THE American people, whether TEE American people, whether justly so or not, have always been credited with being hasty and excitable to an extreme degree. In view of this fact, Europeans have always doubted the stability of our present institutions. Nevertheless, the nerve and coolness displayed in our great cities since the commencement of the prevailing financial crimis have been something wonder sis have been something wonder ful. Up to this time of writing, dis orders have nowhere occurred, and everywhere has been manifested a dispection to give the banks every dispesition to give the banks every possible chance to extricate them selves. This speaks well for the good sense and sound indgment at the masses. They comprehend the stustion as well as the ablest firm ciers, and are endeavoring to act accordingly. By continuing to ex-ercise patience and forbedrance, they will mitigate innumerable evils they are now threatened with.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, t Sept. 22, 1873. As Chairman of the Republican xecutive Committee of the 29th material District, I am instructed all a convention of the Republication of this district to meet at the of Boerne, Kendall county, on day, the 25th day of October, of the legi Convention.

It is but reasonable to presume that the delegates elected on Saturday last, fully understand their duty and that they are determined to conscientiously discharge it The success of the Republican party in Bexar county and in the 29th Disrict principally depends on their action. A very grave responsibility rests on their shoulders, and we feel impelled to contribute some thing towards a clear understanding of the same, on their part.

There is no use in denying the deplorable fact that fractions exist within the Republican party in these counties, and the possibility of bitter disensions in the county convention must be acknowledged. The main source of evils of this kind is undoubtedly to be found in the unfortunate usage of self-nomina.

tion, before the convention convenes The custom is that the man wishing an office, present his name to his -tellow-citizens, instead of leaving it to the voters to select their own public servants. This in itself is certainly not very objection able; but they do not stop there.

The people or rather the convention are abundantly able to examine into the character and qualifications of the different candidates and to decide, as to their availability. But a cundidate, by dint of his mere onnouncement, instantly arrogates to himself certain rights (f); he demands that his claims should be acknowledged; he at once plays the demagogue among the people, tryhimself in their estimation and drag down the character of his antagonist; he pushes his friends forward to urge his claims upon their friends; yea-in case of sore distress-he does not shrink from threatening the downfall of the party, in case of his not being nominated All this is exceedingly unworthy and reprehensible, and if the people were really as independent and ntelligent as all good usen would wish them to be, they would instantly and contemptuously turn their back upon such candidates. The actions of primary meetings and the election of delegates strong. ly indicate that such things will not be done. The controling idea at those meetings, in most cases, was not so much the selection of entirely inpependent delegates, of men, singly looking towards the welfare of the community and the party, but rather the pushing through of Lockwood-men or Bonnet-men, as it-formoth- them two candidates had pecketed the entire Republican party, and as if there was no salvation, away from Lockwood or Bonnett.

The election of delegates is over, we know the men to whose hands the future of this county line been entrusted, and we earnestly call upon them-no matter what fraction they may belong to-to free themselves of all unworthy and narrow influences, of all merely personal promises and pledges; and act as truly free and independent men, looking only towards the weltare of the party and the people at the nominations of the convention, if that body present to us honor, able, competent men of undoubted Republicanism. We are forced to interpose this condition for the purcalamities similar to those that pros trated our party in 1872.

Under no condition—and see

shie with the atmost deliberation

We have not fought, for a long years, the Enequal battles of the Republican party for the sole iges of diagracefully anrendering to the first discarded, atray Demograt, and that'at the very time when almost certain victory is within our grasp. In such an emergency we do not futend to act the part of an indifferent looker-on; on the contrary, we me is prof. its assembling of the Farra Prinsen and the Exet true to employmen, if we seem that we profess to and the graceful horgainings, even at the print and properturity for a hildren, bediening shoots in the administration in affairs, and perfect got all our legislation is the anything about us, will be infinited in the hour. We are able and it we are in assemble in the infinited in the hour.

Quarters been made in certain quarters been made in certain quarters and satisfactor prejudices of race

The Delegates to the County men, Alsaciatis, are to be hounded sgainst the Germans.

Such low demagogism ought to be put down at ouce. We know the source of all this political fith, and feel profound contempt for it.-We are not here as Frenchmen, Alsaclans, Germans, etc-we are American citizens, trying to perform our daties as such. If it should become nown to the Convention that there be Delegates among them, who have given public expression to national prejudices, they should promptly strike the names of such incompetent and narrow-minded men from the list of Delegates. -
