"A SOWER WENT FORTH TO SOW."
His eyes were wild with weep;
He trod the furrows beneath his feet,
Nor felt the perfume, warm and sweet,
That prayed for pity everywhere.
He came to a field that was harrowed
By man, and he heaved a loud wail,
He shook the seed that he carried
Over that brown and bladeless place.
He shook it, as God shakes hail
Over a doomed land,
When lightnings interlace
The sky and the earth, and his wail
Of love is a thunder-fall.
Thus did that sower sow:
His seed was human blood,
And tears of women and men,
And I, who near him stood,
Said: When the crop comes, then
There will be sowing and sifting,
And souls to hell are flying,
And a woe that is worse than woe.
II.
It was an autumn day
When next I went that way,
And what, think you, did I see?
What was it that I heard?
The song of a sweet-voiced bird?
Nay—but the song of man,
Through-thrilled with praising prayer!
Of all those voices not any
Was sad of memory.
And a seed of sunlight sowed,
And a golden harvest glowed!
On my face I fell down there:
I hid my weeping eyes.
I said: O Lord, Thou art wise!
And I thank Thee again and again,
For the sower whose name is Pain.
— "The Old Cabaret," Scriber's for August.

The Morals of Journalism.
In the discussion of journalism which have been started by editorial conventions and the establishment of chairs of journalism in one or two academic institutions, it is well not to forget the matter of morals. A great deal of indignation has been meted out to those presses which publish quick advertisements, calculated to encourage vice and crime. In this thing, a goat is strained at that a camel may be swallowed; for, almost without exception, the papers which denounce and refuse to publish these advertisements, take endless pains to spread before their readers the details of the crimes which the advertisements are supposed to engender or encourage. Murders, suicides, seductions, adulteries, burglaries, thefts, scandals—all disagreeable and disgraceful things—detailed histories of events which appeal to prurient tastes and a morbid desire for coarse and brutal excitements—are not these the leading material of a great multitude of our daily papers? We may be mistaken, but we believe that there is no department of the world's news given with such exhaustive particularity as that which relates to vice and crime. If this be doubted, let the first paper at hand be taken up, and the fact will, we think, be determined as we apprehend it. We know that in many papers the remedial agencies of society—the churches, schools, social conventions—private and organized charities—beg for space that is freely accorded to the record of a petty thief or an unfaithful husband or wife. That which will make a spicy paragraph is chosen before that which will make a healthy one.
Not this is all. The crimes which are thus spread before the public for its daily food are often treated like anything but crimes. Some of our papers have a way of doing up their columns of local crime as if it were all a joke. The writer makes an ingenious jest of everything he is called upon to notice. The poor woman who is lost to virtue and society, with all within them—and before them, furnish grateful themes for the reporter's careless pleasantries. Their arraignment, their trial, sentence, their appearance, their words, are chronicled in unfeeling slang, with the intent to excite laughter. That which to a good man or woman is infinitely pathetic made to appear a matter to be laughed at, or to be passed over on account. A case of infidelity in the marriage relation, involving the destruction of the peace of families, the disgrace of children, and the irremediable shame of the parties primarily concerned, comes to us labeled: "rich developments." The higher the life involved and the purer the reputation, the "richer" the "developments" always. Nothing pleases a clergyman is the best, next a lay member, and then any man or woman who may be in a high social position. "Crime in high life" is a particularly grateful dish for those to serve up who cater for the prurient public. It is impossible not to conclude that the men who write these items and articles delight in them, and that the men who publish them regard them only with relation to their mercantile value. We know nothing more heartless than the way in which originals and crime are treated by a portion of the daily press, and nothing more demoralizing to the public and to those who are guilty of trifling with the honor of the press than the reporter's pen. It is a bad, bad business, it is an evil which every paper claiming to be respectable ought to cut up, root and branch. So long as crime is treated lightly it is encouraged. So long, too, as the editing, informing, remedial and purifying agencies of the world are subordinated in the public notice to the records of vice and crime, simply because they are less startling or spicy, it is nonsense to talk about quick advertisements, and a parade of mock virtue which deserves both to be pitied and laughed at.

The daily paper has now become a visitor in every family of ordinary intelligence. It has become the daily food of children and youth all over our country, and it ought never to hold a record which would naturally leave an unwholesome effect upon their minds. If crime is recorded, it should be recorded as crime, and with a conscientious exclusion of all details that the editor would exclude where he called upon to tell the story to his boy upon his knee, or to his grown-up daughter sitting at his side. The way in which nastiness and beastliness are advertised in criminal reports is abominable. It is not necessary; it is not on any account desirable. A thousand things of greater moment and of sweeter import pass unnoticed by the press every day. The apology that the press must be exact, impartial, faithful, literal, etc., is a shabby one. A press is never impartial, when, by its predominance it gives to crime in its reports, it conveys the impression that crime is the most important thing to be reported, when, in truth, it is the least important. Its records do not hinder crime, do not nourish virtue, do not advance intelligence, do not purify youth, do not build up the best interests of society; and the absorption of the columns of the public press by them is a stupendous moral nuisance that ought to be abated.
We do not expect the press to be very much in advance of the people, either in morality or intelligence. It is quite as much the outgrowth as the leader of our civilization, but it ought to be an emanation from the best American spirit and culture and not the worst. We shall have, probably, so long as crime exists, professional scavengers who follow in its wake to glean and gorge its uncleanness. We have such now, and a beastly brood who glean after them now; but why a press claiming to be respectable should deem it its duty to assist in their dirty work surpasses our comprehension. We repeat—it is not necessary; it is not on any account desirable.—Dr. J. G. Holland, Scriber's for August.

KERRYVILLE, Kerr Co., Texas,
July 21st, 1873.
Editor San Antonio Express:
I see by your last Weekly issue some comments which reflect unfavorably upon the citizens of Kerr county.
The article to which I refer speaks of our trouble as "probably resolving itself into a neighborhood quarrel," like those which so frequently prevail in different parts of the State.
Knowing your desire to do justice to this and all other communities, I ask the privilege of correcting the above statements. These statements are incorrect; as far as I am able to learn the neighbors are friendly and the best of feeling exists. The farmers, stock-raisers, and in fact every citizen of the county, are alike firmly resolved to bring these villains to justice in some manner, and clear the county of them.
As yet none have been arrested or held of, who have proved to have been residents of Kerr county. Since I wrote you last in regard to this affair there has been something more of interest. The boy Baker, who is still confined in jail at this place, admitted that he knew where the gold taken from Mr. Madison (that part which bore Madison's name upon it) was buried, and offered to show the Sheriff where the gold was secreted, some Indian marks, which were used by the band. He said that they were hidden in a cave near Buffalo Creek.
Last Wednesday the Sheriff and deputies took Baker from the jail and proceeded to the place designated by the latter, but they did not succeed in finding any of the coin. The amount of coin taken from the old man Madison was $300 in gold and silver.
It was believed by the parties who took Baker to this place, that the coin had been secreted there as claimed by Baker, but removed by other members of the band. They succeeded in finding one mark but that was not of an Indian character.
Last Friday a party of suspicious looking characters (four men and two women) passed through Kerrville travelling in the direction of the "Headquarters." A few hours after the Sheriff of Mason county accompanied by several deputies arrived at this place. He had been following them for some time. With

The Daily Express

Official Journal of the United States... OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF BEXAR COUNTY... A. SIMKING & CO., Publishers.

TUESDAY, JULY 29, 1873.

To the Republicans of Bexar County... At Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Bexar County...

Representation... A correspondent from Gillespie county has the following to say in reference to the basis of representation in the Dallas Convention...

Look at the number of delegates allowed from this section, as published by the Committee. The census of 1870 gives in Mason county 678 population, and it is to send two delegates...

Again Barnett with 3688,—larger than El Paso, Mason or Llano, is allowed only two votes. Kendall county (1536 population) gets one vote...

They might submit, but there would be such unfairness that they might condemn the Convention...

Take for example our neighbors of Kerr and Medina. In a Convention where one delegate would be allowed for every 500 population...

Now why not adopt the just rule of having a Republican Convention represent Republicans only? This can be done by taking as a basis...

The complaints of our correspondent are well founded. No attention seems to have been paid to the actual number of voters in the different counties.

to two votes, while Gillespie with 3506 inhabitants would only have one or just as many as Kimball county with its 72 inhabitants.

The proper way to do is for the different counties to elect as many delegates as they are entitled to, and see to it that a just representation is allowed them at the Dallas Convention.

Dough-faced Baker. Our German translations are a perpetual source of annoyance to the Mercury. For the 5th or 6th time he has mendaciously stated that, as usual, the Express had for its editorial a translation from the Freie Presse.

Cathedral on the height of Mount Marso, overlooking Paris, passed. The Assembly to-day, after an exciting debate, in the course of which much violent religious partisanship was shown, adjourned till Friday next.

Judge Maney. Judge Henry Maney is enjoying the hospitality of Sheriff Ziemle, detained as a prisoner by an edict of the Supreme court, and the honorable members of that high tribunal have gone fishing.

We hear that the Supreme court entered an order directing the sheriff to return the writs of arrest against Judge Maney, unexecuted. If this is the case, then we understand that our Supreme Judges are not amenable to the law, for if they can resist arrest for contempt, they can resist arrest for any other offense.

A fair investigation will show who is wrong and the attempt on the part of the organ of the ring to prejudice the case in the public mind is unfair and unmanly.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

ALEX. E. SWERT, Notary Public, Express Office... There is another circus heading this way. Noyes will have competition.

The State and County are suing for back taxes for 1873. There is no alternative but to "shut out."

THE ONLY NEWS from the Mexican frontiers is that the Kickapoo have sent their women and children over the Santa Mountains, where they are not up to come home missing.

A chimney on fire on the other side of the San Pedro created a sensation for a while yesterday morning. Like a prominent candidate for the office of District Clerk it was put out.

Twenty-two marriage licenses have been issued from the office of the County Clerk during the past month, which goes to show that a great deal of marrying is going on in a quiet way.

An ex-colored preacher by the name of Nelson, was found a raving maniac and wandering around the premises of Mr. Max Aze, on the Lees.

He was promptly arrested and brought to his room in the County Jail and will probably go to the asylum at Austin.

Laughter Leads a new Chorus To beauty, when it discloses a pretty set of teeth. Whiteness, when nature has supplied this element of loveliness, may be retained through life, by using fragrant Sorodent.

After a hard day's work no matter whether it has been manual or brain work, there is nothing so refreshing to body and mind as the enjoyment of pleasant society.

Registration began yesterday and will continue for four days. It is of no use to be reminding people of the necessity of registration. It is the duty of every citizen to register, if he expects to take part in the election.

WHAT does the custom of calling bar-rooms in front of the door mean? We believe, it is generally supposed to bring good luck. The Scripture says that it is a horse there is safety and perhaps this tradition is at the bottom of it.

Tax late Legislature amended the probate law, so that it is impossible for a Deputy to legally approve bonds or do many other things in the probate line as has heretofore been customary.

Now that the dog days approach, politics become lively. In the bar rooms lengthy discussions take place on the success of this or that candidate. Men are lead of into dark alleys and unheard of things are whispered into their ears.

It is believed since a recent meeting of the Democracy, that Hiram Mitchell's chances for the Democracy's nomination are in the ascendancy, as two powerful opponents openly declared their intention of not opposing him, it can be should seek it. This view of the situation is based on the supposition that the present incumbent is not a rival candidate for nomination by the same party.

A General Court Martial will convene at San Antonio, Texas, on Thursday, the 24th day of July, 1873, at 11 o'clock A. M., or as soon thereafter as practicable, for the trial of such persons as may be properly brought before it.

RECOMMENDATION.—Matilda Mitchell behaved so eccentric at a fund-raising for the police man in attendance was obliged to come to the harsh conclusion that she was under the influence of intoxicating fluids. It was very plain from the evidence of the shocked policeman that if she was not drunk, she ought to have been, and whereas she acknowledged it herself, she was fined.

WILLIAM WALKER, who was not killed in Nicaragua, made an affidavit against a colored friend, who had spoken slightingly of the maternal ancestor, and made himself otherwise unpopular with Walker, by alleging his other names which were profane and vulgar. He notified a long and angry tale, summoned witnesses in vast numbers. But, alas! when it came to trial it became evident, even to the policeman, that Walker lied like the mischief and that he had not taken the usual precaution in training his witnesses, who were fearfully expert, like they had never been in a court of justice before. After they had lied worse than a candidate for office, his Honor administered the complainant a severe rebuke for his culpability, and commanded him to be taken home.

THE making of affidavits is a source of frequent annoyance, and should be published accordingly, but the trouble is that the law of the State places it in the hands of litigating parties, without any check of disinterested parties, without any risk of punishment whatever.

The fall trade has already opened brisk. A gentleman from the country stopped in a wholesale establishment yesterday morning and borrowed a paper collar. This is the second case of the kind. Unless there is a change for the better the present man must suspend payment.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—Last week a man named Chas. Schaefer came to San Antonio to dispose of a load of mules, which is used for making mattresses. On last Thursday about 14 miles from San Antonio on the Sulphur Springs road in the latter part of the afternoon about sundown, he was halted by three men. One of these rode up to him and with presented revolver demanded his money. Schaefer denied having any, but the man insisted that he had, in such an emphatic and convincing manner that he handed over about one hundred and thirty dollars. After taking the money, the three rode off in the direction of San Antonio.

The robbery was committed by one American and two Mexicans, so the plundered man says. He had the misfortune to lose his mules subsequently and is probably now camped near where the robbery took place, where our informant saw him.
