NEW BRAUNFELS, July 12, 73.
Editor San Antonio Express: Having recently traversed the country some hundred miles to the eastward of San Antonio, we have at last brought up here for a few days repose at the thriving little village of New Braunfels, and are stopping at "The American House," kept by Prof. T. L. Lyons, of the New Braunfels Academy.
It is such a rare thing, for bona fade professor, to superadd to his duties those of hotel-keeper, that you will allow us to say a word in praise of his two-fold position.
Prof. Lyons has been steadily engaged as a teacher in Texas for the past eighteen years. Locating at San Marcos, when that new nest village contained only a few cabins, and was but a mere outpost of our latter day civilization, he was for many years the hero of the educational field of the place. He struggled until the war commenced, having accumulated, in the mean time, a small stock of horses and cattle; but, during the progress of the contest for national existence, this became the prey of the lawless, so that the dawn of peace the Professor found himself once more at the foot of the ladder, with a large family on his hands.
About this time a vacancy having occurred in the English Department of the New Braunfels Academy, he sought and obtained it; but the salary being entirely too small to enable him to maintain his family, he took in a few students as boarders. This soon led the way for others to apply for similar accommodations, and the Professor almost unawares found himself at the head of a boarding establishment. New applications continuing to pour in, he was ultimately compelled to enlarge his premises.
The fame of the Lyons House soon spread abroad, and friends and strangers so pressed him for entertainment, that, about two years since, he was induced to still further enlarge his house, and fit it up for a first class hotel, and also to put up a large and commodious stable, with all necessary appurtenances, to accommodate the traveling public.
After making these ample arrangements, he hung out this sign:
"THE AMERICAN HOUSE."
Since that time, the American has become the principal resort of the traveling public at New Braunfels. This reputation has been fairly and honorably won. School teachers are always liberal men, and the Professor is no exception to the rule; finding that he could make a reasonable per cent. by charging just about half what is usually exorted from travelers by hotel-keepers, he still keeps up this practice, and is making money by it. Why shouldn't he? When travelers and their stock are well provided for and taken care of, by such a man as Professor Lyons, they rarely go elsewhere unless it be that class of customers who delight in tanglefoot, and who find themselves in misery when in company with gentlemen and educated people.

We may add, that the Professor's accomplishments are not only known how to enter to the taste of his guests, but what is still better, he has the happy art of making everybody about his feet at home, while Professor Lyons's hearty laugh and spicy conversation adds a charm that renders the "American" a real home for all who find a shelter beneath its hospitable roof.
Real estate of all kinds is very high in New Braunfels and vicinity.
The Germans here are well aware that their locality is unparalleled in the West, and only needs what our Democratic sages of the late 13th Legislature have sought to deprive us of, the International, to make it blossom, as it some day will,
like a rose.
The once large public school here was closed on the last of May, and the Academy is now being run under its former auspices. The tuition is low, but low as it is, it does not suit the masses who have for a period of two years enjoyed the benefits of public schools. The old republican Democracy at New Braunfels, as elsewhere throughout the country feel ashamed of the so called new school law, and are now resorting to every known expedient to convince the people that it is just what they need. They find the task, honor, a hopeless one among the masses of poor people who constitute the bone and sinew of the country.
Under the old law they saw their children in school ten months during the year, under competent teachers, with but little or no expense to themselves; but they have just witnessed the repeal of this law, and have seen the schools all over the country closed by the action of the late Reform Legislature; they felt aggrieved, and justly so; they have no confidence in the new law, and doubt if it can ever be put into practical, working operation. Will such a feeling as this prevailing the country, the non-progressive Jno.

Ireland Democracy of Texas can have but little to expect, at the next election, but utter defeat.
The crops in this section look nice, and promise an abundant yield. The season has been a very peculiar one, and just such a one that has required skill and husbandry, and hard work to back it up, to make good crops. German farming has never appeared to be-advantage in Western Texas than it does at present, and should serve as a lesson to our American friends, to plant less and cultivate better.
Yours,
WAYFARER.
DOMESTIC ECONOMY.
Don't Box a Child's Ears, but Fan His Hot Window
with a Slipper.
[From the Popular Science Monthly.] Children's ears ought never to be boxed. We have seen that the passage of the ear is closed by a thin membrane, especially adapted to be influenced by every impulse of the air, and with nothing but the air-to support it. What then is more likely to injure this membrane than a sudden and forcible compression of the air in front of it? If any one designed to break or overstretch the membrane, he could scarcely devise a more effective means than to bring the hand suddenly and forcibly down upon the passage of the ear, thus driving the air violently before it, with no possibility for its escape but by the membrane giving way. And far too often it does give way, especially if, from any previous disease, it has been weakened. Many children are made deaf by boxes on the ear in this way. Nor is this the only way; if there is one thing which does the nerve of hearing more harm than almost any other, it is a sudden jar or shock. Children and grown persons alike may be entirely deafened by falls or heavy blows upon the head. And boxing the ears produces a similar effect, though more slowly and in less degree. It tends to dull the sensibility of the nerve, even if it does not hurt the membrane. I knew a pitiful case, once, of a poor youth who died from a terrible disease of the ear. He had a discharge from it since he was a child. Of course his hearing had been dull; and what had happened was that his father had often boxed his ears for inattention! Most likely that boxing on the ear, diseased as it was, had much to do with his dying.
And this brings me to the second point. Children should never be blamed for inattention until it has been found out whether they are a little deaf. This is easily done by placing them at a few yards' distance, and trying whether they can understand what is said to them in a rather low tone of voice. Each ear should be tried, while the other is stopped by the finger. I do not say that children are never guilty of in-attention, especially to that which they do not particularly wish to hear; but I do say that very many children are blamed and punished for inattention when they really do not hear. And there is nothing at once more cruel and more hurtful to the character of children than to find fault with for what is really their misfortune. Three things should be remembered here: 1. That slight degrees of deafness, often lasting only for a time, are very common among children, especially during or after colds. 2. That a slight deafness, which does not prevent a person from hearing when he is expecting to be spoken to, will make him very dull to what he is not expecting; and, 3. That there is a kind of deafness in which a person can hear pretty well while listening, but is really very hard of hearing when not listening.

Negro Jesters.
A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial has been in the Red River country, where the black population so largely preponderates, and the jurores are selected from races. He says: "I asked a white man who had considerable jury experience, how it worked." He said "it worked tolerably well after a fellow got used to it."
"Did it take much effort to get to it?" I asked.
"Yes, sir, you bet it was the confounded hardest thing to get used to ever you heard of. I haven't got used to the smell yet. Of a hot day in a close room with a lot of fat niggers sitting on the case, it's pre-tremely hard. But we have to submit, if some of us white people didn't go on the jury it would be all niggers, and that would be ruin."
"How are the juries divided?" I asked.
"Oh, just as it happens, so there is some of each race on every jury.
Sometimes there's only two niggers, sometimes four, sometimes six, and sometimes ten."
"How are they about agreeing upon verdicts?"
"They are better than the whites."

The niggers never hang a jury.
When I am on a jury with them, and there is an account, for instance, I just figure up the amount, and says: "Boys, here, Jones owes Smith so much and so much, giving the figures, and Smith owes Jones so much, and so much, giving figures, which leaves Jones behind with Smith, and that's what we must render judgment for." They all agree to it, although they don't know any more about figures than a dog does about theology."
"I'll say this for the niggers," he continued; "they are not stubborn on a jury at all; but as far as my experience goes, they are always anxious to do the right thing between man and man."
"When their own color is involved, how is it?" I asked.
"Just the same. They do not shield their own people. They'll hang a nigger for murder just as they will a white man, and good deal quicker. Sometimes I think they are a little too hard on their own race. But I suppose they fear we will charge them with partiality. On the whole, a nigger makes a pretty fair jurymen."
"Was there no great opposition to his serving in that capacity?"
"Oh, yes, thunder was to pay for a while. White men said they would die first, and all that, but they had to swallow the dose, and have now got used to it. There is nothing like being used to anything, is there?"

It is understood that the autobiography which Mr. Mill has left behind him, with instructions for its immediate publication, is comprised within very narrow limits, and will make a volume not much larger than his essay on "Liberty." Within about the same space Gibbon compressed what a good critic has pronounced one of the most fascinating autobiographies in the language; and the worth of Mr. Mill's sketch of his own life will not depend for its interest and permanent value upon its length.

As Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Bexar County, in pursuance to the call for the Republican State Convention...

Western Texas.

During the past thirty years Texas has made great strides forward in the path of civilized progress...

Our great drawbacks have been slavery and the civil war which grew out of it...

The sources of our prospective wealth are to be found in the immense herds of stock that swarm over the limitless prairies...

But more recently men of enterprise have become alive to these neglected resources, and under a wise and judicious system of legislation they may be converted into money with which towns, villages, railroads and manufacturing establishments may be built up.

In many countries it is only the middle and upper classes that can afford to eat meat every day in the week. Here in Western Texas it is, so to speak, a drug in the market.

If a recent representation in the last Legislature had not deprived us, for perhaps years to come, of the benefits of railroad transportation we might enjoy now the most brilliant prospects.

Our stock drivers take the cattle to Kansas. The money expended in the trip is disbursed all along the road for the special benefit of other sections of the country.

When we reflect on the great number of articles which we import and for which we pay with so much hard money it would seem as if the spirit of "Sleepy Hollow" pervaded the land.

Cannot our mills find wheat enough in Texas to convert into the staff of life to satisfy the wants of the people? There is no difficulty in raising the finest breeds of hogs yet our stores are filled with imported ham and bacon.

It is to be hoped that the next Legislature will remove the stain of repudiation from our constitution, encourage immigration, free schools, take effective measures to protect life and property and then a fertilizing stream of accumulating capital and increasing labor will enable our State stand side by side with her sister States in all those qualifications which distinguish a civilized and progressive commonwealth.

According to the latest advices from Washington it appears that the Governor will carry his point as to the release of Santana and Big Trees. The Governor was willing to release them provided the tribes to which these murderers belong are deprived of their arms and horses.

THE wickedest woman lives in Oaklough, Wisconsin. She has a fine figure, but she attires herself so modestly, and conducts herself with such propriety, when she thinks it pays to do so, that she we may say she wins all hearts.

WALTER SAVANOR LARSON related how he once met Napoleon walking in the garden of the Tuileries, and added, in characteristic Landor style, "The fellow looked at me so insolently that if I had not had a lady on my arm I should have knocked him down."

Foreign Intelligence.

MADRID, July 12.—O'Reilly is at large in Madrid under British guarantees. The defeat of the Government troops under General Cabrera, by Carlists, commanded by Sabido, is attributed to a lack of discipline in the Republican forces.

MADISON, July 12.—Advices were received here from Carlist sources stating that the insurgent Chief, Bearnote, with 500 men, including 55 cavalry, had entered Old Castle, where he is organizing a string of Carlists.

MADRID, July 12.—The Minister of War in the Cortes confirmed the defeat of the Republicans near Rejala, and the death of the Commander, Cabrinete. He also confirmed the report of the Internationalist congress in Alcoy.

MADRID, July 12.—There was serious trouble in Malaga yesterday while the bull fight was in progress. The people of that city rose against the mimic apostle and many excesses occurred.
