

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—A preliminary report by the Sunset Advisory Commission staff has recommended major reorganization of the State Bar of Texas.

The report concluded the Bar should operate as a private professional group rather than a state agency.

Also recommended by Sunset staffers is transfer of the Bar headquarters, the Texas Law Center near the capitol, to the state and placement under the Board of Control for use by appellate courts and administrative offices of the judiciary.

Other conclusions of the tentative report:

—Bar restrictions on lawyer advertising are too tight.

—Complaints against erring attorneys should be centralized rather than handled by 40 local grievance committees which may be subject to "local bias and cronyism."

—The Bar failed to seek bids on office furniture, fund depository, equipment rental, printing and office space lease.

—Specialization programs for lawyers are too restrictive and limit competition.

—The Bar has tended to oppose legislation making it more accountable for its money and easing restrictions on getting into the profession.

"The major portion of the State Bar's efforts and resources go to areas other than those concerned with the regulation of attorneys," the report stated.

All licensed lawyers now must be members of the State Bar of Texas. The Sunset Commission staff report suggested licensing and discipline of lawyers should be performed under direct supervision of the State Supreme Court and an administrative agency.

Poison Danger

Cattlemen received warnings not to allow herds to graze in drought-stricken pastures due to threat of prussic acid poisoning there.

Texas Veterinary Medical Association cautioned that 300 cattle valued at $250,000 were lost to the poison—a type of cyanide that occurs in plants hard hit by drought.

Cattlemen also were warned about milo fields that failed to "make" due to drought and about pastures of Johnson grass, sudan or common sorghums which suffered from long-standing dry conditions.

The association said rain showers compounded the problem.

Cattlemen were advised to wait two or three weeks before letting cattle graze on new growth and to let hay lie at least five days after cutting so the cyanide gas can dissipate before baling. Feeding of hay to cattle before they are released in new pastures may dilute effect of excessive amounts of prussic acid, the association said.

Airports Aided

mission approved airport aid program grants for Alice and Austin, and granted Metroflight Airlines' request to suspend its scheduled air service to Greenville temporarily.

The commission cleared a $75,000 grant to Austin for airport entrance roads and parking and $50,000 to Alice to acquire land.

The city of Mineola requested cancellation of a grant to build a new airport because officials were unable to acquire necessary matching funds.

Metroflight said the Greenville stop did not generate enough money to support continued service.

Courts Speak

In a setback for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's rate increase request, Texas Supreme Court backed the Public Utility Commission's system of telephone and electric charge setting.

Adult sons and daughters are not entitled to share in civil service retirement benefits earned by their father's second wife, the Supreme Court concluded.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals turned down an allegation that trustees of a school district in Bell County "bribed" voters over 65 by granting homestead exemptions before a bond election.

The state has no right to appeal an order temporarily committing a person to a mental hospital, the Third Court of Civil Appeals said.

Upholding an intermediate court, the State Supreme Court left standing an order reversing a $1 million invasion of privacy judgment for fired Southwestern Bell official James H. Ashley who claimed the company tapped his telephone.

Yantis Writes Governor

On the eve of his consideration of confirmation by the State Senate, Hugh C. Yantis, Jr. in a letter to Gov. Briscoe, included excerpts from a random selection of the more than 100 letters of support received during the past few months.

Yantis, who was appointed chairman of the State Board of Insurance by Gov. Briscoe almost one year ago, pointed out that during his tenure insurance industry requests for rate increases totaled $319 million, while the SBI granted increases totaling $33.1 million—a difference of $285.9 million.

As background information, Yantis said "this is $45 million more in dollars than was 'saved' by the Public Utility Commission when it lowered the Southwestern Bell Telephone request from $298.3 million.

Short Snorts

Applications for permits to drill oil and gas tests in the state totalled 10,641 for the first half of 1978, compared with a decline from 12,364 during the same period last year.

Texas Farmworkers Union staged a hunger strike at the capitol after Gov. Dolph Briscoe turned down their request to call on the special legislative session to give farm workers collective bargaining rights.

A district court disbarred Ramsey Ramior Muniz, twice a Raza Unida Party candidate for governor, as a result of marijuana convictions for which he is serving prison time.

A $2.2 million capital improvements public transportation program for Laredo has been certified for federal approval by the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission.

Maurice Beckham of Austin will head the Department of Public Safety Inspection and Planning Division. Dennis R. Vickery of Laredo will be commander of the South Texas Border Steppe-up Enforcement Program combating drug smuggling.

Independent bankers charged in a federal court lawsuit federal credit unions in Texas are illegally performing a banking function.

Farmers To Find Above Ground Energy

The farmer of the future may find the energy needed for production on top of the soil rather than in underground hydrocarbons. Texas Tech University engineers are working on a process that would allow a cotton farmer to haul his crop to the gin and bring the trailer home loaded with fuel. Dr. Harry W. Parker of the chemical engineering faculty, working with mechanical and agricultural engineers, has devised a scheme whereby cotton gin trash could be transformed by an individual farmer into enough fuel to run an irrigation pump. Grain stubble or any other coarse organic waste might be used, Parker said. The same system, made portable, might eventually run tractors or supply energy for feed preparation at feedlots, cotton gins, or the operation of small municipal electric generating facilities.

Bob Krueger Says Energy Cost To Rise

U.S. Representative Bob Krueger said today that failure by the House of Representatives to enact coal slurry pipeline legislation could mean millions of dollars in additional utility costs for Texas and a continuation of unnecessary railroad rate increases.

"In failing to approve the Coal Pipeline Act, my colleagues have missed a chance to hold down utility costs in the future," Krueger said. The Coal Pipeline Act of 1978, supported by Krueger, was defeated, 246 to 161. The legislation was opposed by the railroad industry and would have provided new federal law paving the way for pipeline transportation of coal as an alternative to rail transportation. A slurry pipeline allows the pumping of coal, finely ground and suspended in water or other liquid, through a pipe over long distances for combustion or other use.

Krueger said San Antonio is an example of a city, which, after being asked to convert to coal, took on "massive capital conversion costs" to comply. San Antonio citizens were originally told their coal would cost $7.94 per ton to transport, but this rate has increased to $11.94.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek gets around to reacting to a certain commencement address at Harvard.

Dear editor: Somebody driving a tractor near my place yesterday had his radio going, the music drifted over to where I was sitting under a shade tree, and I got to thinking about Alexander Solzhenitsyn's commencement address at Harvard a few weeks ago.

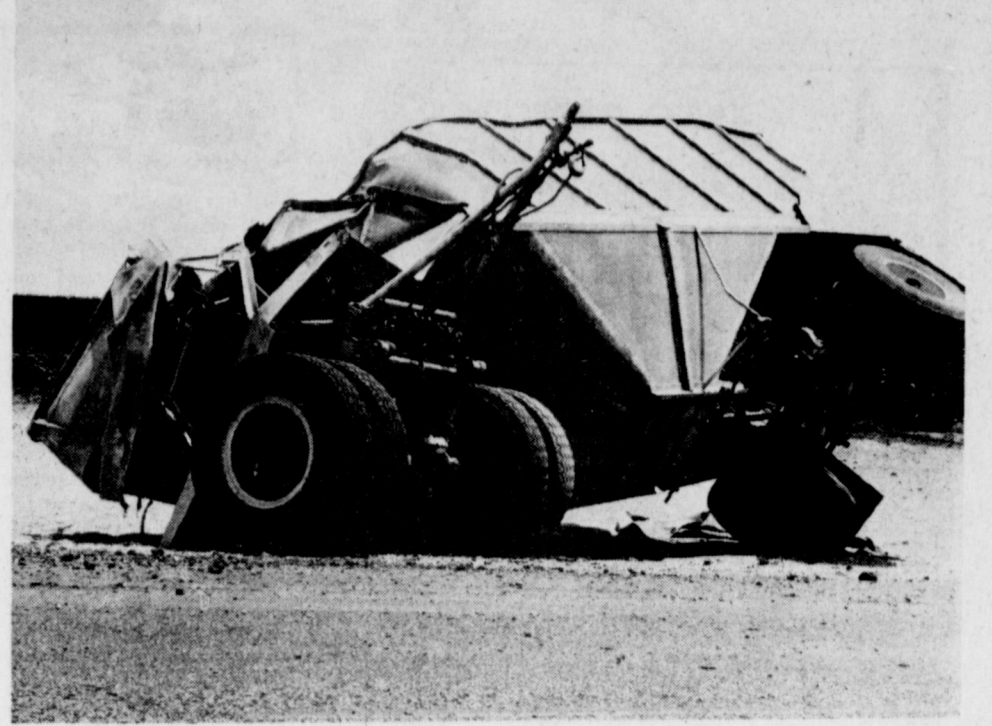

According to that prize-winning Russian novelist who is now living on his private estate in Vermont, American music is intolerable. Also, Americans like gossip too much.

I don't know what piece of music was coming over that tractor radio, rock songs all sound alike to me, but I know this: any time you are going up one row and down another all day long on a tractor, nearly any kind of music is tolerable. It is true you cannot understand the words in lots of popular music these days, but I had a teenager decipher a song for me once and I would just as soon she hadn't. You are no getter off after you find out.

I can appreciate part of Solzhenitsyn's view of some American music, but given time he will find out there is a knob on his radio that allows you to switch to a better station, and another knob which, if you turn it in the right direction, shuts off the music altogether.

As for Americans liking gossip, as a novelist Solzhenitsyn should be more specific. If he is talking about idle gossip, that is one thing, but if he is talking about juicy gossip, that is going too far. You mean to tell me a student of human nature as astute as he is doesn't think Russian women sitting under dryers in a Moscow beauty shop don't stick their heads out to hear better when an operator starts telling about what she heard just last night about so-and-so? You mean he doesn't think some member of Politburo with his eye on the top spot doesn't smack his lips over the latest rumor about Chairman Brezhnev's health?

The Russians have outlawed a lot of things but they will never succeed in outlawing human nature. Yours faithfully, J.A.

TRAILER GOES END OVER END...In mid-afternoon Monday, this trailer came loose from the truck driving it and after careening out of control down the highway a load of corn shifted. The trailer went end over end before coming to a rest north of Muleshoe on Highway 214. No injuries were recorded in the accident. The truck was driven by Tim Shith of Lazbuddie.

Cotton Council Files Gin Dust Suit

The National Cotton Council is filing suit to challenge stringent new cotton dust standards recently issued by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

This was announced today by Ed Breihan, Council vice president and cotton cotton cooperative executive from Lubbock. Breihan presided over a regional seminar at the South Park Inn here. The local seminar is one of four being conducted by the Council to acquaint industry members with the standards' compliance provisions.

Under OSHA's sweeping new standards, costly engineering controls must be in place by 1982 to reduce cotton dust levels to 0.2 milligrams per cubic meter of air in textile yarn manufacturing; 0.5 in warehouses, classing rooms, cottonseed oil mills, and waste industries; and 0.75 in weaving rooms.

Breihan said the standards are "technologically and economically impossible" for some sectors and expressed grave concern about their effect on the cotton industry's future. He further stated that worker protection could be insured through more practical and less expensive methods.

"Unless some moderation is made by the courts—or unless some technological breakthroughs occur soon in dust control—the cost burden placed on cotton by the standards threatens our ability to compete in the domestic market."

While the standards will undergo judicial review as a result of suits brought by the Council and other industry segments, Breihan said compliance with some of the standards' administrative provisions is likely to be required as early as September 4 of this year.

As outlined by seminar speakers, this year's timetable for compliance with these provisions is:

- Sept. 4 -- posting of warning signs in all businesses covered by the standards;
- Oct. 4 -- providing of respirators to workers;
- Dec. 4 -- initiation of work practices, education, and training programs to minimize exposure to dust.

For 1979, the standards call for a March 4 completion date of first dust exposure monitoring with repeat tests every six months. By Sept. 4, 1979, medical surveillance must be started and written plans for meeting dust exposure limits solely through engineering controls must be completed.

Cotton gins, while not subject to dust exposure limits, will be required to meet certain administrative provisions. These include warning signs and initiation of work practices, education, and training programs by Sept. 4, 1978. On year later, gins are required to provide respirators and begin medical surveillance of workers.

The Council has given the cotton dust problem top priority since 1973. Current research efforts to find solutions to the problem are being funded at more than $4 million annually.

No part time or temporary employees will be eligible for any benefits. Finally, as proposed, employees leaving city service would be interviewed prior to leaving their position. Council members also reviewed the financial report of the city for the first three months of the year and heard the city is sound financially and expenditures are running slightly below projected figures. Insurance and retirement benefits for city employees was discussed with possible new hospitalization plans to be presented soon.

FRESH VEGETABLES

Carrots, cabbage, corn and okra are some of the best quality and most economical vegetable choices. Others include dry yellow onions and yellow and Zucchini squash.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES

Picnic items such as catsup, mustard, pork and beans, and tea mix are among the grocery items given store emphasis at this season.

Other features include canned tuna, tomato products, sugar and instant dry milk. Also, macaroni, peanut butter, mayonnaise, canned peaches and grapefruit juice are best buy items.

FROZEN FOODS

Frozen vegetables are among the better values in frozen food chests. Other specials include ice cream, strawberries and lemonade concentrate.

KEEP COOL IN THE KITCHEN THIS SUMMER

This summer when a heat wave blankets the country, keep cool in your kitchen. Impossible? Not when you cook with a microwave oven. The room and the oven itself stay cool during cooking. The microwave energy is absorbed by the food and reflected from the oven walls so the heat in microwave cooking is confined to the food itself.

Casseroles, like Tuna Chinese, that contain even-sized pieces of cooked foods and which require no browning are ideal for microwaving. This hearty dish, made in minutes, provides a hot, satisfying meal after a full day of summertime activities. Celery, green pepper and onion are sauteed in Blue Bonnet Light Tasty Spread until tender. Blue Bonnet Spread adds rich buttery flavor with 25% less fat and calories. The tender vegetables are then combined with an easy mushroom sauce, tuna and crisp chow mein noodles.

This delicious summertime supper can be on the table in less than thirty minutes.

Another Scandal

When police near Washington recently arrested a woman trying to obtain the drug Quaalude with a prescription to a fictitious person, reportedly signed by, Dr. Peter Bourne, the President's special assistant, Dr. Bourne resigned.

This latest scandal made headlines all over the nation. Bourne, a psychiatrist, was Mr. Carter's chief drug abuse advisor in Georgia and, like other controversial Georgians, including Hamilton Jordan and Bert Lance, have now somewhat tarnished the image of the man and group which ran in 1976 as reformers.

The Bourne scandal is not the biggest to embarrass a White House in recent years. But coming on top of the recent fine of Mr. Carter for violating the law in the use of Bert Lance's bank airplane during the 1976 campaign, and newspaper reports of highly questionable conduct by Hamilton Jordan and the Bert Lance scandal, it certainly doesn't help the "open-administration" image.

Ford's Chance

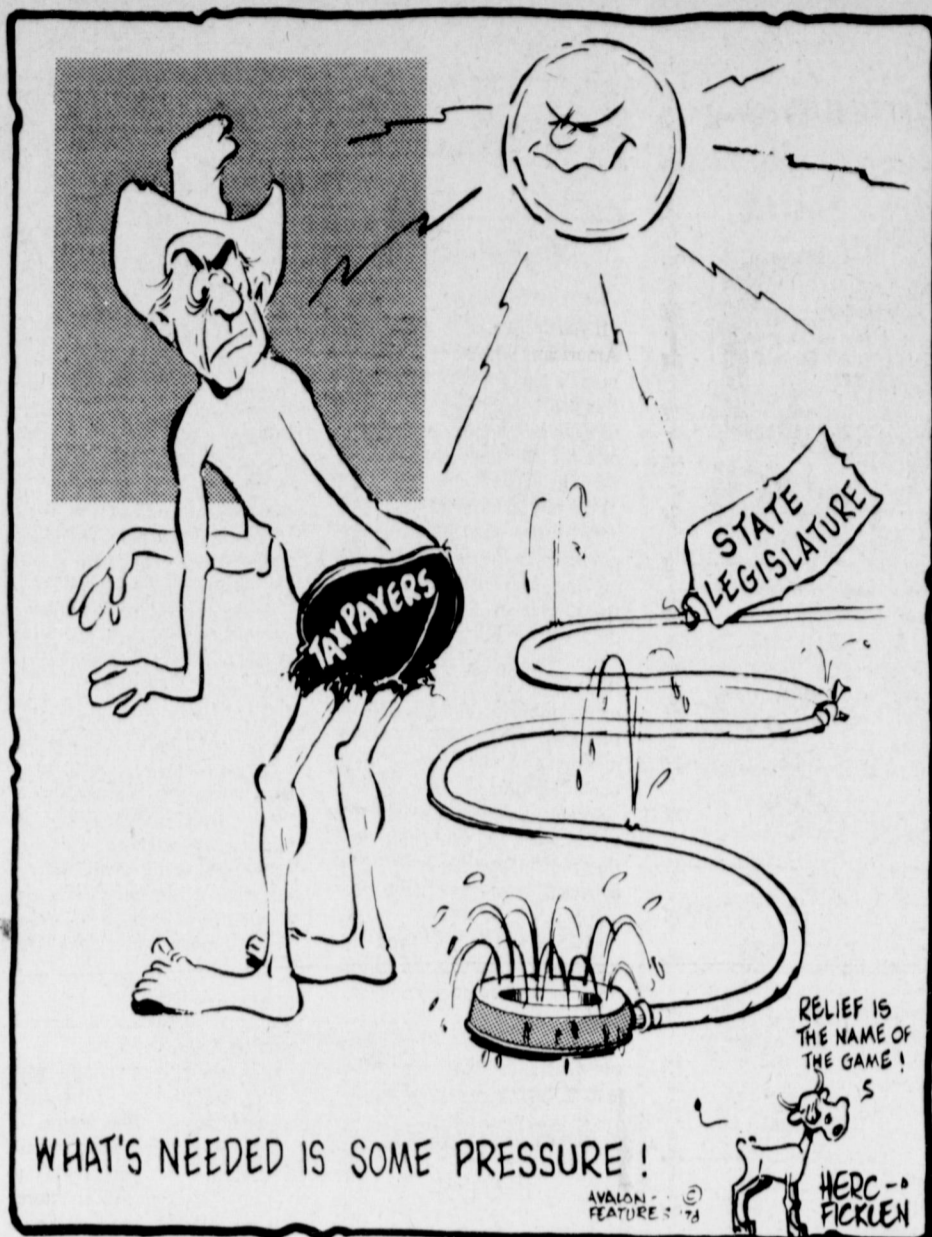

As public opinion polls continue to reflect a decline in the popularity of President Carter, chances that former President Gerald Ford will return to the White House become more intriguing.

Mr. Ford is keeping options open, at the least. He has been urged by some former close associates not to return to politics. But Ronald Reagan seems to be out to win the 1980 nomination and Ford may be the only Republican who could head him off. Even Ford may be unable to do that.

Reagan people are already looking ahead to delegate selection and the convention two years hence. Ford may have had that in mind recently when he told a reporter he didn't think he would enter the 1980 primaries. The question which arises if he follows that strategy is whether he would then win at the convention.

Ford might also have been referring to Reagan when he said that the G.O.P. candidate in 1980 must be able to appeal to the middle-road voter, the independent, without whom the G.O.P. nominee can't win.

Ford plans to campaign in twenty-five states between now and election day in November, to help Republicans gain strength in state administrations and in Congress. That doesn't sound like he's permanently retired, and sounds very much like he has his eye on 1980. If he can win the nomination, and the public mood hasn't changed considerably between now and 1980, Mr. Ford would be returned to 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

NEWS NOTES

REFRIGERATOR ORDEAL

LONDON -- Two 12-year-old boys shut themselves into an abandoned refrigerator and stayed alive for 16 hours by scratching away the rubber sealing to let in air, police here reported.

FUTURE CAR PRICES

DETROIT -- Auto industry experts predict that within seven years, the average family car will cost $10,000 or more if current market and economic trends continue. But industry officials say rising income levels over the next seven years will make it no more difficult.

TO GET PAROLE

WASHINGTON -- The U.S. Parole Commission granted a parole to former Attorney General John N. Mitchell next Jan. 19, after serving about 19 months for Watergate crime, the Justice Department announced.

PRAYDA & CARTER

MOSCOW -- The official

Communist Party daily Pravda accused President Carter of trying to "blackmail" the Soviet Union on human rights by cancelling the sale of a U.S. computer system.

GAS TANK WARNING

DETROIT -- Federal safety officials have warned Ford Motor Co. that proposed fuel tank modifications of 1.5 million Ford Pintos and Mercury Bobcats may not eliminate the danger of explosion and fire in rear-end collisions.

ON DRAFT EXEMPTION

JERUSALEM -- The Israeli Parliament granted religious women a sweeping new exemption from compulsory military duty, a move applauded by some as a protection of women against "temptation" and denounced by others as an invitation to lie and evade the draft.

Democrat Says Congress Refuses Federal Waste Cut

WASHINGTON D.C. -- Congressman Bill Chappell (D-Fla) says that for two weeks after the Jarvis amendment limiting property taxes in California passed, Congress was in a nervous mood to reduce spending and waste.

"It lasted only two weeks," Chappell said. "since then those of us trying to reduce excessive federal spending have often been unable to get a majority of the House. Why, the other day, we couldn't even get a majority to cut HEW funds for waste the department itself admits."

"We ought to cut the fat out of excessive spending, not the lean. Spending for defense, or for public works, that isn't fat. That means jobs production and it means jobs and business."

"The fat is largely in programs such as the Comprehensive Educational and Training Act, known as CETA. All kinds of waste is involved in this program--of federal grants for on-job training. In many instances, recipients use this money merely to pay salaries local or state agencies would otherwise pay, or create new, unneeded jobs."

"There's a lot of waste in the food stamp program. For those who need the stamps, fine, but too many are defrauding the taxpayers in this program."

"There's also fat to be trimmed in the welfare and unemployment programs. I'm not insensitive to genuine unemployment problems or genuine welfare cases, but there's too much freeloading in both these expensive federal programs."

"The cost of all these programs goes up and up. And so goes the cost of the growing federal bureaucracy. We're spending so much money in Washington the federal government is going into the money-lending market and taking seventy percent of all available money. No wonder interest rates go up."

"I'm very much in favor of giving the Kemp-Roth approach a chance to succeed. During the Kennedy Administration a tax cut actually produced more government revenue by stimulating business. I think we can cut taxes now and get the same result."

Energy Policy as Long Last?

WASHINGTON—Energy in this country is in short supply.

It will remain in short supply if the Congress approves the conference committee energy package now being developed and nearing completion for full congressional consideration.

The reason is the compromise measure still contains some of the worst elements of the President's energy package submitted more than a year ago. Producing no bill at all would be better than enacting one which will deny this country meaningful solutions to its national energy problems.

Perhaps the most disturbing element of the compromise pertains to natural gas and its price structure.

The natural gas compromise that has been hammered out is the product of showpunch thinking and Presidential arm-twisting. Clearly, little rational thought as to its future impact was included. Rather than hasten an end to the current problem, the measure would assure its continuation.

The compromise calls for much more Federal regulation of state governments and the gas industry, and would do little, if anything, to increase this nation's supply of natural gas—the real problem we must contend with.

Worse yet, the pending compromise would for the first time extend the scope of Federal price controls to the intrastate markets like Texas.

Intrastate price regulation, together with Presidential authority to allocate natural gas, is only a whisker away from complete federal allocation authority of all natural gas, wherever it is produced—the worst possible plan Congress could approve.

That, of course, would spell economic disaster for Texas. But more importantly, it would signify a ridiculous willingness to endure more of the supply disruptions and economic chaos we've experienced over past winters because gas was not available in sufficient quantities to heat homes and fuel factories.

While in theory, the measure would deregulate several categories of gas by 1985, in plain truth the compromise would create a pricing situation which virtually assures the extension of controls indefinitely. Meanwhile, producers would contend with a regulatory three ring circus making Washington's current act inhibiting production seem like a mere sideshow.

Progress in the conference committee toward language upping oil price ceilings and providing greater production incentives has been elusive. As elusive, for that matter, as the President's rationale for proposing a crude oil taxing plan to begin with.

While talking of administrative measures that could be taken now to increase production incentives, as many of us have urged, the Administration has made no concrete proposals. None seem likely to originate in conference committee.

For the most part, the conference committee package is no more a solution to our energy problems than the President's original proposal. In many respects, in fact, it represents a step backward.

The compromise energy package faces an uphill struggle for congressional approval. Its future rests on a wing and a prayer. Its sponsors—and the rest of the country—should recognize it for what it really is: not a compromise at all, but a monument to the mentality that has us in the energy dilemma we face today.

If you are one of the 7.3 million Americans who have decided to make a move across the country this year, you will probably want to save as many dollars as you can for the expenses you will meet at your new home.

You will discover that you can save from 50 percent to 75 percent over a van line move by moving yourself with a rented truck or trailer. But your savings do not have to stop there.

You can also cut costs on the three major areas that will add up to dollars while you are on the road with a do-it-yourself moving truck or trailer: food, gas and lodging.

Here are a few cost-saving tips to consider, keeping in mind that the average American family consists of two adults and one child.

FOOD - First of all, you will want to avoid eating at tourist restaurants whenever possible. You may want to eat at least one meal a day with your own provisions and eat your other meals at a fast-food restaurant. But remember, the fewer times you eat at restaurants, the more money you will save. If you are driving a do-it-yourself rental truck, be aware of the height of the truck and watch out for overhangs at drive-throughs.

Next, you will need something to keep your cold foods cold. If you already own an ice chest, you are in good shape (You can also buy an inexpensive Styrofoam chest to do the job). Make sure you get enough ice.

Then you will have to select foods to take. Foods you will want to pack in your ice chest are lunch meats, hard-boiled eggs, mayonnaise, etc., for making sandwiches.

Other staples you will want to buy that won't need refrigeration are fresh fruits, dried fruits, bread, peanut butter, jelly, canned meats, canned fruit, beef jerky, potato chips, catsup, mustard, breakfast cereals, cookies, candy bars, etc.

You can bring enough food with you for the entire trip (depending on the length of your trip) or you can purchase new supplies as you go. Try to buy food at larger grocery stores when possible while you are on the road. You will save more money that way. If you are pulling a do-it-yourself trailer with your car, be sure to park where you can get out of the store's parking lot without backing up.

For drinks, you can buy canned soda on sale or you can save even more by using other drinks such as instant tea, fruit flavored mixes or powdered milk. You will want to carry a couple of gallon jugs of water (use empty plastic milk containers). All you have to do is add the mixes to the jugs as needed. Bring a small funnel.

You can always refill your water supply on the way. Add ice from your ice chest to cool drinks.

Hot drinks can be made by buying an immersible hot-coil device that plugs into an electric outlet or attaches to an adapter for use in your auto cigarette lighter. Immerse the heater into a ceramic cup of water. Once the water becomes hot, you can add instant coffee, tea, cocoa, or soup.

In place of restaurants, you can eat at roadside rest areas or ramadas. Be sure to bring all the picnic supplies you will need such as a table cloth, paper cups, plastic eating utensils, napkins, can opener, etc.

GAS - As a general rule, try to buy gas in the middle of a large town or city. The first of the last gas stations sometimes hike their prices to take full advantage of empty gas tanks. But do not go out of your way to look for cheaper gas; you will end up wasting more that you will save.

Some do-it-yourself rental trucks, like U-Haul's 14-ft. model, have fuel-economy indicators that light up when your foot is too heavy on the gas. If there is not an indicator light on the truck you have rented or if you are pulling a trailer behind your car, just remember to drive at a fuel-efficient speed and not to make jack rabbit starts.

Have your car tuned before your trip. The gas you will save will make up for the cost of the tune-up, and your car will perform more efficiently and safely. If you own a car and are also renting a do-it-yourself truck, you can cut gas costs further by renting a tow bar. That way, you can tow your car behind the truck. There will be one less gas tank to fill and you will save an extra driver for the truck.

LODGING - Sleep is a necessity while you are traveling. If you try to save money by driving straight through, you may end up spending it on hospital bills. Your only alternative is to cut costs on sleeping accommodations.

If you own a family-size tent and sleeping bags, you may consider camping during your move. Many state-operated rest sites have free camping grounds with facilities like rest rooms and running water. There are also private camp grounds where you can rent a campsite for as little as $8 a night. That includes an electrical outlet.

For the less adventurous, there are plenty of economy motel chains. Count on spending from $16 to $30 a night. If you are lucky, you may find a privately-owned motel that charges as little as $10 to $17 a night.

Do not be afraid to ask to see the room before you decide to take it for the night. Try not to get a room that faces on the highway as the noise may keep you awake all night.

With a good night's sleep, you will be better prepared to face another day of traveling and cost-cutting.

NEW PARK FEES
Tuscola-Last spring, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission authorized establishment of a new day use fee, raised user fees for cabins, lodges, campsites and increased the annual park entrance permits effective Sept. 1, 1978.
Day users of parks will be required to pay a $1 fee in conjunction with established daily, annual or restricted annual entrance permit fees. This $1 fee will not apply to overnight users who pay the camping charge.
The annual entrance permits will increase from $12 to $15 and "restricted" permits will go up from $5 to $8. Senior citizens and veterans with a 60 percent or more disability will continue to be exempt from entrance fees.
This is the first increase in entrance fees since their initiation in 1968. The method of calculating the fee for a campsite was changed from a per-vehicle to a per-site basis in order to reduce the number of cars and trailers at each campsite.

"Many state park systems nationwide attempt to recover approximately 50 percent of the cost of operation and maintenance of the park system through fees," said Leonard Winstead, regional park director for northwest Texas.
"Currently, Texas is recovering approximately 31 percent from these sources and the money will have to come from fees other than entrance fees, since entrance fee monies are dedicated to the retirement of park acquisition and development bonds and cannot be used for operation or maintenance," Winstead continued.
Fees for campsites now will be $3 rather than $2 per site. Campsites with electricity will be $4 instead of $3 per site.
More park information is available by calling toll-free 1-800-252-9327

LOW LAKES DANGEROUS
Abilene-Boaters and skiers in many areas of Texas have been both cautious and lucky so far, as the local lakes continue to decrease in size from evaporation by hot, dry winds and public consumption.
Many of the lakes in the Abilene area are so far down that boat ramps are left high and dry. Where it is possible to launch a boat, many boaters are running into sand bars, mud flats, and islands.
The biggest danger in these lakes is the hidden tree stumps at or below the surface of the water and tops of trees protruding out of the water. Many of these obstacles can tangle in the prop or injure skiers.
"The P&WD suggests that boaters on area lakes reduce their speed and keep a sharp lookout," said Curtis Jones, Abilene district law enforcement supervisor.
"Before pulling a skier, a boat operator should go over the course to make sure there are no obstructions and operate after dark only in extreme cases," Jones continued.
Texas boaters have a few more weeks of good summer weather for visiting state lakes and the P&WD hopes that the boat operators continue to use caution along with a little luck while pulling skiers on the water.

Also, everyone aboard should have on a PFD (life preserver), because if the boat runs aground or into a stump, passengers can be thrown overboard.
