispensed with by these making salls. Young ladies almost invariably prefer to walk, and generally go in groups or with male companions.
