ROOFS AND WINDOWS INSTALLED....A portion of the Agriculture Housing Complex on East Sixth Street in Muleshoe is roofed and windows have been installed. Component Parts of Clovis is providing the trusses and materials which are being installed by Holloway Construction of Melrose. Recent rains have slowed the project very little, and so far, construction is running 'just about on time.'

Young Demos Will Organize Here Thursday

Bailey County Democratic Chariman Stan Black said an organizational meeting for Young Democrats will be conducted Thursday (tonight) at 8 p.m. at the XIT Restaurant.

All Young Democrats between the ages of 14-35 are encouraged to be at the charter meeting.

He said, "The Young Democratic Clubs of Texas is a youth caucus within the Texas Democratic Party that applies pressure for change and reform, provides a continuing recruiting medium and serves as an organizational tool for entry into politics."

He also said that members of the Young Democrats have managed extensive voter registration drives, have lobbied in support of various issues of national interest, have attended campaign schools, participated in party organizations from the precinct to national levels and many other activities, including seeking and holding offices themselves. He has urged all interested Young Democrats to attend the meeting tonight.

Rand, Hodnett To Participate In Football

Albert Rand and Bill Hodnett, two football standouts last season at Three Way High School, have been selected to play in the Texas Small School all-star game July 22 at Tarleton State University, Stephenville.

Rand was a high school all-America and accounted for a total of 3,928 yards in his two year football career. He scored 65 touchdowns. Hodnett was also selected to the all-America squad, and tallied 161 tackles and 63 assists the last two years.

The game is a part of the annual Texas Small School Coaches Association, which gets underway July 19 when about 100 coaches from throughout the state will register in TSU's Wisdom Gymnasium.

The clinic is being sponsored by the Stephenville Chamber of Commerce.

The players register July 16 and begin workouts on the following day. The six-man football teams will have 19 players each on their roster and the basketball teams will suit up 12.

Activities are planned throughout the week and include golf, fishing and bowling tournaments, a picnic at city park and a Queen's contest. The week will be capped Saturday, July 22, with the all-star basketball game at 2 p.m. in Wisdom Gym, followed at 8 p.m. by the football game at TSU's Memorial Stadium.

One theory which makes for good talking and listening in the hot Texas sun is that Guffee has discovered an outlaw's nest which many Lamb County historians have known about for years, but which has never been found.

Lamb County historical records reveal that an outlaw's hideout existed somewhere in the sandhills where the Wayland archaeological crew is digging. Outlaws on the run used it as a stop-over station for what today's army would call a "little R and R"---relaxation and recreation. If so, the stone corral could have been used for tethering the horses while they rested, too!

Why the speculation on the outlaw hideout? Mostly, because it is good for a laugh or two while the men sweat and, perhaps, because it helps pass the time in a very tedious occupation.

But there are other reasons, said Guffee who gets excited about his work. "We're finding poker chips."

Three of his helpers, Eddie, Jr., Doug Boyd, and Roy Trotter, turned up five-dollar, and one-dollar poker chips. In addition, tobacco ends are in what appears to be a dug-out, or structure of some kind.

"We've already got our money back," exclaimed Guffee, pointing to a corked bottle only half-excavated. In one piece, the remaining contents of the bottle has long since crystallized. It is one of two bottles found intact.

Guffee added that the bottle seems stop at the neck, indicating that they predate this century. Again, everything so far stays in the 1870s setting.

Monthly Sudan Music Festival Slated Saturday

At 7 p.m. on Saturday, June 24, all roads will lead to the Sudan School cafeteria for the monthly Sudan Music Festival, sponsored by the Sudan Fire Department and Sudan Lions Club.

They promise stage bands, country 'n' western, fiddle playing, gospel music and will feature Sudan's own "Last of a Kind."

A concession stand will be operated by the Sudan Baseball Association and there is no charge to attend the festival.

Groups wishing to sign-up to perform at the festival are asked to call 227-2230 or 227-2024.

One facility will house up to twelve adult residents, the other will house up to twelve adolescent residents. Each house will have a full time live-in manager and a relief manager for weekends.

Other service units of the MH/MR Center will be involved with residents as planned on an individual basis to provide such other services as individual or group therapy, medication, job placement assistance, music therapy, occupational therapy, and recreational therapy.

All senior citizens interested in moving to the new senior citizen housing complex when it is completed need to get their name into either a member of the Housing Authority Board or Mrs. Buck Creamer, said board Chairman Harmon Elliott.

Although preliminary work on the project continues, Elliott said one of the prerequisites is to find out how many people would like to live in the housing project when it is completed.

Civic Center Dedication Is Delayed

Bailey County Judge Glen Williams announced early this week that the grand opening and dedication for the Bailey County Exhibition Center and Coliseum has been delayed.

He said, "We regretfully announce that it has become necessary to cancel the grand opening and dedication ceremony which was scheduled for July 4. These activities will be rescheduled for the earliest possible date."

The judge explained that the recent rain, together with contract modifications, have delayed the paving work so that it will be impossible to have the center finished by that time. "With the paving work in progress, it is not likely that there would be sufficient parking area available, and it would be too hazardous for a large crowd, with children, to be in and around the building," he commented.

Citing the considerable amount of work to be done on the building before it is completed, Judge Williams said, "We are extremely sorry and we apologize for the confusion and inconvenience that our previous announcement may have caused. But it is a matter over which we have not had full control."

people have signed up at this time, he reminded that in most cities where the project has been built, it was not large enough when completed, and the waiting list to live in senior citizen housing is very long.

In most places, he said, additional housing is being constructed or waiting to be constructed to take care of all the people who want to live in them. "It could be a great advantage to go ahead and sign up," said the chairman, "as those persons who have signed up first will have a priority when the complex is completed."

He also said that persons who sign up at this time, are not obligating themselves to anything when the complex is completed. If they change their mind, the name will just be removed from the list.

Eligibility for funding from the federal government is based on the number of people in a community who have indicated they would like to live in that type complex, he stated, and it is extremely important for such persons to identify themselves to the Housing Authority Board as soon as possible.

Elliott said the cost of living in the new complex will be based on each individual's income and there will be no utility bills to pay. (As an example: on an income of $200 each month, it would cost approximately $45-50, with no utility bills.) Also eliminated would be maintenance or repair problems to the housing, as they would be taken care of, as would be yard and lawn work. There will be no taxes or insurance, as these would also be paid. The renter would pay their own telephone bill. There will be home delivery of mail.

"We are progressing as fast as we can with the ground work for the senior citizen housing," said Elliott. He said he and other businessmen are presently driving around Muleshoe in an attempt to find a suitable location for the housing.

Hopefully, he said, it will be located to fit the needs of the senior citizens, where it will be comfortable and convenient to the hospital, churches and stores. They are hampered in the search for a location by federal flood zone regulations, but hope to find a location in the near future.

Beef Import Study Shows Benefits

Senator Lloyd Bentsen on Tuesday released a study by the Library of Congress which concludes that his counter-cyclical beef imports bill would provide "some long term benefits to both cattle producers and consumers."

The study concludes that the legislation would not have a "large impact" in the short term.

Bentsen released the study during a colloquy on the Senate floor with other Senators who oppose the President's recent decision to increase the beef import quota.

"I have introduced legislation to put our policies back on a fair and honest course which is beneficial to both consumers and producers. This legislation easily passed the Senate but is now bottled up in the House by Administration opposition," Bentsen said.

"Those opposing this bill have said that it is inflationary, that it restricts imports. Those people have not done their homework. I have in my hand a detailed study by the Library of Congress which concludes that the counter-cyclical import formula I propose would provide benefits to both cattle producers and consumers over the long term. The study is based on U.S. Department of Agriculture figures and U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates."

The analysis shows that, through 1984, the Bentsen Beef Imports Bill would mean more imports and lower retail prices than the formula in existing law. From 1985 through '87 the imports would decrease and prices would rise.

The Library of Congress study concluded that the bill "would mollify some of the effects of the cattle cycle, providing some long term benefits to both cattle producers and consumers."

The counter-cyclical features in the Bentsen bill permits imports to increase when domestic production decreases and it would cause imports to decrease at a time of domestic over-production. The current import formula has just the reverse effect.

"There is an overwhelming preponderance of hard evidence from all sources that my bill will vastly improve the current meat import law, with significant benefits to both producers and consumers," Senator Bentsen said.

April issue of Texas Medicine, the Texas Medical Association's monthly journal, points out that only five percent of those over age 65 are in institutions but that much of the research and stereotypes of old people come from this group.

Richard Campbell, Ph.D., a Houston pastor, aimed his study in another direction. Most of the 625 old people surveyed nationwide were women in their 70s, living with a spouse, still owned their own homes, continued to have frequent social contacts, and lived on less than $12,000 yearly. About a third of those in their 70s lived on less than $4,000 annually.

Income and health, two major problems of the aged, influence whether old people are active or have a passive outlook on life. About 42 percent of the old people with poor health and low income said their lives were completed and they were not seeking any more goals. Only 27 percent of those with good health and adequate income said the same thing.

Attitudes about health also are important. A majority of old people see themselves as having fair health. A Harris poll shows less than one-fourth of old people think their health is a problem.

Health and income help determine how well old people handle other possible problems. Campbell found that men and women have different responses to negative and positive aspects of life. He says that generally for people in their 70s:

---Poor health can be more of a stress for women than men;

---Low income can be more of a stress for men than women;

---Excellent health can be a stress for men. Campbell theo-retes good health may mean an elderly man still could be working and productive but had to retire. This conflict can create guilt, anger and frustration. An old man in poor health may be unable to work so there would be no conflict;

---Renting a home can be a stress for women, possibly because it is often associated with the loss of a husband who provided for things such as housing;

---Renting a home can be a positive factor for men, possibly because they are freed from maintenance problems;

---Living alone can be a stress for women but living with others can be a stress for men.

When the new law goes into effect next year that pushes mandatory retirement back to age 70 for most people and as more of the population gets older, some stresses may be partially relieved. Longer working time means more money and prolonged independence. More old people means increased services for them. The Texas Medical Association says a lot needs to be done now to change attitudes that hold back old people. Studies show they are not the frail, isolated, helpless group people imagine them to be. Most need only a little assistance, if any, in order to be active, independent and interested in life.

Recent heavy rains in the Texas Panhandle has solved the dry lake problems at Buffalo Lake National Wildlife Refuge near Umbarger in Randall county and water sports are again available to area residents.

"The lake now has 17 feet of water at the dam which is more than we have had in 17 years," said Larry Wynn, refuge manager.

"We just received 5,000 largemouth bass from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and it is hoped that we can get some catfish from the Tishomingo hatchery in Oklahoma soon," Wynn continued.

The 7,664-acre refuge now has 1,200 acres of surface water and all but one of the picnic tables are available to campers and picnickers. Overnight camping is permitted at the designated campsites and there is no permit required by the public upon entering the refuge.

Boating and water skiing is permitted provided all state and federal water safety regulations are observed. Skiers are required to wear a personal flotation device at all times and there must be two persons in the boat pulling a skier—one to operate the boat and one to observe the skier.

Both boaters and skiers must use only those areas designated by buoy lines. Boaters are asked to avoid disturbance of fishermen or swimmers in the lake.

Buffalo lake is considered by many to be one of the best areas to observe waterfowl and other water birds with over 275 species spotted on the refuge since The Department of Interior started managing the area in 1958.

Sightseeing, nature observation, photography, and hiking are permitted except where restricted by appropriate signs. The south end of the refuge is closed to vehicular traffic and the same area is closed to all activity during waterfowl use from November through Feb.

More information is available by writing Buffalo Lake Refuge, P.O. Box 228, Umbarger, Texas, 79091 or by calling 806-499-3382.

To qualify, a breeder must have been actively involved in Angus Herd Improvement Records. The top cows in his herd are identified from these records. In summary, the qualifying cows must produce a calf at a young age and continue to wean a heavy calf on an average of 12 months. Each calf must have a weaning weight ratio of 105 or higher with at least 10 herdamated evaluated each year. A minimum production of three calves is required for a cow to be listed in the report.

In the first Pathfinder Report, 1,129 cows are listed. That represents less than one-half of one percent of the 238,691 head reviewed for the first publication, according to a spokesman.

City Airport Turn Point For Gliders

Muleshoe's airport has been selected as one of the turnpoints in the 1-26 National Soaring Championships. That means that during the contest held at Hobbs June 21-30 the glider pilots may circle your field before proceeding on to the next turnpoint.

The soaring contest is principally a speed contest between points. These may be a triangle, an out and return, or a distance within a prescribed area. The 1-26 contest is a one design contest, each pilot flying the same type of ship with identical performance. Therefore, it is a true test of pilot skill rather than how much a person can spend on new equipment and technical advances. This may be the only contest in the world where team flying is permitted. That is where two or more pilots may pilot the same plane alternately.

There are 50 entries from throughout the U.S. competing on an amateur basis where the satisfaction of winning or making a good showing is their only reward other than a trophy. The contest site is at Hobbs Industrial Air Park and is open to the public at no charge. The public may view the planes, talk with pilots and crews, the most interesting times are at launch generally about noon each day where all the planes are launched on a minute and then their return between 4 and 5 p.m. they are swooping across the field in breathtaking finishes.

Combined Efforts Ease Pig Expense

The star of swine farrowing cooperatives and corporations may be rising because of farmer restrictions in time, money and space.

Glenn Grimes, extension livestock marketing specialist at the University of Missouri, believes that farmers interested in producing young pigs for feeding out could, by combining efforts, farrow large numbers of feeder pigs without large individual investments of time and money.

Grimes is scheduled to address Texas Tech University's 26th annual Swine Short Course on June 29. The short course will be held at the Farmer's Co-Op Complex, 3800 South-east Drive, Lubbock, beginning at 8:30 a.m. with registration. Grimes defined a feeder-pig-farrowing corporation as a "large confinement unit producing feeder pigs for the farmer's jointly owning it."

The farmers generally interested in participating in such feeder pig-producing organizations are grain-producing farmers interested in a new source of feeder pigs and who lack facilities or time to produce their own; tenant farmers or young, beginning farmers who lack the capital to invest; and older farmers who want to avoid the labor of farrowing feeder pigs.

Grimes said some of the chief advantages are efficiency in the use of capital, labor and management, and market price advantages in buying and selling.

The disadvantages, he said, are in risk of disease, high-risk capital requirements and the need for constant management.

Should young pig production move in the direction of farmer cooperatives or even corporations with absentee owners, Grimes said, several major changes could be made in the hog industry.

He foresaw a reduction in the importance of terminals, auctions and local markets, as the majority of sales would be made direct to packers.

Cash flow and income in the cooperatives would be affected by fluctuations in hog and feed prices to a larger extent than the small operations, he said.

Patterns in prices and price reporting would also be changed considerably with a trend toward cooperative farrowing operations.

Grimes will discuss other changes in the future for the swine market at the short course.

A double row of the Venise lace formed a center panel down the front of the gown and encircled the skirt forming a flounce hemline. Her veil featured a camelot capulet crown covered in Venise lace motifs. The walking length veil was completely edged in scalloped valentine lace and was sprinkled with lace motifs.

Her cathedral length veiling was caught to a Camelot capulet cap which was covered in silk Venise lace. The entire veil was edged in the lace with motifs being sprinkled over the veiling.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Democratic gubernatorial nominee John Hill called major state agency heads together to urge them to slash spending wherever possible and to hold a firm line on new budgets.

Hill's action, as a nominee still facing November opposition, was admittedly unprecedented. And it brought a prompt reprimand from his Republican opponent, Bill Clements, who chided Hill for trying to take over as governor before his election.

But both Hill and Clements shared the view that the spiral of appropriations increases must cease.

"Never before has a Texas legislature faced a stronger demand for stopping government growth," said Hill, noting a California vote to cut property taxes.

"You and I have a choice of fighting those demands and resisting budget cutbacks or accepting our responsibilities and cutting our budgets ourselves," Hill told the agency heads. "It's time for us to take our medicine."

Hill said governmental agencies must get accustomed to the idea of operating with less than they have been used to having. He said he wants Texas to become a model for the nation in innovation and courage in the area of governmental economics.

He made clear, however, he stands by his commitments to a billion dollars worth of increased aid to education, including higher teacher salaries, property tax reform, elimination of the sales tax on utility bills and property tax relief for the elderly, farmers and ranchers.

Cutoff Studied

Don't be surprised if an unseen hand—or device—cuts off your air conditioner one of these days.

At least two Texas utility companies told Public Utility Commission examiners they are looking into possibility of remote control equipment to allow them to switch off electrical appliances during peak use periods.

Use of the load management equipment is still far down the road, but various devices are being evaluated. Purpose of the equipment (still too costly for practicality) is to reduce consumption during peak hours and, thus, to help stabilize rates by making new plants unnecessary. One system would turn off appliances for a few minutes, at different times for different areas of a city.

PUC is examining proposals to conserve energy and lower cost of electricity. A series of hearings is under way.

Courts Speak

The Court of Civil Appeals heard oral arguments in a far-reaching case involving the authority of the attorney general to contest actions by state agencies which he believes are not in the public interest.

The Court of Criminal Appeals upheld the death penalty conviction of a Harris County man accused of beating an 81-year-old widow to death. Texas Supreme Court overturned an intermediate court and concluded the state cannot appeal a judgment in a juvenile proceeding which is civil, not criminal, in nature.

A Houston man won a reversal of a life sentence for aggravated robbery due to improper jury instructions.

The Court of Criminal Appeals upheld a sexual abuse conviction of a Cass County man.

The Supreme Court held two Garland men are entitled to trial of their suit challenging city of Garland contributions to the Chamber of Commerce.

AG Opinions

A drainage project to be constructed by an entity other than the Harris County Flood Control District is not exempted from a requirement that Texas Water Commission approve its plans though they already have district approval, Attorney General John Hill concluded.

In other recent opinions, Hill determined:

Home rule cities shall follow their own charter provisions on construction bonds in event they conflict with state statutes.

A county tax assessor-collector is required to deposit tax funds in his possession in the county depository pending transfer of the money to the county treasurer.

A justice of the peace cannot maintain his office in an adjoining precinct to his own.

Harris County must require a performance bond on all public works contracts incident to construction of roads, bridges or drainage facilities where amounts exceed $1,000.

Wilson Funeral Held Recently At Donna, Tex.

Funeral services for Murl T. Wilson, former Muleshoe business man and community leader, were held Thursday, June 8, in First Baptist Church, Donna, Texas. Wilson had recently moved from Port Aransas. He was born February 20, 1907 in Temple, Okla. He is survived by his wife, Nola, a son, Murl T. Wilson of Riverdale, Md., three sisters, three grandchildren, and two great grandchildren. He was preceded in death, in February of 1977, by one son, Bill, who was also in business in Muleshoe.

While in Muleshoe, Wilson owned and operated Remund-Wilson Dry Goods, and later Wilson Printing Company. During this time, he was active in church and community work. He was president of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and served on the board of directors. Wilson was one of the members who started Trinity Baptist Church as a mission of First Baptist Church. He also served as chairman of the deacons and was Sunday School superintendent. Wilson moved to Altus, Okla. in the 1960s and operated Altus Printing Company until his retirement in 1976. From Altus he moved to Port Aransas for retirement.

Texas Doctors Improve Jail Care

The Texas Medical Association (TMA) has announced the beginning of a statewide effort to upgrade health care in jails. The association soon will begin seeking county jails willing to improve health care. "We hope that by working with local officials we can get rid of any instances of substandard conditions," said Mylie Durham Jr., M.D., TMA president.

Beginning in mid-July TMA will ask all Texas county sheriffs if they are interested in making their jails meet voluntary standards for minimum care set by the American Medical Association. In this year-long phase of this pilot program, TMA will select five jails to assist. Those jails able to meet the standards will receive certification from the AMA.

Standards include more than 80 things such as procedures for screening inmates for contagious disease, providing emergency medical care and helping addicts withdraw from drugs or alcohol.

To help jails meet these standards, TMA will supply advice and technical assistance such as helping sheriffs find a jail doctor. By July 1979 TMA hopes to have helped prepare five jails for accreditation visits.

The AMA, backed by some financial aid from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, is expanding its pilot program to include a total of 14 states and the District of Columbia. The AMA announced June 19, that Texas is one of 8 new states and the District of Columbia added to the program.

The largest this year has been an eight pounder. Channel catfish have been biting fair and crappie fishing is good. The water is clear.

Lake Theo--The lake has caught water and plenty of fishermen have been giving it a try. Fishing is fair for largemouth bass and catfish.

Lake Pauline--The lake is only one foot from the spillway level and in good condition. Fishing for channel catfish has been very good with many caught in the two to four pound class with several up to eight pounds. Bass fishing has been good for fish up to five pounds.

Lake Marvin--The water is overflowing the spillway and the lake is clear. Fishing has been good for spawning sunfish and small bass. Catfish are biting slow.

Rita Blanca--The lake is up three and a half feet and is muddy. Fishing for bass is very good. Most bass weigh near three pounds with a few at the five pound mark. Channel catfish are biting fair, but bullheads are biting good.

McClellan--The lake is near spillway level and muddy. Channel catfish are biting good with some weighing six to nine pounds. Fishing for largemouth bass is improving. Bass to three and a half pounds were caught last week. Several striped bass hybrids were caught. Crappie fishing has slowed since the rains. Both boat ramps can now be used.

Greenbelt--The lake is up three and a half feet and near the 1976 level. Some of all species are being caught including a fifteen pound northern pike. Bass fishing is good with one limit including a six and a half pounder. Three bass in the eight pound class have been caught this year. Walleye fishing is good as some are caught while trolling for white bass. White bass fishing is excellent. Crappie fishing is slow, but some have been weighing up to two pounds.

Copper Breaks--The lake is one foot from the spillway. Fishing is good for small bass and channel catfish. Bass averaging about one half pound along with similar sized catfish. Fishing for bullheads is good.

Mackenzie--The lake depth is 99.2 feet and covers 400 acres. Water temperature is 72 degrees F. at 6 feet. The lake is muddy. Crappie are biting with good strings being taken. Nice channel catfish are being caught in the upper end of the lake. Fishing for largemouth, smallmouth bass and walleye has slowed due to muddy water.

Lake Meredith--The lake is at the 86 foot level. A creel census conducted on June 4 showed that walleye, white bass, and white crappie are biting well. Largemouth and smallmouth bass fishing has slowed. Some excellent blue and channel catfish have been caught with one individual catching ten fish averaging 26 pounds and caught on rod and reel.

Good Farm Records Are Income Booster

Farmers and ranchers cannot survive today's high level of agricultural production without good records. They need a financial management plan. Such a plan can also increase their profit-making potential, believes an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Management of capital is vital to production efficiency and maximum profits," says Cecil Parker. Included in this management of finances are three key items—the financial statement, profit-loss statement and cash flow summaries.

The financial statement shows the farm's financial picture at a given time. This includes the present solvency of the operation and also a projection of future solvency. List all assets and liabilities. Use current, intermediate, and fixed or long-term groupings in defining assets and providing a realistic look at repayment requirements.

The profit-loss statement sums up income and expenses and the resulting net profit or loss during a given period, such as a crop year, points out Parker. Handle non-farming items separately. To obtain the operation's gain or loss, subtract net cash expenses from net cash income and adjust for changes in inventory and capital items. Comparing profit-loss statements for a period of years will show any progress or decline of the farming or ranching operation.

Cash flow summaries list all cash income and expenses.

They include family living expenses, money borrowed and debts paid. A monthly summary of these figures determines the flow of cash during the planning period. Cash flow summaries can help determine the time and amounts of credit needs and availability of repayment funds.

"Although some time is required to develop a sound financial management plan, the end result can be increased returns on capital," contends the economist.

"Agriculture 1978-style requires forward planning, keeping a close check on operations, and making adjustments as new situations and conditions arise. Increasing competition makes it more important than ever to produce on an efficient basis.

"Anyone in the farming and ranching business has got to have good records and accounts to make sound management decisions," emphasizes Parker. "Complete and accurate accounting of income and expenses can mean dollar savings in income tax management, business management and social security benefits."

The economist identifies several proper accounting procedures:

1. Record cash received from all sources related to farming or ranching. By proper identification, some of these receipts may be excluded from taxable income.

2. Record all annual operating expenses. A poor operating expense record may result in increased tax liability.

3. Record capital expenditures. Many of these assets may be subject to depreciation. This will also serve as a record of cost at time of sale.

"Not only do records and accounts increase management efficiency but they provide the only basis for making a cost analysis of the business and may be used to determine credit needs. Future business adjustments should be made only after carefully analyzing the financial and physical data from your records and accounts," contends Parker.

Farmers and ranchers can obtain more information on adequate farm and ranch records and accounts from any county Extension office.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek gives some more thought this week to the tax revolt, we think. Dear editor:

As everybody knows—even Washington columnists have caught on—the California tax revolt has sent shock waves across the land and plans for similar revolts are being talked up in practically every state.

But what is being overlooked is where, if property taxes are out by about 50 percent, the money is going to come from to operate the government in the fashion we have come to expect. Thinkers are bound to be racking their brains now to figure out a new source of tax revenue. While it may be true that the government that governs the least is the best, it is even truer that the government that does the most for the most with the most's own money stays in office the longest.

So I have figured out a new source of revenue, heretofore un-tapped. It is simple. Charge all office-holders office rent.

Take the U.S. Senate for example. It is now putting up a new office building for 50 of its members at a cost of 120 million dollars. That is 2.4 million dollars per office.

Now is a Senator thinks he needs a 2.4-million-dollar office, let him pay enough office rent out of his $57,000 a year salary to amortize the debt, the same as private citizens would have to do.

Use the same policy for every office-holder throughout the country. Not only have them pay rent, but put individual meters in their offices so they would have to pay their own utility bills. It must be hard for an office-holder to get very outraged at the high cost of utilities when somebody else is paying for his.

Or take the state and national capitol buildings themselves. Although none of them has been sold lately, at least if they have it was done after dark and does not show up on the deed records, the appraised value of them all must have doubled, tripled and quadrupled in recent years, yet we do not get a dime of taxes from any of them.

This is something to think about, but don't think about it too long. There may be something wrong with this whole idea, and I'd clear it up, except that I have run out of space, thank goodness. Yours faithfully, J.A.
