Speech of Gov. Davis.

Concluded.

He wished business men to caluly. consider what was meant by a con-stitutional convention, and to understand that it meant collision with the Federal government, and the undoing of everything that had been accomplished under the reconstruction measures. He did not think that business men were pre gared for a condition of things such as would inevitably result from the meeting of a constitutional conven-BUILDERS AND BUILDING tion.

The only matter to which he wished to ask attention was the school system provided by the Constitution, upon which the state had been readmitted to the Union with the express condition that this systen never should be altered or re-pealed. It was not saying too much to assert that the people of Galveston had it in their power to control the elections in the state, and they would be held responsible in a large measure, for the result. It was not reasonable to think that Republicans at Washington would grant favors to their enemies, and as Galveston intended to ask for tayors, he thought her business men should consider well what they were doing before placing them seives on the record.

He did not suppose that the success of the Democratic party would render secession imminent, but people abroad did not understand that here in the way of political claptraji Public speakers - in the Aus tin Convention and out of it-had talked about the great Empire of Texas; and speculated upon the to buthe editor of a new Democratic contingency of another war between the states, in the event of which Texas would set up for herself; and all this went to the discredit of the state abroad, as he to und out when be attempted to sell bonds in New York, a few days ago.

When he offered the Texas bonds and spoke of the assets the state was possessed of, he was met with what of those who are to come after. Your people talk about constituconventions, impovations, and such like, and what assurance have we that they will not be repn. Sire lies written her firebonds sordiated." He thought that the basimons for the last thirty years, nees men of Galveston would find it and now has begun, delivering to their interests to consider these them, matters before casting their votes at the coming election. In answer to a question from Mr.

Soriey, regarding the school tax, the governor said he thought the were kept up as they had been last. 2 years. year. The constitution required least four months in every year, and the previous notions cancerning the it was a part of the condition upon careir and circumstances of the which the state bad been readmit great artist? ted into the Union that that provision of the constitution never should be altered or annulled. It was an error to suppose that the reeints from interest on the schol fund were sufficient to support the public schools. The interest on the school fund amounted to about five hundred thousand dollars per an num, while the expense of the schools, as conducted last year was about two million dollars.

He thought that the far seeing business men of Galveston would agree with him that it would be dangerous to undo what had been done; nothing was to be gained by a political revolution, while the disesters that would necessarily follow were so apparent that he felt he had only to allude to them to assure the support of all who wished to see the state move forward to

He was obliged to the gentlemen present for their attention, and On motion the meeting was deplared adjourned.

The Exposition.

From the Baltimore Gazette. The Cincinnati Industrial Expesition has been open during the past week. Yesterday was the busiest day of all. The whole sity took an interest in the succuss of the Resolved 1. We,"the Republicans of the hereby re-affirm our devotion to the principles enunciated in the platform, of the National Republican Convention of 1872, and cordially enderse the wise and just administration of President Grant.

2. We are carnestly in favor of the re establishment and continuance of the systhin of Public Free Schools such se to imperatively required by article IX, of our State Constitution, with such improve nente as experience has shown to be desirable, and we strongly condemn the practical abolition by the 13th Legislature of the system that was in operation.

3. We are in favor of the enactment of such laws by the Legislature as will give full and smple protection to every citizen of the State, in the enjoyment of all his rights as a citizen.

4. We are opposed to special tegislation believing that general laws may be framed which can obviate the necessity of special, and which would be more Just, and less fiable to be enacted from corrupt motives. 5. THE following exportation, addressed to the consciences of our City-Fathers, has been handed us for publication:

The City Collecter naks for payment of taxes due for this year on real estate as usual 50 cents on 100 dollars ; to our sur price we are asked again to pay 30 cents on each hundred dollars, to cover the instration existing now also months. Domnotes of expenses of the last administration our old tax of 50 cents per $100, appears to have been sufficient for the building of two iron and other bridges two two story solidrock school-houses, cuiverte de paving miles of streets in a manner to last for years; our city-fathers, servants of the people are carpeally requested to stop squandering the gredit of the city tax payers; there will sharfly greater demands be made on the gredit of the city, when a R. R. is in full sight for the roads to be paved and brought in good order towards the Depot, where all the merchandise has to be hauled on drays and carte inside the city. If the City Council should follow their present course of plunging the city in debts so at present, our taxes will shortly be from two to five per cent on real estate.
