AT the Old Stand Bar Room on Wednesday night a stranger named Baker had his pose carved with a lemon peeler, because he struck a man by the name of Connor in the face, after a brief alterca tion. There were some proceedings before the Recorder, for which Baker stood the expense. We are told he is in the hospital having his olfactory organ repaired. Council says that Baker is a perfect afranger to him, but what we can bear of the condition of his nose, induces us to be-lieve that at last he has managed to scrape an nequalifunce with him.
